Unusual Investment Opportunities

MEN in their forties or fifties seeking to become financially independent, can ill afford to neglect to accumulate long-term bonds around present prices. It is the judgment of investment experts that the time is bound to come when many well secured bonds that can be purchased today to yield around 5½% to 6½% will sell at prices which will not yield anywhere near so much income. To men in their forties or fifties this is an important consideration, since every dollar of additional income means just that much more financial independence.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Decline of the Stock Market Corrects an Unstable Position of Industrial Issues.

The stock market has been concerning itself lately with realities, in contrast with hopes and expectations which ruled dealings from the first week of February until the middle of July. What happened in the industrial and transportation fields last week was not something clearly to affect in adverse fashion the nation's production and distribution of goods during the remainder of the year, but the immediate result was definite enough. Strikes of railway workmen resulted in embargoes against freight between important points, in the curtailment of passenger traffic, in the lessened movement of raw materials to factories, and the outflow of finished goods. In the Cleveland and Chicago districts the making of steel and pig iron at some plants was stopped completely. The Federal decision to investigate causes of the high cost of living carried an implication that quotations of certain products, for some time the basis of increasing corporation earnings, would probably be ordered reduced. The remarkable demands of railway unions for Government ownership of the railroad properties impressed unfavorable considerations upon bankers of the possible troubles which might arise in the investment field if a movement should gain force to nationalize the railways. Because of this a decided check was imparted to the floating of new securities, even some rather pressing foreign financing being held in abeyance. The realities of the week were so directly the opposite of what had been envisioned in roseate colors by speculators in stocks for five months and more that the stock market movement was quite in keeping with the situation. An overdone speculative position was corrected with considerable force, a topheavy situation was made more stable. The average price of the industrial stock list, which had advanced for a gross total of 38 points since Feb. 8, was reversed to the extent of about 6 points during the week and of 12 points since July 16. In another way of putting it, approximately 30 per cent. of the industrial stocks' rise in the market of the Spring and Summer had been wiped out at the minimum levels of last week. Railroad stocks, on the average, were selling at a lower price last Friday and Saturday than when the bull market in industrial issues got under way. Inasmuch as the latter stocks really constituted the market, it would seem that a rather radical readjustment of prices has occurred. Undoubtedly, a great many holdings which had been carried with resources insufficient for a period of stress have been eliminated. Bank loans have been reduced as prices receded. A great deal of the enthusiasm which caused abnormal gains in quotations during May and June has been chastened, perhaps converted into caution. In other words, the market situation appears to be considerably stronger and safer than a month ago. It would appear to be ready now to reflect the practical results of the readjustment period. Whether this will be demonstrated in further declines before a new forward movement appears cannot be forecast, of course. There are a lot of difficult matters to be studied and solved, in part at least; the uncertain labor situation is one of the most important. But, while depressing and tedious questions are coming up daily, the signs continue to point toward the expansion of business in many directions. The steel industry finds more and more orders coming its way, and plant operation, where current handicaps are not being experienced, is increasing steadily.

President Wilson's discussion of means to reduce living costs and his deprecation before Congress of the use of threats by labor to carry out radical plans worked not a little to ease the mind of the financial community. There was seen in his references to labor agitation an indication of firmness of the sort which put the agitators for socialistic doctrines in the railways and industrial organizations on the defensive before the people. The President voiced the feelings of manufacturers and consumers to the fullest when he stated that strikes, which work to decrease production, are the worst things that could be undertaken at this time when there is so pressing a need for more goods and services. The recovery of stock market prices reflected on Saturday something of the relief which was produced by the President's address, although too much emphasis should not be laid upon the upturn as an indication of future possibilities. A substantial rebound from minimum quotations was a natural product of a decline as severe as prices suffered during the earlier days of the week. Mr. Wilson's suggestions for measures to reduce inequalities in prices of necessities dealt more particularly with food than other products, but there was contained ideas in respect to preventing "unconscionable profits," which should reach into many lines of production and distribution. Reports from mercantile sources during the week showed that the widespread complaint against extraordinary prices were already producing some recessions, and it will be interesting to trace any further movements which may occur in the next few months.

The flow of money from New York to the interior normally is rapid at this time of the year. The movement gains in volume throughout the second half of August as the oats crop comes along on the heels of the gathering and storing of wheat. The liquidation of stocks has released many millions of dollars, but because of the demands coming from the agricultural regions it is doubtful whether the decline of stock market values will produce any material easement in the money situation here. Call loans one day last week went as low as 3 per cent., and there were more liberal offerings of time money at 6 per cent. on Friday than had been witnessed since July 1. Still, call loans were up to 4 and 5 per cent. when the week ended, and time money was handled by the offering banks with a carefulness which failed to promise any great expansion in the near future.

Considering percentages alone, the Government crop report for August might have been thought disturbing. A decline of 27 per cent. in the condition of Spring wheat in one month would be a serious matter if it implied a shortage of this grain at a time when the world is counting so heavily on supplies from America. Happily, such is not the case. A yield of wheat in the neighborhood of 940,000,000 bushels, if realized, ought to take care of the home demand and supply an adequate surplus for export, taken in conjunction with the amount which Canada will have for shipment overseas.

SHIPBUILDING MERGER.

Harriman Interests Consolidate as the Merchant Corporation.

The Chester Shipbuilding Company has been merged with the Merchant Shipbuilding Corporation, under the name of the latter, thus consolidating the Harriman shipbuilding interests in one organization. It is said that the merger is purely a matter of internal reorganization of the Harriman interests and has been under contemplation for some time. The capital stock of the Chester company was owned by the Merchant Shipbuilding Company and the officers of the two companies were identical.

The Chester company was incorporated in 1915 to take over the shipyard of John Roach at Chester, Penn., the oldest steel shipyard in the United States.

AMERICANS WARNED OF YUCATAN CREDITS

NO CURRENCY BUT PAPER

Commercial Situation in Other Parts of Mexico Said to be Showing Improvement.

It is absolutely inadvisable for American manufacturers to attempt to do business in Yucatan, Mexico, unless for cash against documents in New York or unless they are willing to extend credit and wait from six to eight months before receiving payment, is the advice just received by the American Manufacturers' Export Association from its representative in Mexico, based upon investigation of conditions in that Mexican province.

The representative of the association was requested to make this investigation following numerous complaints from members, in whic. it was alleged that payment had not been received for goods shipped to merchants in Yucatan six and eight months ago.

This report says that the commercial situation in the rest of Mexico is rapidly improving and that some foreign concerns are beginning to extend limited credits.

The association's representative spent about two weeks in Merida, the capital of Yucatan, and during that time conferred with a number of local merchants with regard to trade conditions and the prospect of doing business on some basis.

"The Comision Reguladora," the report says, "has absolute control of all finances in Yucatan; there exist no banks or banking houses, and merchants who have foreign obligations are obliged to buy their drafts through the Reguladora. Before these drafts are issued money has to be deposited with them, and, as there never is any cash available and as the Reguladora has no credits in the States, months go by before the merchant finally obtains his draft.

"There is no currency in Yucatan of any kind except paper money, which, owing to abnormal conditions, is at present quoted at four to one. The history of the Reguladora is a long one, and its practices have practically brought one of the richest provinces of Mexico to the verge of bankruptcy.

"There is plenty of opportunity for business in Yucatan, but the great problem is that of financing purchases. Some of the stronger houses still have credits in the States; others, also reliable concerns, have to depend on being financed by their representatives in the States.

"There are plenty of good and reliable commercial houses in Yucatan whose credit rating is of the highest, but, owing to the control exercised by the Reguladora over all finances, the commercial situation is completely demoralized.

"The situation in Yucatan has been the subject of considerable discussion in the Mexican Senate, and indications are that matters will be brought to a head shortly."

Asphalt Base Crude

The oil industry has often been misled by appearances in its conclusions. For instance: for a long while there was no market for Healdton, Okla., crude; it was considered of no value for refining purposes. Then suddenly it was discovered that Healdton refiners were making mighty neat profits. For a long while Middle Western and Eastern refiners claimed the California refiner could not make gasoline. Yet the California refiner is getting 14.5 per cent. of gasoline from his crude. The improvement in "cracking" is constantly adding to the value of the lower grade oils.

PASSENGER SHIPPING AT LOWEST POINT

P. A. S. Franklin Hopes for Relief in the Next Few Weeks by Release of Liners.

LABOR CONDITIONS BETTER

Thinks Big Ships Proposed by the Government Will Be a Paying Investment.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—President P. A. S. Franklin, who has been here to transact the ordinary business of the International Mercantile Marine Company, leaves next week for the Continent. Interviewed today, he said:

"Shipping conditions are worse for passenger traffic than they have ever been, due to big ships lying up for overhauling and the delay at Liverpool and New York through labor troubles. The loss through keeping ships like the Adriatic in port while they could have made a round trip to New York cannot be estimated in money. Congestion in passenger traffic may be lightened by the Government's releasing the Celtic and Cedric in the next few weeks. We hope to sail the Baltic on Wednesday.

"Conditions in Liverpool are better now. The working people realize themselves what it means when transportation above and below ground is suddenly cut off. The docks are still surrounded by armed guards and not much work is going on.

"The situation in the coal mines is most serious for England, as steamships arriving from all parts with cargoes that used to load coal and return with freight are now going back in ballast, which affects exports vitally and keeps down exchange rates.

"I am optimistic about labor conditions in America and think they will right themselves before next Spring. One of the most extraordinary things is the way in which most working people are spending money. They want higher wages, shorter hours, and lower food prices, and cannot see that this is impossible when production generally is reduced in every direction. The whole thing is that the world has just emerged from a great war which has been a long period of tension and sacrifice for all. Now the working people intend to have a good time as relaxation.

"The International Mercantile Marine Company has no definite plans until we see what the Government shipping policy is going to be.

"We are building good ships now. Passenger and freight rates will remain high. If the United States Government builds four thirty-knot liners for the Atlantic trade the $8 a mile mail subsidy, passenger fares and express parcels will pay for the operating expenses. It is a strange thing that passengers in a smoking room always talk of the fastest trip they have made and are willing to pay high rates for speed.

"Airships will not be serious competitors, as the risk and uncertainty of the voyage are too great except for hardy adventurers. The Government has not yet made any statement of what will be done with the seized German passenger liners after the troops have been brought back.

"I am going to the Continent to see conditions there and will visit the Red Star line plant in Antwerp. I expect to return to New York on the Adriatic in September."

HAVRE, Aug. 10.—After having served as a hospital ship during the war in the Mediterranean Sea, the French line steamer La France sailed last night on her first commercial trip to New York since 1914. La France carries 2,000 passengers, including a number of American peace commissioners and army welfare workers.

TEACHING INCOME TAX LAW.

Controller Travis Starts School to Guide the Public.

State Controller Eugene M. Travis is conducting a Summer school in the Controller's office at Albany with politicians and State officials as his pupils. The purpose of the school is to develop efficient instructors to teach taxpayers and county officials how to avoid the mistakes of the Federal revenue collectors in the collection of the new State income tax.

There is a nucleus of fifteen pupils at present. The law library in the Controller's office is used as a classroom. Charles R. Hall, who was a Deputy State Controller under State Controller A. C. Chapin thirty-five years ago, has been chosen Dean of the Summer school, with Deputy State Controller Mark Graves as his assistant. The positions are temporary, for ultimately it is proposed to build up a special bureau in the State Controller's office with a personnel of 400 to administer the State income tax law.

The instruction deals with both the legal and fiscal phases of administering the new law. The pupils graduated from the school will be sent through the State this Fall to lecture before Chambers of Commerce and other similar organizations, as well as to deliver instructive talks to officials who are to be used by the Controller's office in the various counties for levying and collecting the tax. The graduates will be known as expert assistants to the Controller, and draw a salary of $3,500.

Controller Travis is determined that the taxpayer's end of complying with the law shall be simplified to the full extent that this is possible. The questionnaires to be sent out will be only one page in length, where the Federal income tax blanks have four pages filled with intricate questions.

The Controller has asked Attorney General Newton to furnish him with an opinion as to whether, under the recent ruling of the United States Circuit Court, declaring unconstitutional the discrimination in the tax rate against nonresidents who earn their income in this State, it will be legal to instruct withholding agents (employers) to allow the $1,000 and $2,000 exemptions which the law gives to single and married men, respectively, who live in this State, but does not allow in the cases of nonresidents subject to the new State income tax.

PLAN NEW FINNISH PORT.

Expected to Handle Traffic Between United States and Russia.

HELSINGFORS, Aug. 9.—With the idea of establishing a free port at Hango, on the southwest extremity of Finland, a company has been formed with a capital of 3,000,000 marks.

The construction of warehouses and other works will be begun soon for the handling of future traffic between the United States and Russia by way of Finland.

SEEKS TO ELIMINATE EXCESS PROFITS TAX

CAUSES HIGHER PRICES

Statement Declares Revenue Is Collected from Increased Cost of Necessities of Life.

Declaring that the present excess profits taxes are partly responsible for the high cost of living, the National Association of Credit Men last night mailed to President Wilson, the Cabinet members and to every member of Congress a statement asking for immediate legislation which will do away with the consumption taxes on the necessities of life. The statement, signed by R. G. Elliott as Chairman of the Special War Tax Advisory Committee, has the backing of the 29,500 members of the National Association of Credit Men, comprising manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers, and financial institutions in the United States. The appeal for immediate action by Congress declares that there can be no question that a tax assessed against the business entity has in many instances the effect of causing high prices, with the resultant higher labor expenses based on increased cost of living. The statement says, in part:

"The present year is without question the most critical period of the nation's industrial history. The period of high prices and war wages has done much to destroy in the public mind all sense of values and has opened the way for the unscrupulous to profiteer in the most flagrant manner, and at a time when all commodity prices should be on the downward trend, that all living costs might be stabilized on a nearer normal basis, discouraging the process of counting in higher numbers with the resultant hardships to many classes of citizens whose incomes are more or less fixed on the dollar basis, and have not and cannot be readily adjusted to meet the declining purchasing power of the medium of exchange."

"The Excess Profits Tax is not a tax on organized business nor on the enjoyable income of the individual able to bear the burden, but a consumption tax pure and simple levied on all consumers not in relation to their ability to pay, but in relation to the necessities of their existence.

"It is to be observed that the public is fast coming to realize that the tax is being collected in the form of increased prices and that in many cases it is greater than would be the case were it a directly levied consumption tax on the necessities of life.

"It is therefore the recommendation of the National Association of Credit Men that the excess profits tax be eliminated; that the necessary revenue be drawn from a tax on the enjoyable income of the individual, and that this be done for the taxable year 1919.

"It has been the avowed intention of Congress to have the burden of the tax bear most heavily on those with large incomes, but the excess profits tax bears heavily on hundreds of thousands of citizens of small means who are stockholders in a small way in the great corporations of the country.

"This association recommended as a wartime measure a 'war profits tax.' The war being over, there are now no war profits to tax; therefore there should be no war profits tax. This recommendation was made at a time when the world was at war and when profits were being made out of or by reason of the war, when tremendous expenditures were in prospect and when Congress faced the necessity of raising the largest amount of revenue in history.

"The elimination of the excess profits tax on corporations will release that amount of money for distribution in dividends, on which the surtaxes will be paid by the individual stockholders, thus increasing the revenue to the Government from personal income taxes. Thus this revenue will be assessed on the basis of income and ability to pay. There is ample time for this as the present law assessing the tax was not passed until late in February and was retroactive to the extent of fourteen months."

In addition to the statement copies of the resolution were sent to practically every national official in Washington. The resolution asks for a revenue measure based on a flat rate income tax.

$10,000,000 DRIVE FOR JEWISH CHARITY

JACOB SCHIFF CHAIRMAN

New Buildings Badly Needed After Five Years of Suspension, Which Crippled Relief Work.

A campaign for the raising of a $10,000,000 building fund was opened yesterday by the United Building Fund Campaign of the Federated Jewish Institutions for the immediate erection and repair of charitable and social service buildings in New York City. The campaign will be directed from headquarters, opened yesterday in the Hotel Biltmore. Of the $10,000,000 which has been set as a goal $1,700,000 already has been raised by private subscription of the directors and the opening of the headquarters marks the beginning of the intensive work to raise the rest of the money by dividing the city into districts and industries which will be directly canvassed for further subscriptions by a committee, of which Jacob H. Schiff is Chairman. The campaign will be directed by Col. H. A. Guinzburg, with the assistance of prominent New Yorkers, among whom are Felix Warburg, Colonel Michael Friedsam, Louis J. Robertson, Adolph Lewisohn, Henry Morgenthau, Mortimer L. Schiff, William Goldman, and Henry F. Samstag.

The campaign for new buildings is being conducted by an amalgamation of twenty-nine organizations in New York City, all of which suspended repairs, improvements, and expansions during the last five years of war. The committee deems this a propitious time for beginning operations, as the cost of materials and labor is expected to rise even higher than at present and because such a project will provide a considerable amount of employment at a time when the country is facing the solution of the soldier re-employment problem.

"The success of this drive," the committee stated yesterday, "will relieve a serious inadequacy in the present hospital and charity service of the city. Figures indicate that at least 12,000 needy persons are turned away annually by various institutions because of inadequate accommodations. This includes hospitals, institutions for the tubercular, orphan asylums, and recreational centres. One sanitarium for children was forced to turn away 487 applicants during the week of July 18 for sheer lack of space to accommodate them. A model factory for the relief of physically handicapped patients accommodates 125 out of an estimated 10,000 per year who need precisely such treatment in order to enable them to resume their places in productive industry. The Educational Alliance, an Americanization centre of the east side, is seriously handicapped in its work by lack of space and by needed improvements. All these conditions it is the intention to relieve by conducting this drive to a successful conclusion."

3,000 AT ROOSEVELT'S GRAVE

Trapper from Ontario Brought Wreath Sent by Villagers.

Among the throngs who visited the grave of Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay yesterday was a mink trapper from the northern part of Ontario, who, before coming to New York a few days ago, had never seen a steamboat, a subway or an elevated railway train. Archibald Tipper of Huntsville, Ontario, came East with his wife to visit this city, and to place upon the grave of Colonel Roosevelt a wreath sent by his village associates in Ontario.

As Mr. and Mrs. Tipper have lived all their lives in the country, they had never before seen the sea, and the modern conveniences of a great city were a complete novelty to them. They said they were very much impressed by all they had seen since coming to New York, and their interest in this part of the country was attested by their displaying no less than seven automobile guidebooks which they had accumulated.

There were between 3,000 and 4,000 visitors to the grave of Theodore Roosevelt yesterday, and the registry book which all are invited to sign shows that something like this number come to Oyster Bay each day to see the final resting place of the former President.

GUGGENHEIM TO AID SOCIAL UNIT PLAN

Offers to Assist in Providing a Fund of $100,000 for Betterment of City Government.

ASKS OTHERS TO HELP

Project Aims to Get People in Closer Touch with Community Affairs.

Daniel Guggenheim has offered to assist in providing a fund of $100,000 for the National Social Unit Organization, an association which has for its purpose the betterment of self-government in cities through the creation of community councils. In a letter to Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane, the national Chairman of the organization, Mr. Guggenheim indorses the movement and proffers his financial assistance.

Mr. Guggenheim wishes to join four or five others in underwriting the proposed fund, which will be used in an attempt to obtain a large number of supporting memberships through an educational campaign throughout the country. In his letter he says: "I shall feel very disappointed if others cannot be found who will join me in arranging this fund, especially as it is understood that the amounts will be repaid provided funds for the purpose are raised through memberships."

The social unit plan consists in the establishment of neighborhood administrations, formed without regard to social class or property ownership, to look after the public health, recreation, and general social problems of that particular district of the city. One of these councils was started in Cincinnati two and a half years ago and, it is claimed, has been successful in securing the participation of people in community affairs and in promoting Americanization. It is planned to have the work of the Cincinnati council evaluated by a competent corps of experts as a basis for a future program. Twenty-five well-known writers, editors, and publicists have become members of a national publicity committee to assist in an educational campaign to get the movement before the American public.

ADVERTISING IS AN INVESTMENT

What the Advertiser of a Famous Product Said:

"We have been solicited by many advertising agents. We have investigated their work and the results they have obtained for their clients. We have studied their personnel, their organization, their equipment, their facilities. In nearly every case we found much that might prove valuable in connection with our advertising. But nowhere did we find evidence of such invaluable experience, such versatile ability, such co-ordinated management and efficiency in execution as we found at Federal."

Most of our clients have come to Federal after just such an investigation. The latch string is always out.

FINANCIAL NOTICES.

TO THE HOLDERS OF 5% FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS OF THE UTAH FUEL COMPANY
Due March 1, 1931
SINKING FUND.

Notice is hereby given as provided in Article 12 of the mortgage of the Utah Fuel Company and Pleasant Valley Coal Company dated March 1, 1901, that written proposals will be received by the undersigned at its office, 149 Broadway, New York City, until 10 o'clock A. M. Wednesday, September 3, 1919, for the sale to it as Trustee, at the lowest price at which such bonds shall be offered, not exceeding 110% and accrued interest to that date inclusive, of sufficient of the above bonds to exhaust the sum of Fifteen Thousand Three Hundred Thirty-four Dollars and fifty-three cents ($15,334.53).

The Trustee reserves the right to reject any or all proposals in whole or in part. All proposals must designate the bonds offered by their serial numbers and should state the post office address of the party making the proposals, should be enclosed in sealed envelopes and endorsed "Proposals for sale of Utah Fuel Company Bonds to Sinking Fund," and addressed to the TRUST DEPARTMENT.

Persons desiring to make offers of bonds to the Sinking Fund, whose responsibility is not known to the Trustee, should accompany their offer by a sufficient letter of introduction or guarantee of good faith by a bank, banker or others whose responsibility is established.

FINANCIAL NOTICES.

NOVA COMPANHIA AGRICOLA DA ILHA DE S. THOMÉ

Capital: Esc. 500,000.00.

The undersigned having been appointed liquidators at the extraordinary General Meeting held on the 11th April last, make known that proposals are accepted for the sale of the S. Miguel Plantation (Roca S. Miguel), which is the property of the Company and described in the Land Registry Office in S. Thomé, book B 30 folios 77 on back, under Number 8184.

The said plantation is situated in the parish of Santa Cruz dos Angolares, in the most fertile region of the Island of St. Thomas (Ilha de S. Thomé); it has an area of about 70 square kilometres, facing the sea in a front of about 9 kilometres and a seaport with proper conditions for shelter and navigation.

It has the proper installation and fittings necessary to its agricultural exploitation, such as dwelling houses, both in the headquarters as well as in the several sections for the manager, doctor, overseers, etc. Hospital with its competent appurtenances and instruments, etc., houses for 500 laborers, warehouses, plant for drying purposes, stables, workshops, about 8 kilometres of Decauville railway line, steam launch for the conveyance of cocoa and other goods, cattle, harness, tools, furniture, etc.

Of the grounds, only one part is planted, it being calculated in 800,000 the existing cocoa trees, of which some 400,000 are of a recent plantation. Of the remainder grounds some are proper for the cultivation of cocoa, others for coffee, rubber, etc.

The proposals should be addressed to THE LIQUIDATORS OF THE NOVA COMPANHIA AGRICOLA DA ILHA DE S. THOME and sent in a registered letter up to the 30th of September next, to RUA AUGUSTA NO. 176, FIRST FLOOR, (LISBON,) where further details may be given.

MASTER'S SALE.

STATE OF MAINE—COUNTY OF ANDROSCOGGIN, Supreme Judicial Court.—CUMBERLAND COUNTY POWER & LIGHT COMPANY v. LEWISTON, AUGUSTA & WATERVILLE STREET RAILWAY.—OLD COLONY TRUST COMPANY, TRUSTEE, v. LEWISTON, AUGUSTA & WATERVILLE STREET RAILWAY. Consolidated Cause in Equity No. 40.

LEWISTON, AUGUSTA & WATERVILLE STREET RAILWAY.
NOTICE OF SALE.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the decree of foreclosure and sale made and entered by the Supreme Judicial Court of the State of Maine in and for the County of Androscoggin on July 31st, 1919, in a certain consolidated cause pending in said Court, in which consolidated cause two causes, one brought by Cumberland County Power & Light Company against Lewiston, Augusta & Waterville Street Railway and the other by Old Colony Trust Company, Trustee, against Lewiston, Augusta & Waterville Street Railway, have been consolidated and which is now proceeding under the title "Consolidated Cause in Equity No. 40," I, Wallace H. White, by said decree appointed to be the Special Master therein referred to, (hereinafter referred to as "the Special Master,") will sell at public auction to the highest bidder or bidders therefor at the main front entrance of the County Court House in the City of Auburn and the State of Maine on Friday, September 5, 1919, at three of the clock in the afternoon, upon and subject to the terms, conditions, and provisions in said decree more particularly set forth, the property in said decree described and therein directed to be sold, the same being the property subject to the lien of the mortgage or deed of trust made, executed, and delivered by Lewiston, Augusta & Waterville Street Railway to Old Colony Trust Company as Trustee, dated April 1, 1907, and/or all mortgages or deeds of trust supplementary thereto, (said original mortgage and said mortgages supplementary thereto being hereinafter referred to as "the First and Refunding Mortgage").

A brief description of said property is as follows:—

All the property of every character, nature, and description of Lewiston, Augusta & Waterville Street Railway, (hereinafter referred to as "the Street Railway,") and its Receivers and all interests of every character, nature, and description of the Street Railway and its Receivers in property (including cash, cash assets, claims, credits, accounts, and items receivable which have come into the possession or under the control of the Receivers since June 30, 1919, and which shall be in such possession or under such control at the time of the delivery of the possession of the property sold), and, subject to prior liens and interests as stated in Article Fourth of said decree, includes but without limiting in any way the generality of the foregoing the following property, excepting therefrom any part of said property which may have been duly released from the lien and operation of the First and Refunding Mortgage:—

All the estates and properties, real, personal and mixed, rights, privileges, franchises and choses in action, of every nature and kind and wheresoever situated, now owned or possessed by or belonging to the Street Railway, or to which it is or may be in any manner entitled in law or in equity; including all its railroad, street railway and electric light and power lines and plants, and properties, rights, privileges and appurtenances used in connection therewith, real estate, power houses, sub-stations, car barns, offices and other buildings, structures and improvements, rolling stock, equipment and machinery, boilers and engines, tracks, sidings, poles, wires and overhead construction, motors, lamps and electrical equipment, cables, conduits, bridges, viaducts, fixtures, tools and appliances, rights of way and contract rights, situated in the Cities of Lewiston, Bath, Auburn, Augusta, Gardiner, Hallowell and Waterville, and in the Towns of West Bath, Brunswick, Topsham, Lisbon, Minot, Poland, Mechanic Falls, Webster, Winthrop, Manchester, Farmingdale, Chelsea, Wales, Monmouth, Litchfield, West Gardiner, Vassalboro and Winslow, and in the Counties of Sagadahoc, Androscoggin, Cumberland and Kennebec and elsewhere in the State of Maine.

For more particular description of some of the property of the Street Railway included above, reference may be made to the following conveyances:

(2) By the Street Railway to Old Colony Trust Company, Trustee, dated December 22, 1910, and recorded, among other places, in Androscoggin Registry of Deeds, Book 237, Page 324; Kennebec Registry of Deeds, Book 510, Page 272; Lewiston Clerk's Office, Volume 56, Pages 95-96-97.

(3) By the Street Railway to Old Colony Trust Company, Trustee, dated August 18, 1913, and recorded, among other places, in Cumberland Registry of Deeds, Book 915, Page 365; Androscoggin Registry of Deeds, Book 247, Page 585.

(4) By the Street Railway to Old Colony Trust Company, Trustee, dated February 7, 1918, and recorded, among other places, in Cumberland Registry of Deeds, Book 1000, Page 353; Androscoggin Registry of Deeds, Book 278, Pages 21-2-3-4; Kennebec Registry of Deeds, Book 566, Page 369; Sagadahoc Registry of Deeds, Book 138, Page 102.

Included in the property which has been duly released from the lien and operation of the First and Refunding Mortgage is that described in the

(1) deed from Old Colony Trust Company, Trustee, to the Street Railway, dated July 11, 1912, and recorded in Sagadahoc Registry of Deeds, Book 123, Page 436, and the

(2) deed from Old Colony Trust Company, Trustee, to the Street Railway, dated July 8, 1914, and recorded in Cumberland Registry of Deeds, Book 934, Page 206, to which deeds and the records thereof reference is hereby made for particular descriptions.

The so-called "Turner line," which is included in the foregoing general description of the Street Railway's property, and which is referred to in Article Third of said decree and hereafter in this notice, comprises that certain line of railroad or street railway commencing at a point on the line formerly of the Lewiston, Brunswick & Bath Street Railway at its northerly terminus near the entrance to Lake Grove in the village of East Auburn, so-called, within the limits of the City of Auburn, Maine, said point being about five hundred (500) feet south of the outlet of Lake Auburn; thence in a general northerly direction following along the side of the country road leading from the City of Auburn to the village of Turner to a point in the village of Turner opposite the front door of the residence now or formerly of F. T. Faulkner, together with the several parcels of real estate described in paragraphs (b), (c), (d) & (e) of a certain instrument of conveyance by Lewiston, Augusta & Waterville Street Railway to Old Colony Trust Company as Trustee, dated December 22, 1910, and recorded among other places in Androscoggin Registry of Deeds, Book 237, Page 324, and in Kennebec Registry of Deeds, Book 510, Page 272, to which instrument and to another from E. P. Sanderson and others, dated July 28, 1910, and recorded in Androscoggin Registry of Deeds, in Book 231, Page 599, reference is hereby made for more particular descriptions.

In and by said decree the Receivers are ordered, not more than twenty days nor less than five days prior to the date fixed for the sale under said decree of the property thereunder directed to be sold, to file with the Clerk of Court a statement or statements showing as definitely as practicable—

(1) All indebtedness, obligations, and liabilities contracted or incurred by the Receivers then remaining unpaid.

(2) All unpaid indebtedness or liabilities contracted or incurred by the Street Railway prior to the appointment of the Receivers in the operation of the property directed by this decree to be sold, and which, so far as the Receivers are informed, are claimed to be prior in lien or superior in equity to the First and Refunding Mortgage.

(3) All outstanding contracts to which the Street Railway or the Receivers may be parties, stating in the case of contracts to which the Street Railway is a party whether such contracts have been assumed or adopted or disaffirmed by the Receivers.

(4) All cash and cash assets in possession or under the control of the Receivers which have been received by them since June 30, 1919, and all moneys owing to them.

In and by said decree the Receivers have also been ordered to file with the Clerk of Court, as soon as practicable, and at least ten days prior to the date fixed for the sale under said decree, a brief statement enumerating several mortgages or deeds of trust referred to in Article Fourth of said decree and subject to which the sale hereby ordered is to be made, and setting forth the amounts of all bonds or other obligations then outstanding thereunder and secured thereby, and all sums then due and payable under or by virtue of said several mortgages or deeds of trust.

Every such statement filed by the Receivers in accordance with the foregoing paragraphs will be advisory only and will in no way constitute a representation or warranty, and no such statement will constitute ground for relief from any bid because of any representation or statement therein or omissions therefrom, nor will anything contained in such statement be binding upon any purchaser at any sale under this decree. All purchases will be deemed to be made in reliance upon the purchaser's own knowledge or information as to the property purchased. For a more particular description of the property to be sold or the terms of sale, intending purchasers are hereby referred to said decree and to the records of said consolidated cause and the constituent causes, and to the advisory statement or statements of the Receivers to be filed with the Clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court of the State of Maine in and for the County of Androscoggin, pursuant to said decree.

As more fully provided by said decree to which reference is hereby made:

I. Said sale will be made without valuation, appraisal, right of stay or extension, and shall operate so far as may be as a complete foreclosure.

II. The property to be sold, whether sold as an entirety or in parcels, will be sold subject to any valid and subsisting prior liens thereon, or valid and subsisting prior interests (legal or equitable) therein, and will, but without limitation of the generality of the foregoing, to the extent and so far as any of the instruments more particularly referred to in Article Fourth of said decree may respectively constitute valid subsisting prior liens upon or create valid subsisting prior interests in or to any of said property, be sold subject to the lien of or the interest created by said instrument or instruments.

III. Said sale will be made in the following manner:—

(a) The Special Master will first offer for sale as an entirety all the property of every character, nature, and description of the Street Railway and its Receivers and all interests of every character, nature, and description of the Street Railway and its Receivers in property, (including cash, cash assets, claims, credits, accounts, and items receivable which shall have come into the possession or under the control of the Receivers since June 30, 1919, and which shall be in such possession or under such control at the time of the delivery of possession of the property sold,) and will note the highest bid therefor.

(b) The Special Master will next offer for sale all the property referred to in the next preceding sub-paragraph (a,) excepting the so-called Turner line, which means the parcels of land in the village of Turner and the line of street railway running from Lake Grove in the City of Auburn to said village of Turner, which are more particularly described as "the Turner line" in Article Fourteenth of said decree, together with all the franchises and privileges appertaining thereto, and will note the highest bid therefor.

(c) The Special Master will next offer for sale the aforesaid Turner line, together with all the franchises and privileges appertaining thereto, and will note the highest bidder therefor.

(d) The Special Master will next offer for sale the aforesaid Turner line without the franchises and privileges appertaining thereto, and will note the highest bid therefor.

If the highest bid received for all said property when offered for sale as an entirety equals or exceeds

(1) the highest bid received for all said property, excepting the aforesaid Turner line and the franchises and privileges appertaining thereto, plus

(2) the highest bid received for the aforesaid Turner line as a separate parcel, whether with or without the franchises and privileges appertaining thereto,

then all said property will be stricken off and sold as an entirety to the highest bidder therefor, but if the highest bid received for all said property as an entirety is less than

(1) the highest bid received for all said property, excepting the aforesaid Turner line and the franchises and privileges appertaining thereto, plus

then all said property, excepting the aforesaid Turner line and the franchises and privileges appertaining thereto, will be stricken off and sold to the highest bidder therefor; and the aforesaid Turner line, as a separate parcel, with or without the franchises and privileges appertaining thereto as the case may be, will be stricken off and sold to the highest bidder therefor.

IV. No person will be entitled to bid for the property by this decree directed to be sold unless such person shall first deposit with the Special Master, as a pledge that he will make good his bid in the event of its acceptance, the amounts, either in cash or certified checks on some national bank or trust company acceptable to the Special Master, and made or endorsed payable to his order, or the face amounts of First and Refunding Bonds in bearer form, and if coupon bonds, accompanied by the coupons of October 1, 1918, and all subsequent coupons, as follows:—

(1) In the case of a bid for all said property as an entirety or for all said property, except the Turner line and the franchises and privileges appertaining thereto, the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000) in cash or certified checks, or Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000) face amount of First and Refunding Bonds;

(2) In the case of the Turner line, whether with or without the franchises and privileges appertaining thereto, the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) in cash or certified check, or Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) face amount of First and Refunding Bonds.

Such deposits may be partly in cash or certified check and partly in First and Refunding Bonds, but in the same relative proportions.

In lieu of the deposit of bonds and coupons in accordance with the foregoing requirements, the Special Master may accept the certificate of any national bank or trust company acceptable to the Special Master that it holds, subject to the order of the Special Master, bonds of the required character in bearer form, and if in coupon form accompanied by the required coupons.

Any deposit so received by the Special Master from an unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him after the property shall be struck off. The deposit received from the successful bidder will be applied on account of the purchase price of the property.

V. In case any bidder upon the acceptance of his bid by the Special Master and confirmation by said court, fails to comply within a period of ten (10) days after the entry thereof with any order of said court requiring or relating to the payment of the balance of the purchase price, then the money or bonds deposited by such accepted bidder as hereinbefore provided, will be forfeited as a penalty for such failure and will be applied to the payment of the expenses of the re-sale and to making good any deficiency in case the property shall be sold for a less price on such re-sale, and for such other purposes as said court may direct.

If said court does not confirm any sale, the deposit made by the accepted bidder at such sale will forthwith be returned to such bidder.

VI. The purchaser upon confirmation of the sale shall make such further payment or payments in cash on account of the purchase price (in addition to the cash or proceeds of any certified check theretofore deposited by such purchaser with the Special Master at the time of sale as hereinbefore provided, which said cash or proceeds shall be received as a part of the purchase price) as the court may from time to time direct. The remainder of such purchase price not required to be paid in cash may be paid in cash, or any purchaser may satisfy and make good the balance of his bid in whole or in part by turning in to be paid and cancelled or to have payment on account credited thereon, First and Refunding Bonds and unpaid past due coupons appertaining thereto entitled to share in the distribution of the proceeds of the sale, and such purchaser will thereupon be credited therefore on account of the purchase price of the property purchased with such amounts as would be payable on such First and Refunding Bonds and coupons out of the proceeds of sale if the whole amount of the purchase price were paid in cash. All such bonds unless payable to bearer and transferable by delivery shall be duly endorsed or assigned in blank.

The Special Master may in his discretion accept temporarily instead of bonds and coupons the certificate or certificates of any national bank or trust company which he may approve that it holds subject to his order bonds of the amount and character therein specified, and if in bearer form accompanied by the coupons therein stated, and will deliver the same to him on demand for cancellation or other disposition according to the terms of said decree.

Said court reserves the right to re-take and re-sell, upon such notice as it may direct, any property directed by said decree to be sold, in case the purchaser thereof shall fail or omit to comply with any order of said court requiring payment on account of the unpaid balance of the purchase price within ten (10) days after the entry of the order for such payment.

Neither the purchaser nor the successors or assigns of any purchaser will be required to see to the application of the purchase money.

The fact of purchase and the acceptance of a deed or deeds of the property by the purchaser shall not be construed as an election to accept any contract, agreement or lease sold as part of the property offered pursuant to said decree or embraced in any deed.

VII. The purchaser or purchasers at any sale under said decree, and his and their assigns, shall as part of the consideration for the property purchased, and in addition to the sums bid by them and elsewhere in said decree required to be paid by him or them, take such property and receive the deeds or other instruments of conveyance and transfer thereof, subject to the provisions of Article Fourth of said decree so far as applicable, and upon the express condition that such property shall be charged with the payment, satisfaction and discharge of the following:—

(1) Any taxes and other public charges which may be a lien upon or chargeable against the property or franchises of the Street Railway herein directed to be sold.

(2) Any indebtedness and the liabilities of the Receivers incurred in this cause or in any of the constituent causes in the management or operation of the property of the Street Railway herein directed to be sold, and otherwise in the discharge of their duties as such Receivers between December 16, 1918, the date of their appointment, and the delivery by them to the purchaser or purchasers of possession of the property sold, to the extent that such indebtedness and liabilities have not been paid or shall not have been paid out of moneys in possession of the Receivers.

(3) Any unpaid claims of creditors of the Street Railway which have been or shall be admitted by the parties in interest or adjudged by this court to be prior in lien or superior in equity to the First and Refunding Mortgage.

At the time of delivery by the Receivers of possession of the property sold the Receivers will pay over to the purchaser or purchasers thereof, if the property be sold as an entirety, or to the purchaser or purchasers of that part of the property other than the so-called Turner line, if the property be sold in parcels, or upon their written order, all cash then in possession or under the control of the Receivers which shall have been received by them since June 30, 1919, and will transfer and deliver to said purchaser or purchasers or upon his, its, or their written order or orders, all cash assets, claims, credits, accounts, and items receivable then in the possession or under the control of the Receivers, and which shall have come into their possession or under their control since June 30, 1919.

No purchaser will be held personally liable under Article Seventh of said decree for any indebtedness, obligation, or liability specified in said Article and required to be paid, the method herein provided for the enforcement of the liability of such purchaser for all such indebtedness, obligations, and liabilities being exclusive of all other remedies.

VIII. By said decree said Court reserves for future adjudication all questions not disposed of therein.

For further particulars reference is hereby made to said decree of foreclosure and sale. The attention of intending purchasers is also called to the advisory statements to be filed with the Clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court of Maine in and for the County of Androscoggin prior to said sale by the Receivers of the Street Railway, pursuant to Article Eighth of said decree of foreclosure and sale.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

PLAN AND AGREEMENT DATED MARCH 6, 1919, AS AMENDED.

TO CREDITORS OF BAY STATE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WHO HAVE PRESENTED OR SHALL PRESENT THEIR CLAIMS IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PROVISIONS OF THE DECREE OF MARCH 11, 1919.

Notice is hereby given that creditors of Bay State Street Railway Company who as the eleventh day of March, 1919, had presented, or who thereafter have presented or shall present their claims in accordance with the provisions of Article Thirteenth of the decree entered on that date in the District Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts in the Consolidated Cause, entitled The Archibald McNeil & Sons Company v. Bay State Street Railway Company, in Equity, No. 834, and who have claims subordinate in lien and inferior in equity to the Refunding First Mortgage dated July 1, 1904, from Boston & Northern Street Railway Company to Adams Trust Company (American Trust Company, successor), or to the Refunding First Mortgage dated July 1, 1904, from Old Colony Street Railway Company to Old Colony Trust Company, may, subject to such regulations and requirements not inconsistent with the provisions of said decree as the Reorganization Managers from time to time shall establish, participate in said plan and agreement by filing with Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, Mass., Depositary for that purpose, on or before April 18, 1919, or in case of creditors who shall hereafter present their claims as aforesaid, within seven days after such presentation, a written declaration of their desire to participate in said plan and agreement accompanied by such data, information and assignments of their claims as shall be required by the Reorganization Managers all in such form as shall be required by the Reorganization Managers, and upon the filing of such written declaration and other papers shall receive therefor certificates of deposit of said Depositary in form approved by the Reorganization Managers, upon the acceptance of which they shall be entitled to participate in and shall be bound by the provisions of such plan and agreement, subject, however, to the right of the Reorganization Managers in their discretion at any time, either before or after the acceptance of the assignment of any such claim or the issue of certificates of deposit in respect thereof, to require that such claim be judicially established or determined by arbitration as a condition precedent to participation or to further participation in said plan and agreement. No rights under such plan and agreement shall accrue in respect of any such claims unless so deposited. If any such claim is non-assignable, the holder thereof may, nevertheless, participate in said plan and agreement in the manner aforesaid, substituting for an assignment of the claim such other documents in respect thereof as the Reorganization Managers shall require.

For further information reference is made to said plan and agreement, particularly at pages 15 and 21. A copy of said plan and agreement will be sent upon application to the Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, Mass., Depositary.

MATERIAL SCARCITY TRAILS LABOR STRIFE

BRICK PRICES GO UP

Distributers Here, Fearing Railroad Embargoes, Find Producers Handicapped.

Building material distributors, fearing railroad embargoes, found producers handicapped when they sought to accumulate stocks last week.

Barely one week sufficed to change a condition of comparative stability in building material prices to one characteristic of a stampede. Commodities shipped into this market from great distances, like spruce, hardwood flooring, lath and metals, took a sharp advance in price because of the unexpected demand.

Spruce lath passed beyond the highest delivered price ever known, standing today at $8.50 a thousand. Certain hard wood flooring material is rapidly reaching a point where it is hard to obtain at any price. Nova Scotia plaster, wire lath, and possibly hollow tile fireproofing material are pressing for advances and the paint interests are putting their prices forward to meet the higher producing costs. All spruce advanced $2.50 a thousand feet.

The parting point between the building artisan and his job has almost been reached. With schedules now proposed by labor leaders in effect the cost for a frame and stucco dwelling house, already advanced 48 per cent. between May, 1915, and June of this year, will have climbed to 79 per cent.; the cost of a steel skeleton building will show an increase of 105 per cent. instead of 54, and the cost of a reinforced concrete building instead of showing an advance of 80 per cent. will cost 97 per cent. more. Such advances as these, indicating a gain in cost of construction of from 25 to 40 per cent. within two months, with no assurance that the cost will hold even there when the question of supply and demand enters into the building material market, are not conducive to free building conditions.

The constantly increasing movement of mason materials from distributing yards in New York, which has been characteristic of every month since March, has already been checked. August, so far, has developed delivery of materials barely equal to that of the same period in July.

In most of the supplemental departments a reflection of this increased cost of production is shown. Steel bar mills are operating to the limit of their labor supply. The $2.35 price is still firm, but present indications point to an advance probably for the fourth quarter. Here the element of demand as against supply is prominent and shows what is to be expected in basic building materials when building finally gets under way, a condition that has not yet matured in brick, lime, plaster, stone, architectural terra cotta, and many of the concrete ingredients.

The price peak of building materials is still afar off. The solution of the labor wage scale problem is only part of the conditions that will make for higher construction costs next year. Viewing the entire building material market, the conclusion cannot be avoided that a new standard of building costs must be accepted and that the new standard will be even somewhat in excess of those now developing.

New systems of financing speculative building construction will have to be devised, probably supported by Federal aid, before houses by the wholesale can be erected for renting purposes within the reach of the average wage earner.

MORE FUNDS FOR TENANTS.

Contributions for Victims of Profiteering Landlords.

The fund of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering for the relief of distress of tenants who have been the victims of profiteering landlords was augumented yesterday by a contribution of $10 from Charles A. Strauss, Secretary of the Law Committee of the Mayor's Committee. Mr. Strauss said in the letter accompanying his contribution that his work for the tenants had impressed him with the necessity for the establishment of the fund. Treasurer Alfred J. Johnson of 60 Broadway also reported the receipt of a contribution of $25 from J. Clarence Davies.

Nathan Hirsch, Chairman of the Committee, announced that Mrs. William Einstein and Miss Dorothy Donnelly of the Relief Committee would confer with Mr. Hirsch and Mr. Johnson at Room 1220 Municipal Building at noon today to perfect the organization of the fund. The list of subscriptions to date is: Jacob H. Schiff, $500; Nathan Hirsch, $250; Philip Berolsheimer, $250; Charles F. Murphy, $200; Robert L. Luce, $50; Governor Alfred E. Smith, $50; Felix M. Warburg, $50; Abram I. Elkus, $50; Friedman & Krieger, $50; J. Clarence Davies, $25; Albert Blogg Unger, $10; Charles A. Strauss, $10; Bertha Prince, $5.

Jamaica Borrows for Soldiers.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 10.—The British Government has approved a loan of $225,000 to the Island Government to provide work for returned soldiers of the British West Indies Regiment. American capitalists are investing in Jamaica, principally in sugar lands.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Garden City Development Corporation has been formed to take over the management, sale, and development of

THE GARDEN CITY ESTATES

The program contemplates the erection of twenty-five detached 7 to 9 room residences for the fall season of 1919, and seventy-five for the spring of 1920 at prices ranging from $12,500 to $20,000. The property is carefully restricted and sales of land and houses will be made only to such people as will be desirable in such a carefully selected colony.

The personnel of the new corporation includes

Mr. William H. English, Vice President of the Empire Trust Co.
Mr. George A. Fleury, President of the U. S. Title Guaranty Co.

Mr. Charles A. Nicholls, Sales Manager.

The Hegeman-Harris Company has been selected to build the houses. This Company has just completed the construction of the villages of Cradock, Va., and Truxton, Va., consisting of more than 1000 houses for the United States Government. Plans are being developed by several well known architects.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The tropical disturbance in the Caribbean Sea is continuing on a westerly course, its centre this evening being apparently south of Jamaica, but its intensity is still unknown. Pressure remains high over the Lake region and is low over the Canadian Northwest.

During the last twenty-four hours local showers and thunderstorms have occurred in the South Atlantic and Gulf States and at scattered points in the Rocky Mountains region and north plains States; elsewhere throughout the country east of the Rocky Mountains the weather has been fair.

Temperatures are still generally below the normal from the Mississippi Valley eastward, but are slowly moderating to higher temperatures.

The outlook is for continued fair weather Monday and Tuesday in the central and northern States east of the Mississippi River, and for local showers and thunderstorms in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States.

Temperatures will not change decidedly Monday and Tuesday in the States East of the Mississippi River, but the tendency will be to warmer weather.

Winds off Atlantic Coast—North of Sandy Hook, gentle to moderate southwest to west winds and fair.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras—Gentle variable winds and fair.

Hatteras to Florida Straits—Gentle to moderate variable and showers.

East Gulf Coast—Gentle variable and showers.

FORECAST TODAY AND TUESDAY.

New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey—Fair Monday. Tuesday fair, slightly warmer.

3 A. M.	70	62	4 P. M.	67	76
6 A. M.	68	63	6 P. M.	66	76
9 A. M.	71	63	9 P. M.	66	72
12 M.	68	70	11 P. M.	64	67

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 68; for the corresponding date last year it was 68; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 73.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 61, at 8 P. M. it was 73. Maximum temperature 76 degrees at 4 P. M., minimum 60 degrees at 6:45 A. M. Humidity 66 per cent. at 8 A. M., 49 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.18 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.11 inches.

Weather in Cotton and Grain States.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Forecast:

N. C. Generally fair Mon. and Tues. except showers and thunderstorms in mountains.

S. C., Ga., Fla., extreme N. W. Fla., Ala., and Miss. Local showers and thunderstorms Mon. and Tues.

Ind. and Ohio. Fair Mon. Tues. fair, slightly warmer.

Lower Mich. Fair Mon. and Tues., rising temp.

The Children of McCALL STREET

WE like to picture to ourselves the 1,300,000 homes of the readers of McCall's Magazine as being on a single street—McCall Street. This would be a wonderful street of prosperous, progressive American families—a street which, with a house every 25 feet, would sweep across the continent from Boston to San Diego.

How many children on McCall Street?

Two million at least. And very likely more than two million. For McCall's is pre-eminently a magazine for the household, the family, the wife and mother—and its arrival is eagerly awaited each month in 1,300,000 American homes.

McCALL'S MAGAZINE

The hundreds of thousands of little ones on McCall Street are healthier, happier, better nourished and better clothed because their mothers have each month the invaluable advice of McCall authorities on the feeding, clothing, care, amusement and education of children.

Foremost among these is Dr. S. Josephine Baker, who has been for several years Director of New York City's Bureau of Child Hygiene, and who has received nation-wide recognition of her work in bettering the health of the thousands of little ones in New York's congested tenement districts.

Children love to listen to the fairy tales and bedtime stories that appear in the McCall's. Little fingers fairly seize upon the monthly page of cut-out paper dolls and up-to-the-minute doll-town attire.

McCall's Magazine is the fashion guide of the mothers on McCall Street, for themselves and their children. A hundred million dollars worth of women's and children's garments will be made in the homes of McCall Street this year with the aid of McCall Patterns.

These thousands and thousands of American women, who look to McCall's household departments for help in every domestic problem, have learned that, in supplying the needs of their children and their homes, they can rely just as confidently on the messages in McCall's advertising pages. Their purchasing power is more than a billion dollars a year.

ANDREW CARNEGIE DIES OF PNEUMONIA IN HIS 84TH YEAR

WIFE IS AT HIS BEDSIDE

STARTED AS A POOR BOY

Funeral to be Held Thursday in Lenox, but No Services in New York.

LENOX, Mass., Aug. 11.—Andrew Carnegie died at Shadow Brook of bronchial pneumonia at 7:10 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Carnegie was about his estate, apparently in his usual health, on Friday morning with Mrs. Carnegie and his daughter, Mrs. Roswell Miller. Friday evening he complained of difficulty in breathing, but seemed to have nothing worse than a cold.

On Saturday morning he felt fairly well and walked about his home, but during the day he seemed to grow weaker. Dr. Bruce Paddock of Pittsfield was summoned. He found the patient's temperature above normal with pneumonia indicated. He grew rapidly worse through Sunday, Dr. Paddock and trained nurses remaining with him constantly.

Mr. Carnegie was in his eighty-fourth year and two former attacks of pneumonia left him with little strength to resist this attack. Two years ago he was on the verge of death from double pneumonia. His exceptionally hardy constitution saved him at that time, but he came out of it with impaired vitality and had grown rapidly feebler since that time.

Of recent days the old man, who was a great lover of flowers, had been fond of being wheeled in a chair into his garden, where he passed many hours. He always wore in the buttonhole of his homespun suit a sprig of sweet verbena, which was his favorite plant. His flowers at his home in New York and at his Summer home have for several years been one of his main interests in life. Nothing meant so much to him, and, forgetting that others did not always share this passion, on one occasion he picked three splendid rhododendrons and presented them to a little boy when he intended to give the youngster a munificent reward for telling the servants in his New York home that he had accidentally locked himself in his own garden.

After his flowers, he found his chief enjoyment about the estate in trips on Lake Mahkeenac in his electric launch. His last trip was on Thursday, when he spent several hours on the boat. His love for the water had grown in recent years. Early in the season this year he was fishing constantly and took several good strings of fish from the waters which he had assisted in stocking.

He had not lost his interest in libraries. Recently he contributed to the Lenox Library a sum for installing handsome new fixtures in the building.

Mrs. Roswell Miller, his only child, had gone to her country place, Caradoc, at Millbrook, N. Y. On being notified that her father was very low, she and her husband, Ensign Miller, started at once for Shadow Brook, but did not arrive until after his death.

Mrs. Carnegie, who had been worn out by staying constantly with her husband during his illness, was prostrated and saw no one but her daughter and son-in-law. Many people from the villages near the Carnegie home called and left cards of condolence, and hundreds of telegrams of condolence came during the day from men all over the country who had been associated with the ironmaster during the years in which he built up his gigantic enterprises.

Mr. Carnegie had intended, it was said, to make a visit to Scotland early this year, and spend a time at Skibo Castle, of which he is Laird, but this plan was abandoned because of his health and because of government restrictions in Great Britain, which prevented his taking servants.

The funeral service will be conducted at Shadow Brook on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. Benson N. Wyman, pastor of the Lenox Congregational Church, where Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie had a pew, and the Rev. Dr. William Pierson Merrill, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church of New York. The body will be taken on a special train to Sleepy Hollow, N. Y., for burial in a lot that Mr. Carnegie bought some years ago. No services will be held in New York City!

Profiteering Bill Passes Second Reading in Commons

LONDON, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—The House of Commons tonight passed the second reading of the Government bill providing for prosecution and penalties for persons guilty of profiteering. The vote was 251 to 8.

The bill was subjected to severe criticism, mainly on the ground that it would fail to reach the real offenders.

Sir Auckland Geddes in moving the second reading told of a manufacturer who said to him: "I am perfectly ashamed of the profits I am making." He added that although he reduced prices below his competitors he had made £200,000 profit. Sir Auckland said that shoes which sold at wholesale at 15 to 25 shillings ($3 to $5) retailed, even in unfashionable districts, at 50 to 60 shillings ($10 to $12).

The measure was referred to a committee of the whole House, where amendment is expected.

COUNTRY TAKES UP PALMER FOOD PLAN

State Administrators Promise Their Support in the "Fair Price" Campaign.

CONGRESS DEBATES BILLS

Kellogg Proposes Federal Licenses—Agricultural Department for Cold Storage Tax.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Attorney General Palmer today received "enthusiastic" assent from virtually all State Food Administrators of whom he asked co-operation in the Government's efforts to reduce the high cost of living. At the same time he sent instructions to all District Attorneys to get in touch with the Food Administrators and to act at once on any evidence of law violation which might come to light in the work of the Fair Price Committees to be reconstituted in every county.

The attention of the District Attorneys also was called to the "unlimited availability" of the Secret Service for any investigative work necessary to the punishment of hoarders and profiteers.

A development of the day was the request by Mr. Palmer of Secretary Houston that inspectors of packing houses be instructed to furnish to District Attorneys, upon request, any information they might have. It was not indicated what was contemplated.

Living problems continued to absorb much of the attention of Congress. Federal licenses for large corporations and supervision of the issuance of stocks and certificates were proposed in the Senate.

Cold storage regulation suggested by President Wilson was taken up by the House Agriculture Committee. Europe's imports of food from this country, particularly that purchased with the $100,000,000 fund which President Wilson said was necessary to stop the westward spread of Bolshevism, drew the fire of Senator Myers, who declared in a speech that people abroad were buying American products cheaper than they could be purchased at home.

President Wilson's suggestion that Congress could show what can be done to control mounting prices by remedying the extortion which it has been charged was rampant in the District of Columbia, resulted in the drafting of a bill by the District Commissioners, in conjunction with Chairman Murdock of the Federal Trade Commission, which would put under license all dealers in food, fuel, and wearing apparel, with the licenses revocable on proof of profiteering.

In urging consideration of a bill to regulate corporations dealing in necessities, Senator Kellogg of Minnesota said today in a Senate speech that he was convinced two years ago, when he made the original draft of it, that "something must be done to regulate trusts and combinations in restraint of trade." He had altered the measure, he said, to meet the present situation, and hoped the Senate would take it up at once.

Senator Kellogg's Bill.

Senator Kellogg then outlined the features of his bill, which requires all corporations engaged in interstate commerce and having a capital or assets of $10,000,000 or over, to take out a Federal license, and provides that when the license is issued by the Federal Trade Commission the corporation shall be presumed to be a legal corporation and shall have the right to engage in interstate and foreign commerce, unless the license is revoked, as provided in the bill.

The measure provides for a forfeiture of the license if the corporation enters into any contract, combination, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or shall "monopolize commerce or attempt to monopolize it." This, Senator Kellogg said, would give the commission a supervisory jurisdiction over such corporations and their license would be subject to forfeiture if they engage in a combination to raise or fix prices, engage in unfair methods or competition for the sake of crushing out competitors, or any of the abuses which Mr. Kellogg declared had been in the past commonly employed to monopolize commerce.

"It may be that $10,000,000 is excessive and that smaller corporations should be covered by the bill," said the Senator. "It was my view at the time I prepared this bill that the danger of monopolization of commerce arose with regard to these large corporations, having business all over the country, capable of exerting their power.

"It is my opinion that prosecution under the present anti-trust act is not a

Lyric to Open with Pictures—Two Premieres Put Off—"Listen Lester" Reopens.

Suits aggregating half a million dollars, the first of a series of similar actions which the managers say they will bring, were filed against the Actors' Equity Association and 300 of its members yesterday.

Simultaneously Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., announcing his entrance into the Producing Managers' Association, obtained temporary injunctions against officers of the Actors' Equity Association and every member of the Ziegfeld "Follies" company, prohibiting the former from interfering with his performance and the latter from striking.

The night brought forth some of the most interesting developments of the strike.

William A. Brady, who has not acted for years, announced that he would play the rôle of a butler in his production of "At 9:45" when that play reopens at the Playhouse in a few days. Mr. Brady thus follows the lead of George M. Cohan, who jumped into the cast of "The Royal Vagabond" when the strike came. With Mr. Brady in "At 9:45" will be Charles Hopkins, manager of the Punch and Judy Theatre, and Amelia Bingham.

One attraction reopened last night, leaving ten houses still dark. The piece which resumed was "Listen, Lester," the musical comedy at the Knickerbocker. Here George E. Stoddard and Harry L. Cort, the co-authors, played parts, as did Robert Marks, who staged the production. There were four of the original principals in the cast.

The actors won two more victories in compelling "She Would and She Did," in which Grace George was to have appeared at the Vanderbilt Theatre tonight, and "A Regular Feller," announced for production at the Cort Theatre tomorrow night, to postpone their premieres. Several members of Miss George's company joined the strikers, and Ernest Glendinning, who was to have had the leading role in "A Regular Feller," announced that he was with the Equity.

Pictures at the Lyric.

A motion picture will begin an engagement next Monday night at the Lyric Theatre where "The Five Million" was playing until its players went on strike. The film will be the Helen Keller picture, "Deliverance."

E. H. Sothern began active work on the organization of a new actors' society, and it was announced by the managers that more than sixty players already had joined. Among them were David Warfield, Mrs. Fiske, Henry Miller, and Howard Kyle.

Sam H. Harris said last night that George H. Cohan had sent his resignation to the Lambs. Since the calling of the strike the Lambs clubhouse has become the centre of pro-actor sentiment.

No announcement was made regarding the possible course which the stagehands and musicians would pursue. Following a conference with the heads of these branches at Equity headquarters in the morning, Equity officials announced only that they were "pleased" at the results.

The suits against the actors were brought by the Winter Garden Company, on behalf of "Monte Cristo, Jr." and "The Galeties of 1919," both of which entertainments were suspended last night by the Shuberts. Vaudeville was substituted at the Winter Garden.

These suits, according to counsel for the managers, parallel those brought some years ago in the case of the Danbury hatters, and are being brought on

Treasure from Airplane Was Saxon Crown Jewels

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Saxon Crown jewels, including a pearl necklace, valued at £30,000 were contained in the two packages dropped last week near Malmoe, Sweden, from an airplane and taken charge of by the police of Malmoe, says The Mail's Copenhagen correspondent.

In the packages were also gold heirlooms and securities worth hundreds of thousands of pounds, making it the biggest customs haul on record.

"Two Germans who picked up the packages and claimed the valuables as their own were arrested and taken to Stockholm," says the correspondent. "One is a Countess and the other was formerly a court official at Dresden. The German Minister at Stockholm claims that the jewels are not liable to confiscation, as they are 'royal property.'"

GERMANS TO BACK GREAT EMIGRATION

Corporation Will Pay Passage, Buy and Equip Farms and Ranches.

MILLIONS EXPECTED TO GO

Mexico and South America Particularly Favored in Plan to Recover Industrial Power.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COBLENZ, Aug. 10.—German interests claim to have acquired large grants of land in Mexico, Argentina and Paraguay, which will be colonized with German emigrants financed by a semi-official corporation and pledged to work for the Fatherland above personal interests. The corporation stands ready to pay the passage to these countries, to pay for a farm, to pay for machinery, and even to set emigrating Germans up in a manufacturing business, provided they will sell their products only to Germany.

The name of the corporation is the Kolonial Handels und Farms Gesellschaft of Berlin. It calls itself an organization to direct German emigration. It is sending large numbers of circulars to all parts of Germany asking "How can I help myself and the Fatherland?"

While there is nothing in the prospectus to say the corporation is official, it is close in line with the known Governmental policy toward emigration, and has Government sanction and approval. I give herewith a summary of the corporation's proposition to prospective emigrants:

Economic life in Germany has been shaken to the roots by the events of the past year—revolution, Bolshevism, and finally the peace terms. It will be necessary for thousands of people to seek new fields of endeavor in the next months. Therefore, the Handels und Farms Gesellschaft has been formed for agriculture and the raising of cattle. This land will be parceled out in lots of the desired size, and if it is wished, the company will also care for the starting of a farm or ranch and give the emigrant the position of foreman with absolute control. The necessary materials, seed, cattle, motor plows, and machinery of all kinds may be obtained from agents of the company.

In this way, if it is desired, the company will completely equip a farm and turn it over to the farmer at the lowest cost to him.

Export outlets for the products of such industries may be arranged as soon as the expected emigration gets well under way. It is advised that all persons contemplating moving make the decision as soon as possible. To this end, one will get a clear picture of one's financial status beforehand. The company promises to take care of the costs of the trip over, outfitting, and first instruction. A special library on these subjects will be started for the use of all emigrants.

It is promised that actual shipment of supplies can begin this Summer, and the recruit can count on getting under way in the Fall, at latest. Prospectors

KOLCHAK ARMY IN SERIOUS STRAITS; DISASTER FEARED

Has Retreated 800 Miles from Front It Held in Spring, Washington Learns.

SADLY LACKS MUNITIONS

FOE ESTIMATED AT 500,000

Well Trained and Supplied and Led by German Officers—Recognition Now Unlikely.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The position of the anti-Bolshevist army commanded by Admiral Kolchak is so critical that official Washington is now openly apprehensive of the collapse of the entire movement headed by Kolchak. His forces are still fighting bravely, but they are poorly armed and equipped, while opposed to them is a well equipped force of Bolsheviki, led by many former officers of the German Army.

The time has come, a high official of the Government stated tonight, to prepare the people of the anti-Bolshevist world for a possible disaster to the Kolchak régime in Western Siberia. Entirely trustworthy information received by the Government within the last forty-eight hours shows that the Siberian forces have retired an additional 160 to 170 miles, this being the third extensive retirement in the last few weeks. Altogether, since the reverses started, the Omsk Government Army has retreated about 800 miles east of the positions it held last Spring.

In a final desperate effort to rally his beset forces Kolchak has himself gone to the front line. The Admiral fully realizes the desperate position he is in, but continues to hope against hope that he will be able to effect a strategical retirement that will make possible the reorganization of his demoralized fighting units, and their resumption of an active offensive against the forces of Lenin and Trotsky. There are, however, high American officials who frankly admit that they fear Kolchak will not be able to overcome the obstacles that confront him.

The reported decision to evacuate Omsk and transfer the capital further East to Irkutsk has not been confirmed, and the Russian Embassy says it has information that up to last Saturday it had not been definitely decided to take this step. But it is no longer denied that the Ural front is in the hands of the Bolsheviki.

The strength of the army with which Admiral Kolchak is vainly trying to stem the advance of the Bolshevist hordes is estimated to number not much more than 100,000 partially armed and equipped men, while opposed to him is a Red army, the strength of which has been estimated at 300,000, and may exceed 500,000.

The defeat of the Omsk Army is authoritatively attributed to the lack of trained soldiers and of adequate military supplies, while the Bolshevist Army is composed of men well trained, equipped, and supplied and obedient to discipline. Reports that the Moscow Government is obtaining military equipment from Germany are doubted by the best informed authorities in Washington.

It is pointed out that Russia had an army of 10,000,000 men, all of whom were equipped, when the Bolsheviki came into power, and although many of the soldiers who later left the army carried their equipment with them, the guns and munitions were available when the army were conscripted by the Soviets. Moreover, the allied military stores obtained by the Bolsheviki from the Archangel sector before that territory was occupied in force by allied and American troops overbalanced the assistance the Kolchak Government obtained from the Allies, except moral aid.

On the other hand, the British Government has delivered to General Denikin in South Russia important military equipment, including heavy artillery and tanks, as well as rifles and munitions and machine guns. The Denikin forces are moving steadily against the Bolshevist Army in the south, and have made important gains, but these do not outweigh the advantages and advances achieved by the Bolshevist Army operating against the Omsk front.

As the British are withdrawing their forces from Archangel and Murmansk, the American troops having already left, it is thought unlikely that an allied expedition will be sent to Siberia. Winter will set in by October, when operations in the extreme north will be rendered impossible, and the conduct of the campaign in Siberia also will be made more difficult.

It is not expected that the comparatively small forces of the United States and the Allies, including Japan, now in Siberia, will be sent to the fighting front, as their primary object now is to protect the railway in Eastern Siberia.

There are 9,000 American soldiers there, and perhaps three times as many Japanese, the other allied troops being numerically much inferior. There is

PRESIDENT WITHHOLDS BLISS NOTE, DISCLOSES AMERICAN DRAFT OF LEAGUE; JAPAN HID SECRET TREATY, SAYS LANSING

China's Parliament Favors a Peace 'Mandate,' Declaring War with Germany 'Does Not Exist'

PEKING, Aug. 8, (Associated Press.)—Parliament today passed a resolution authorizing the President to issue a mandate, declaring that a state of war does not exist between China and Germany.

It is thought doubtful whether the mandate will be published until the delegates have discussed terms with German representatives.

The Peking Government is taking this action because the Chinese delegates at Paris declined to sign the Peace Treaty with Germany at Versailles, owing to the document embodying the Kiao-Chau-Shantung concessions, consisting of the German lease of Kiao-Chau of 1898, and the industrial and political rights to the Shantung peninsula, and subsequently forced from China by Japan.

China broke off relations with Berlin on March 14, 1917, and declared war Aug. 14. There were over 250,000 Chinese laborers at work in France during the last year and a half of the war.

WILSON UNAWARE OF JAPAN'S DEALS

Allies Silent Concerning Treaties Till War Was Ended and Peace Conference On.

LANSING TELLS THE FACTS

Tells Senate Committee Balfour, Viviani, and Reading Never Mentioned Them.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Japan's secret treaties with Great Britain, France and Italy for the disposition of captured German territory and rights in China and in the Pacific Ocean were concealed from the United States Government until after the war had ended and the Peace Conference at Paris was under way.

This was the frank admission today of Secretary of State Lansing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Mr. Lansing said explicitly that Viscount Ishii, who came to the United States as a special Ambassador of the Mikado's Government, and who negotiated the Lansing-Ishii agreement, either "affirmatively or by his silence" concealed from Mr. Lansing the secret treaties.

"My first knowledge of the actual agreements came early in February, 1919," said Mr. Lansing. "The secret agreements between the Allies and Japan were transmitted to the State Department in that month by the American Peace Commission in Paris.

"I have ascertained also that the treaties were never published in Russia, as members of this committee thought. The Russian division of the State Department and D. C. Poole, formerly United States Consular agent in Russia, who has just returned to the country, assures me that they have been unable to find any evidence that the secret treaties ever were made public in Russia."

Mr. Lansing here referred to questions asked him last week indicating the belief by Senators Borah and Johnson that the Trotzky Government had made the treaties public.

"However," he continued, "at the time the Lansing-Ishii agreement was made I did know that Great Britain and France had some sort of understanding with Japan. Sir Cecil Spring Rice, then British Ambassador to the United States, told me in October, 1916, six months before the United States entered the war, about an agreement between Great Britain and Japan covering disposition of Pacific Islands taken from Germany.

Mentioned the Pacific Islands.

"On Sept. 6, 1917, when our conversations on the Lansing-Ishii agreement were beginning, Viscount Ishii told me that while in London he had talked with Sir Edward Grey, who was then British Foreign Minister, and had told him that Japan intended to return Kiao-Cahn to China, but that the Pacific Islands must be retained, as no Japanese Government could stand that would return them to Germany. The equator, Viscount Ishii said, was to be the dividing line between the islands Japan was to get and those that were to go to England."

"So that the agreements entered into between Japan and the Allies were entered into before the United States entered the war?" asked Senator Hitchcock.

"Long before," said Mr. Lansing.

Mr. Lansing said that the information Viscount Ishii gave him concerning his talk with Sir Edward Grey was the only mention made of the secret treaties.

"You know now that Ishii either at that time affirmatively or by his silence concealed from you the fact that Japan had secret agreements with Great Britain and the other powers, don't you?" asked Senator Borah.

"Yes," replied the Secretary.

Senator Borah then read from a debate in the House of Commons a statement by Arthur Balfour in reply to a question by a member. Mr. Balfour assured the member that "President Wilson is being kept fully informed by the Allies" concerning agreements made among themselves.

Mr. Lansing also stated that when Mr. Balfour was in the United States and

DRAFTS OF LEAGUE WERE MUCH ALIKE

American Plan Covered Provisions Now Embraced in Article X.

HAD SEA FREEDOM CLAUSES

Monroe Doctrine and Direct Reservations on Domestic Questions Not Included.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The original draft of the League of Nations covenant, as submitted to the Peace Conference, was sent to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today by President Wilson in response to a request recently made by that committee. In a letter to Senator Lodge, Chairman of the Committee, the President explains that other drafts, outside of the one which was accepted by the Paris conference, were not available.

The President wrote to Mr. Lodge also that he was unable to supply the committee with a stenographic copy of the Conference proceedings, together with memoranda on the treaty submitted to the Conference, as it was agreed that they were confidential in character. Other Governments, he stated, had kept this confidence, and he urged that, under the circumstances, the agreement must be respected. No transcript, the President said, was taken of the debates of the Conference.

The President's letter read:

The White House.
Washington, Aug. 8, 1919.

My Dear Mr. Chairman.—I have at last been able to go personally over the great mass of papers which remained in my hands at the close of my stay in Paris, and am disappointed to find that it is in no respect a complete file, the complete files remaining with the American Commission.

You ask for all drafts or forms presented to or considered by the Peace Commissioners relating to the League of Nations, and particularly the draft or form prepared or presented by the commissioners of the United States. There are no formal drafts in my possession except that presented by the American Commissioners, and this I take pleasure in enclosing, along with the formal report of the Commission on the League of Nations.

You also ask for all proceedings, arguments, and debates, including a transcript of the stenographic reports of the Peace Commission relating to or concerning a League of Nations or the League of Nations finally adopted, and all data bearing upon or used in connection with the treaty of peace with Germany now pending. No stenographic reports were taken of the debates on the League of Nations, and such memoranda as were taken, it was agreed, should be confidential.

The reason for regarding as confidential intimate exchanges of opinion with regard to many delicate matters will, of course, occur to you, and I beg to say that I am following the example of the representatives of the other Governments in making this explanation.

The various data bearing upon or used in connection with the Treaty of Peace with Germany are so miscellaneous and enormous in mass that it would be impossible for me to supply them without bringing from Paris the whole file of papers of the commission itself, and would include many memoranda which, it was agreed on grounds of public policy, it would be unwise to make use of outside the conference.

Very sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, Chairman,
Committee on Foreign Affairs,
United States Senate.

The American draft of the League Covenant was submitted to the Peace Conference, it is understood, by President Wilson himself. The understanding at the Capitol is that it was written by him.

The general impression at the Capitol had been that the American draft had not embraced features of the League covenant as finally adopted, to which

DENIES SHANTUNG 'PROTEST'

Wilson Says Decision Was Qualified After Bliss Letter.

KNEW OF NO INTIMIDATION

Confirmation Lacking of Alleged Parleys Between Japan and Germany.

PARIS REPORTS WITHHELD

Lodge Says Lack of Data Will Cause Delay—Conferences on Reservations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—In a letter to the Senate today President Wilson informed that body that he was unable to furnish it with various data asked for relating to the Peace Treaty.

The data sought embraced a memorandum upon the award of Shantung to Japan; an alleged secret treaty entered into between Japan and Germany for a separate peace, an alleged threat of Japan to "intimidate" Chinese delegates at the Peace Conference, and a stenographic report of the Peace Conference minutes.

The President wrote that he could not give the memorandum on Shantung, which, he said, was written by General Bliss, one of the American delegates, on behalf of the General, Secretary Lansing, and Henry White, his associates in the delegation, because it "contained references to other Governments" which, the President stated, it would be inadvisable to make public, having been written in a confidential sense. He said that the letter could not be regarded as a "protest" because it was written before the decision on Shantung was reached by the Peace Conference.

President Wilson wrote that he knew of no secret treaty between Japan and Germany, such as the Senate, in adopting a resolution of Senator Lodge, had sought.

As to any attempt on the part of Japan to "intimidate" the Chinese delegates at the Peace Conference into accepting the Shantung award, as implied in a resolution offered by Senator La Follette, which the Senate adopted, the President said he was "happy to say" that he knew of none.

President Wilson took up the Senate request for a transcript of the peace negotiations in a separate letter to Senator Lodge, submitting the American draft of the League of Nations covenant. He informed Mr. Lodge that he was unable to submit this transcript because it covered much of the negotiations that must be regarded as of a confidential nature.

Text of Letter to the Senate.

The President's letter to the Senate read:

To the Senate:

I have received the resolutions of the Senate, dated July 15 and July 17, asking:

First, for a copy of any treaty purporting to have been projected between Germany and Japan, such as was referred to in the press dispatch inclosed, together with any information in regard to it which may be in possession of the State Department, or any information concerning any negotiations between Japan and Germany during the progress of this war. In reply to this resolution, I have the honor to report that I know of no such negotiations. I had heard the rumors that are referred to but was never able to satisfy myself that there was any substantial foundation for them.

Second, requesting a copy of any letter or written protest by the members of the American Peace Commission, or any officials attached thereto, against the disposition or adjustment which was made in reference to Shantung, and particularly a copy of a letter written by General Tasker H. Bliss, member of the Peace Commission, on behalf of himself, Hon. Robert Lansing, Secretary of State, and Hon. Henry White, members of the Peace Commission, protesting against the provisions of the treaty with reference to Shantung.

In reply to this request, let me say that General Bliss did write me a letter in which he took very strong grounds against the proposed Shantung settlement, and that his objections were concurred in by the Secretary of State and Mr. Henry White. But the letter cannot properly be described as a protest against the final Shantung decision, because it was written before that decision had been arrived at, and in response to my request that my colleagues on the commission apprise me of their judgment in the matter. The final decision was very materially qualified by the policy which Japan undertook to pursue with regard to the return of the Shantung Peninsula in full sovereignty to China.

I would have no hesitation in sending the Senate a copy of General Bliss's letter, were it not for the fact that it contains references to other Governments, which it was perfectly proper for General Bliss to make in

London Police in Raid Seize Documents Planning a Soviet Revolution in Capital

LONDON, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—Seditious documents were seized by the police today in a raid on London's western suburb of Acton.

The papers captured dealt with a suggested seizure of arms and ammunition from the military stores by revolutionaries and the establishment of a Soviet Government in London.

Important arrests are regarded as probable in the course of the week in connection with the seizure. Other raids, it is said, are contemplated by the authorities.

That the Government is conducting systematic spying activities on the actions of workers, is a charge that is featured today in The Daily Herald, the Labor organ, which connects with this alleged movement recent official reports of Bolshevist conspiracies as part of the scheme.

According to the story printed by The Herald, the Military Intelligence Department of the War Office, which it declares greatly strengthened and enlarged its system of espionage during the war, now is being used for industrial spying under the control of the Home Office and Scotland Yard.

For several months the Home Secretary's office, with the assistance of Scotland Yard, has been conducting a widespread investigation among those activities which have, in strikes and demonstrations, apparently defied the agreements entered into between the trade unions and the Government. It was found that many of the organizations involved, while apparently under the direction of the trades unions, had established local bodies on the Soviet plan, with "direct action," instead of arbitration, as their program.

The investigations covered a period as far back as Jan. 13, when strife began on the London, Brighton & South Coast Railway, quickly spreading to the yards of Glasgow and Belfast, and finally to the electrical and railway workers of London. These strikes came to an end only to be reopened in other industries.

The official reason for these strikes, aside from the published demands of labor, was given out as an attempt on the part of the proletariat to prevent the British surplus from seeking investment abroad.

The Home Secretary discovered that behind these movements was a well-organized institution which was in no way connected with the intelligent class of British workers, who believed in trade unionism, arbitration, and co-operation between labor and capital.

a confidential communication to me, but which I am sure General Bliss would not wish to have repeated outside our personal and intimate exchange of views.

I have received no written protest from any officials connected with or attached to the American Peace Commission with regard to this matter.

I am also asked to send you any memorandum or other information with reference to an attempt of Japan or her Peace Delegates to intimidate the Chinese Peace Delegates. I am happy to say that I have no such memorandum or information.

Lodge Sees More Delay.

Disappointment was expressed by majority members of the Foreign Relations Committee over the failure of the President to submit the data requested. Senator Lodge remarked that he had no "reason to believe" that the committee would get any more information than the President had submitted.

"We asked for much information that would throw light on various features of the treaty," said the Senator. "We wanted illumination on obscure features upon which the President, we thought, would be able to supply information. But he has not done so. This means that the committee will have to devote more time to a study of the treaty than it otherwise might. We had hoped to expedite deliberation on the treaty in the committee. It looks as if we would be considerably delayed."

Senator Lodge said that the information given by Secretary Lansing would be of little help. The committee would exhaust its list of witnesses, he said, with the appearance of David Hunter Miller, a State Department expert, tomorrow. After that, it was impossible to say what headway the committee could make.

The committee has talked of having Colonel House before it to obtain information touching on phases of the treaty, but it is understood that Colonel House will not return from Paris for some time and the committee may not be able to wait for him.

No prophecy was made by Senator Lodge tonight as to when the committee would report the treaty. At the Capitol the impression was that it would not be for at least three weeks.

Conferring on Reservations.

In the meantime efforts of the groups demanding reservations to the League covenant will be carried on, in an attempt at compromise. Senator McNary of Oregon, one of the "mild reservationists," conferred with Senator Lodge late today on the reservations evolved by the group of seven. Mr. McNary said afterward that he had not completed his talk with Mr. Lodge, but would renew it after the Massachusetts Senator had made an address to the Senate tomorrow on the reservations that Mr. Lodge favors.

The situation on reservations, Senators said tonight, had resolved itself into negotiations among the contending forces to ascertain exactly what changes could be agreed upon that would be acceptable to all. Every Republican Senator is committed to advocacy of some character of reservations. The difficulty, they admit, is to find a basis for compromise. Senator Borah and others of the radicals insist that the changes must assume the form of direct amendments. Other Senators advocate reservations of varying force.

Some Republicans on the Foreign Relations Committee were talking tonight of delaying the treaty indefinitely as a result of the President's failure to submit the data wanted. If this plan became evident, it was stated, Administration Senators would demand in the Senate within two weeks or so that the treaty be reported at once. The Administration Democrats would count upon the pressure of public opinion to obtain speedy action on the treaty, so that measures affecting the cost of living could be expedited.

Senator Borah, in speaking of the President's letter to the Senate, said:

"I do not know yet what will be done about it, but we will get together in a day or two and decide whether further efforts to get real information are worth while."

ROOSEVELT NOT DISTURBED.

Shows Little Interest in Talk of Lieutenant Governorship.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Aug. 11.—Despite rumors that Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt might become a candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1920, he apparently has not thought much of it.

Last Saturday he attended a clambake of the Republican organization of Nassau County, and among those present was Francis M. Hugo, Secretary of State, whose name has been mentioned more than that of any one else for the nomination for Governor. The Lieutenant Colonel was asked this evening about the probability of a ticket of Hugo and Roosevelt. He smiled and said:

when Rene Viviani and Lord Reading were here, none of them volunteered any information concerning the existence of the secret agreements with Japan.

"You said last week you would have made the Lansing-Ishii agreement just the same if you had known of the secret treaties," said Senator Brandegee. "Has that agreement any binding force on the United States?"

"It has none," was the reply.

"It is simply a statement of policy, of the way the United States regarded the situation as to Japan and China?"

"That is all."

Senator New interrupted to ask whether Mr. Lansing could enlighten the committee on a recommendation reported to have been made by the General Board of the Navy to the effect that the United States ought to have at least one island in each of certain Pacific groups.

"I never knew of that directly," said Mr. Lansing. "There was some discussion of it, I believe. It was in regard to submarine cables."

Inquiry to be Pressed Later.

Senator New did not pursue the inquiry, but it will be pressed later in other quarters, it is understood, as committee members have been informed there is grave danger of the United States being unable to maintain Pacific cable facilities because of the lack of cable stations which could be established on the islands in question. Great Britain is to have control of the islands to which Senator New was referring.

Mr. Lansing next gave the committee an explanation of the Lansing-Ishii agreement which he last week promised to submit.

"In regard to the Lansing-Ishii agreement," he said, "I suggested to Viscount Ishii that it would be well for the two Governments to affirm the open-door policy with regard to China, on the ground that reports were being spread to the effect that Japan intended under cover of the circumstances created by the war to extend her influence over China.

"Mr. Ishii said that he thought that Japan's special interest in China should be recognized in any agreement.

"I replied that the United States recognized that because of geographical conditions Japan had a peculiar interest in China, but that the danger of putting anything like that into an agreement was that it would be misconstrued. For that reason I objected. I told him that if he meant that Japan had a paramount interest, I could not continue the discussion.

"Viscount Ishii then brought up the Monroe Doctrine and suggested there should be a Monroe Doctrine for the Far East. I told him there was much misconception about the Monroe Doctrine; that it was not an assertion by the United States of a primary or paramount interest in the countries of the Western hemisphere, but a declaration to prevent interference of foreign nations with their affairs or territory, and that the United States claimed no special privileges over other nations. I said that, in my opinion, no special privileges or paramount interest should be given to any other nation with regard to China. Ishii maintained silence."

"Then what made you think that Viscount Ishii had accepted your definition of special interest?" asked Senator Borah.

"The fact that he continued the discussions," said Mr. Lansing. "I had told him that I could not go on unless my interpretation of those words was accepted. He continued to discuss the agreement and to press for the inclusion of the phrase regarding Japan's special interest."

The special interest phrase was included in the agreement which was concluded early in November, 1917, Mr. Lansing said, and so far as the United States Government knew it has never been construed by Japan as meaning anything beyond what Mr. Lansing said it meant.

The Secretary denied that the Chinese Government had protested against the agreement, and pointed out to Senators who were questioning him on that point that what they were disposed to regard as a protest was a declaration which, in effect, backed up the American position on Japan's special interest.

"But the Japanese Government did put on the agreement, some time later, the construction which Ishii wished to place on it, did it not?" asked Senator Borah.

"The Japanese Government did not," said Mr. Lansing.

"Well, did the Japanese press do so?"

"Yes, it did."

In reply to a question by Senator Johnson, California, Mr. Lansing said the question of secret treaties never came before the Council of Foreign Ministers at Paris, of which he was a member.

"A member of the Italian Government approached me before the peace conference started and asked what position the United States would take on the treaty of London," said Mr. Lansing. "I replied that, so far as the United States was concerned, it would support it, if it was a just treaty, but that if it was not just we would not."

"What was the position of the American commission regarding secret treaties?" asked Senator Johnson.

"We felt we were not bound by them," replied the Secretary.

"Is there a tripartite agreement between England, France, and Japan regarding the Orient and Asia Minor, China, and the territory thereabouts?" asked Mr. Johnson.

Secretary Lansing said he had never heard of it, although he believed England, France, and Italy had an agreement covering the future of the Ottoman Empire.

"I believe there is some agreement, made early in the war, as to possible spheres of influence in Turkish territory," he said, "but I know nothing of it officially."

Mr. Lansing at this point asked the committee's permission to read into the record the text of the resolution he submitted on Jan. 22 at Paris to President Wilson for the action of the Peace Conference. It outlined in general terms the plan for a League of Nations. Mr. Lansing, in discussing it last week, said that he had so far as possible embodied in it President Wilson's ideas.

The resolution was as follows:

"Resolved, That the conference make the following declaration:

"That the preservation of international peace is the standing policy of civilization, and to that end a League of Nations should be organized to prevent international wars;

"That it is a fundamental principle of peace that all nations are equally entitled to the undisturbed possession of these respective territories, to the full exercise of their respective sovereignties and to the use of the high seas as the common property of all peoples; and,

"That it is the duty of all nations to engage by mutual covenant:

"1. To safeguard from invasion the sovereign rights of one another;

"2. To submit to arbitration all justiciable disputes which fail of settlement by diplomatic arrangement;

"3. To submit to investigation by the League of Nations all non-justiciable disputes which fail of settlement by diplomatic arrangement;

"4. To abide by an award of an arbitral tribunal and to respect a report of the League of Nations after investigation.

"That the nations should agree upon:

"1. A plan for general reduction of armaments on land and sea;

"2. A plan for the restriction of enforced military service, and the Governmental regulation and control of the manufacture and sale of munitions of war;

"3. Full publicity of all treaties and international agreements;

"4. The equal application to all other nations of commercial and trade regulations and restrictions imposed by any nation;

"5. The proper regulation and control of new States pending complete independence and sovereignty."

Trade with Germany.

Committee members then took up with the Secretary the question of resumption of American trade with Germany. He declared that trade cannot be recommended until the Peace Treaty has been ratified.

"American business men are waiting in neutral countries adjoining Germany, just as British and French ones are, for the establishment of peace, so that they can hurry across the line and begin trading," said Mr. Lansing. "They cannot do so until this treaty is ratified, for until that is done the United States has no consular agents in Germany, and without them you can't have much trade."

"But we are trading with Germany now, as a matter of fact," said Senator Lodge.

Mr. Lansing admitted that a certain amount of trade, very limited in character, was being carried on, and repeated that the ratification of the treaty was imperative, if business was to be resumed.

The Secretary said that ratification of the treaty by three of the other Great Powers would not restore the United States to trade relations, because the ratification would not become effective as to this country until the Senate acted. This view of it was disputed by Senator Fall and others, but Mr. Lansing insisted.

Swope Not Elected on League Issue.

Special to The New York Times.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Aug. 11.—Captain King Swope, the army officer who defeated Judge Charles A. Hardin for Congress in the special election in the Eighth Kentucky District, passed through here today. When his attention was called to statements that he was elected because of his opposition to the League of Nations, he said:

"I did not touch that issue in my campaign. Had I announced opposition to the League of Nations I should have been defeated."

STRIKING ACTORS SUED FOR $500,000

the theory that each individual member of a society, by delegating authority to certain leaders, becomes personally responsible for the acts of those leaders. The suits, aggregating $500,000, were filed both against the association and its members, and will be followed, it was said, by others. They were filed yesterday afternoon in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York.

Francis Wilson is sued both individually and as head of the association, and actors such as Douglas Fairbanks, William S. Hart, Elsie Ferguson, Laurette Taylor, and others, who have had no connection with the strike, are named in the suits. This seeming anomaly, the managers said, is justified by legal precedent.

Francis Wilson could not be found late yesterday afternoon or last night, but many of the others named in the action were served with papers. Broadway was thick with striking actors all evening—more so than on any other evening since the strike began—and it was not an unusual sight for a process server, after a certain actor had been pointed out to him, suddenly to dart into the crowd and serve him with papers.

Ziegfeld's Action a Surprise.

Florenz Ziegfeld's action in obtaining temporary injunctions against his players took the Rialto completely by surprise. Mr. Ziegfeld informed the Equity Association at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon that he had joined the Managers' Association, and then immediately served the Equity officers with injunctions, obtained from Justice Richard P. Lydon in the Supreme Court. Those against whom injunctions were obtained were Francis Wilson, John Cope, Harry Mountford, James William Fitzpatrick, Paul R. Turner, and Harry C. Browne of the Equity or the Associated Actors and Artists, and Eddie Cantor, Gus Van Schenck, John Steel, Johnny Dooley, Ray Dooley, and Eddie Dowling, principals of the "Follies," together with the entire "Follies" chorus. Later in the evening the managers said that Cantor, who has been a member of the council of the Equity, had resigned from the organization.

The "Follies" Company was served as it entered the stage door for the performance, a blanket injunction being given to the chorus members. All the injunctions are returnable before Justice Lydon on Friday, which will permit the "Follies" to operate at least until that date. Mr. Ziegfeld's affidavit covered eight typewritten pages, and said that the $175,000 spent in producing the "Follies" was at stake.

Broadway Alive With Pickets.

Broadway at theatre time was livelier than at any time since the strike began. Pickets by the hundred were in the streets, paying particular attention to the Winter Garden, "The Challenge," and "The Royal Vagabond." The sidewalks were nearly impassable, but, although the crowds cheered and craned their necks, the effect of the pickets was to boost theatrical attendance rather than to reduce it. This was particularly true at the Selwyn Theatre, where the actors picketed in great numbers.

Several arrests of pickets and others were made, and on a number of occasions physical clashes between persons of opposing sympathies took place or were narrowly averted.

Frank Gilmore, Executive Secretary of the Equity, when informed of the suits brought by the managers, said that the attempt to intimidate the actors in this way was "ridiculous," but that the suits would be taken care of in the usual way.

The actors announced that Jessie Glendinning, leading woman in "The Challenge," had joined the Equity and struck, but the management of that attraction said that Miss Glendinning's services had been dispensed with after Saturday night's performance. Marie Nordstrom, the actors said, had become a life member, and Cecil Lean, Cleo Mayfield, and others rehearsing a musical comedy entitled "Look Who's Here" had joined the Equity and walked out on rehearsals. Marie Dressler and Sophie Tucker, it was said, also had joined.

"I deplore the inconceivable catastrophe which has been precipitated and which has reduced the romantic realm of the stage to the mundane level of the street car barn. In our beginnings the stage meant to all of us a place of illusion. The illusion is now dead. I can hear a groan, 'Et tu, Brute,' and the dying Muse looks sadly on the frenzied face of the Actors' Equity Association."

Prospects for a Long Strike.

All signs last night pointed to a long and bitter struggle. The fact that several additional managers had joined the Producing Managers' Association during the day was cited as proof that the managers were becoming more and more solidly arrayed against the actors' association, and that it was becoming increasingly difficult for the actors to find a manager who will do business with them.

While on the surface it might seem that any producer who tired of the struggle and desired to recognize the actors' society might do so as his will, and thus be permitted to play, such a course presents difficulties not immediately apparent. In such an event, one manager said last night, the backsliding manager probably would find it more than difficult to obtain bookings for his attractions, as the choice routes would unquestionably be given to the managers who had remained with the association.

Equity officials, answering George Broadhurst, who said that his actors had violated Equity contracts when they went on strike, said that these contracts were, in effect, abrogated by the managers themselves previously. By refusing to recognize the Actors' Equity Association, they said, the managers thus automatically served notice that they were not willing to keep the Equity contracts.

Martha Hedman arrived from Europe yesterday on the Norwegian American liner Frederik III, and at once announced that she stood with the actors. She had a good word to say, however, for David Belasco.

Meetings were held all day long in the Forty-fifth Street headquarters of the actors, and addresses were made to the players by various persons connected with branches of the American Federation. Francis Wilson in one address referred to Howard Kyle as "a traitor to the profession," and said that he had deserted the Actors' Equity Association because he had been "piqued through inability to control the council." Kyle will act at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre on Thursday night in "Those Who Walk in Darkness."

Same New Members.

The actors denied that Laura Hope Crews had resigned from the association, as announced by the managers on Sunday, and said that their new members included the Dolly Sisters, Jean Schwartz, Emma Bunting, an actress-manager; James J. Thornton, Bernard Granville, and Jack McGowan. Many of the male principals of Raymond Hitchcock's new revue, "Hitchy-Koo, 1919," also have joined, it was said.

It was declared that rehearsals of "Hello, Alexander," a Shubert production, and "Keep It to Yourself," a Broadhurst show, had been held up. Rehearsals of David Belasco's "The Gold Diggers," called for yesterday, were postponed by the producer. The cast is made up largely of Equity members, including Bruce McRae, the Equity's Vice President.

The claim was made also that the Avon Comedy Four, well-known in vaudeville, had quit rehearsals of "The Passing Show of 1919," and that a group of Spanish players offering a revue in vaudeville had refused to take the place of strikers in a musical comedy house.

Francis Wilson, it was announced, has contributed $2,000 to the strike fund. To date, it was said, there has been no general assessment of members.

Automobiles carrying actors and flaunting banners went up and down Broadway during the afternoon, and also toured the Wall Street region. Today the invasion of Wall Street will again be undertaken, with street speeches to follow. Fifteen cars full of players will make the trip.

E. Lyall Swete, the English stage director and actor, yesterday resigned from the Actors' Equity Association, and also cabled the Actors' Association in Great Britain, urging the latter to investigate before indorsing the strike of the American players. The British association had previously sent a cable dispatch of sympathy to the Actors' Equity Association. Mr. Swete's cable dispatch to London was, in part, as follows:

"Have today resigned from Actors' Equity Association of America. Am joining new actors' organization for maintaining dignity and bettering conditions of American theatre being formed by Edward H. Sothern. I entreat your council to pause before further committing all English actors in America to the jurisdiction of the American Equity Association, which would render them liable, in breaking present contracts, to suits for heavy damages sustained by their managers under United States laws."

May Be Dark Two Weeks.

The plans of the managers for the reopening of the many closed attractions indicate that it will be two weeks before the last of these resume. One show, "Listen, Lester," reopened last night, and "East Is West" and "A Voice in the Dark" will resume either tonight or tomorrow night.

Winchell Smith returned to the city yesterday to conduct rehearsals of "Lightnin'," which will resume late in the week. "At 9:45," in which William A. Brady will return to the stage, will get under way in a few days.

Rehearsals of "The Crimson Alibi" are under way at the Broadhurst Theatre, and the play will reopen in about a week. No plans for "Nightie Night," which was prevented by the strike from having its premiere at the Princess Theatre on Thursday night, have yet been made. "She's a Good Fellow" will go into rehearsal with a view to resuming next week, and the same is true of "Oh, What a Girl!" It will require several weeks to prepare "The Gaities of 1919."

The managers admitted that difficulties were being encountered in reforming their companies, since their new players were constantly being tempted away by the Equity.

The managers announced last night that Walter Wanger had joined their association—a step which may interfere with the continued presentation of "John Ferguson" at the Fulton Theatre. Although the "John Ferguson" company is co-operative, Mr. Wanger is its manager and shares in the profits.

MANAGERS GIVE LISTS OF ACTOR DEFENDANTS

Select 300 Members of Striking Association Who Are Known to Own Property.

The suits of the theatrical managers against the Actors' Equity Association and 300 of its members, filed yesterday, are followed this morning by full-page advertisements in many newspapers, signed by counsel for the managers, and informing the striking players that they are financially responsible for the losses of the employers during the strike.

In selecting the 300 defendants the managers said they had picked those who owned property and that steps would be taken today to attach their bank accounts. Francis Wilson, President of the Actors' Equity Association, was said by Equity officials last night to have gone to his Summer home. Many of those mentioned in the action were said to be in Europe or on the Pacific Coast and in no way to have been connected with the strike. Many others were served as they paraded in front of the theatres last night.

Among the players who have been made defendants are:

Francis Wilson,	Dustin Farnum,
Bruce McRae,	Elsie Ferguson,
Grant Stewart,	De Wolf Hopper,
Barney Bernard,	Cyril Keightley,
Jefferson de Angelis,	Wilton Lackaye,
Arthur Byron,	J. H. Manners,
Thomas A. Wise,	Robert Mantell,
George Nash,	Mary Nash,
Walter Jones,	Florence Nash,
Grant Mitchell,	Alla Nazimova,
Joseph Santley,	James O'Neill,
Frederic Santley,	Guy Bates Post,
Norman Trevor,	Frank Keenan,
Sam Bernard,	Fred Stone,
Ernest Truex,	Emily Stevens,
Eddie Foy,	Otis Skinner,
Cyril Scott,	Julia Sanderson,
Francis X. Bushman,	Walker Whiteside,
Richard Carle,	Harry B. Warner,
William Courtleigh,	Julian Eltinge,
Douglas Fairbanks,	Leo Ditrichstein,
William Courtenay,	Chauncey Olcott,
William S. Hart,	Eleanor Painter,
Laurette Taylor,	Florence Reed,
J. Forbes Robertson,	Maclyn Arbuckle,
Cyril Maude,	George Beban,
Wallace Eddinger,	Donald Brian,
Robert Edeson,	Edmund Breese,
Blanche Ring,	Frank Craven.
William Farnum,

This particular action, which, it is believed, will be followed by others, is for damages totalling $500,000. It was brought by the Shuberts because of the closing of "Monte Cristo, Jr.," and "The Gaieties of 1919." The complaint, made by Bainbridge Colby and William Kline, as counsel, is signed by Lee Shubert, President of the Winter Garden Company. The action is brought, the lawyers said, on the ground that the individual members of the society are responsible for the acts of its officers.

The complaint charges that the defendants prevented players from working and in some instances threatened to stone players if they appeared.

ACTORS GIVE THEIR SIDE IN REPLY TO MANAGERS

Put Blame for Rupture in Negotiations Upon the Employers' Association.

The Actors' Equity Association last night issued the following statement in reply to that given out Sunday night by the Producing Managers' Association:

"The Producing Managers' Association invited the officers and council of the Actors' Equity Association to an informal luncheon at the Claridge on May 2.

"There they announced, through Mr. Winthrop Ames, that they were dissatisfied with the present form of contract and wished for some changes. We also wished for some changes, and a committee was appointed from each organization to agree upon those changes.

"When the committees met, although we did not definitely agree to all the concessions they asked, no insurmountable difficulty arose until we asked that 'eight performances should constitute a week's work; all extra performances to be paid for pro rata.' Their committee told us that seven out of eight of that committee had already voted that that request be granted, but that it had been voted down in their council by a two-thirds majority.

"Neither committee had power to act, and so reported back to their respective councils. Subsequently an emissary from the managers came to us and asked if the council stood firm on the 'eight performances' clause. He was told that they did.

"Meantime the Equity council decided on a 'quid pro quo' that it felt the managers would gladly accept, and its committee was given power to act. To our amazement, the managers broke off all negotiations abruptly and announced they would have nothing further to do with the Actors' Equity Association.

"We approached them again and again, suggesting that the points in dispute be submitted to arbitration. We even went so far as to secure the promise of ex-President Taft and ex-Governor Hughes to act as arbiters if requested. We suggested that three representatives of each association should meet and discuss the disputed points and that Messrs. Taft and Hughes should be umpires. All these offers were flatly rejected by the managers, who announced publicly that they were determined to destroy the Actors' Equity Association.

"We then affiliated ourselves with the American Federation of Labor, who granted us a charter as a branch of the Associated Actors and Artists of America. This charter gives the Actors' Equity Association full autonomy and absolute control over its own policy.

"As soon as it was granted us, we again approached the managers, renewing our offer to submit all disputed points to arbitration, and offering further that if the arbitration were decided in our favor we would not ask for the new contract to be put in force until the season of 1920-1921, thus giving the managers a year to adjust their business to the new conditions. This was also flatly refused, and again the managers announced that they would never deal with the Actors' Equity Association.

"The managers have claimed at various times that their reason for attacking the Actors' Equity Association was:

Their objection to Francis Wilson.
Our unreasonable demands.
Our affiliation with labor.
The dictatorship of Harry Mountford in the A. E. A.
Our breach of contracts.

"Some of them now deny that they objected to our entering labor. They told us repeatedly we would be degraded by so doing.

"Neither Mr. Mountford nor any other non-member has any voice in the policies of the Actors' Equity Association. No one has a right even to advise us except on our express invitation.

"Now, as to the breach of contracts: Clause 18 in the 'Equity' contract calls for arbitration in case of a dispute between the Actors' Equity Association and the manager. Their new contract calls for arbitration between actor and manager. In other words, they insist on dealing with the actor as an individual and deny him the right of organizing for his protection.

"All the members of the Producing Managers' Association have announced that they will not recognize the Actors' Equity Association. Therefore, they have publicly stated that they will not comply with Clause 18 of the 'Equity' contracts that they have signed. When a party to a contract announces that he will not abide by it that party has broken the contract.

"EXECUTIVE COUNCIL OF THE A. E. A. Per Frank Gillmore."

The association also gave out the following statement under the caption, "Some Abuses":

"Among the abuses that the Actors' Equity Association was formed to correct were:

"1. The practice of unlimited periods of free rehearsals.

"Present instances: One of the most prominent musical shows in New York has already rehearsed its chorus eleven weeks without pay. Another prominent musical show rehearsed the chorus twelve weeks without pay, during which many of the actors had to pay $60 for shoes.

"Past instances: Innumerable cases of actors rehearsing for many weeks and only obtaining one or two nights' pay.

"2. Extra performances: Not only were innumerable instances of extra matinees being given without pay, but many cases when companies were playing one-night stands in the West Saturday nights were cut so that the company could take a sleeper jump to a town where Sunday performances could be given. The company was docked for the lost Saturday and not paid for the Sunday performance.

"3. Half-Salary Weeks—The custom having crept in that only half-salaries should be paid for the week before Easter and the week before Christmas, many important managers stipulated that half salaries should be paid for five, six and even seven weeks of the season. One manager had a company playing under a contract that called for half salary during election week. He played them in Montreal, where there was no election, but only paid them half salary.

"4. Arbitrary Lay-Offs—Under some managerial contracts the actor could be laid off at the will of the manager, for as long a period as the manager choose, without pay. During this lay-off he was forbidden to work for any one else.

"5. The 'Satisfaction' Clause—Viz: The actor agrees to play the part to the satisfaction of the manager. One specific case of very many: An actor had a contract with a thirty weeks' guarantee. He made a hit of the play; the company closed in its twenty-sixth week, and he was informed that he was no longer satisfactory. The courts rejected his claim for the additional four weeks of his guarantee, stating that 'good faith was not necessary with that clause in the contract.'

"6. The practice in many companies of withholding salaries till Tuesday or Wednesday. A specific case of hardship: An actress, earning $40 a week, closed in Nashville, Tenn. She was told her salary would be paid Tuesday, at the New York office. Her contract called for transportation 'From the point of opening to the point of closing.' She had no money and borrowed her fare and five dollars from the manager. When she asked for her salary, she received a statement showing that she owed the manager one dollar, her fare to New York, and the borrowed five dollars, amounting to forty-one dollars.

"7. The clause binding the manager only to pay fares 'From the point of opening to the point of closing.' A company could open in Kansas City and close in New Orleans."

FLUSHING LOSES FREE ICE.

Station Removed at Request of Associated Charities.

The free ice station established at Flushing by Albert C. Benninger, Park Commissioner for Queens, through the Mayor's Free Ice Committee, lasted just three days. The station was established Friday in the Corporation Yard on Leavitt Avenue, where the tools and wagons of the Highway and other departments of the borough are kept. Yesterday Miss Ruth Howard, Secretary of the Associated Charities, at 64 Main Street, requested that the station be discontinued.

Miss Howard told Commissioner Benninger there were few families in Flushing who needed ice through a charitable medium, and that these were being provided for by a fund donated by a philanthropic resident of Flushing to buy ice and milk for the poor. She suggested that the ice which it was planned to send to Flushing be sent to some tenement house section in Queens.

Some persons who had received ice at the expense of the city could afford to pay for it, she said. She cited one instance where a child applied for a family in which there were four wage-earners.

PROTESTS MADE TO MEXICO.

President Tells Senate of Representations Against Agrarian Law.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—President Wilson today transmitted a letter to the Senate on the Mexican situation.

He told the Senate that repeated protests against the agrarian law of the Mexican State of Sonora, regarded as inimical to American interests, had been made to the Mexican Government by the State Department.

The President wrote in reply to a Senate resolution and transmitted a report from the State Department. This said that when the Sonora Legislature was considering the law last December the American Embassy was directed to object, and again last month another protest was made. The law now is being studied by State Department experts with a view to further action by the American Government.

of the company are to be sent out immediately to look the land over.

It is stated that the minimum capital necessary is 5,000 to 10,000 marks.

Recently many German newspapers have been publishing letters from Germans in Mexico and Argentina setting forth the advantages awaiting the German emigrants in those countries. Germans appear to show a strong preference for Mexico.

What is certain is that Germany is getting ready to go overseas in a gigantic effort to regain her pre-war industrial prestige. She does not intend to let lack of political authority prevent her from establishing industrial authority.

Government experts estimate that 20,000,000 Germans may emigrate, and the Government wishes to direct them along the lines of great benefit to her. Mexico, South America, and Africa are mentioned in all the propaganda articles setting forth the golden fields awaiting the emigrants. Germany expects to get vast supplies of raw materials from Mexico.

objection has been raised in the Senate. This, however, was found today, in some respects, not to be the fact.

The American draft, as critics of the League pointed out, failed to embrace any reservation as to the Monroe Doctrine, purely domestic questions, such as immigration and the tariff, and withdrawal from the League. All of these were inserted by the Paris conferees. The American plan embraced a provision for freedom of the seas, which does not appear in the Smuts draft as accepted by the Conference.

The failure of the American draft to mention the Monroe Doctrine and purely domestic questions was commented upon by league critics as "surprising."

An analysis of the American draft showed that Article X of the accepted draft, regarding the guarantee of territorial integrity to nations in the league, was embraced in the former as Article III in almost precisely the same phraseology. The impression had been that President Wilson had been forced by European delegates to the Paris conference to accept Article X, but this, it developed, is false.

The article in the American draft read:

"The contracting parties undertake to respect and to protect as against external aggression the political independence and territorial integrity of all States members of the League."

Article X. of the covenant as accepted by the Paris Conference, substituted "members of the League" for "the contracting parties" and qualified it as to "existing political independence." The rest of the phraseology was identical, but to Article X. was added:

"In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression the Council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled."

The disarmament provision in the American draft was found to be similar to that contained in the Smuts plan. It appears as Article IV. of the American plan and is Article VII. in the latter.

Wanted Steps to Abolish Draft.

An additional provision which does not appear in Article VIII. of the Smuts plan provided that the council should "inquire into the feasibility of abolishing compulsory military service."

The provision of Article XI. of the accepted covenant, giving the League power to take any action deemed wise and effectual to safeguard world peace when "any war or threat of war" arises, was covered by Article VIII. of the American draft.

The preamble of the covenant followed closely the language finally accepted. Article I provided for organization, each member's representation in the body of delegates or Assembly to consist of "the diplomatic representatives of contracting powers accredited to X. (X being the country where the meetings of the League are to be held,) and the Minister of Foreign Affairs of X." Article II. provided for procedure, the appointment of a permanent secretariat and a staff and conferred upon the body of delegates the right "to discuss either publicly or privately as it may deem best, any matter lying within the field of action of the League of Nations or any matter likely to affect the peace of the world."

In providing for the organization of the Executive Council, the American plan differed from the one finally adopted. It provided for a council organized from representatives of the great powers, together with representatives "drawn in annual rotation from two panels, one of which shall be made up of the representatives of the States ranking next after the great powers and the other of the representatives of the minor States, such a number being drawn from these panels as will be but one less than the representatives of the great powers."

Under the Smuts plan the League Council has no "panel" procedure, the council being made up of representatives of the five principal allied and associated powers, together with representatives of four other members of the League, making nine members in all, the four minor members to be selected by the League Assembly. The membership of the council, under either plan, would be nine.

Article V. of the American draft provided for the submission to arbitration of disputes which could not be satisfactorily settled by diplomacy and prohibited resort to war until this had been done. It then provided the processes by which arbitration was to be carried on. If arbitration was found impracticable, the members agreed to submit the matter to the council "for such mediatory action or recommendation as it may deem wise in the circumstances." This article was similar to that in the Smuts plan providing for arbitration.

Embraced Boycott Provision.

Article VI. provided for complete economic and financial boycott against any member nation breaking the covenant. It stipulated that the Executive Council in such a case should recommend what military or naval force "the members of the league shall severally contribute" to carry on war against any covenant-breaking State. A similar boycott provision was embraced in the covenant as accepted at Paris.

Article VII. bound all the members to break off commercial intercourse with any power that began war without submitting a dispute to arbitration or the council and also to unite in blockading the ports and frontiers of such a power.

Article VIII. corresponded closely to Article XI. of the final draft by declaring "any war or threat of war" to be a matter of concern to the league and providing for appropriate action.

Article IX. provided for handling disputes between a member power and a non-member power by inviting the non-member to join the league for the purpose of settling the dispute.

Article X. bound the members to unite in blockading against commercial and other communication any non-member power which took hostile action against a member power before a decision of arbitrators or a report of the council had been made.

Article XI. authorized any member of the League to bring to its attention any dispute between nations not members of the League so that the assembly or council could tender "the good offices of the League with a view to the peaceful settlement of the dispute." If the nations declined to accept the mediation of the League, that body was empowered to adopt such action as would prevent hostilities.

Article XII. provides for the admission to the League of any power "whose Government is based upon the principle of popular self-government." Admission to the League was to require a two-thirds vote of the delegates.

Article XVI. abrogated all treaties inconsistent with the covenant and bound the nations not to enter into any such treaties, and to obtain their release from any such into which they had previously entered.

Articles VII., VIII., IX., X., XI., and XII. were all covered in the covenant as adopted at Paris.

Under the heading "Supplementary Agreements" were provisions in the American draft in almost exactly the same language as appears in the final draft, providing for mandataries for weak nations; the establishment of labor conditions; provision that all new members must promise to accord just treatment to all racial or national minorities; provision for the free exercise of religion; for freedom of the seas; for publicity of treaties, and against discrimination in international, commercial and financial dealings.

The provision covering freedom of the seas, which was paragraph VIII. under "Supplementary Agreements," reads:

"When the rights of belligerents on the high seas outside territorial waters shall have been defined by international convention, it is hereby agreed and declared as a fundamental covenant that no power or combination of powers shall have a right to overstep in any particular the clear meaning of the definitions thus established; but that it shall be the right of the League from time to time and on special occasions to close the seas in whole or in part against a particular power or powers for the purpose of enforcing the international covenants here entered into."

This, apparently, was rejected by the Paris Conference. The failure of the League covenant to mention freedom of the seas has been commented upon by critics of the League. It has been intimated by President Wilson that as, with the League in operation, there would no longer be any neutrals in a war, the question of freedom of the seas became a dead issue.

URGES BROAD LAWS FOR FOOD CONTROL

State Reconstruction Commission Submits Report to Governor Smith.

SEEKS FOR CHECK ON WASTE

Points Out the Faults Found in the Present System of Distribution.

FINDS LAWS DUPLICATED

Would Place All Wholesale Dealers in Farm Products Under License.

Drastic food control legislation was proposed yesterday in an extensive and detailed report on food distribution sent to Governor Smith by the New York State Reconstruction Commission. The problem has been before the commission for the last six months during which the numerous data which have been collected lead the commission to believe that a large part of the high cost of food can be laid to inherent faults and to malpractices in the distribution system and that they can be remedied to a certain extent by legislation which will vest in the Department of Food and Markets the power to license all wholesale dealers in food commodities and feedstuffs, and to give the State Council of Farms and Markets the power, after public hearings, to regulate clearly defined abuses and wasteful or uneconomical practices.

The work of the Federal Food Administration in preventing the waste and destruction of enormous quantities of foodstuffs is referred to by the commission as a basis for solution of the problem, which involves, according to the report, "the speculative and disorganized condition of the distribution system" which "has brought upon the middleman so much condemnation in recent years, that the public has come to believe that he is an economic parasite." One of those concerned in the formulation of the report was Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator, who was in charge of the New York district during the war, and is now carrying out Attorney General Palmer's orders for the formation of a "fair price list" committee which will determine a reasonable margin of profit on all commodities. It was pointed out yesterday that the policy of the Federal Government in curtailing the profits of the retailer, combined with the Reconstruction Commission plan for curbing the middleman, would go a long way toward reducing the cost of food through the elimination of profiteering.

The commission's report was drawn up by its Committee on Food Production and Distribution, of which Thomas V. Pattersen of Brooklyn is Chairman. The other members are Addison H. Colvin of Glens Falls, W. Everit Macy and Sara A. Conboy of New York City; J. M. Beckley of Rochester, Gerrit Y. Lansing of Albany, and Mrs. Walter Steele of Buffalo. The report was signed by Mr. Pattersen and Abram I. Elkus, Chairman of the Reconstruction Commission.

In connection with the recommendations made in the report, John E. Finley, the Governor's appointee to the new State Committee on Food, will confer with Mr. Elkus and Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, Secretary of the commission, at the offices of the commission in the Hall of Records today.

Suggests Regulation.

In addressing the Governor, Mr. Elkus says:

"The present crisis in the cost of living is proving that a policy of laissez faire in relation to food results in profiteering and excessive costs. The experience gained with war-time regulation of food through the State Food Commission working in co-operation with the Federal Food Board has proved of permanent value, and the State has fortunately retained machinery that can be put in motion through the Department of Farms and Markets, provided that department is immediately strengthened in its administrative power, as suggested in this report. Your commission recommends that the State of New York embody as a permanent policy the fruits of reasonable regulation of food distribution.

"Vital as the problem of food production and distribution is, its solution will not be found in any one panacea. It is made up of a number of considerations, some regulatory, some constructive, and some applications of good-will.

"The commission favors the development of a plan for permanently exercising public control over the handling of food commodities "in which lack of regulation means waste and added cost." A bill has been drafted giving the Council of Farms and Markets power to place all wholesale dealers in perishable or semi-perishable food products under license and to issue regulations, within certain limitations, governing the practices of such dealers. It is the opinion of the commission that the powers conferred upon the Council should be broad, and that no attempt should be made in the law either to list the commodities that will come under the definition of perishable or to include detailed regulations applying to dealers handling them.

"The formality of public hearing and publication is recommended, and it is asked that the Council be given power to interpret the application of the license provision on the basis of protection of the public welfare, subject to review by the courts. It is the commission's opinion that if the powers of the controlling body remain broad it will find itself able to adapt its policy to swiftly changing conditions, and in that way check waste in its inception.

"In reviewing the work of the Federal Food Administration, the Commission points to its important function in preventing the enormous waste of food which occurs annually at New York. In 1918 the startling amount of 25,000,000 pounds of food was condemned by the New York City Department of Health as unfit for human consumption. While this was abnormal because of the severe cold and heavy snowstorms during the Winter, in 1917 over 16,000,000 pounds were destroyed, and in the previous year 12,000,000 pounds. In 1918 more than 12,000,000 of the 25,000,000 found their way to destruction before the Food Board began actively to function.

Saved from Garbage Heap.

"Case after case is recited of thousands of dollars worth of food that was saved from the garbage heap by the Food Board by compelling the dealers to dispose of the food immediately, and to settle their disputes by arbitration later. Most of the waste arose from the refusal of the dealer in New York to receive the goods on the ground that they were not up to the specification.

"When the Food Board took hold of the situation in March, 1918, the transportation facilities, especially at the New York City terminals, were in a chaotic condition. Hundreds of cars of foodstuffs arrived after long delays in bad condition or subject to an entirely changed market.

"As the method of adjustment between shipper and receiver practiced by the Food Board became better known, more and more the dealers came to rely upon this agency for settlement of disputes, and foodstuffs were handled promptly subject to a labor arbitration before the Food Board, so that finally in the last week of October only three cars of foodstuffs arriving in New York City stood unloaded over forty-eight hours.

"In showing the tremendous effect these conditions have upon the cost of food, the report says:

"'A small number of dealers in New York City have by their malpractices done much to destroy confidence and to increase the cost of dealing in perishable foods for the more honorable receivers. These dealers in their effort to obtain large returns on inadequate capital frequently purchase produce far beyond their legitimate requirements and their ability to finance in the hope that a rising market will enable them to effect a resale in the trade. When they find that their calculations are at fault, they unscrupulously reject, on technicalities, consignments made to them, thereby accentuating the unfavorable market condition, causing a large loss to the shipper and in most cases a waste of foodstuffs.

"'In order to cover themselves against these losses the shippers have to operate on a larger margin of profits, while the reputable receivers have to be prepared to meet the competition of unfair traders. The condition is obviously conducive of waste and additional cost to the consumer, and frequently of large loss to the producer, and not only the general public, but the legitimate trade itself has to pay for the malpractice of not more than 10 per cent. of the trade. Regulation, therefore, which eliminates a part of this waste will, by reducing the proportionate expense of distribution, bring about a decrease in the cost of foodstuffs to the consumer."

Tells of the Types of Faults.

In the present distributing system the commission finds two types of faults: Those inherent in the system itself and those due to the malpractices on the part of individual producers, middlemen, or retailers. The serious faults in the first class are pointed out to be the shortages and oversupplies of foodstuffs, the lack of adequate transportation service, the means of establishing daily market prices, and the disadvantages of the general farmer.

In dealing with the malpractices arising out of the method of determining prices by auction and through produce exchanges the commission severely scores the abuses to which some dealers resort.

"The growth of such mediums for price determination," the report continues, "has resulted from evils in other systems, and from the need of simpler methods of trading in commodities that arrive constantly in large volume. The further development of such agencies is necessary for the ultimate betterment of marketing methods.

"While much can be said in favor of this method of conducting business, it offers possibilities for dishonest practice. The weaknesses are due largely to the control of the exchanges by special classes of traders whose interests tend either to underquoting or overquoting of the market as the case may be. They are primarily under the control of the dealers in the wholesale trades, the producers with few exceptions having nothing to say in the determination of market prices. The auction companies and exchanges determine the daily prices for the commodities handled. By combination of the larger dealers the commodity may be withheld from sale or thrown on the market in either way, creating a fictitious market price.

"The principal malpractices characteristic of the auction companies are those of unfairness of commissions and handling charges, preferential contracts with rebates to heavy shippers, resulting in practical control of the markets. Theoretically, auction concerns charge a standard commission rate for handling produce. In practice, however, they make special contracts with large shippers whereby lower commissions are charged. This brings a greater amount of business to the auction companies and ultimately results in practically a complete control of all of the arrivals of particular kinds of perishable produce from a particular growing section.

"The manner of sale on the Produce Exchanges is by the retail system. The articles are offered for sale and the purchasers offer various prices until a price agreeable to both is determined."

Finds Laws Duplicated.

The Commission finds that the present laws relating to foods, feeds, farm products and agriculture are in many cases duplicated and have resulted in general confusion, and that a recodification is highly necessary. There are, for example, two entirely separate laws on the statute books of the State relating to adulteration and misbranding of foods, one the Public Health Law and the other the Agricultural Law. Each defines adulteration in different language, and established different penalties for violations. The report discusses these in detail, and then says:

"It is the conclusion of the Reconstruction Commission that for the sake of efficiency in administration of the food laws of the State, for the sake of relieving persons and firms subject to those laws from the uncertainty and confusion of the present condition, and for the protection of the public the existing laws should be codified into one law, duplications eliminated, and phraseology corrected. Also the existing laws should be strengthened by more definite grant of authority to the Farms and Markets Council to issue rules and regulations having the effect of law, by granting this council power to place all wholesale dealers in farm products under license and by the various other amendments and additions proposed in following sections of this report.

"The proper agency to prepare such a codification and revision of the food laws is the Council of Farms and Markets, with the aid of the counsel and other officials of this department. It is, therefore, recommended that a complete recodification and revision of the food laws of the State be prepared under the supervision of the Council of Farms and Markets and passed by the next Legislature."

The report submitted to the Governor yesterday did not include three other sections dealing with a proposed amendment of the present cold storage law, the need for the more effective enforcement of the weights and measures law, and public markets in up-State cities. These will be sent to him today and tomorrow.

WAR ON PROFITEERS BEGINS.

Food Hoarding and Overcharges on Sugar to be Watched.

In compliance with the directions of Attorney General Palmer to the Federal Food Administrators throughout the country, Arthur Williams, Administrator for the New York district, began his fight yesterday upon the food profiteers, although he felt that most of the dealers in New York would not need coercion but would quickly and patriotically respond when the "fair-price" lists were compiled by the committee he has been directed to appoint. The names of the members of the committee were not ready for publication yesterday, but probably will be announced today. In the interim elapsing between the organization of the committee and the time when they can announce fair prices for commodities, Mr. Williams suggests that dealers adopt as fair the margins of profit established during the war.

District Attorney Edward Swann announced last night that in conjunction with the Federal authorities he would begin an investigation of food hoarders in this city and that he would bend every effort toward finding out whether owners of cold storage plants had conspired to hoard foodstuffs in violation of the conspiracy section of the State Penal law. If evidence pointing to such a conspiracy should be found, he declared that anything criminal would be submitted to the extraordinary Grand Jury if that body was in session, or if not, to one of the other Grand Juries. United States District Attorneys Ben A. Matthews of the Southern District and James J. Bell of the Eastern District declared that action would be taken against any dealers selling sugar for more than 11 cents a pound.

In commenting upon the wartime margin of profit as a fair profit for the dealer today, Mr. Williams said:

"If a dealer can show that he is not charging a greater margin today than he was charging before the war he cannot be charged with profiteering. This margin of profit was fixed while the country was at war, and fair prices to the consumer were assured. The Food Administration has not been active since the armistice was signed, and it is possible that some of the retailers have forgotten even the old arrangement. I believe that in most instances it will be only necessary to remind the dealers of it and they will do the rest."

Mr. Swann said that his part of the investigation into food hoarding would be to find out whether any others than the public cold storage warehouses had stored or hoarded food. "We will proceed through a District Attorney's investigation," he said. "One of my assistants will be assigned to go ahead with the investigation in very much the same manner as we did the charity investigation, without the use of a Grand Jury or of a court. I have been furnished with a list of 198 private cold storage warehouses which I think should be given some attention. There are only nineteen public cold storage warehouses. Already there is sufficient information to justify us in proceeding with the investigation.

Mr. Swann added that he would like very much to put the evidence of price-fixing by distributors of milk in this city before the extraordinary grand jury, if he could collect the evidence in time.

With reference to the attempts being made to charge exorbitant prices for sugar Assistant United States District Attorney Matthews said yesterday:

"Under the food control law the Sugar Equalization Board requires that all dealers in sugar, (except retailers doing a gross business of $100,000 or less annually,) conform to the regulations under their licenses. In addition to the provisions of the Food Control Act, the regulations governing dealers in sugar prohibit the licensee from charging an exorbitant, unreasonable, or unfair commission, profit, or storage charge. The regulations also provide that resales within the same trade without reasonable justification, if intended to result in a higher market price to the retailers or consumers, will be dealt with as an unfair practice.

"The position has been taken that sugar should not retail for more than 11 cents, and where it is retailed for more it indicates that either the wholesaler or retailer is making an unreasonable profit. Purchasers from retail sugar dealers are invited to report instances where more than 11 cents is charged. If practicable, it will be helpful if information could also be furnished containing not only the name and address of the retailer who is charging more than 11 cents, but also giving the name and address of the person from whom such retailer purchased and the price paid. This will facilitate arriving at the sources of the unfair practice which results in high prices for sugar."

CONSUMERS' LEAGUE CUTS PARIS PRICES

Forces Reductions by Retail Food Dealers Which Average 20 Per Cent.

INTEREST IN OUR PROBLEMS

Food Officials Say 6-Cent Bread Would Cost Our Government 6 Billions a Year.

PARIS, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—The success of the Consumers' League movement, organized in the Montmartre district and now spreading throughout the city, was indicated by an average reduction of 20 per cent. on provisions sold in the market places yesterday. The spread of the movement, it is announced today, has resulted in a decision to try to establish a central organization to co-ordinate the work of the various leagues and to systematize the price supervision over markets unofficially exercised by the league representatives.

The consumers' representatives, profiting by their experience, brought into play, during yesterday's inspections of markets, a knowledge of wholesale prices. These costs were made the basis of demands upon various retailers to lower their prices and resulted in reductions that frequently amounted to 50 per cent. One retailer offering heads of cauliflower at 3 francs 25 centimes each, after listening to the consumers' inspectors, decided to sell them at one franc each.

Some of the heaviest reductions were made on fish and vegetables, although the prices of butter and eggs were lowered somewhat also.

Various leagues, like the Montmartre organization, are confining their work to orderly methods and rely upon moral suasion to get results. The delegates of the leagues, when they find merchants overcharging, insist on immediate reductions. Those who refuse to establish reasonable prices are denounced to the police. Merchants at the markets covered by the leagues are sold how much the provisions cost, and any excessive profit is made the object of prompt protest.

One of the new leagues organized is in the Latin Quarter, where the students are participating in the movement.

Occasionally disorderly elements have sought to profit at the expense of the movement, but league representatives yesterday took action that caused this element to be suppressed.

Officials of the French Food Ministry, in view of the food situation here, are displaying deep interest in the discussion in the United States of the question of reducing the price of wheat by use of the Congressional appropriation to finance its sale below the price of $2.26 per bushel guaranteed to the producers.

The farmers in France have a guarantee of an equivalent of $3.25 a bushel for wheat production. The French Government, it was said at the Ministry, had subsidized the millers, making it possible for them to sell flour to bakers at rates permitting standard bread to be sold to the consumer at about 6 cents a pound. Under this plan, the saving to the consumer, it was added, was about 4 cents a pound. The reduction in the cost of bread to the consumer in France, officials of the Ministry said, had not resulted in a decrease in the price of other food necessities.

Basing their estimates on the experience of France, the food officials declared that if the American Government was to attempt through the aid of its Treasury to reduce the price of bread to 6 cents a pound, it would cost it $6,000,000,000 annually. The officials suggested that it might be better to sell bread at reduced prices only to that portion of the population whose income was small. The officials added that flour per barrel was cheaper in the United States than anywhere in Europe.

Concerning the food situation generally, it was declared at the Food Ministry that one of the greatest difficulties was that, while the food supplies of the world were sufficient if properly distributed, the margin between requirements and supply was so narrow as to give opportunities for profiteering and speculation. It was added that the inflation of currency was another factor.

The officials added that their experience demonstrated that it was impossible to fix prices by law, and that the true economic basis of food control was that of stabilizing prices by mutual agreement between the producers, the consumers, and the Government.

ARMY SURPLUS FOOD ALLOTTED TO THIS CITY

War Department's List of Commodities to be Put on Sale Here —Prices May Be Cut.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The War Department today issued a statement showing the quantities of surplus foodstuffs allotted to New York City and to the first, second and third class post offices in the States of New York, Connecticut, and New Jersey, for which New York City is the supply depot of the army in the distribution of food.

The quantities alloted to New York City, are:

Baked beans, 291,480, No. 1 cans.
Baked beans, 490,620, No. 2 cans.
Stringed beans, 64,690 No. 2 cans.
Corned beef, 450,000, No. 1 cans.
Corned beef, 536,632, No. 2 cans.
Corned beef, 83,760, No. 6 cans.
Roast beef, 323,580, No. 1 cans.
Roast beef, 388,700, No. 2 cans.
Roast beef, 32,900, No. 6 cans.
Cherries, 24,600, No. 2½ cans.
Corn, 594,580, No. 2 cans.
Corn beef hash, 238,300, No. 2 cans.
Peas, 769,800, No. 2 cans.
Beans, issue, 495,154 pounds.
Flour, issue, 322,577 pounds.
Rice, 71,600 pounds.
Jam, 153,600, No. 2 cans.
Pepper, 27,000 ¼ pound cans.
Toilet soap 47,200 cakes.
Vegetable soup, 26,800 pints.
Pineapple, 48,936 small cans.
Tomatoes, 33,000 No. 10 cans.

In allotting this surplus to the several zones it was found that there were certain commodities, the total surplus of which was too small to permit allocation to the first, second, and third class post offices throughout the zones. Consequently it was decided to distribute these particular commodities only to the zone cities, and the statement of such allotment for New York City follows:

Roast beef, 110,375 No. 1 cans.
Gloves, 20,037 ¼ pound cans.
Breakfast cocoa, 26,370 cans.
White corn meal, 24,658 pounds.
Asparagus, 58,872 cans.
Stringless beans, 5,638 No. 10 cans.
Corned beef, 22,112 No. 2 cans.
Cinnamon, 100,138 ¼ pound cans.
Yellow corn meal, 20,809 pounds.
Lemon flavoring extract, 35,362 2-ounce bottles.
Vanilla flavoring extract, 5,464 2-ounce bottles.
Vanilla flavoring extract, 16,349 8-ounce bottles.
Syrup, 28,147 10-pound cans.
Farina, 7,786 No. 1 cans.
Farina, 30,827 No. 1 cartons.
Barley flour, 11,046 pounds.
Oatmeal flour, 6,658 pounds.
Rye flour, 21,896 pounds.
Whole wheat flour, 4,963 pounds.
Gelatine, 9,413 packages.
Ginger, 320 No. ¼ cans.
Coarse hominy, 53,694 pounds.
Fine hominy, 97,988 packages.
Macaroni, 189,048 pounds.
Condensed milk, 8,445 No. 1 cans.
Ground mustard, 39,067 cans.
Ground nutmeg, 41,624 No. ¼ cans.
Bulk oatmeal, 63,588 pounds.
Oatmeal, 10,243 No. 2 cans.
Oatmeal, 70,412 No. 2 cartels.
Peas, 8,062 No. 10 cans.
Cucumber pickles, 2,819 gallons.
Sweet potatoes, 35,707 No. 2 cans.
Sweet potatoes, 13,445 No. 2½ cans.
Sweet potatoes, 18,045 No. 3 cans.
Pumpkin, 44,886 No. 2 cans.
Pumpkin, 48,833 No. 3 cans.
Pumpkin, 247 No. 10 cans.
Assorted soup, 120,222 pints.
Chicken soup, 30,249 pints.
Clam chowder soup, 92,187 pints.
Mock turtle soup, 18,094 pints.
Oxtail soup, 12,709 pints.
Tomato soup, 103,617 pints.
Squash, 14,240 small cans.
Squash, 1,138 No. 10 cans.
Cut loaf sugar, 45,000 pounds.
Tapioca, 8,558 No. 1 cartons.
Black tea, 90,226 pounds.
Oolong tea, 21,773 pounds.
Gunpowder green tea, 30,654 pounds.
Green Y. H. tea, 4,564 pounds.
Japan tea, 27,723 pounds.
Lemon extract, 20,066 2-ounce bottles.

Announcement was made by the War Department today that it would from time to time change prices at which its surplus foodstuffs were sold to the public to conform to any reductions in retail market prices. Prices on certain of the commodities of surplus foodstuffs included in the price list which the department announced on Aug. 8 are now being adjusted to make them accord with reductions which have since occurred in the retail market on similar commodities of like grade.

Information has reached the department that, influenced by the prices at which the department was offering its surplus of foodstuffs to the general public, retailers handling commercial lines of similar grade had, in many instances, lowered their prices to make them square with the quotations established by the department. As fast as the lower Government quotations on food are made they will be communicated to the surplus property officers detailed for duty at the thirteen zone supply centres, and those officers will be instructed to change their quotations to municipalities and municipal selling agencies. The information will also be communicated through the Post Office Department to Postmasters throughout the country and orders booked by Postmasters with the inauguration of sales of foodstuffs through the parcel post will be taken at the revised figures.

It is estimated that the supplies from the United States for the Army of Occupation in Germany will amount to 1,000,000 tons a month. Arrangements will probably be made to send this material in commercial vessels to Antwerp, using one ship each month for the purpose. The Director of Sales, now in France, has been advised that, in view of the recent resolution of Congress relative to army food supplies, no further sales of subsistence are to be made in Europe. Statisticians in the War Department say that enough food has been allotted for sale through municipalities and by parcel post to furnish about three-quarters of a pound of bacon and a little over one and one-half cans of other food to each person in the country. These statisticians estimate that if the saving to the purchaser is 25 per cent this will represent an average saving of almost 20 cents to each person.

The value of the army surplus food allotted for sale to the public is nearly $84,000,000, according to the latest computation authorized by the War Department made public today, as follows:

	Cans.	Value.
Baked beans	16,852,788	$3,677,971
Stringless beans	2,652,848	901,221
Corned beef	26,862,528	19,682,222
Roast beef	26,890,824	15,944,269
Sweet corn	18,416,609	2,209,993
Corned beef hash	22,760,985	7,196,970
Peas	7,153,609	786,897
Pumpkin	760,648	67,467
Squash	8,000	180
Tomatoes	35,641,976	6,185,151
Total	167,643,913	$54,014,296
Bacon, pounds	82,366,114	29,445,639
Grand total		$83,459,935

SEES BIG SUGAR DEMAND.

After having stopped at Halifax to discharge 200 Canadian soldiers and their families, the White Star liner Lapland arrived here late yesterday afternoon with 175 first-class and 212 second-class passengers. Miss Eva Balfour was among a group of motion picture artists who entertained the passengers on the trip across.

Tokutaro Nagase, a Japanese business man with offices at 120 Broadway, who has been abroad for five months, said that the commercial outlook in Europe was very promising.

The Rev. A. M. King of Wichita, Kan., returned with several members of a committee sent abroad to study the religious outlook as the result of the war. The Rev. Dr. Harold Pattison, pastor of the Washington Heights Baptist Church, Convent Avenue and 145th Street, who has been abroad for several months preaching to the soldiers, was a fellow-passenger.

Edward Bainbridge, who has been in Europe for two months in the interests of the United States Shipping Board, was a passenger on the Scandinavian American steamer Frederick VIII, which docked yesterday morning in Hoboken. He declined to talk of his trip, saying he would rather first make a report in Washington.

On the way across a daughter was born to Mrs. Anna Lindberg, which was named Fredericka in honor of the steamer. Two days later the child was christened with the passengers as spectators of the event while the mother was presented with a purse of money collected from the passengers to be placed in the bank until the child is of age. The steamer had 426 passengers on board.

One hundred thousand more tons of sugar a month must be imported from Cuba to satisfy the sweet tooth of the American public since prohibition went into effect, according to Charles B. Stevens of 349 Broadway, who returned yesterday from Havana on the San Jacinto. He predicted that a bumper sugar crop would be harvested in Cuba this Fall, but the prospects were even better for next season.

Part of the cargo of the San Jacinto consisted of 1,000 barrels of rum, which, it was explained, had been sent here for transshipment to Europe.

Why we Selected this Location

WITH the purpose of bringing to the uptown residential and business districts a banking service as complete as is available to the downtown community, yet at the very door of the uptown section, we established our Madison Avenue Office.

In selecting the location of this office we had in mind its features of accessibility and freedom from traffic congestion—an unusual but very desirable combination.

To owners of automobiles the absence of traffic on the approaching streets and the assurance of available space for their cars at the bank are particularly attractive features.

Combined with the advantages of a convenient location this office affords a banking, trust, investment, and safe deposit service complete in every detail. Interest is paid on checking accounts.

Our officers would deem it a pleasure to explain to you personally the many ways in which we can serve you.

Navy Department Sales

Our Federal Bond Bureau, Southern Building, corner 15th and H Streets, N. W., Washington, D. C., will periodically issue bulletins announcing the sales of surplus supplies by the Navy Department.

These sales are likely to be frequent and to embrace large quantities of commodities of various kinds.

Anyone interested in these sales, with a view to a possible purchase for re-sale or stock, may on request have his name placed on our Federal Bond Bureau's mailing list.

Such requests, with a statement of the kind of commodities in which the possible purchaser is interested, may be addressed to the Federal Bond Bureau as above, or to our Home Office, or to any Branch Office of this Company.

Our Federal Bond Bureau is prepared to serve the public in connection with bid and contract bonds required by the Government in the sale of these supplies, and with bonds of all other kinds required by the Government. It is in charge of a surety expert, whose technique has been acquired by an experience of fifteen years—seven as law and bond officer of the Treasury Department and eight as our representative.

sufficient remedy. There should be a department of the Government having power of supervision, not necessarily interfering with the business of the country, but possessing the power to investigate, publish facts, and take immediate action to revoke the license if a corporation abuses its power.

"With this power in the Federal Government, there will be less likelihood of price-fixing agreements. The bill provides, however, if the license is forfeited, the corporation may protect its rights in the courts. I would not give to any executive board of the Government the absolute power to bar a corporation from engaging in interstate commerce. On the other hand, under the present law, many corporations do not know whether or not they are lawfully transacting business, or whether they are legally organized. Lawyers and courts differ on the subject. They should be licensed and know whether their business is lawful. In fact, as this bill provides, they should have the right to apply to the commission and have it determined in advance whether any proposed action is legal."

The bill, Mr. Kellogg said, also regulates the issuance of stocks and securities by corporations and requires all stock hereafter issued to be fully covered, either in property or money. It provides that a corporation having more than 50 per cent. of the total business of the same character in the United States shall not purchase the property and business of any other corporation engaged in a similar and competitive business, unless the said purchasing corporation applies to the commission and receives its approval. The object of this provision Mr. Kellogg explained, is to prevent a large corporation having more than 50 per cent. of the business from using its power to compel its competitors to sell and from acquiring a complete monopoly by purchase of competitive concerns.

"It is in the best interest of the country that there should be a free and open field in which to engage in business," said the Senator, "and that competitors should not be destroyed through unfair methods of competition or oppression by a corporation having large capital and great power. On the other hand, there may be cases where it is in the interest of the public that such a corporation should know whether it has such right or not. At present no one can tell, and the right to make such a purchase or consolidation can only be determined at the end of long litigation under the Sherman act."

Urges Cold Storage Tax Bill.

Experts of the Department of Agriculture advised the House Agricultural Committee today that the Hutchinson bill, which proposed to adopt to the nation's use the New Jersey cold storage law, following the suggestion by President Wilson in his message, was probably unconstitutional. The experts, through Chester M. Morrill, Solicitor of the department, said that they believed Congress would exceed its powers in passing such an act, and that it was likely that only through taxation could the holding of commodities be regulated.

The Agricultural Department is working on a draft of a bill which it will present. It is believed that the committee will draw up a bill of its own to accomplish the end desired.

The taxation scheme, suggested by Dr. Morrill, involves the levying of taxes on cold storage warehouses with reference to the period the goods were held in storage. This could be accomplished, he said, by making the tax prohibitory and forcing the commodity on the market, or by making it graduated and persuasive.

During the hearing W. C. Campbell, Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, said that on July 1 there were 16,000,000 pounds of frozen eggs in cold storage. This is the equivalent of 12,000,000 dozen.

Mr. Campbell told the committee that there was no need to adopt a time limit on foods in storage, except such as might be dictated by a desire to release stored foods for public sale. He said eggs could be kept in cold storage ten to eleven months without deteriorating, provided they were in proper condition when stored, and that fish could be kept twenty-seven months without spoiling. The limit on poultry, he said, was two to three months.

Tomorrow the committee will hear Frank A. Horne of New York, President of the Refrigerating Association, representing the cold storage interests, and William T. Creecy, Secretary of the National Dairy Union.

Committee to Frame Legislation.

Late in the day the Interstate Commerce Committee met to take up the suggestions made by President Wilson in his message last week in the effort to reduce the cost of living. Senator Cummins, chairman of the committee, appointed Senators Townsend, La Follette, Watson, Underwood, and Smith of South Carolina, as a sub-committee to map out a program. The sub-committee will consider legislation aimed at control of food production agencies, and submit them to the entire committee.

Representatives of many farm organizations who came here today to discuss living costs and consult with Senators and Congressmen regarding prospective legislation are inclined not to oppose the plan of the Government to retain the policy of selling wheat at approximately the guaranteed price. Senator Gronna of North Dakota said that the lifting of the lid would not be advocated, but that the farmers were of a mind that their legitimate interests should not suffer as a result of any legislation.

Interest centred upon this problem following demands for the sale by the Government of wheat at considerably below the guaranteed price. Julius H. Barnes, head of the Government Wheat Corporation, said that such a policy would tend greatly to increase the world market price as the demands for American wheat were so heavy that the price would be forced up. The representatives of the farmers will make a close study of the situation as regards legislation and other steps contemplated by the Government before issuing a formal announcement concerning their attitude.

WANT PLUMB PLAN MADE PARTY ISSUE

Brotherhoods Intend to Place Their Scheme Before the National Conventions.

POMERENE ASSAILS UNIONS

Democratic Senator Tells Ohio Railroad Men That the Plumb Plan Is Un-American and Vicious.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The railroad brotherhoods intend to have the Plumb plan for a tripartite control of the railroads placed before the conventions of the two big parties, it was intimated here today, with the hope that it may be incorporated into the platform of at least one of the parties.

It is said that the convention to be held here on Oct. 6 to discuss the Plumb plan may shape itself into a strong movement to bring the issue into politics, and that an effort may be made to further agitate the proposition at the International Labor Conference, which is to be held in Wasnington beginning October 29.

The plan outlined is this:

The advocates of the nationalization of the railways will arouse as much sentiment as possible for the scheme and will present it to the Republican national convention next Spring, which probably will be the first of the big national conventions. Its acceptance by this party is not expected, although a minority report by the Resolutions Committee is hoped for. The fight will then be taken to the Democratic National Committee. There, according to advocates of the plan, it is hoped to obtain favorable action by the committee which will report the Democratic platform.

The third recourse, if the effort to get the principles inserted in the platform of either of the big political parties fails, would be the formation of a labor movement which would enter into the political race, and the continued effort by local fights to obtain a favorable Congress.

Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, stated recently that Senators and Representatives would hear from 1,000,000 of their constituents within sixty to ninety days, and the threat has been made that a Plumb-plan Congress would be elected if the present Congress failed to bow to the will of the adherents of the scheme. A letter received by Senator Pomerene, Democrat, of Ohio, is accepted as one of the first predicted in this campaign. The development served to accentuate the feeling which has been stirred in Congress and in political circles over the attitude which an element of organized labor, and men described as sympathizers with them, have taken.

Pomerene Assails Plumb Plan.

Senator Pomerene accepted the communication, which came from a committee of railroad employes in his State, as an open threat in the avowed campaign to defeat Senators and Congressmen who oppose the Plumb plan, and in his reply left no doubt as to his attitude. He assailed the principles involved, which he characterized as "the most vicious piece of legislation that has been presented to Congress since I have been in the Senate."

It is said that Senator Pomerene had been at the White House before he issued his letter today to discuss railroad problems with the President, but as to that there has been no official intimation. It is known that the advocates of nationalization of the railways have sought the favor of the President, and have hoped that their proposals would receive at least a measure of his support. His address of last Friday was not encouraging to them, but the effort to win the favor of the White House has by no means been abandoned.

The new manager of the Plumb Plan League, ex-Congressman Keating of Colorado, issued a statement today in which he emphasized the portions of the announcement by Chief Justice Clark yesterday concerning the necessity for the operation of the railroads at actual cost. The arrogant note was gone, however.

Senator Pomerene's letter is in part as follows:

"In the history of railroad economics, do you know of any country, anywhere, under which any plan akin to the Plumb plan has been adopted?

"If the Plumb plan is sound economically and is for the interests of 'the masses' why do you not suggest that similar legislation be adopted whereby all public utilities, including water works, electric light plants, gas and heating plants, be purchased and turned over to their employes and operatives respectively?

"If it is sound and in the interests of 'the masses' why do you not suggest that all the coal mines, iron and copper mines, be purchased by the Government and turned over to the operatives?

"Why do you not also suggest that all the manufacturing and industrial plants of the country be purchased with Government funds, or by the issuance of Government bonds, and turned over to their operatives?

"Why do you not advise that all the stores be purchased and turned over to their operatives?

"Why do you not recommend that all the banks of the country be acquired by the Government and turned over to their operatives?

"Why do you not ask, in the interests of 'the masses,' that the Government purchase all the farms of the country and turn them over to the employed on the farms?

"And, lastly, may I suggest that if one man should happen to own two houses, one of which he rents, why do you not ask that the second house shall be bought by the Government and turned over to the tenant?

"Where is this going to end?"

Says It Is Akin to Bolshevism.

"Permit me to say the Plumb plan has nothing akin to it outside of Bolshevist Russia.

"It is worse than socialism. Socialism contemplates the public ownership of property to be controlled and operated by the public for the public. The Plumb plan contemplates the public ownership of the railroads for a class. They are to be taken over by purchase or condemnation and paid for by the cash or bonds of the whole people, and then turned over to the National Railways Operating Corporation, whose Board of Directors shall consist of fifteen men, ten of whom shall be railroad classified and official employes. As neither class of these employes will have any stock, their interests will be the same as against the public. In other words, $20,000,000,000 worth of property bought by money belonging to 110,000,000 of people is to be turned over to 2,000,000 railroad men representing, perhaps, including their families, 10,000,000.

"Mr. Plumb, in his testimony before the Senate Committee in February, assumed that the capital invested amounted to $18,000,000,000. In his testimony this week before the Interstate Commerce Committee of the House he estimates that all the present owners would get for their property would be $13,000,000,000. So, according to his own testimony, Mr. Plumb's plan, if enacted into law, will substantially confiscate $5,000,000,000 of property belonging to private owners.

"And how is he to pay for this property even at this reduced value?

"He tells the public that he will by his plan save to the shippers of the country a large expense, in that these bonds can be sold for 4 per cent.

"The railroads earned 5.21 per cent. during the three years of Government control. He does not say who is to buy this perhaps $18,000,000,000 worth of bonds.

"May I not remind you that during the last Victory loan, by the best organized nation-wide campaign, conducted by all the patriotic men, women, and children of the country, we sold less than $7,000,000,000 of bonds at 4½ per cent., and if, when all the patriotism of the country was back of this campaign, it was so difficult to sell these bonds at par for 4½ per cent., will Mr. Plumb tell us where he is going to sell $18,000,000,000 worth of bonds at 4 per cent?

"Does it not occur to you when not only the whole nation but the whole world is disturbed industrially, economically, and financially, that we had better wait until normal conditions are restored before beginning a scheme so revolutionary as that proposed in the Plumb plan, even if it were sound?

"In the past few years a good many people have urged Federal ownership and control of the railroads, the telegraphs and the telephones, and in view of recent experiences most of them who have had no selfish purpose to serve have changed their views.

"Government control of these utilities has been so complete that it does not differ materially from actual Government ownership, and there is no such radical difference between the present Government control and operation and that provided for in the Plumb plan as to warrant any one in saying that while the former has been a failure the latter will be a success.

Sees Government Control a Failure.

"From the standpoint of operation, every user of the railroads, telegraphs, and the telephones knows that the service has been worse than during private control, excepting only the condition of the railroads during the last two months of private control which was due to war conditions.

"You will remember that the increases in wages during the year 1918 were made retroactive, dating from Jan. 1, 1918. Freight rates were advanced 25 per cent. and passenger rates much more, the increases to take effect as of July 1, 1918.

"Director General McAdoo in his testimony before the committee said to us if the increase of rate had been for the entire year there would have been a substantial surplus for the year of at least $100,000,000 to the Government.

"For the year 1919, with all wage increases granted in 1918 operating for the entire twelve months and upon the assumption that the traffic for 1919 is substantially the same as in 1918, and that the cost of fuel and supplies remain the same, it is estimated that there should be a surplus to the Government over and above the standard return of approximately $100,000,000.

"Director General Hines gave substantially the same assurances early in January of this year.

"But what was the result? Senator Cummins, the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, speaking in the Senate on Aug. 5, said, 'We lost $240,000,000 the first four or five months of this year. (1919.) $260,000,000 and we are now losing at the rate of $30,000,000 per month.'"

Doubts Financial Returns.

"Do you believe that under the Plumb plan you can turn this deficit under Government control either into a surplus for the account of the Government or the public, or into better service for the country?

"Since Government control was begun the wages to the employes have been increased about $1,000,000,000, and the Director General on July 31, 1919, informed the President that additional increases were demanded which would aggregate, if granted, about $800,000,000 more per year.

"I do not believe it can be done except by one increase after another in transportation rates.

"Let me suggest that the people at large have not expressed any desire for this plan, but members of your Brotherhoods (I do not mean the chiefs) have been in Washington making threats as to what would happen unless this legislation is enacted. As one Senator, I shall always be open to conviction, but I never yet have yielded to a threat, and I never will.

"Among the threats that have been made are threats of a nationwide strike. I do not mean to suggest that the Chiefs of the Brotherhoods have suggested a nation-wide strike, but some members of the Brotherhood have made the threats here in Washington to Senators. I am sure that you do not give any countenance to strikes under present conditions.

"I believe in the right of the laboring man to use the strike under proper circumstances, but I do not believe the occasion is here or ever has been here or ever will be here which will justify a nation-wide strike, with all the distress that it will bring, not only on the public at large, but upon the strikers and their families.

"The Plumb plan is the most vicious piece of legislation that has been presented to Congress since I have been in the Senate. I would feel that I was contributing to the ruin not only of the transportation system of the country, but to its financial and industrial breakdown if I voted for it.

"Mr. Plumb the other day referred to the Wall Street control of the railways. This was true in the past. It is not true now. Wall Street has many vicious things to its credit in years gone by, but the captains of finance have never demanded $20,000,000,000 worth of the people's money at one time.

"I am sure that a sober second thought will persuade you that this bill ought to be defeated."

MERCHANTS DECLARE WAR ON PLUMB PLAN

Baltimore Business Men Start Drive Against Government Control of Industries.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 11.—War to the death has been declared by the Manufacturers' Committee of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association against Government control, not only of the railroads, but of any form of industry.

A. S. Goldsborough, head of the Civic and Industrial Bureau, today mailed a circular letter to thousands of firms and corporations throughout the country, to enlist their active co-operation in the campaign of education. The circular says:

"Every factory, every store, every shop, every labor union should begin at once to lay before its membership a full explanation as to the certain vicious results to business which are certain to follow Government control of the railroads.

"The prospect is too serious to wait for somebody to take the lead. You or your organization, or both, within the circle of your particular influence or affiliations, should get busy without delay and handle this matter according to the dictates of sound common sense. It is a campaign of laying before one's eyes the tragic picture that lies beyond the horizon of possible Government ownership.

"Get the co-operation of your most intelligent laboring men, manufacturers, merchants and professional men. Work out a program to meet your local conditions. Evolve short, graphic, gripping presentations of the case. Distribute this information everywhere. Use the mails, use every agency possible to reach men and women of all classes. Work in the stores and factories. Hang posters. Use speakers. Convey the information in every legitimate way.

"An effective presentation of the truth will appeal to the intelligence and convince the judgment of all sound-thinking elements."

CALLS THE PLUMB PLAN WEDGE OF BOLSHEVISM

Senator Myers Denounces the Propaganda to "Sovietize" American Industries.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Senator Myers, speaking in the Senate today on a resolution offered by him last week to put a limit on American exports so as not to deplete American markets, denounced the Plumb plan and characterized the brotherhood attitude as smacking of Bolshevism.

Senator Myers spoke of "serious trouble threatening the country."

"Already the railroad employes have threatened to strike if they are not given an increase in wages," he said.

"I for one do not favor increasing their wages. The increase would not be justified. The railroads are now being operated at an enormous loss, which must be paid by the taxpayers of the country. Increasing the wages of the railroad workers would simply add to the cost of living.

"Accompanying their demand for increased wages is a demand that the industries of the country be sovietized. This demand also is accompanied by threats of dire disaster to the country if the so-called Plum plan is not accepted.

"I do not favor sovietizing the industries. If the railroads are sovietized that will be only an entering wedge. It would turn the railroads over to a favored few, who would fix their own wages, and then fix the rates and income to be derived from the public. The railroad employes would be made absolute monarchs to take whatever they want from the public. Congress each year would then have a threat of dire disaster if it did not appropriate money to meet the losses the Plumb plan would bring.

"After the railroads were sovietized then these same people would next sovietize the steel industry and then all the other industries would be sovietized.

"A vast propaganda is being carried on with the sovietizing of all industries as the end in view. The country would be thoroughly Russianized if the Plumb plan were carried out to its logical conclusion.

"It falls to the railroad brotherhoods to present to this country a concrete test of Bolshevism as against Americanism. It must be met and decided now. It cannot be sidestepped or dodged.

"There has been a sinister campaign of Bolshevism conducted openly and in secret for many months. The network of this propaganda has been thrown over the entire country. It has finally found expression in the plan for sovietizing the railroads."

"Wouldn't it have been better if the Administration had taken a stand three years ago, instead of forcing the Adamson law through Congress?" interrupted Senator Nelson, Republican, of Minnesota. "Wasn't the trouble then that an election was pending?"

"There is an election pending now," replied Senator Myers. "There is one next year. But if the railroad men held up the country once, I don't believe in letting them hold it up again. I, for one, will not stand for another holdup."

Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, suggested that when the Adamson law was passed Congress had failed to provide the requisite board to consider the demands.

Senator Nelson declared that a board of arbitration was then in existence and that it should have acted.

"Congress should have enacted a law then," Mr. Nelson argued, "requiring the labor men to arbitrate. It is not too late now for such a law. Compulsory arbitration is the only relief."

"If organized labor is going to back up this demand to sovietize the industries of the country," Senator Myers continued, "it will find that many of its friends who in the past have supported its reasonable demands will turn against it."

Senator Myers regarded it as "suspicious that this demand to sovietize the railroads and the cry against the cost of living fell like a thunderbolt upon Congress at the same time."

TO "DEMOCRATIZE" ROADS.

Saxony Plans a Radical Step for Its Railways.

BERLIN, Aug. 11. (Associated Press.)—A dispatch to the Lokal-Anzeiger from Dresden says it is announced there that the Saxon railways will be "democratized."

The dispatch adds that the Government has agreed to the formation in all towns of railway workers' and officials' councils, while central workers' and officials' councils will be established at local administrative railway headquarters.

HOOVER REACHES PRAGUE.

Confers with Czech Cabinet on Food Control in Central Europe.

PRAGUE, Bohemia, Aug. 10, (Associated Press.)—Herbert Hoover, head of the Interallied Relief Commission, arrived here today, unannounced, accompanied by a staff of experts. Mr. Hoover immediately went into conference with the Ministry and the President on questions of economic importance to Czechoslovakia, and more especially the consideration of administrations to establish or control the coal and the railroads of Central Europe.

It is stated that long discussions took place on the general necessity of Czechoslovakia continuing through the next twelve months with her "tightened belt," as far as food conditions are concerned, and that it was pointed out that the financial and economic conditions of the world necessitated most strenuous exertion in production and most rigorous economy against nonessential imports.

Particular stress was laid on the necessity for the expansion of Czechoslovakia and the devotion of Czechoslovak resources to the purchase of raw material, even at the cost of abstinence from food and the luxuries of life.

Mr. Hoover will proceed to Warsaw tonight, where his mission is the same as that which brought him to Prague.

Serbia Wants Plebiscite in Banat.

BELGRADE, Aug. 11.—A semi-official statement issued here says Rumania is making efforts to secure more territory in the Banat district of Southeast Hungary, although the greater part of the territory has already been allotted to her. The statement adds that the Serbian Government intends to request the Peace Conference to settle the question by means of plebiscite throughout Banat.

Von Hoegen Is Freed on $2,000 Bail.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 11.—Maximilian von Hoegen of NewHaven, alleged German sympathizer, under indictment for treason, was today admitted to bail in bonds of $2,000, and allowed freedom of movement for the first time since March 5, when he was returned to this State from Texas, wither he had fled. He had been in the Hartford County Jail.

COMMUTES BY AIRPLANE.

Roy U. Conger Begins Flying to City from Westhampton, L. I.

Announcement was made by the American Flying Club, 11 East Thirty-eighth Street, last night, that Roy U. Conger, a member of the club, had decided to do his commuting from Westhampton, L. I., to the city by airplane.

He made the first trip, starting from a field adjacent to his home, in a Canadian training machine, and arrived at the Sheepshead Bay motordrome 1 hour 17 minutes later. From there he reached his office by motor car in less than half an hour.

By this method Mr. Conger saved more than an hour in the trip. He returned to Westhampton by the same air route, and expects to commute as long as good flying weather lasts.

Speaking of the trip, which is about eighty-five miles, Mr. Conger said the going was excellent until he passed Babylon, when the machine ran into heavy fog.

"This did not last," he said, "and we had a straight shoot of twenty miles before we reached the motordrome, where our ship landed without a jar. In addition to saving time, the trip by air is much more pleasant than by train."

The flying club also announced that several of its members have decided to follow Mr. Conger's lead.

APPEAL FOR BABIES IN ITALY

Very Few Will Be Left Alive Unless America Raises $100,000 for Milk.

Mrs. John Adams Drake, President of the American Free Milk and Relief for Italy, has issued an appeal for $100,000 for the purpose of sending dry milk and condensed milk for babies in Italy. Her appeal is based on the return of her brother, Henry M. Rae, who has charge of the distribution of milk in Italy for the American committee, and who stated yesterday at the Hotel Vanderbilt, where he is stopping, that they have been feeding only from 30,000 to 35,000 babies in Italy, which is about one-tenth of the number of babies that should be fed.

During the war 93 per cent. of the cattle was killed for the purpose of feeding the families of those at home and this leaves but little cattle to furnish milk for the babies. During the epidemic of influenza in Italy over 1,000,000 persons died, leaving many nursing babies behind. Thousands of babies died from lack of nourishment.

Unless sufficient funds can be raised to send the milk to Italy within the next year, there will be very few babies left alive, Mr. Rae said. Mrs. Drake, who resides at the Hotel Vanderbilt, will be glad to receive donations.

PRISON FOR AUTO THIEF.

Cleaner Who Borrowed Garage Patron's Car Sent to Sing Sing.

George Thornton of 334 West Forty-ninth Street was sentenced yesterday by Judge McIntyre in General Sessions to serve two years and four months in Sing Sing after he had pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree.

Thornton was employed as a cleaner at a garage at 169 East Fifty-first Street. He took an automobile belonging to Mrs. Josephine Riola of 76 West Forty-eighth Street from the garage, and was arrested at 133d Street and Seventh Avenue. In sentencing him, Judge McIntyre said it was time the habit of riding without permission in other people's cars was broken up, as it was becoming too frequent in this city.

COMBINING IS THE ONLY THING WHICH CAN STOP INCREASING COST OF LIVING

Is it proper that less than ten million organized people should control the destinies of a hundred million unorganized people? If it is not proper, should not at last two million representatives of the hundred million organize?

Neither the Republican nor Democratic parties can control this situation, but an organized people can.

When war was declared against Germany over two million American men and women publicly declared their willingness to give up their leisure or usual occupations for the purpose of doing such unusual work as would be necessary to defeat the menace of the Kaiser.

Will not these same two million publicly announce their willingness to give up their leisure or usual occupations to defeat a much greater menace than the Kaiser ever was?

I would like to hear from at least twenty-five men who will meet me for the purpose of organizing a committee, the object of which will be to secure at least three hundred thousand signatures from residents of New York State who are willing to so announce.

If these signatures can be obtained the balance of the two million will undoubtedly follow, and it will probably not be necessary to take any further action, as a small minority is not likely to persist in its attempt to control a large majority, if the large majority will declare its willingness to sacrifice and work.

ALLIES NOW WANT RUMANIANS TO STAY

Events at Budapest Cause the Peace Conference to Change Its Attitude.

CZECH NOTE OF PROTEST

Prague Government Objects to Rumanian Occupation of Hungary and Seizure of Property.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—There is something approaching a volte face today in the Supreme Council's attitude toward the Budapest situation.

Whereas heretofore there appeared to be a tendency to support the action of allied agents on the spot in negotiating with the Hungarian parties represented by the short-lived Peidl Government and in ignoring or actually opposing the Rumanians, it now looks as if the Council realized that the latter are the real masters of the situation and that cooperation with them is the only possible policy.

The council's face has been saved by the Rumanian assertion that the note forbidding them to occupy Budapest was not received until the occupation was a fait accompli. Thus the appearance of open defiance on Rumania's part is removed and it is felt here that to avoid further loss of prestige an understanding with the Rumanians is necessary.

The latter, having got what they wanted in the shape of full revenge for the unprovoked attacks by Bela Kun's army are disposed to make concessions to the sentiment of the Supreme Council and it is hoped events in Hungary can now be shaped satisfactorily. Even in American circles which formerly strongly opposed the Rumanians and where there was even talk of compelling them to retire—though how the compulsion was to be exercised was not specified—it is now admitted that their presence gives the best assurance of order and prevents a civil war which would be almost certain to break out if the Hungarians had no such deterrent.

While still declining to condone certain high-handed action by the Rumanians, American opinion appears to have swung pretty much into line with the French view that, firstly, there is nothing to be gained—and much prestige to be lost—by antagonizing the Rumanians at the present juncture, and, secondly, that when all is said and done they are our allies. They suffered greatly from Hungarian spoliation after Mackensen's victory and had extreme provocation recently.

Whatever has been the attitude of the French representatives on the Supreme Council, it is beyond question that that is the standpoint of the best-informed French press and public opinion. It is also that of the Quai d'Orsay, whose permanent officials have deliberately and carefully planned the foreign policy which bends when it must before some decisions of the Supreme Council that it disapproves, but which nevertheless continues to keep, on the whole, as closely as possible to its own line of action.

PARIS, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—The Peace Conference today received a note from the Czechoslovak Government, protesting against the Rumanian occupation of Hungary and especially against the seizure of properties which should be divided among the Allies under the reparation arrangement.

Archduke's Note to Powers.

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—The text of the telegram of Archduke Joseph, temporary dictator of Hungary, to Premier Clemenceau, outlining the new Government's policy and asking for allied recognition, was received here today from Budapest. The message was presented to the Supreme Interallied Council on Saturday. It reads:

"The preceding Ministry, composed partly of former members of the Bela Kun Government, was invited to withdraw by us, supported by public opinion. The Ministry resigned the night before last and a new transition ministry was constituted.

"In my quality of dictator, and as the transition ministry requested, I assumed power and accredited a Government.

"The population of the capital learned with the greatest enthusiasm of the fall of the Bolshevist régime, as, I am persuaded, will the population of the entire country.

"Our first object is preparation for convocation at the earliest possible moment of the National Assembly, so that the latter may pronounce on the question of what form of state shall be established on a constitutional basis.

"Until then our program will consist of stamping out Bolshevism, implanted by the actions of the terrorists, fulfillments of the armistice terms, restoration of normal conditions of security, resumption of productive work in the country, and preparations for the peace negotiations.

"For all these reasons we seek the closest contact with the Allies, and solicit your kind support and recognition of our Government in the interest of the success of our efforts.

"ARCHDUKE JOSEPH,
"Field Marshal."

Workmen Want No King.

VIENNA, Aug. 10, (Associated Press.)—"Only as long as Rumanian bayonets remain in Budapest will the present Government remain in office," said Jacob Weltner, President of the Industrial Workmen's Council of Budapest, today.

"The Hungarian Workmen's Federation must be reckoned with now and for all time. When the war was two years old it had a membership of 85,000. It now has 700,000, and the workmen want no king."

The Socialists have decided not to enter the present Government, but to join the opposition.

Hundreds of Red Guards are fleeing daily from Hungary into Austria, where they are being interned at the Bruck camp.

Hungarian peasants are reported to be continuing to lynch Red Guards and also Jewish and other Soviet officials of Budapest and the provinces.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The Entente blockade of Hungary was raised today, according to a Vienna dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, the telegram adding that the Rumanians are extending their area of occupation to West Hungary, alleging the necessity of suppressing Bolshevist plots there.

BASLE, Aug. 11.—A delegation representing the Czechoslovak Government is on its way to Budapest, according to a report received today from Pressburg, about midway between Vienna and the Hungarian capital.

Count Paul Teleky, who will represent the Hungarian Government at Szegedin in conferences with the new Government at Budapest, arrived at Budapest today and had a long talk with Archduke Joseph. Count Teleky will have a conference with Premier Friedrich tomorrow.

Hungarian Communist measures abolishing private property have been abrogated in a decree issued by the new Hungarian Government. All owners are enjoined to resume the direction of their properties and to continue agricultural activities.

KOLCHAK ARMY IN SERIOUS STRAITS

known to be in Omsk a party which advocates the dispatching of an invitation to Japan to send an army to the Western Siberian front to meet the onrush of the Bolshevists, but this party is thought not to be sufficiently strong to persuade the Government to make such inducements as would be required to obtain major assistance from Japan.

The setback suffered in the field by the Kolchak army is believed to make more uncertain if not positively unlikely the early recognition of the Omsk Government by the United States and the allied powers. At the same time, there is no other authority in Siberia with whom the powers can treat. It is not considered impossible that should the Omsk Government collapse the more promising Denikin movement in the south, which is better situated for receiving allied help, will become the principal nucleus of the future Russian Government.

In official circles it is believed that the Bolshevist strategy, directed perhaps by former officers of the Teutonic powers, contemplates first the destruction of the Kolchak forces and after that an advance in overwhelming force against Denikin in the south. Denikin is fully alive to the peril and is making all preparations to meet it.

Archangel Appeals to Allies.

ARCHANGEL, Aug. 11.—An appeal to the allied nations not to withdraw their troops from Russia is being issued by the municipality of Archangel and the boards of the governmental and district Zemstvos of Archangel Province, it was announced here today. The appeal constitutes an indictment of the Bolsheviki as "enemies of the Constituent Assembly for which the Russian Democrats are fighting."

"The moral and material blow caused by the departure of allied troops," the appeal says, "will make the struggle with Bolshevism beyond our strength," but it declares that the struggle will not be abandoned. The Allies, however, are asked to consider the suffering that would follow the withdrawl of the troops and the anti-Bolshevist authorities, "in pain and desperation," appeal to feelings of humanity and justice—inseparable from free democracies—to insure that help be continued.

STRIKES ALL OVER RED RUSSIA

Reports Persist That Lenin Is to Resign as Premier.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 11.—Premier Lenin, it is rumored, intends to retire from the head of the Bolshavist Government, according to dispatches from Helsingfors quoting Russian reports.

Strikes are reported to be raging everywhere in Bolshevist-controlled territory. One hundred and fifty strike leaders were said to have been executed.

Pending his actual withdrawal, Premier Lenin was reported to have instructed Herr Krassin, Minister of Railroads, to try to reach some understanding with the Mensheviki, the Moderate Opposition Party.

The strikes, which have been becoming more violent, are spreading, in spite of the Government's intervention.

Peasants are said to be refusing to deliver grain to the cities, causing the Government great embarrassment and adding new difficulties to the problems of provisioning.

General Vatatis, former Commander in Chief of the Bolshevist forces, and his Chief of Staff have been arrested, by order of the Bolshevist Government, a Helsingfors dispatch, quoting a report from Petrograd, says. The two officers were charged with organizing a counter-revolution.

FACTORY CONTROL FOR GERMAN LABOR

Government Proposes a Drastic Law on the Guild Socialism Basis.

MAY EXAMINE THE BOOKS

Workers' Councils Also Must Pass on All Questions Affecting Social Conditions.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—The German Government has now formulated its proposals for giving a full legal status to the factory councils, "Betriebsräte," literally, "carrying-on councils." A summary of their proposals had appeared in the press prior to the full text of the bill being placed before the National Assembly.

These proposals are of a sweeping nature, largely in accord with what in England is called guild socialism, and are an attempt to give to industrial life by statute that democratic basis which it was the aim of the November revolution to give to the political life. Of course, the proposals do not go far enough to satisfy the extremists, but, on the other hand, they go further than was generally anticipated, and it is expected that sharp opposition will be offered to the bill from the parties of both the extreme Left and Right.

But sweeping though the proposals are, they deal only with the smallest economic unit, the single factory or works, and the explanatory memorandum foresees the creation of district workers' councils with at the same time economic councils, both local and national, elected by employers and employes. In the meantime, as stated, the proposals affect only the single factories, and the basic idea is to give the workers equal authority with the employers on all questions affecting social conditions within the factory and the right of co-operation with the Directors and the right of examination regarding all economic questions.

In the "economic" sphere they have to assist and advise the employers on questions affecting increased production and the best means of running the factory efficiently. They have the right to insist on the disclosure of all facts pertaining to the factory under a penalty if they disclose to any competitor any trade secrets so obtained. In particular they have the right to insist upon the production of the wages records and a statement of factory production and prospects, while in businesses employing more than fifty persons the councils can call from Jan. 1, 1920, for a yearly balance sheet and the profit and loss account.

From this summary it will be seen how revolutionary is the change introduced by this statute into the economic life, how the supreme authority is being abolished and equality in authority between employers and employed is taking its place, and while I have used the words "factory" and "works" throughout, I have done so for brevity's sake, as these councils apply to every form of economic activity, both manual and mental, subject to the numbers employed by any one unit. The Government hopes in view of the present day situation that its proposals will be readily accepted by the National Assembly, as their enactment is of great importance for the economic recovery of the country.

POLES FOLLOW UP VICTORY.

Start from Captured Minsk New Offensive Against Bolsheviki.

LONDON, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—Polish forces entered Minsk, capital of the Russian Province of the same name, last Friday, after a fortnight of heavy fighting, an official statement issued by the War Office tonight says, confirming earlier press dispatches.

The Bolsheviki, despite strong counter-attacks, were unable to arrest the Polish converging movement on the city from Lida, on the west, and Vileika, on the north.

The Polish offensive north of the Pinsk marsh belt is also progressing favorably, the statement adds.

A Russian official statement on the operations in the region of Minsk, received here by wireless, says:

"Our army on the eastern front took 8,000 prisoners in July.

A dispatch from Warsaw announces that a Polish army has left Minsk to undertake a new offensive. The troops are said to be well trained and to be supported strongly by artillery.

Big Demonstration in Vienna.

VIENNA, Aug. 10, (Associated Press.)—There was a big meeting of protest today before the Foreign Office. The crowd demanded the return of Austrian war prisoners from Siberia, "where the men are dying by hundreds daily." The demonstrators said that their only hope was the United States, saying that America fed their children in a Christian way, and would now save the husbands and sons.

24,000 SHOPMEN HOLD OUT IN CHICAGO

A Few Men Return to Work But Not Enough to Relieve Strain on the Railroads.

SITUATION BETTER IN EAST

2,000 Workers on the New Haven Vote to Comply with President's Demand.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. — Twenty-four thousand striking railroad car and shop repairmen continued to resist in Chicago today the ultimatum of President Wilson that they must return to work before their wage demands would be acted upon.

A committee from the Chicago Council of Shop Crafts was in Washington attempting to arrange a meeting with Director General Walter D. Hines, and at a late hour it had not been announced whether the Director General would receive them.

A few men returned to the jobs here, but not enough to afford the Railroad Administration any great relief from the strain under which they have been laboring for the last eleven days. Three members of the District Council of Railroad Shop Crafts refused at the last minute to accompany two international officers of the Grand Lodge to Washington.

Elsewhere than in Chicago the strike showed signs of breaking. The distressed condition of the Chicago and Northwestern road in Iowa was relieved when 901 shop employes returned to work at Clinton, and 222 others returned to the benches in Belle Plaine.

So far as the Northwestern is concerned the situation is well in hand, except for the shops at Chicago, Council Bluffs and Boone, Iowa. In Denver 6,000 strikers returned to their jobs pending the result of the referendum vote now being taken by the craft's international officers.

Five hundred strikers at Springfield, Ill., decided to stay out; so did 7,500 strikers at Indianapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 11.—Letters to 25,000 striking railway shopmen in the Northwest, urging them to return to work at once, were sent out today, according to an announcement here tonight. The letters were signed by nine of the men who have been prominently identified with the strike here, including Chairmen of six of the unions affiliated with the Federated Railway Shopmen.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 11.—More than 2,000 shopmen of the New Haven Road who went on strike last week voted tonight to return to work. The various crafts comprising machinists, boilermakers, carmen, electrical workers, sheet metal workers, and blacksmiths, polled a secret vote. Another vote on the question of a strike will be taken on Sept. 24.

The votes of the various meetings in the city will be returned to Robert A. Henderson of Boston, General Secretary of the System Federation to which the men belong. This vote with the vote of the strikers taken at Readville, Boston, Providence, and other places will be announced Thursday, but it is not believed that the 6,000 or more men now out will return to work until next Monday.

More trains will be taken off, it is understood, making 150 curtailed since the strike was started.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—Continuation of the strike of New England railroad mechanics, which has crippled freight and passenger service throughout this section for the past three days, depended on the result of balloting at meetings of the strikers yesterday and today. Union leaders said the outcome would not be known until late tonight or tomorrow morning.

A joint meeting of delegates, representing members of the System of Federated Crafts of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, the Boston & Albany and the Boston & Maine railroads here today, was expected to affect the entire situation.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 11.—The 180 shopmen employed by the Boston & Maine Railroad in this city struck at noon today. In addition thirty Boston & Maine signalmen employed here went out.

LYNDONVILLE, Vt., Aug. 11.—Passenger service on the Boston & Maine Railroad in this territory was seriously delayed and freight service virtually at a standstill today as a result of a strike of 330 men employed in the railroad car-shops here.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 11.—The entire force of Boston & Maine Railroad repair men and car inspectors in this city who have been on strike since last Thursday voted today to return to work tomorrow morning. The repair men at Nasua also voted to return to work tomorrow.

RAIL FIREMEN TO ASK RAISE.

Leaders of 100,000 Workers Meet in Cleveland Today.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11.—Three hundred local Chairmen of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen will meet here tomorrow for the purpose of making a request on the Railroad Administration for further increases in wages of more than 100,000 firemen and hostlers on all Federal controlled railroads in the United States and all non-Federal controlled roads in the United States and Canada, it was learned today.

The meeting is in accordance with the action of the twenty-ninth convention of the brotherhood recently held in Denver, and is expected to last the greater part of the week.

The delegates purpose to establish a minimum rate of wages for firemen and hostlers commensurate with service performed and to meet the increased cost of living.

POLICE CAN'T JOIN UNION.

Boston Commission Issues Orders Against Outside Organizations.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—Police Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis issued an order today forbidding members of the police force to join any organization outside the department "composed of present or present and past members of the force," except posts of the G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans and the American Legion. The Commissioner said that the men could not fulfill their duties properly if they were subject to orders from any outside organization.

Although no specific mention of labor unions was made in the order, many members of the department interpreted it as designed to prevent affiliation of policemen with labor organizations.

REFUSES TO MEET UNION.

Connolly Wants Technical Men to Fix Wage Rate First.

Borough President Connolly of Queens in a statement issued yesterday declared his intention of refusing to deal with the newly organized local No. 16,388, Union of Technical Men, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, until the union had established a prevailing rate of wage in New York City. The union has among its members engineers, surveyors, and draftsmen in all of the Borough President's offices in the city, in the office of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and experts and plan examiners in the Building Bureaus of the five boroughs. The executive members of the union planned to make a demand for a flat increase of $500 above the present salary for every member of the union upon all heads of departments, and the first demand was made upon President Connolly. The demand if granted would mean an annual increase of the budget of more than $750,000.

Borough President Connolly refused to arrange a hearing with the committee that waited upon him, and in explaining his reasons said:

"I informed the men who called that I would dismiss the employes of the city of New York who went on strike. These men have made a flat demand of a $500 increase for each and every technical man employed. This is the only labor union in the State that has come to a municipality without first having established that there is a prevailing rate of wage corresponding to the amount demanded existing in the locality of the place of employment.

"The talents and abilities of engineers and draftsmen differ so widely in value that this union should necessarily establish its standards of salary before presenting any demand to the city. In some cases an increase would be justified. In other cases it would be a criminal waste of the taxpayers' money."

SEEK 44-HOUR WEEK NOW.

Paterson Strikers Want Agreement to Date from Oct. 10 Abrogated.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 11.—A committee of officers of the United Textile Workers of America, representing the 40,000 silk workers who have been on strike in this city since last Monday for the immediate granting of the forty-four-hour work week, will appear before the National War Labor Board at the Hotel McAlpin tomorrow and ask that the existing agreement between the manufacturers and the workers for the establishment of the forty-four-hour week on Oct. 10 be abrogated. The reason to be given by the workers will be that fully seventy-five of the 458 manufacturers who signed the agreement have already broken it by acceding to the strikers' demands and have granted the forty-four-hour week effective immediately.

In response to the announcement by Thomas F. McMahon, International Vice President of the United Textile Workers, that he and his associates were to appear before the War Board, the manufacturers issued a statement today in which they said that they had communicated with W. Jett Lauch, Secretary of the Board, and had been informed by him that no application had been received to hear the workers on the strike case and that the scheduled meeting tomorrow was principally for the purpose of tendering a request to President Wilson that the Board be released from further duty. The manufacturers stated that the workers would not be received by the War Board.

Chicago Packer Strikers Return.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Striking employes of the packing plants at the stock yards returned to work this morning after the last of the police guard had been withdrawn by Chief Garrity, in accordance with an agreement reached last Saturday.

JAPANESE THREATEN STRIKE IN ARSENALS

24,000 Workmen Demand More Pay—Unrest Causes Anxiety Among Authorities.

TOKIO, Aug. 8. (Associated Press.)—A committee, representing 24,000 workmen in the military arsenals of Tokio, today petitioned the Government for an increase in wages ranging from 20 to 50 per cent. If their demands are not granted it was stated that a strike would be called.

As 4,000 persons were leaving the arsenals today the guards closed the gates because the men had not formed in line as usual. The workmen opened the gates by force and in the ensuing collision fifteen persons were injured.

The spread of the labor unrest to Governmental works, including army workmen, has caused uneasiness on the part of the authorities. Although there has been no rioting, it is agreed that the national situation potentially is worse than during the 1918 uprising.

The leading business men have counseled the Government against interfering with the unionizing of labor and the peaceful expression of the demands of the laborites. The belief is expressed that if these are suppressed they will critically aggravate the situation.

The Cabinet today discussed the newspaper workers' strike, which has made many thousands idle. The employes are demanding a maximum increase of 150 per cent. in wages.

STRIKE IN HAMBURG BANKS.

Mediation Is Refused and a Determined Struggle Is Predicted.

HAMBURG, Aug. 11. (Associated Press.)—The bank employes of Hamburg and Altona have gone on strike, causing all the banks to close.

The employes voted yesterday by 1,500 to 300 to strike this morning. This decision was ratified at a second meeting, in which the radical members prevailed overwhelmingly.

The Berlin Bank Association made a proposal of mediation, which was rejected. It is expected that the banks will attempt to carry on the most urgent business, but it is admitted that Hamburg faces an extraordinarily earnest conflict.

Wireless Operator Killed on Eve of Flight for South Africa.

LONDON, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—The flying boat Felixstowe Fury, which was due to start Tuesday for Cape Town, South Africa, on an 8,000-mile flight, crashed today off Felixstowe during a test flight.

The wireless operator on board, Lieutenant MacLeod, was killed. The six passengers were rescued.

The flying boat, one of the largest of its type yet built, side-slipped and fell into the sea 500 yards off-shore. The plane crumpled under the impact with the water, and was virtually submerged. MacLeod was dead, strapped in his seat, when the wrecked craft was towed ashore.

Great crowds of holiday makers witnessed the accident.

The seaplane was capable of carrying thirty passengers and at the time of the accident it was flying at the rate of ninety miles an hour. The machine had risen gracefully and was flying over the water, gaining height as it went along. Suddenly it appeared to careen at a dangerous angle and, while still at a comparatively low altitude, sideslipped and fell into the sea.

UNDERWOOD PLANT CLOSES.

Typewriter Concern Suspends Business in Hartford Factory.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 11.—The Underwood Typewriter Company tonight announced the closing of its entire plant here, with the exception of the office department, because of strikes in the last three weeks. This action followed a strike of 400 more employes today, making a total of 2,400 idle out of the force of 4,100 workers. According to the management, the freight tieup was partly responsible for the shutdown.

Many of those who struck today were women who have been receiving $16 to $20 a week for operating punch presses. The chief demands of the strikers are for an eight-hour day and increases in wages.

SOLDIER THANKS HIS JUDGE.

Sends $50 to Officer Who Court-Martialed Him.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP DIX, N. J., Aug. 11.—A letter of thanks to the officer who had court-martialed him, accompanied by a gift of $50, which was immediately returned, marked the close of the unique army career of Private Frank Faxlanger of Buffalo, N. Y., a former draft evader, once sentenced to life imprisonment, but saved by the leniency of Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott, former camp commander.

Faxlanger, who twice broke his leg to evade the draft, was honorably discharged today, after several months of active service. He said the experience had "made a man" of him.

When Faxlanger, a compositor on a Buffalo newspaper, was summoned before the Draft Board, he was reported with a broken leg. Later he admitted he had gone to the cellar of his home and had dropped a log on the leg. When he was summoned again, he broke the other leg. When he recovered, he was sent to Camp Dix.

Major W. F. Lent learned that Faxlanger dreaded army life because he feared he would not make good as a soldier. Under drilling and army regulations, he changed his views, and after General Scott had released him from jail he begged to be allowed to remain in the service.

After he was discharged Major Lent received a letter from him which read in part:

"Having received my honorable discharge, I wish to thank you for your confidence in me. I have done my best and am leaving the service a better man with a good lesson learned. Money could not express my gratefulness to you, but I ask you to receive this gift."

The fifty-dollar note was inclosed.

Major Lent said Faxlanger had been under his observation since his court-martial, and had given excellent service.

To Indict Profiteers in Jersey.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 11.—Commission merchants throughout New Jersey, who, according to United States District Attorney Bodine "have, deliberately stayed out of the market and refused to purchase produce from the farmers, thereby increasing costs to consumers," face possible indictment by the Federal Grand Jury which is to investigate profiteering.

173 Tips from Washington

LET us get this point clear in our minds:

The Nation's Business is not a magazine about Washington; it is a magazine about business.

And every business to-day has its Washington angle.

There is in The Nation's Business a department made up wholly of news paragraphs. They deal with the vital new developments in Finance, Labor, Construction, Foreign Trade, Taxes, Shipping, Transportation, Industry and Business Organization.

In the current number, now on the news-stands, there are 173 of these paragraphs—every one a straight tip on business strategy.

Any one of those paragraphs may make or save you a hundred times the cost of the magazine.

Put The Nation's Business on your payroll as your Washington representative. You can do it at the nearest news-stand and the cost is 25 cents.

SEE FORD CRUCIFIED AS TRIAL NEARS END

His Attorneys Also Fail to See the Significance of Evidence on Mexican Outrages.

ANARCHIST, DEFENSE SAYS

'Don't Be Dazzled by His Wealth;' 'Don't Pull Any Harry Thaw Stuff,' Lawyer Stone Warns the Jury.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 11.—Before an assembly that packed the courtroom the semi-final closing arguments in the protracted million-dollar libel suit of Henry Ford against The Chicago Tribune were made today by Alfred J. Murphy and Oscar Lunderhausen, representing the plaintiff, and Warren S. Stone of Mount Clemens for the defendant. Interest was tense throughout the session, and the court was obliged twice to rebuke applause.

Carl Krix and William Van Dicke, attorneys for the Solomon brothers of Detroit, distributers of The Tribune, made co-defendants to obtain service in Michigan, will not address the jury. Mr. Murphy asserted in his argument that Judge Tucker would direct a verdict in favor of the Solomon brothers. This seems to be the general opinion among lawyers of both sides.

Elliot J. Stevenson, senior counsel for The Tribune, and Alfred Lucking, senior counsel for Mr. Ford, will have the last words Tuesday. About two hours of the allotted eight hours on a side remains for each. Joseph Medill Patterson, one of the editors of The Tribune, was in court today to listen to the arguments.

Henry Ford was compared to Christ and to Lincoln by both the Ford attorneys. He was declared an anarchist and a dangerous character by Mr. Stone. Mr. Ford, who is in the Adirondacks with John Burroughs and Thomas A. Edison, was represented in court by Ernest G. Liebold, his general secretary.

Mr. Lungerhausen told the jury he failed to see the significance of evidence by citizens of border States on outrages by Mexican bandits, asserting more persons were killed and injured in the recent Chicago race riots than in the Mexican outrages.

"Preparedness has been proved a promoter of war," said Lungerhausen. "It has proved the undoing of Germany. No wonder Henry Ford opposed war and warned people to curb their zeal.

"Ford is accused of calling soldiers murderers, but when taken in its true context, as shown by the deposition of Edward Marshall, who quoted him, it is found he was speaking of the German militarists.

"There has been only one perfect Man. He lived 1,900 years ago. They crucified Him as they are trying to crucify Ford."

Warren S. Stone, speaking for The Tribune, said:

"We called Henry Ford an ignorant idealist. It is true. Don't be dazzled by his wealth. Don't pull any Harry Thaw stuff. Treat this man just as if he were a common, ordinary citizen of the country.

"Don't be swayed because Ford put Detroit on the map, or because he changed his heart, or became scared and aided the Government in the war after he had opposed it in protecting its citizens. The slacker who becomes frightened and pays his quota is a slacker just the same.

"Coming to the conflicting testimony involving whether Vice President Klingensmith of the Ford Company did or did not give out the information which inspired the editorial, Mr. Murphy charged Lieutenant Lefebre, a Tribune witness, with perjury. He based the charge on the fact that when called as a witness Fefebre repudiated a statement alleged to have been given previously by him to a Ford lawyer.

Mr. Murphy, in his appeal to the jury, said that a man attacked as an anarchist might have one of two recourses; he might prove himself such by resort to fire and bomb, or he might come before a jury of his peers and ask that the wrong be righted. He declared the issues rested squarely on the editorial and the statements of facts therein contained.

TO DRAW AUTO BUREAU BILL.

McKinlry to Present Measure Providing for License Registration.

It was announced yesterday by Frank Oliver, Chief Clerk of the Magistrates Court, that Representative Ricard I. McKinlry had agreed to introduce a bill creating within the Department of Justice a Bureau of License Registration for all automobile licenses issued in the different States, this bureau to be a clearing house for information regarding automobile thefts. The history of each car and its license number as it changes from owner to owner will be recorded, and those who purchase cars will be expected to see that valid title of ownership is also furnished.

The proposed measure, Mr. Oliver said, has the approval of insurance companies and police departments all over the country.

Among the insurance companies which approve some plan are the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York, 92 Liberty Street, which, through its Vice President, William J. Johnson, wrote that "if any satisfactory method of identifying stolen automobiles can be established and maintained by faithful and accurate reports from the insurance carriers, we shall be glad to see such plan adopted."

Both the Westchester Fire Insurance Company of 100 William Street, and the Great American Insurance Company of 1 Liberty Street, have referred the matter witif approval to the Secretary of the Automobile Underwriters Conference at 140 Nassau Street, to be presented to the Executive Committee.

The Maryland Casualty Company of Baltimore wrote that at the next meeting of the company the matter would be given special attention.

ATTACKS SPRUCE DIVISION.

Army Witness Says Operations Were Wasteful.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Charges that the Government's production of spruce for airplanes was seriously mismanaged were made today at the opening of a hearing by a House of Representatives committee.

Charles R. Sligh, formerly a Major in the army, said: "The operations in the spruce forests of the Northwest were wickedly wasteful in the expenditure of public money and did not produce results."

Major John F. Morley of Cleveland, who was counsel for the Spruce Production Corporation, followed Mr. Sligh. He said resentment among Western lumbermen against letting contracts to Easterners had much to do with the agitation. He called Mr. Sligh "a sore head."

Charges that much more than the market price was paid by the Government in its purchases of spruce were made by Mr. Sligh.

The lumber sent out was of such poor quality, Mr. Sligh asserted, that of 6,326,335 feet sent to Grand Rapids, only 1,213,197 feet were usable, although all the lumber had been passed upon by Government inspectors under General Disque.

Blakelock's Funeral Thursday.

The funeral services for Ralph Albert Blakelock, the artist, who died Saturday at the Adirondack camp of William M. Kingsley near Elizabethtown, N. Y., will be held on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at Grace Church, Broadway and Tenth Street. Interment will be at Woodlawn.

Ex-Minister Alejandro Cabral.

LISBON, Aug. 11.—Alejandro Cabral, former Minister of the Interior, is dead.

TRACTION LINES REJECTED BY HYLAN

Mayor Tells Nixon That Systems Offered to City Should Be Sold as Junk.

TO ABANDON OPERATIONS

Three Subsidiaries of Third Avenue Company Declares Commissioner, Are Not Paying Expenses.

In granting the Third Avenue Railway Company permission to abandon operation of three of its subsidiaries which were not paying expenses, Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon wrote to Mayor Hylan, telling him of the situation of the lines, and informing him that if the city desired to take them over, the necessary hearings before the commission would be held.

Replying to this communication yesterday, the Mayor said that the lines were only good for scrap, and that the owners of them should take them to the junk dealers.

The lines are the Pelham Park and City Island, the Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth Street, and the Third Avenue Bridge Company's line. In applying for permission to cease operating them, S. W. Huff of the Third Avenue Company said that his company had been financing them for some time, and that the deficits for the last fiscal year on the three lines amounted to nearly $57,000.

Part of Mr. Nixon's letter to the Mayor referred to the latter's views that if lines could not be operated they should be abandoned, and the city would then undertake the service. Mr. Nixon admitted that there were qualifications of these expressions of the Mayor, but offered to do what he could to make clear whether it would be expedient for the city to take them over.

The Mayor's reply reads in part:

Whatever need may have existed for the operation of the lines of these companies seems to have disappeared with shifting conditions of traffic, and the Third Avenue Railway Company, in an effort to preserve its own solvency, has been forced to decline to further advance moneys to these companies with which to meet their deficits, and there being no other source from which they can secure the money for this purpose, they will be forced at an early date to discontinue operation.

If it was the intention of Mr. Huff, the President of the road controlling the system known as the Pelham Park and City Island Railroad Company, the Mid-Croestown Railroad Company and the Third Avenue Bridge Company, that you suggest to the city the possibility of operation as a municipally owned lines roads that they have already milked to the fullest extent, permit me to say to them, through you, that while I am fully convinced of the merits of municipally owned roads, the representatives of the roads enumerated in your letter have applied to the wrong shop.

From their statement to you as to their present condition, it would seem more proper that they take their wares to people who deal in second-handed railroad scrap, who are commonly called junk dealers.

In granting permission to the company to abandon the three lines, Mr. Nixon stated that he had no power to compel the further operation of them.

AMERICAN WOOLEN COMPANY

ANNOUNCEMENT

The AMERICAN WOOLEN COMPANY announces the incorporation of the HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION, Inc., Room 1111, 245 State Street, Boston, Mass.

PURPOSE—The PURPOSE of the Homestead Association, Inc., is to improve the housing conditions of the employees of the American Woolen Company, and to assist them to OWN THEIR HOMES.

METHOD—The Homestead Association, Inc., will prepare designs in consultation with the employees of the American Woolen Company for a large number of attractive individual houses, conveniently located to the mills of the American Woolen Company. These houses will be of durable, permanent construction; of four, five, six or more rooms, with all modern conveniences.

These houses will be sold to the employees of the American Woolen Company AT COST.

Money will be loaned to the employees of the American Woolen Company at 4½% for the purchase of these houses.

A first payment of at least 5% of the selling price will be made at the time of sale. The subsequent payments will be made monthly, of an amount equal to rent for that type of house.

A part of the monthly payment will cover INTEREST CHARGES, TAXES, AND INSURANCE, and the remainder will go towards reducing the mortgage.

By this plan, the owner will pay off the mortgage, by only paying the equal of "RENT MONEY."

The Homestead Association, Inc., will also take MORTGAGES at 4½% on quarterly balance on individual homes to be purchased by the employees of the American Woolen Company up to 75% of their real estate value, providing the owner will pay off the mortgage on the following monthly instalment plan:

Amount of Loan.	Pay Off Principal Per Mo.	Total Payment Per Mo.
$1000	$6.50	$6.50 to $10.00
$1001— 2000	7.50	11.00 to 15.00
2001— 3000	8.50	16.00 to 19.50
3001— 4000	9.50	20.50 to 24.50
4001— 5000	11.50	26.50 to 30.00

The Homestead Association, Inc., will accept only new mortgages. In no event will the transfer of an existing mortgage to the Homestead Association, Inc., be permitted.

BUILDING LOANS will also be extended on the above mortgage basis, to the employees of the American Woolen Company who wish to build singles houses, according to their own plans.

ELIGIBILITY—Any person in the employ of the American Woolen Company on June 16, 1919, or any employee insured by the Group Life Insurance policy of the American Woolen Company will be entitled to these privileges.

The Homestead Association, Inc., will lend money only on single houses, in which the receiver of the loan shall live.

American Woolen Company

Wm. M. Wood, President.

THE SCREEN

D. W. Griffith's "Hearts of the World," which was first shown in New York on April 4, 1918, and ran for seven months on Broadway, was revived last night as the third offering of Mr. Griffith's repertory season at the Georgs M. Cohan Theatre. Although announced as a "peace edition," the picture is practically unchanged, except in some of its subtitles and by the addition of several scenes at the end. But the environment of Broadway has changed, and the "Hearts of the World" seen last night is different from that shown more than sixteen months ago in the heat of war.

The picture, as it came in April, 1918, was a powerful instrument of propaganda. It stirred the passions of a people at war. Its dramatic and human character was overwhelmed by its patriotic fervor for most of those who saw it, such was their state of mind and so completely did the picture fill their hour.

But the "Hearts of the World" that came last night was a photoplay, a work of dramatic interest and human appeal. People have not forgotten the war, but its issues are no longer boiling within them, and this has not been shown more strikingly than in the reception of the picture last night. The spectators applauded its spectacles regardless of their military meaning, they laughed more freely and easily at its spontaneous comedy, they were held by the story and the people of the story, rather than by the war in the film. "Hearts of the World" had not changed, but they had.

And this is testimony to the work of Mr. Griffith. That he could make a war film in the midst of war and, at the same time, a photoplay for today and the future, more, in fact, for the future than for today, means another remarkable achievement to his credit. It should be added that the changes he has made in sub-titles are all excellent, calculated to meet the need of the time.

The acting of Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Robert Harron, Robert Anderson, George Fawcett, and the others in the cast, seen in a new light, seems better than ever, and Mr. Griffith will never surpass some of the scenes in the film.

Resume Cable to China and Siberia.

The Commercial Cable Company announced yesterday the resumption of direct cable communication with China and Siberia through the repairing of the Manila-Shanghai cable. This line recently was broken by a typhoon.

MUSIC NOTES.

Verdi's "Aida" had an open air rehearsal in Sheepshead Bay Speedway last evening, with a full moon assisting in the famous Nile scene. The gala public performance will take place there next Saturday in aid of the Italian earthquake victims.

Dirk Fock conducted again as guest at the Stadium concerts last evening, his program including Beethoven's "Leonore" and Wagner's "Tannhauser" overtures, Brahams's Fourr Symphony, and Debussy's "Faun."

Professor Rossetter G. Cole of Chicago will conduct his "Symphonic Prelude" tonight in the Columbia Gymnasium. The symphony is Beethoven's Fifth, and Dan Beddoe will sing the prize song from "Meistersinger."

"WORK AND SAVE."

It is refreshing to hear from the Federal Reserve Board that it does not ask nor need legislation for reducing the "inflation" which disturbs many so much more than those who know most about it. It is hardly necessary to say that the increase of the currency in the hands of the people, that is outside the banks and the Treasury, is not a prime cause of either inflation or the rise in prices. It is inconsiderable in itself, only $8 for each of us. That the increase is so small is explained by the manner in which the currency increases are offset by decreases which go far to stabilize the situation. The increase in Federal Reserve notes outstanding among the people is undeniable, from $357,239,000 about the time we entered the war to $2,504,753,000 on the first of this month. But the circulating gold had fallen into the custody of the banks by a decrease from $1,989,152,000 to $728,046,000 on the first of this month.

When this accumulation of gold was going on, gold being taken from where it did no particular good and perhaps some harm, and put where its effect for good would be enhanced and its power for harm limited, it was criticised by those who now are fearful of inflation. The inflation has come, but it is not conspicuous in the currency so much as in the bank deposits. At the beginning of the war all national banks had net deposits of about seven and a half billions, and at the latest report just short of twelve billions. All banks' deposits increased from eighteen billions at the beginning of the war to nearly twenty-seven billions. Price-making may be pushed to its ultimate degree by the retailers, and the buyers who use currency. But it starts with the wholesalers, who use what is sometimes called deposit currency.

The Governor of the Reserve Board does not compare the increase of either sort of currency with the growth of the aggregate of wealth, or of circulating wealth in the form of goods. Such a comparison would emphasize the board's expressed opinion that the inflation, which, it remarks, is neither excessive nor dangerous, will cure itself by the reverse of the process which caused it. Those most fearful of inflation regard it as the cause of the rise in prices complained of in the protests against the high cost of living. The board regards it rather as "the effect of advancing wages and prices, and not the cause." The demand for goods for instant use in war was greater than the supply, and cost was no object to the chief buyers, the world's Governments. Competitive buying of that imperative sort has been succeeded by buying in competition for the profits to be made in replenishing depleted stocks of goods and foods. The world is not yet within sight of full satisfaction of its wants, and prices cannot be expected to fall rapidly under such conditions.

What some call inflation the board considers "credit expansion," and estimates it for the United States at the difference between our Government's total expenditures and the funds which it has raised from two sources—loans floated from savings and money got by taxation. The board declines to estimate this total, and considers that this factor will be felt until war bonds now carried on credit are paid for from savings. That will not be brought about soon, since banks cannot refuse the lowest rate for loans on Government collateral. However much they may wish to do so, their ability is lessened by the necessity of preserving the relation of loans in the money market. If interest rates on Government bonds are raised, all other rates must be raised, and that is prejudicial to production of goods and activity of trade. It is a pity, but the market for credit is above boards or statutes. That being so, it may be imagined how much worse conditions are among countries which financed the war by increases of both currency and deposits far surpassing ours. No country has escaped some taint of this real inflation.

This is remarked not by way of criticism, for it was compulsory upon those who did not finance so much at ease as ourselves, but because it will have its reactions among us, although we are free from it. The reason is that when communications between nations are free there cannot be such inequalities of price levels as now exist. Those who have most to sell will find irresistible profits in supplying the wants of those in greatest need. It is not possible for the world to continue to sink over a billion a year in sustaining the people with necessaries sold at a loss made good from taxes. The world price is the only price worth considering, and prices can be reduced here economically only by supplying Europe's wants until the people there are little worse off than we, or we little better off than they. We need to revive the spirit in which we fought the war, and carry it over into the promotion of peace in a troubled world. "Work and save," the board says, is the only route out. As commercial paper, which is the basis of Federal Reserve notes, matures and is paid, the notes must be retired, and deflation will be promoted as painlessly as can be expected. That is the only point on which our Federal Reserve system has not been tested, but there is every reason to expect that it will work as it should.

REWARDING THE BULGARIANS.

The Italian delegates to the Peace Conference opposed the Greek claims against Bulgaria for a time, as a matter of diplomatic strategy. Italy and Greece had their own disputes elsewhere. But the Italo-Greek controversy now seems to have been settled, and the Italians are supporting the Greek claim against Bulgaria. France and England have always supported this claim. They knew that Bulgaria joined the enemy when everything was going his way; that she sided with the Germans in expectation of sharing the spoils, that she did share in the spoils until the whole Central European alliance had to disgorge. They remember, too, that the Bulgarians assured French and British statesmen up to the very last that they would never think of joining the Germans. The burnt statesman dreads the fire.

Only the Americans are holding out on the side of Bulgaria. We would not fight Bulgaria; we left to French and British and Greeks and Serbs the task of breaking in the back door of the enemy's citadel; so far as we are concerned, the Bulgars would still be intrenched outside of Saloniki. We would do nothing to help our allies beat them, but we seem to be doing a good deal to help them beat our allies.

Reports from Paris have it that some of the American delegates favor the Bulgarian claim to Thrace on the ground that, while the Greeks were greatly in the majority there before the war, after the war began the Greek population was massacred or driven out, so that only the Bulgars and Turks were left. Hence our delegates argue that Thrace must go to Bulgaria on the principle of nationality. This is an entertaining departure in statesmanship, and one which our peace delegation could put into force elsewhere. Why all this talk about an independent Armenia? True, there was an Armenian nation before the war, but half of it was butchered by the Turks. The country along the Somme and Aisne was emptied of its French inhabitants a year ago last Spring, and for a few months the population of those regions consisted almost entirely of German soldiers. We did not announce at the time that we favored their annexation to Germany.

To be sure, the Germans and Bulgars may have some ground for complaint against us, for we are rather late in announcing this policy. If we had only proclaimed it two years ago, perhaps the Germans would have deported all the Belgians instead of only a few hundred thousand or so, and then claimed Belgium in accordance with the principle of nationality. If any predatory race had supposed that a great Power nominally counted among its enemies would actually reward it for widespread massacre, the slaughter of non-combatants would have been carried out more diligently.

There are still Americans who think that a nation which would not fight Bulgaria, even when Bulgaria was serving the Kaiser as well as she could, has no business in the making of peace with Bulgaria. They will think that even more strongly when they see our Peace Commission proposing arrangements that are likely to make certain a new war in the Balkans within the next few years—for unless the Bulgars are shown once and for all the undesirability of attempting to make themselves the most powerful State in Southeastern Europe, they will try it again before long. But apparently this reasoning has no influence with some of our peace delegates still in Paris. They prefer to proclaim to the world that America has no great veneration for the principle of nationality that she will support any race that is in a temporary or local majority, even if it has attained that position by the massacre of all the other races of the neighborhood. Certainly the American people do not want to penalize humane treatment of conquered populations and reward the slaughter of the innocent and helpless.

GOOD NATURE MAY BE BAD CITIZENSHIP.

There are two ways of viewing the good nature with which commuters from the neighboring borough accepted the discomforts of the recent strike. We shall no longer be Americans when we fail to regard an occasional hardship as a new adventure, greeting our fellow-sufferers with gibes and responding to their jeers with laughter. Something of the spirit of the pioneer remains in all of us—the spirit that grins hardest when fate is hardest to bear. Yet our forefathers had another trait which seems less persistent today. When they felt deliberately put upon, they raised a yell and gave a lively example of direct action.

The strikers may be absolved of any intent to inflict hardship upon the public. Except when a car had to be stormed they were civil enough—even deprecatory. Yet the fact remains that they were invading an undoubted right of the public. The situation was rendered doubly unjust in view of the fact that organized labor has fared conspicuously well throughout the war, whereas the class of salaried brain workers, to which the wayfaring crowds almost exclusively belonged, have fared less well. And at a crisis in which, if we are to restore normal times, the one great need is for long hours of uninterrupted labor, the strikers disrupted traffic in order to enforce a particular and by no means undoubted claim—that of recognition of a union. In the pioneer days no one could have done a thing like that without seriously disturbing the public good nature.

In the present struggle to lower prices the phenomenon is repeating itself; and here we do not have to go back to the pioneers for an example of direct action. In aristocratic England today fashionably dressed women and men in silk hats are conducting open-air markets in competition with the local shopkeepers. The competition is, of course, unequal. Booths are set up in the market place for which no rent is paid; and, of course, the decorative saleswomen and butchers' boys receive no wages. But the fact remains that costs are reduced 30, 40, even 50 per cent., so that the public gets an object lesson as to the relation of wholesale and retail prices. It may not be sound merchandising, but it is the best possible advertising. The public is learning its lesson. Already the regular shopkeepers are reducing their prices to a more normal level.

Our easy-going ways, amiable as they are to the superficial view, are fundamentally not the best citizenship. It is not a new phenomenon. The reign of graft had its origin and its stronghold in the national willingness to grin and bear rather than to grit his teeth and stop it. Our latest transatlantic critic, Mr. H. W. MASSINGHAM of The London Nation, finds that as a people we "live more on the nerves than on the primitive passions," which is to say that we live more in surface moods than in fundamental convictions. To arouse us to a sense of our rights and wrongs generally requires a long and hard campaign. The present fight for fair prices will succeed in proportion as the individual buyer makes it personal to himself—and to his butcher and baker and candlestick maker.

ANDREW CARNEGIE.

In the old Fifeshire burgh of Dunfermline, birthplace of Charles I., the loser of a kingdom, a boy was born who was to win a kingdom, to become the head of the master industry of iron and steel in the United States. He was born to good fortune in a poor cottage. He inherited nothing but poverty and health, capacity to work and to take advantage of every opportunity. A merciless new industrial force, the power of steam, drove his father, a master hand-loom weaver, out of business, the whole family out of Scotland. At twelve the boy who fifty years later was to scatter hundreds of millions for beneficent and fruitful objects as gayly and easily as pearls and diamonds fall from the lips of princesses in fairy stories was earning $1.20 a week as a bobbin boy. He got up early and he worked late. He worked in a cotton factory. He learned to be a telegrapher, and felt himself to be passing rich on $25 a month. He showed his mettle when he was clerk and operator to TOM SCOTT of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

After a railroad accident he telegraphed orders on his own responsibility. He showed his quickness and soundness of judgment, his talent for administration, his swift grasp of a situation. From that moment we feel that his fortune was made. Slowly at first. He saved. He made prudent investments on the advice of judicious friends. All his life he was singularly successful in acquiring helpful, useful, and distinguished friends.

While Mr. CARNEGIE is not to be reckoned in the Baconian sense among the "founders" of industrial empire," men like BESSEMER and SIEMENS, his extraordinary gift of organization, his ability to discover and promote able lieutenants, enabled him to carry out on a grand scale the great revolutionary and creative newly discovered processes. Moreover, he had that imagination that is found in so many makers of mighty fortunes as in the makers of novels and dramas and epics. He saw iron bridges when wood was the universal pontifical material. Somewhat over fifty years ago he saw that the English railways were laying steel rails in place of iron, thanks to the Bessemer process, which he brought to Pittsburgh. He saw the immense demand there would be for iron and steel products in a country whose population was certain marvelously to increase, whose agriculture and communications and manufactures and trade were even then in a primary stage of development. Coke, iron ore, iron and steel, he got, assembled, produced, adding establishment to establishment in the most efficient, economical, and best organized methods. If the rebate system on the railroads and the protective tariff—which he despised, even if it augmented his fortune — were windfalls upon the path of his prosperity, his genius as an organizer and as a chooser of men would have brought him the same success. Finally, cannily planning a war to the uttermost against powerful competitors aiming at a triumphant steel autocracy, he had to be bought out with prodigious millions.

Thenceforward he was to astonish the world by his splendid gifts, nearly a third of a billion for philanthropic objects. Six highly endowed institutions survive him, and perpetuate his name and his purposes. His library buildings are scattered through the country. To him ill-paid teachers owe the security of their old age. The Carnegie Institution has done and promises permanently to do valuable work for the sciences.

If he did not care to do good by stealth, it was because he felt that a very rich man is essentially a trustee for the public, and the public should know that the trustee is doing his duty. His wealth was such that it was hard work for him to carry out his theory of the disgrace of dying rich, but, surely, since the world began nobody has given away anything like so colossal a fortune. The public has got most of Mr. CARNEGIE's money by his frequent and lavish donations among the living. Singular Scot, he minded a hundred million less than the traditional "saxpence." Mr. CARNEGIE had a sense of humor not at all dependent on "a surgical operation." From life, from association with many notable figures in business, in politics, in art and literature and science, he picked up a various education. He was an original writer. In action and in leisure he tasted a wide variety of experience. He got a great deal out of life, about everything that he wanted. If cynics thought that he was a little too self-satisfied, is not the hero of the fairy story whose life in low estate began, who became one of the richest of men, who loved money so well that he loved to give it away with both hands, and who enjoyed himself with work or play through a long life, justified in approving his part and feeling that the spectators must not only wonder but applaud? His memory will live not so much by reason of the amount of his fortune as because of the incalculable good he did with it.

THE MEXICAN INQUIRY.

No intelligent American desires war with Mexico if it can be avoided, and armed intervention would be war. Is war the only solution of a problem that presses more and more upon the attention of the American people, because their nationals in Mexico are not protected either in their persons or their property by the Carranza Government, and because Americans who have mines, ranches, and oil fields in Mexico are weary of waiting for the stable Government that seems to recede with the flight of time? It would be gross flattery of the Mexicans to say that the Carranza administration is a responsible Government. It would be untrue to say that it manifested a friendly spirit toward the United States, even by lip service, in the years of the great war before the entrance of the United States. A weak nation, as variable as a weathercock, it leaned toward Germany until America placed her vast resources on the side of the Allies and took the field. Then for the first time Mexico realized how puny she was as a military Power compared with the United States, and the tone of official opinion changed. The Mexicans dread intervention now, knowing how impotent they would be to stay the onward sweep of an American expeditionary force. Consider this dispatch from the capital:

> Stung by adverse reports in the United States newspapers that Mexico was doing nothing to protect foreigners, Secretary of State MANUEL AGUIRRE BELANGA has wired all State Governors instructions to push rapidly all cases where foreigners have been attacked. All cases, he says, must be pushed to the limit.

There can be no doubt that Mexico could be quickly overrun by a comparatively small American army, but pacification and reconstruction would be a long and costly process. It may be assumed that Mexico and the Mexicans would be benefited by benevolent occupation, and that the whole world would be the gainer. Nevertheless, it does not follow that force with altruistic intent would be desirable. Is there no other way out of the maze? There are reasons why armed intervention might be unfortunate and regrettable, also not as profitable as Americans with property interests in Mexico are disposed to believe. Unless the United States could win the approval of South America, it would be a very dubious political undertaking. Our statesmen have striven to make Pan-American union a radiant reality. The use of force might alienate the Mexicans. If a stable Government could be set up in Mexico by the Mexicans themselves, either by a revolutionary leader of vision and capacity, or through the constitutional process of a national election—one is to be held next year—the result would be vastly more to the advantage of Americans holding concessions, doing business, or possessing property in Mexico than would be the case if an American army first conquered, then pacified the country, and taught the Mexicans how to govern themselves. But the trouble is that there are influential Americans, public men and investors, who have completely lost patience with Mexico and are not willing to grant her longer time to redeem herself.

It is ominous for a peaceful solution that Senator FALL, who is Chairman of the committee directed to investigate the responsibility of the Carranza Government for outrages and damages suffered by citizens of the United States in Mexico, declares that information in the possession of the State Department will show that "CARRANZA is not ruling Mexico, but "that he controls only a small area "along the main lines of communication," and that he is "pursuing a policy of confiscation." This seems like prejudging the case. Senator KING of Utah, the author of the resolution calling for the inquiry, gives notice that he will demand a treaty providing for the liquidation by Mexico of the bill of damages, and, in the event of her failure to pay up, imposing a blockade of her ports and seizure of her custom houses. That would probably be a short cut to war. At the same time, pressure upon Mexico is necessary. The policy of "watchful waiting" has failed. As the Monroe Doctrine bars the way of a European nation that feels the impulse to teach the Mexicans the lesson of respect for human life and property, the United States must act for Europe as well as for itself in bringing Mexico to its senses. With tact as well as firmness she may be made to see the light, and armed intervention may be averted by the performance of the Carranza Government—its promises have hitherto been false. The Senate inquiry, if conducted in the right spirit, may be of great service in improving the relations of the United States and Mexico, but if the jingo spirit dominates the inquiry a peaceful solution is not to be expected.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

At Least There Is a Chance.

It is necessary to think twice, and perhaps three times, before reaching a belief, or even a confident hope, that a problem as large and serious as the high cost of living can be solved by the simple expedient of bringing to the knowledge of the public the difference between the prices paid for what is bought in the shops and the prices paid for those things by the shopkeepers to the producers or their agents and intermediaries.

This plan depends for success in part on the efficiency of an appeal to the better nature—or the timidity—of the ultimate distributers, and in part on the willingness of their customers to be at the trouble of utilizing the information contained in the "fair price" tables that are to be provided for them. A good many people will say in their haste that not much trust can be placed in either of those directions.

These doubters forget, however, that the present situation is such as to make reasonable the expectation, as to the dealers, that they will hesitate more than ever before to demand excessive profits—when the size of the excessiveness is a matter of easily accessible knowledge—and, as to the taking of trouble by the buyers, the need of it is so great and so well realized by almost everybody that probably almost everybody will take it, though to do so is so much against American custom.

At any rate, practically this same plan really has brought about a drop of retail prices for the necessaries of life in Paris, and there is something more than a possibility that it will ameliorate our many woes. That it will cure them all is not probable, but perfect happiness or full content never has been and never will be within human reach.

Middlemen Are Not Superfluous.

Whatever dubiety there may be in regard to the fair price list plan, it is certainly more hopeful, or at least far less nearly hopeless, than is the most frequently mentioned of alternative schemes—that of eliminating the middleman and providing facilities for direct dealing between consumer and producer. That is an always alluring proposal, but its allurement lies chiefly in the too common assumption that the middleman does no work for the money he gets. As a matter of fact, he usually does perform a valuable service, and in not a few cases an essential one.

That the middleman may be dishonest, that he may be too numerous, that he takes more than his due compensation for his labors and risks—all these things are true. But the abuses of a system are not a sufficient reason for condemning it; they are only a sufficient reason for removing the abuses and punishing the abusers as they deserve.

Production is one task and distribution in its several phases is quite another, and experience teaches the economy of intrusting them, in most cases, to different hands. Not infrequently what passes for the elimination of the middleman is nothing more than giving him a new name. Instead of doing business on his own account, he becomes the producer's hired man, but he has to be paid just the same, and he is not always as efficient as he was when his reward was more dependent on his own enterprise, initiative, and industry.

That the middleman has his uses, in spite of his unpopularity, is shown plainly enough by the almost complete failure of repeated efforts to send foodstuffs by post from farms to urban houses.

Criticism from a Professional.

American Medicine scolds the newspapers for giving the amount of space they did to the recent competitive utilization of fists as weapons by two large citizens of this proud land. Not only does the medical editor think that the press which to him is "lay" paid too much attention to that affair, but he denies to the giving whatever of excuse there is in meeting a public demand. He insists that the demand, before it was met, was created by columns and pages of preliminary or anticipatory exploitation of the sorry enterprise, and that except for this the public would have turned its many minds to more important and edifying matters—and, incidentally, would have saved a lot of money which, in these days, it was worse than wasteful to devote to filling the pockets of prizefighters and prizefight promoters.

The grievance of the medical editor is double-barreled. Not only does he condemn the papers for their magnification of the Toledo affair; he also means that the energy and money spent in reporting it were not devoted to giving a like publicity to the annual convention of the American Medical Association. There, he says in effect, things really important and intelligently interesting were done and said, and they were dismissed in a few lines.

Criticism of this sort is not without embarrassing elements for its recipients, but it is not deserved—certainly not entirely deserved. For one thing, it puts on the whole press a common condemnation, which is never fair to the whole of it, and, for another, it exaggerates whatever offence, if any, was committed. Many papers gave the Medical Association's convention many more than a few lines, and that they did not give it a still greater number may have been due, at least in part, to the frequent admonitions which the lay papers have received as to the impropriety of making news of medical matters, and especially of medical controversies and discoveries.

As for having created a demand for prizefight information where none or little of it existed, the truth of that charge cannot be proved, and in all probability it is false. And it is significant that the medical editor seems to have read a good many of the prizefight "stories." How else would he know so much about them?

Protection Must Be Given.

To the complaint of the Superintendent of the Bronx Borough parks that the City Magistrates do not give the help they should in repressing vandalism by adequately punishing the vandals, immediate attention should be given, and presumably will be. Whatever of deterrent efficiency there is in fines or imprisonment certainly should be utilized in protecting the public's property from the part of the public that seemingly delights in destroying the common treasure.

No form of theft could be more deserving of reprehension than this, for it is of a peculiar viciousness and a special meanness. Ignorance does not excuse it, and the ignorance is of a sort that would disappear on the giving of a few stern lessons to the despoilers that their crimes have incidental dangers as well as mysterious pleasures.

Why She Is a Bolshevik.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many of my friends ask why I believe in Bolshevism. I will tell you why. Because it isn't right that John D. Rockefeller chew all the gum he wants, wear silk socks every day, have all his teeth gold if he wants, when I have to count every penny. Why, this profiteering is awful. I had for lunch today only one pickle, a cup of coffee and cream, orange and a loganberry sundae, and it cost me 55 cents.

Now, I hear they are going to have automatic telephones, and I suppose I'll lose my job as a telephone girl just when I had got a voice with a smile, held the record in our office of only eighty-three wrong numbers in one day, and could say three so it sounded just like a tree toad. I am a high school product and splendidly educated.

Yours for Bolshevism,
MAE ZALINSKY.
New York, Aug. 11, 1919.

The Staten Island Ferry.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of Aug. 7, "A Sufferer" expresses appreciation of the stand taken by Mr. Underwood. Does Sufferer realize that were it not for the fact that the boat were emptied at the ferry house, the mother and babies on coming slowly down the runway to the boat would find all the seats occupied by Mr. Underwoods, as a great majority would stay on the boats and monopolize the best places? I have experienced this. The fact is that more people take advantage of this delightful trip down the bay than the ferry company can comfortably carry. Therefore sit one way, stand the other, or, when getting off, wait for the next boat.
New York, Aug. 7, 1919. JUSTICE.

PATIENCE, MY BELOVED!

I.
You see me changed, and say I do not smile;
Ah, let me wait, for I would rest awhile!
Some day, perhaps, the tale that I might tell
You'll hear from me whose soul grew sick in Hell.

II.
I was so young, and, oh, my heart was light;
My blood ran hot, impatient for the fight;
And now, returned, you seem to think that I Should still be gay, who saw my comrades die!

III.
Not from the dead who sleep beyond the sea
Has age, old age, so newly come to me,
But from you, dear ones, who have waited here
To welcome me whose youth died yesteryear.

IV.
You know me silent, who was made for song,
A dreamer now, who struggled with the strong;
And in your eyes the question that you ask
Disturbs my spirit that's behind a mask.

V.
How can I answer till my youth returns,
The pain departs that in my bosom burns?
I love you, love, but would that you might seek
The way to patience till my tongue can speak.

EDWARD S. VAN ZILE.

CHARGES PRESIDENT IS FRIEND OF 'REDS'

Poindexter Again Asserts in Senate That Executive Praised Lenin-Trotzky Regime.

SEES PLOT IN MOONEY AID

Declares His Request for a New Trial Was Inspired in Bolshevist Russia.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. — Senator Poindexter of Washington, who charged in the course of a speech he delivered at Cambridge in June that President Wilson, in a speech delivered to Congress, had referred to the Lenin-Trotzky Government of Russia as one worthy of "the admiration of every lover of mankind," repeated that assertion in the open Senate today.

He said that the speech in which the President made the statement lauding the Bolshevist Government was delivered Jan. 8 last, and quoted at length from the speech to prove that he had not misquoted the President. Senator Poindexter based his remarks, in so far as they relate to the President's remarks, on an editorial which appeared in THE NEW YORK TIMES of May 30 last, under the caption "An Apology Due."

THE TIMES in that editorial said that Senator Poindexter "ought to verify his quotations when he gets them from such a source." THE TIMES editorial was written with the supposition that Senator Poindexter, when he made his charge, had in mind the President's speech to Congress on Dec. 4 last.

At the time it was widely printed that Senator Poindexter had quoted from a pro-Bolshevist pamphlet, which had reprinted what were reported to be excerpts from the President's speech of Dec. 4.

"If this matter related only to the question of accuracy of the single statement quoted in this editorial," said Senator Poindexter, "important and vital as is the subject to which it refers, I would not call attention to it in this way. But for the reason that it is only one of a series of acts and declarations, indicating not merely sporadic expressions of casual views, but a fixed and settled principle and well established policy on the part of the President in regard to this matter, that I have considered it of sufficient importance to reprint in The Record the document which I have read and commented on.

"I appreciate the interest of this great and very reputable newspaper in accuracy of its statements. So it is somewhat peculiar that a paper of this standing in an editorial on the subject of accuracy, which contains two main statements of facts, is absolutely not only inaccurate, but wrong in every respect in each one of them.

"The editorial undertakes to dispute that the President had uttered the remarks which I quoted from him. It is wrong in that, as I shall show. It also contains the assertion that, referring to myself, 'He said he got the quotation out of a Bolshevist pamphlet.' He ought to verify his quotations when he gets them from such a source.'

"The newspaper is wrong in that statement. I made no such statement as to the source of my information. I assumed that the Senate, as I stated at the time, was familiar with the public utterances of the President of the United States delivered in official messages to the Congress.

Quotes President's Speeches.

"I have in my hand an official publication entitled: 'Document No. 468, Sixty-fifth Congress, 2d session, addresses of the President of the United States delivered at a joint session of the two houses of Congress, Dec. 4, 1917.'

"I have also document No. 765, Sixty-fifth Congress, 2d session, an address of President Wilson to the Congress of the United States, January 8, 1918.

"The address of Jan. 8, 1918, as will be seen by reference to the entire address, was on the subject of the new developments in Russia. It may enable those who are interested in this question and THE NEW YORK TIMES to give proper interpretation to the President's remarks by reference to the fact that the date of the overthrow of Kerensky was Nov. 7, 1917; that the Brest-Litovsk peace conference met on Dec. 20, 1917, and continued in session until March 4, 1918; that the treaty between the Bolshevist Government in Russia and the German Imperial Government, known as the Brest-Litovsk treaty, was signed March 4, 1918, and that the constitutional assembly which had been elected by the people of Russia was dissolved by force of arms by the Bolshevist Government on Jan. 20, 1918.

"The President opened his address of Jan. 8, 1918, by the statement—and I read this very largely to show the subject matter of the address in order that the references further made may be intelligently understood:

> Once more, as repeatedly before, the spokesmen of the Central Empires have indicated their desire to discuss the objects of the war and the possible bases of a general peace. Parleys have been in progress at Brest-Litovsk between Russian representatives and the representatives of the Central Powers, to which the attention of all the belligerents has been invited for the purpose of ascertaining if it may be possible to extend these parleys into a general conference in regard to terms of peace and settlement. The Russian representatives presented not only a perfectly definite statement of the principles upon which they would be willing to conclude peace, but also an equally definite statement of a concrete application of those principles.

"Reading further from this same address:

> "'It is the voice of the Russian people. They are prostrate and all but helpless, it would seem, before the grim power of Germany, which has hitherto known no relenting and no pity. Their power apparently is scattered, and yet their soul is not subservient; they will not yield either in principle or action. Their conception of what is right and what is humane and honorable for them to accept has been stated with a frankness and largeness of view and generosity of spirit and a universal human sympathy which must challenge the admiration of every friend of mankind.'"

Senator Poindexter also charged that not only did the President look "upon the representatives of the Bolshevist Government" with admiration, but that "he had approved their terms of peace," and that subsequently "he was using his influence as the chief officer of the Government to bring about similar terms of peace between the United States and its associate powers against Germany." He referred to the "peace without victory" speech of Jan. 22, 1917, and said that on Dec. 4, 1917, he again came out for a peace without victory.

Refers to Mooney Case Action.

Senator Poindexter also referred at length to the President's action in urging a new trial for Thomas Mooney, convicted and sentenced to death in California for murder.

"I have in my hand," added Senator Poindexter, "the statement of the Governor of California accompanying his action in commuting the death sentence of Thomas Mooney, convicted of dynamiting on a preparedness day parade, from death to life imprisonment. In this statement of the Governor of California are incorporated several messages from the President of the United States to the Governor, requesting his interference with the course of the decisions of the courts of California in the Mooney case in order to secure for Mooney a new trial.

"Strange as it may seem, it appears from these messages from the President to the Governor of California in the Mooney case the same influences that the President eulogized in his address to Congress which have just read, and to which I referred here on a former occasion, were operating upon him to induce him, notwithstanding his position as Chief of the Federal Government, to use the influence of that position to interfere with the course of justice in a sovereign State of the Union.

"Mark the language of that message: 'Would have a most heartfelt effect upon certain international affairs.'

"It is well known, Mr. President, that the agitation for the commutation of the sentence of Mooney, so far as the impetus which attracted the attention of the country was concerned, originated not in the United States, but at St. Petersburg, in the Bolshevist Government of St. Petersburg."

NEWBURGER INDEPENDENT.

Supreme Court Justice Not to Enter Democratic Primaries.

Supreme Court Justice Joseph E. Newburger formally declined yesterday to be a candidate in the Democratic primaries for a nomination against Irwin Untermyer, who was selected by Leader Charles F. Murphy as Tammany Hall's candidate. Justice Newburger's declination was filed with the Board of Elections.

The Justice has retained the designation given him by the Republicans, and although he is unopposed in the Republican primaries, his name will remain on the ticket. His friends believe that as the Republican candidate he will defeat the Democratic choice at the election on Nov. 5.

William F. Schneider, who is organizing the opposition to the Tammany Hall candidate through his organization, the Cleveland Democracy, received a letter yesterday from the Rev. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue, stating that he would aid in the campaign to re-elect Justice Newburger. Rabbi Wise wrote:

"I wanted you to know that you might count upon me for any service you might wish me to render in connection with the campaign against Tammany Hall in the coming election. The issue is clear-cut and you have stated it admirably. Your warning to the community against the attempted spoliation of the bench next year is valuable and most timely counsel."

REVENTLOW LOOKS TO TOKIO

Urges Germans to Cultivate Japan's Friendship Rather Than Ours.

BERLIN, July 21, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.) — Count Reventlow, editor of the Tageszeitung, takes issue with Count von Bernstorff, formerly Ambassador to America, over the latter's suggestion that Germany should cultivate a pro-American policy or friendly relations with America. Instead, the editor favors Japan.

Warning his readers against a single trend of German foreign policy, Count zu Reventlow says:

"The eyes of Germany must also be turned in the direction of the European east, and we must not forget that Japan was the power among our foes which during the progress of the war did not manifest intense hatred and will for annihilation; where a strong current even if suppressed, in favor of Germany was visible; which treated our prisoners far better than other powers, and which, alone among all our foes, demonstrated herself a nation of culture.

"The union of powers which calls itself the League of Nations, if it becomes a fact and is able to exert in any length of time, will be nothing but an epitome of Anglo-Saxon world dominion, which would absolutely control the highest markets."

CAMP MILLS SOON TO CLOSE.

Only a Few Men There Awaiting Preliminaries of Demobilization.

MINEOLA, Aug. 11. — Under orders from Washington to speed up the work of putting soldiers returned from overseas through the sanitation process Colonel R. R. Pickering, in charge of Camp Mills, was able today to send 7,14[illegible] enlisted men and 158 officers to camps near their homes for demobilization. It was announced that the last of the men at the camp—824 enlisted men and 349 officers—would be able to leave tomorrow, completing the work of demobilization so far as Camp Mills is concerned and virtually closing the camp.

A considerable number of men will be needed at the camp, however, to look after the buildings and the stores in the big warehouses, and it has been decided to retain 864 men and 262 officers from the Quartermaster Corps, the Motor Corps, and the 13th Infantry. These men will be gradually sent away as the need for their services ends.

PUTS SHOE RISE ON PUBLIC.

Witness Says that "Undue Buying" Is One Cause of Advance.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—Henry B. Endicott and Richard H. Long, shoe manufacturers, and two representatives of local retail shoe stores testified today at a Grand Jury investigation of the causes of the high prices of shoes, begun by District Attorney Pelletier. Other shoe men will be heard tomorrow.

The District Attorney's office said that one witness asserted that the cost of labor and materials, poor transportation, and undue buying by the public had all combined to create the present situation. The only speculation going on in the shoe market, it was declared, was by the consumers. Many persons, the witness said, appeared to be buying shoes in anticipation of an advance in prices, thus tending to force prices up.

Elimination of the jobber as a means of reducing costs was impracticable, in the opinion of another witness, because, he said, many retailers had not the capital to keep a big stock and must have recourse to the jobber.

"STATICS" CRIPPLE WIRES.

Surplus of Atmospheric Electricity Upsets Telegraphic Service.

Telegraphic companies reported yesterday that the service was interfered with by the worst invasion of the wires by electric currents from the air which has occurred in many years.

So-called "statics" kept finding their way into the wires, causing the receiving instruments to clatter so erratically that operators often had to break off and wait for many minutes for the instruments to sober down so that messages became intelligible. Usually this sort of interference is short-lived, but yesterday's trouble lasted from dawn until after 5 P. M. The greatest interference was with the lines running north and northwest along the Atlantic seaboard as far south as Georgia. The worst paralysis of service was between points due north and due south, the longest delay being one of three hours.

The popular explanation that the aurora borealis caused the trouble was put forward again, but this is denied by scientists, who hold that that phenomenon has nothing to do with it, and that an abnormal amount of atmospheric electricity or "statics" not connected with the aurora borealis produces the effect experienced yesterday.

CARNEGIE STARTED AS A BOBBIN BOY

Came to America When He Was 12 Years Old and Left Some $500,000,000.

MADE FORTUNE IN STEEL

Rose to be Dominant Figure in Industrial World and Great Benefactor.

Until he was a septuagenarian, Andrew Carnegie believed that he was born in 1837. Then on a return visit to his native town in Scotland he learned that the date 1837 in the church records merely meant that the records were commenced in that year, and he was listed as a living child in the first census. He announced his correction of the date of his birth by clicking the news to his brother telegraphers on a miniature telegraph instrument at his plate at the dinner they were giving in his honor, supposing it to be his seventy-first when it was really his seventy-third birthday.

He was born Nov. 25, 1835, in Dunfermline, a little manufacturing town in Fifeshire, Scotland, at that time noted for its weaving. His father and his ancestors for a long way back had been weavers, and at the time of Andrew's birth the elder Carnegie owned three or four hand looms, one of which he operated himself, and hired extra hands for the others as the trade required. Andrew was to have been a weaver too, but new inventions were soon to abolish the industry, and William Carnegie, his father, was the last of the weaving line.

"I owe a great deal to my mother," he wrote in 1914. "She was companion, nurse, seamstress, cook, and washerwoman, and never until late in life had a servant in the house. Yet she was a cultivated lady who taught me most of what I know."

He earned his first penny by reciting Burns's long poem, "Man Was Made to Mourn," without a break. There is a story that in Sunday school, being called upon to recite some Scripture text, he astonished the assembly by giving this: "Look after the pence, and the pounds will take care of themselves."

Wealth Put at $500,000,000.

Estimates of Mr. Carnegie's wealth made yesterday put it at possibly $500,000,000. When he retired in 1901 he sold his securities of the Carnegie Steel Company to the United States Steel Corporation for $303,450,000 in bonds of that company. He was possessed of large interests in addition to those bonds. When he started in 1901 to endow his great benefactions he made inroads into his capital for several years in gifts to libraries, for peace propaganda, and to other philanthropic causes.

The fortune of $303,450,000 in 5 per cent. bonds if allowed to increase by the accumulation of interest and reinvestment since 1901 would amount to about a billion dollars today, but his numerous benefactions prevented this. According to financial authorities, however, the ironmaster's ambition to die poor was not realized, and, despite the scale of his philanthropies, it was believed that his fortune was at his death as large as it ever was.

Elihu Root, Jr., son of former United States Senator Root, whose father for years has been Mr. Carnegie's counsel, declined yesterday to discuss Mr. Carnegie's affairs other than to say that he was a citizen of New York City and to admit that his will doubtless would be probated here.

When he was 12 years old the steam looms drove his father, the master weaver, out of business, and reduced to poverty the family emigrated to America. There were four, the parents and two boys, Andrew and Thomas. They settled at Allegheny City, Penn., across the river from Pittsburgh, in 1848. The father and Andrew found work in a cotton factory, the son as bobbin boy. His pay was $1.20 in this, his first job. He was soon promoted, at a slight advance to be engineer's assistant and he stoked the boilers and ran the engine in the factory cellar for twelve hours a day.

It was at this time, he afterward said, that the inspiration came for his subsequent library benefactions. Colonel Anderson, a gentleman with a library of about 400 books, opened it to the boys every week-end and let them borrow any book they wanted. Carnegie made full use of the opportunity. "Only he who has longed as I did for Saturdays to come," he said, "can understand what Colonel Anderson did for me and the boys of Allegheny. Is it any wonder that I resolved if ever surplus wealth came to me I would use it imitating my benefactor?"

Becomes a Telegraph Messenger.

At 14 he became a telegraph messenger. The Superintendent of the office, James Reid, also a Scot, took a liking to the new boy. Indeed, it was his Scotch accent that warmed Reid's heart toward him, and got him the job. Andrew had not been there a month before he asked Mr. Reid to teach him telegraphy, and spent all his spare time in practice. It was the first step upward. "My entrance into the telegraph office," said Carnegie, "was a transition from darkness to light—from firing a small engine in a dark and dirty cellar into a clean office with bright windows and a literary atmosphere, with books, newspapers, pens, and pencils all around me. I was the happiest boy alive."

One day a death message came before the operators arrived. Carnegie took it, and delivered it, and this led to his promotion to be an operator. When the Pennsylvania Railroad put up a telegraph wire of its own he became clerk under Divisional Superintendent Thomas A. Scott, at a salary increased to $35 a month. Mr. Scott got $125 a month, "and," Carnegie said, "I used to wonder what on earth he could do with so much money."

At that time telegraphy was still new. The dots and dashes were not read by sound, but were all impressed on tape, and Carnegie is said to have been the third operator in the United States to read messages by sound alone. He was now Colonel Scott's private secretary. One morning when Colonel Scott was late coming down the trains were getting tangled up in the yards. The young private secretary wrote out such orders as he knew his chief would give and put them on the wires. When Colonel Scott arrived, greatly disturbed over what he supposed, and prepared to plunge into the work of straightening things out, Carnegie told what he had done and said the trains were all under way. Scott said nothing to him, but to the President of the road he reported that he "had a little Scotch devil in his office who would run the whole road if they'd only give him a chance."

His First Investment.

His father died when Andrew was 16, and as the breadwinner of the family he advised his mother to make her investment, $600, in ten shares of Adams Express stock. She mortgaged her home to do it, and there was a monthly dividend of 1 per cent. "I can see that first check of $10 dividend money," he said after his retirement. "It was something new to all of us, for none of us had ever received anything but from toil."

This first investment was made on the advice of Scott, who had told him that it would be a good one and had offered to help him if he could not raise enough.

Colonel Scott became General Superintendent of the Pennsylvania in 1858 and Vice President in 1860, taking Carnegie along with him at each rise. In May, 1861, the civil war had broken out and Scott was appointed Assistant Secretary of War in charge of military railroads and telegraphs, and again he took Carnegie with him. Carnegie was now Superintendent of the Western division of the road, and did not want to go to Washington, but Scott insisted.

Mr. Carnegie was placed in charge of the Government telegraph communications. He went to Annapolis and opened communications which the Confederates had interrupted. He started out on the first locomotive which ran from Annapolis to Washington. While passing Elbridge Junction he noticed that the wires had been pegged down by the enemy. He stopped the engine, jumped down beside the wires, and cut them. One of them sprang up and gave him a wound in the cheek, the scar of which remained with him all through life.

He was on the field at Bull Run in charge of the communications, and was the last man on the last train that left for Washington when the rout began.

Meets Sleeping Car Inventor.

While traveling on his division of the road one day he met a man who said his name was T. T. Woodruff, and that he had invented a sleeping car. Mr. Carnegie was interested, and after seeing a model he became convinced of its advantages. He arranged an interview between Woodruff and Scott, and they formed a small company which resulted in the use on the Pennsylvania of the first sleeping cars ever used in the world. They gave Carnegie an interest, but when his assessment, $217.50, came due, he had not the money; he borrowed it, however, from a banker in Altoona and repaid the loan at the rate of $15 a month. His other assessments were paid from his share of the earnings of the car, and he made a profit on this venture of about $200,000.

Mr. Carnegie's first attempt to invest the fortune he was beginning to make came when he put $40,000 in a company formed for the development of an untried piece of oil land. But oil was not found, he grew discouraged, and he finally succeeded in selling out one-third of his holdings for $3,000. Then he went to Europe, and while he was away the company struck oil, and the share remaining to him was worth a quarter of a million.

Two of his fellow workmen, named Piper and Schiffler, had attracted his attention by their work on bridges. He proposed to them to organize a company for building bridges, and the Keystone Bridge Company was formed about 1863. His brother Thomas had become interested in iron works, and Andrew, after consulting with him, organized the Cyclops mill for the production of structural iron, to be used in railway bridges.

Colonel Scott joined with them, but the project was not successful, and Andrew Carnegie had to turn to Thomas to help him get out of it. He proposed that his brother and Henry Phipps, Thomas's partner, should form a combination that would relieve him of his rolling mill, and a union of interests was brought about in 1865. The result was the Union Iron Mills.

It was just at the right time. The civil war had just ended and the great expansion was beginning. The new concern made great profits, and Carnegie proposed further ventures. It was the era of the building of railroads and the development of the West. Steel rails had become worth $80 to $100 a ton.

Adopts Bessemer Steel Process.

By this time Andrew Carnegie was recognized as the leader of this Napoleonic combination, which, with every new success, reached out further. On a visit to England in 1868 he discovered the success being obtained there with the Bessemer process, and brought the idea home with him and adopted it in his mills. After he introduced the Bessemer steel process in this country he became principal owner of the Homestead and Edgar Thomson Steel Works and other large plants as head of the firms of Carnegie, Phipps & Co. and Carnegie Brothers & Co.

In 1899 the interests were consolidated in the Carnegie Steel Company, which in 1901 was merged in the United States Steel Corporation, when Mr. Carnegie retired from business.

The only great clash with labor which occurred while Mr. Carnegie was in business was the Homestead strike of 1892. He was in Europe at the time, and came in for much criticism for not returning and for letting the trouble go to a finish without any action by him. He, however, made an explanation long afterward.

"I was coaching through the Scottish Highlands on my holiday," Mr. Carnegie told the Industrial Relations Commission in 1915, "and did not hear of the lamentable riot at Homestead until days after it occurred. I wired at once that I would take the first steamer home, but was requested not to come."

He said that after his return he told the Homestead rollers that his partners had offered liberal terms and he could not have offered more, and that one of the men said: "Oh, Mr. Carnegie, it wasn't a question of dollars. The boys would have let you kick them, and they wouldn't let another man stroke their hair." And he also told the commission a story of his treatment of Burgess McLuckie, one of the Homestead men who disappeared to avoid arrest after the riots. Professor van Dyke of Rutgers College told him that he had met McLuckie working as a laborer in a mine at Sonora, Mexico. Carnegie asked the professor to offer McLuckie any help he might need, and on his return to the West he did so.

He found that McLuckie had obtained a position with the Sonora Railway, driving wells, and was prospering. "You don't know," said the professor, "whose money I was told to help you with." He did not. "Well, it was Mr. Carnegie's." "Then," related Mr. Carnegie, "came the slow, earnest response: 'That was damned white of Andy.' When I heard this I suggested to my friend Van Dyke that it wouldn't be a bad epitaph to grace one's tombstone. If it ever did I hoped there would be no long blank between the d's. Each letter should be put down to give McLuckie's proper expression."

He sold out to the Steel Corporation for $420,000,000, and in his testimony before the Stanley Committee in 1912, referring to this bargain, he exclaimed, "What a fool I was! I have since learned from the inside that we could have received $100,000,000 more from Mr. Morgan if we had placed that value on our property."

His Peace Propaganda.

Of all his fields of public activity he took most interest, probably, in his peace propaganda. An offshoot of his peace labors was his interest in bringing about arbitration in Central and South America. He aided in the organization of various leagues and commissions to this end, and when Secretary of State Elihu Root returned from his tour of South America Mr. Carnegie at once gave Mr. Root's alma mater, Hamilton College, $200,000 "in memory of the services of Senator Root in behalf of international peace." In 1907 he sent a peace commission to the Latin-American republics.

"Not so long ago," said Mr. Carnegie in 1907, "a speaker recited in my hearing how he had seen the most powerful naval vessel in the world—the Dreadnought with her 18,000 tons displacement. When my turn came I said that I must regret to dispute the statement. I myself had seen the most powerful naval vessel in the world. She was a tiny yacht-like vessel, painted in beautiful white, with a flag at her masthead and a toy cannon on her deck—for use in firing salutes, mostly.

"Such dainty vessels as these serve to maintain the neutrality of the North American great lakes. The little white yacht was the true dreadnought. The name of the other, the vast, gloomy and terrible engine, should be 'Dread-everything'—dread wounds, dread shot, dread drowning, dread savage, hellish passions; dread miserable, tortured, fruitless death."

If there seemed an inconsistency in his attacks on armament and the making of it, in that he himself had once engaged in the manufacture of armor plate, he had an answer ready. He had engaged in it reluctantly. He had declined to bid to President Cleveland for armor manufacture, despite Secretary Whitney's pleadings to him to reconsider. President Harrison and Secretary Tracy had urged him, but he had refused. Then, while he was coaching in Scotland, he received a telegram from Tracy saying: "The President considers it your duty to contract for the armor for your country; the ships now wait for it." Carnegie, according to his story, replied: "That settles it. That command from the President of my country is a command from on high."

His Famous Utterance.

His famous utterance about "dying disgraced" appeared in an article in the North American Review in 1898, in which he said:

"The day is not far distant when the man who dies leaving behind him millions of available wealth, which were free for him to administer during life, will pass away 'unwept, unhonored, and unsung,' no matter to what use he leaves the dross which he cannot take with him. Of such as these the public verdict will be, 'The man who dies thus rich dies disgraced.'"

When he came back to the United States in 1907 he was the central figure of the dedication of the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh, which had cost him $6,000,000. In a remarkable speech he said that he could not bring himself to a realization of what had been done. He felt like Aladdin, when he saw this building and was aware that he had put it up, but he could not bring himself to a consciousness of having done it any more than if he had produced the same effect by rubbing a lamp. He could not feel the ownership of what he had given, and he could not feel that he had given it away.

In "Problems of Today," a book published in 1907, Mr. Carnegie expressed some views on wealth which are unusual in a millionaire. He declared socialism, viewed upon its financial side, to be just, and said, "A heavy progressive tax upon wealth at death of owner is not only desirable, it is strictly just."

And he favored an income tax. Before the passage of the Underwood law he said in a speech at Montrose, Scotland: "Great Britain is ahead of the United States in having a progressive income tax. But do not flatter yourselves, we shall catch up with you very soon." A little later he expressed himself as pleased with the Underwood bill, so far as the income tax feature was concerned.

Mr. Carnegie did not believe in almsgiving. His idea was to help others help themselves, which was why he said, of his gifts of organs to churches, "I now only give one-half the cost, the congregations first provide the other." As for beggars, he was proud of his indifference to them: "I never give a cent to a beggar, nor do I help people of whose record I am ignorant; this at least is one of my really good actions."

Another side. Hearing two or three years ago that a librarian in his library at Atlanta was going to marry he wrote her a long letter of congratulation in Scotch dialect, and then mentioned a little inclosure of $100,000 in steel bonds as a wedding present. In speaking to her friends about it Miss Annie Wallace, the bride, said the letter pleased her about as much as did the gift inclosed.

He conceived the original idea of forming a corporation for the purpose of paying out money. It was the Home Trust Company, and it was simply his disbursing office. Its headquarters were in New York.

One of Mr. Carnegie's attempted benefactions was received with such general hostility that he dropped it. He proposed to solve the age-old question, "What shall we do with our ex-Presidents?" by giving them a pension of $25,000 a year, and doing the same for their widows so long as they remained unmarried. There was a chorus of disapproval at this suggestion, and he gave it up. It was also reported that Carnegie, who was an anti-imperialist, had offered $25,000,000 to the United States Government to turn over the Philippines to their inhabitants. This untenable plan was not well received either.

Honors Conferred on Him.

He was made Lord Rector of the University of St. Andrew, Edinburgh, in 1903, and received its LL.D. in 1905. In 1907 France made him a Commander of the Legion of Honor. In 1907 Queen Wilhelmina of Holland conferred on him the Order of Orange-Nassau, an order reserved for those who have benefited the country or the royal family. The Duke of Sutherland celebrated the fact that he had taken up a residence in Scotland by naming him, in 1899, a Justice of the Peace for Sutherlandshire. But the appointment was illegal, as Carnegie was not a British subject, and was annulled.

For twenty-seven years Mr. Carnegie had been President of the New York Oratorio Society. He was President of the New York Peace Society, Vice President of the Nineteenth Century Club, an honorary alumnus of Princeton University, and a member of the Lotos, the Union League, and many other clubs.

He was the author of "An American Four-in-Hand in Britain," 1883; "Round the World," 1884; "Triumphant Democracy," 1886; "The Gospel of Wealth," 1900; "The Empire of Business," 1902 (since translated into eight different languages;) "The Life of James Watt," 1906, and "Problems of Today," 1909.

In 1888 he married Louise Whitfield, who was twenty years his junior. They had one child, Margaret, born in 1897. Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie spent their honeymoon in the Isle of Wight, and then they went to Scotland, where they leased a castle and occupied it for ten years. In 1897, the year of Margaret's birth, Mr. Carnegie bought Skibo, and since then it has been their regular Summer home from May to October. Mrs. Carnegie's chief philanthropic interest has been to work among the thousand-odd tenants of the estate.

Mr. Carnegie's only daughter, Margaret, was married on April 23 to Ensign Roswell Miller, U. S. N. The bridegroom, son of a former President of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, who died in 1913, had not completed his college course when war was declared. In 1916 he left Stevens Institute in Hoboken, where he was taking a course in civil engineering, to drive an ambulance in France, and when the United States became involved entered the navy as an Ensign.

It was said at the time of the wedding that after the honeymoon Mr. Miller and his bride would go to Princeton, N. J., where he would complete his studies before entering upon a professional career. The former Miss Carnegie, heiress of her father's millions, is 22 years old. Her husband is two years her senior.

LEAGUE PLAN MADE HIM HAPPY

Ironmaster, in Recent Letter, Said He Believed It Meant End of Wars.

What is believed to have been one of the last letters written by Mr. Carnegie, in which he expressed his gratification at the proposed League of Nations, was made public here yesterday by Charles C. James, a broker, to whom the communication was addressed.

The letter, which was written in response to one sent to Mr. Carnegie by Mr. James calling attention to a statement of the ironmaster, made in 1914, that no hereditary monarch, Czar, Emperor, or King, should have the right to declare war, was dated Aug. 9.

"I rejoice in having lived to see the day," said Mr. Carnegie's letter, "when, as Burns puts it, 'man to man the world o'er shall brothers be and a' that.' I believe this happy condition is assured by the League of Nations and that civilization will now march steadily onward, with no more great wars to mar its progress."

Mourn Passing of Benefactor.

ALTOONA, Penn., Aug. 11.—Hundreds of veteran employes, now retired by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and who once worked on the Pittsburgh Division when Andrew Carnegie was Superintendent, are mourning the passing of their former leader. Many of these pioneer railroaders received a pension of $25 monthly from the dead philanthropist. Carnegie resided in this city for two years, making his home with his mother.

Lotos Club Puts Flag at Half Mast.

In memory of Andrew Carnegie, the flag was placed at half-mast at 110 West Fifty-seventh Street, over the building of the Lotos Club, which had frequently entertained Mr. Carnegie and of which he was a life member.

JANET BEECHER REMARRIES.

Actress, Divorced from H. R. Guggenheimer, Weds Dr. R. H. Hoffman

Miss Janet Beecher, the actress, and a sister of Olive Wyndham, and Dr. Richard Horace Hoffman, of 1,037 Madison Avenue, a son of Dr. E. Franz Hoffman and Mrs. Hoffman, were married on Sunday in Pelham Manor by Justice of the Peace Rogers at his residence. There were no attendants. Dr. Hoffman is a Cornell graduate, class of 1908, and is thirty-two years of age. He first met his bride about six months ago.

It is Miss Beecher's second marriage. In 1913 she was married to Harry R. Guggenheimer, a son of the late Randolph Guggenheimer, the first President of the Borough of Manhattan. Mr. Guggenheimer was a member of the law firm of Guggenheimer, Untermyer & Marshall. This was just after she appeared in "The Purple Road." In 1916 it came out that she had separated from Mr. Guggenheimer about a year before, going to live with her sister, Olive Wyndham, and her mother, Mrs. Oral J. Wyndham, at 345 West Eighty-fifth Street. In 1918 she obtained a divorce, the interlocutory decree being signed in December and on March 28 last the final decree was signed by Justice Arthur S. Tompkins. She was given permission to resume her maiden name, and Mr. Guggenheimer was forbidden to remarry in this State. Two days later, however, on March 30, Mr. Guggenheimer went to Jersey City with Miss Gwendolyn Ranger Wormser, a daughter of the late Maurice S. Wormser, and a grand daughter of the late Solomon Ranger of New York, and they were married there.

Miss Beecher was born in Chicago, but has lived in this city since 1892. She created the part of Ida Pipp with Digby Bell in "The Education of Mr. Pipp." She has played with Arnold Daly, Nat Goodwin, Charles Cherry, and others, and created the leading rôle of Helen Arany in "The Concert," at the Belasco Theatre, in 1910. Since then she had had many leading parts.

ARMY WILL SELL 2,000,000 BLANKETS

Will Be Offered to the Public Through Same Channels as Surplus Food.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The offering to the public of two million surplus all-wool, cotton-and-wool, and cotton blankets was announced today by the War Department, arrangements having been completed for their distribution through Post Office and municipal channels on the same plan as that adopted for foodstuffs.

For individual purchasers prices will be $6 for new wool blankets and $5 for reclaimed wool, $5 for new cotton mixed, and $3.50 for reclaimed, $3 for new cotton, and $1.25 for reclaimed cotton. The reclaimed, it is explained, are blankets used less than a year, which have been renovated and laundered. These selling prices will be fixed for stocks retailed through municipalities and postmasters.

In addition the department will sell blankets in bale lots of twenty at prices lower than the retail figures. No more than 10,000 blankets will be sold to a single purchaser.

Dies Suddenly in High Tree.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTED, Conn., Aug. 11.—Bina C. Smith, 53 years old, died suddenly in a pine tree on the premises of his father, former Selectman Riley W. Smith, on Front Street this afternoon. He had been trimming branches near the top of the high pine with his brother, Laurem A. Smith, who, when work was nearly completed, left the tree. Returning to the pine later, Laurem found his brother hanging head first from the branches, one leg caught in a crotch. Medical Examiner W. S. Hulbert said Smith was attacked with heart disease.

Miss Rhoda Palmer Dies at 103.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 11.—The death is announced near Geneva, N. Y., of Miss Rhoda Palmer, aged 103 years, reputed to be the oldest suffragist in Western New York. Miss Palmer was a member of the first suffrage convention in Seneca Falls in 1848. At the last election Miss Palmer was driven to the polls and cast her first vote.

ANDREW CARNEGIE DIES IN 84TH YEAR

my love and admiration for Mr. Carnegie, my friend, partner, and associate for forty years. He was the greatest man I ever knew and he had a heart so filled with tender sentiment, especially with reference to his associates, as to make him beloved as well as admired by all those who came in business or social contact with him. He possessed the faculty of inspiring others to unusual efforts in a greater measure than any man I ever knew, and he always won by expressions of appreciation rather than criticism. The world has lost a great man and a great benefactor to humanity, and I have lost a greater friend than whom no man ever had.

JAMES B. CLEWS of Henry Clews & Co.—The death of Mr. Carnegie removes one of the greatest characters the world has ever known. In these days of labor unrest his career offers a fitting example of what can be accomplished by one commencing in the lowest station of life, when he possesses the necessary qualifications for rising in life and makes the most of his opportunities. Viewed from almost any standpoint it seems almost incredible that any one should have been able to start at the lowest rung of the ladder as a messenger boy and work himself up through various grades until finally he became the greatest manufacturer that the universe has ever seen. The name of Andrew Carnegie will last for many ages to come, not only, however, as the foremost iron merchant but for his great works of philanthropy for the benefit of mankind. Mr. Carnegie not only was a great moneymaker, but he was also a great spender in the right direction.

GEORGE W. PERKINS, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Carnegie Foundation—I am deeply grieved to hear of Mr. Carnegie's death. He was a very great American, belonging to that class which after the war of '62 was quick to appreciate that we had a united country and a great opportunity. He grasped the new machinery which inventors placed in our hands at that time, and with them threw all his great mental energy into developing our country. When his active business career closed, with the same energy he gave a large percentage of his wealth to movements that he believed would help the people.

One of the last talks I had with him was about profit-sharing. He was most enthusiastic in his commendation of the steel corporation's profit-sharing plans, and expressed the belief that the principle of profit-sharing was destined to be a great factor in solving the existing problems between capital and labor.

THOMAS W. LAMONT of J. P. Morgan & Co.—Mr. Carnegie had extraordinary qualities which made him a notable figure on both sides of the Atlantic. He first achieved a great success in industry, a success which he shared liberally with his capable lieutenants, and then devoted his fortune and his energy to the causes of education and peace. His libraries spread over the English-speaking world, his foundation for the advancement of teaching, his aid to the causes of peace and Pan Americanism were wise gifts of enduring value and service.

JAMES BERTRAM, Secretary of the Carnegie Corporation.—Mr. Carnegie was my best friend. For twenty years I was intimately associated with him and his kindness was unfailing. I saw him for the last time a few months ago and in spite of his age I had no idea the end was so near.

Dr. CHARLES F. THWING, President of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, and Secretary of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching—Mr. Carnegie's death is a personal loss to thousands. These thousands include his "boys" who had been his associates in business and also the leaders in every department of life in America and England. Lord Morley and Sir Gilbert Parker were among his friends. His love for individuals was the expression of his love for all men. Out of this love sprang his great benefactions. He died poor, as it is said he wished to die, in the sense that he had given away the larger part of his fortune. He said to me after he retired from business, that he could have kept on and still made money by the millions, but he added: "Why not stop now?" He had the greatness to stop and to give. One great mark of his character and career was his wisdom in selecting his associates. The remark which he probably made, that he wished put on his tombstone the words: "Here lies a man so wise that he surrounded himself with men wiser than himself" is characteristic.

PLAN MEMORIAL SERVICES

Engineers' Society to Pay Tribute to Donor of Building.

At a meeting of the United Engineers' Society and the Engineers' Club, held in the Engineers' Society Building, in West Thirty-ninth Street, yesterday afternoon, action was taken in connection with the death of Mr. Carnegie. Committees were appointed to draw up resolutions and arrange for memorial services. The services will be attended by civil mining, mechanical, and electrical engineers and will be held in the club house. The day and hour will be announced later.

The club house where the memorial services will be held is a gift of Mr. Carnegie to the engineers of the country. He subscribed $1,500,000 to have the structure erected and furnished in 1904.

PITTSBURGH MOURNS DEATH

Flags Lowered to Half Mast as Tribute to Carnegie.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—This city, where Andrew Carnegie laid the foundation for his steel business, today paid tribute to the dead philanthropist. Immediately after reading of Mr. Carnegie's death Mayor E. V. Babcock ordered all flags in Pittsburgh lowered to half mast. At the Carnegie Institute plans were made to drape the buildings with crêpe, in respect to the benefactor. At the steel mills which bear his name preparations were made to suspend work, and other institutions in which he was interested planned similar action.

NEWPORTERS TAKE SHORT AIR FLIGHTS

Pay Dollar a Minute, Two at a Time, for Ride with Aviator at Bailey's Beach.

PREPARE FOR HORSE SHOW

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 11.—An aviator in a Curtiss flier landed at Bailey's Beach early this evening, and in less than half an hour the plane was surrounded by automobiles and carriages filled with Summer residents. The aviator solicited passengers for air flights, two at a time, at one dollar a minute and for not less than ten minutes at a time, and made a good sum by 7 o'clock. Among those flying were Miss Margaret Dunlap of Philadelphia and Bradford Norman, Jr., of Newport; Miss Muriel Winthrop and C. Gilpin of New York; Miss Alexandra Dolan of Philadelphia, and Eugene S. Reynal, Jr., of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer and Paul J. Rainey entertained the children of the Summer colony in the ballroom at Honeysuckle Lodge this afternoon by a showing of motion pictures taken by Mr. Rainey on the Flanders front and in Africa.

The Newport Horse Show will open at the Casino Aug. 27, and indications are that the show will have a first-class list of entries. Isaac H. Clothier, Jr., of Philadelphia, is entering his hunters, and Mrs. Wanamaker of Philadelphia and Narragansett Pier enters saddle ponies.

Rear Admiral Charles H. Plunket, Commander of the Destroyer Squadron of the Atlantic Fleet, who recently underwent an operation at the Newport Naval Hospital, is convalescent, as is Rear Admiral William A. Marshall, U. S. N., retired, who underwent an operation there recently.

T. J. Oakes of Boston, Mrs. Henry M. Stevens of Prides Crossing, and E. J. Snow, Jr., of New York have taken apartments at the Hill Top Inn for Horse Show week.

Miss M. Blackmer of Denver, Col., is there for the remainder of the Summer and William E. Carter of Philadelphia arrived Friday.

FLIERS SPY OUT SINN FEIN.

Report Forbidden Meeting to Police from Airplane.

BELFAST, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—An airplane making a "duty flight" Saturday between Novan, on the east coast of Ireland, and Armagh observed Sinn Feiners holding a meeting which had been forbidden.

The fliers reported and military police arrived as the meeting terminated. They arrested two men amid great excitement. The prisoners were later released.

Obituary Notes.

The Rev. JOHN C. DOWNS, Chaplain of the Hudson County Jail and of the Home for the Blind in Pavonia, near Baldwin Avenue, Jersey City, died suddenly yesterday of acute indigestion at the Home for the Blind, where he resided. He was 39 years old.

Wide Ribbons Still Favored.

Wide ribbons up to twelve inches are still furnishing the bulk of the demand in that trade. Goods of this character have been taken freely by the dressmakers and the manufacturers of novelty bags. By making the basis of future orders "at value at time of delivery" the ribbon dealers have removed the one dark spot on the horizon, which was the uncertainty of profit on shipments that might be made under changed conditions.

Demand for Silks Continues.

The demand for goods in the silk trade keeps up at a lively rate, despite the measures taken by the manufacturers to protect themselves in any event. Strikes and general unrest in the industry are not proving such disturbing factors in the market as they ordinarily might, owing to the terms which the manufacturers are able to exact from buyers. The trade feels it has matters well in hand up to the turn of the year. Among the fabrics on which the demand is centring at present are taffetas, crêpes, and satin-faced materials.

Other Markets Benefit.

Manufacturers and wholesalers in nearby cities are benefiting, it seems, from the sold-up condition that exists in this market in the textile and ready-to-wear lines. It was stated yesterday that the out of town concerns, in such cities as Baltimore, Philadelphia and Boston, are being visited when buyers cannot find sufficient quantities of merchandise in this city. Formerly it was customary for the firms outside the city to have their representatives here to show goods to visiting buyers, but they do not find it quite as necessary now as buyers are now doing the seeking.

Clothing Prices Boosted.

The steps to be taken by the Government to keep down the cost of living does not seem to have exerted any quieting effect on prices in the local clothing trade. With their initial business taken, the manufacturers in many instances have seen fit to put up the tariff on duplicates that will be placed from now on. According to one representative, these increases are by no means to be considered the last that will be made before the Fall season is over. The same rush for merchandise that developed toward the latter end of the Spring season is predicted for the close of Fall buying.

Colors Getting Brighter.

The tendency in women's wear colors for the Fall is toward brighter shades. Predictions are heard in the trade that before the season is over there will be a general livening up of the rather sombre tones that have been featured for some time. In dye circles it is reported that the demand at present is showing a switch towards the livelier hues, calls being frequent for bright greens, blues, and scarlets. The rather fixed ideas that designers have on styles this season, it was pointed out, will probably lead to a change being made in colors rather than in the lines of garments.

Plaids Are Running Away.

According to one of the principal factors in the secondary end of the dress goods trade, the demand for plaids for immediate delivery here has figuratively taken the bit in its teeth. Both the cutters-up and the retailers are after these goods, but the latter are getting the most of them from all accounts. Stripes are said to be only fair. Among the most favored plaids are large, novel patterns on French serge grounds. Goods 39 to 40 inches wide are jobbing here at $2.25 net a yard, while for the wider fabrics the net jobbing price is $3.50 a yard. Stocks in wholesalers' hands are said to be dwindling rapidly under the demand.

Burlaps Demand Not Heavy.

While prices in the local market for burlaps were nominally firm yesterday at the levels reached last week, the demand was practically nil. For the time being, both buyers and sellers appear to be willing to mark time. Eight-ounce 40-inch goods were held at 15½ cents, while for 10½-ounce cloths of the same width the asking price was 17¼ to 17¾ cents. Jute is now quoted in London at the record price of £68 per ton. Dundee is reported firm. While cables from Calcutta indicated that that market had not advanced further, prices quoted there show that goods are available here at less than their replacement cost.

Gray Goods Prices Sagging.

Prices continued to ease off in the local gray goods market yesterday, and the question uppermost in the minds of more than one trader was just what second hands would do in the way of slashing them still further if a really large buyer appeared on the scene. Second hands yesterday sold August-September deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s at 17 cents, and it was strongly rumored that a big buyer could do quite a little better than that. Buyers also got 39-inch 68-72s at 20 cents from the same sources, and for the same delivery. Sheetings were quiet and quoted nominally on the bases of 15¼ cents for 5 yards, 16½ cents for 4.70 yards, and 17½ cents for 48 square 4 yards. In the fine goods, second hands were offering 40-inch 88.80, 8.50-yard combed lawns more or less freely at 29 cents, with reports of 28-cent offerings current. First hands were holding these goods, nominally, at 30 to 31 cents.

Why He Would Not Agree.

A local manufacturer of men's neckwear recently brought some unfavorable comment down on his head because he refused to join the plan of some of his competitors of asking higher prices for merchandise that had been booked at lower figures some months ago. This is one reason why he did it: Early in the Spring a big buyer came to him and offered to buy about $30,000 worth of merchandise if he would shade his price about 50 cents a dozen. The manufacturer in question is as canny as they come in that trade, and he refused the order. Subsequent events proved that, for himself, he did the right thing. The business he refused, however, was split up in small portions and accepted by competing manufacturers at the buyer's prices. "Wouldn't I have looked like a fool," the "wise" manufacturer said yesterday, "helping those fellows get the proper prices for the very goods that I refused an order for six months ago."

Millinery Styles for Fall.

One of the things brought out strongly at the recent "Autumn Promenade" of the Retail Millinery Association of America was the marked tendency toward brilliant colors in Fall modes for women, particularly in hats. Another thing brought out was the dominance of the "off-the-face" type of hat, which is worn well forward on the head. In some cases it nearly covers one eye of the wearer. A third point of interest is the fact that most of the trimmings of the new hats take a downward turn. Trims of flowers and ostrich will abound for Fall. Another trimming favorite will be monkey fur, especially when used as banding. For evening wear the ornamental headdress has come back.

Receiver for Berkshire Line Likely.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 11.—A petition for appointment of a receiver for the Berkshire Street Railway will probably be filed in the United States District Court at Boston or New York tomorrow, according to local officials. Manager C. O. Richmond was in conference with New Haven officials at New York today.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The Southern Travelers' Association will give a housewarming party tonight in their new quarters in the Hotel Pennsylvania, for their members and friends. All Southern salesmen are invited to attend and bring their friends. The association now has a membership made up of over 800 of the best known salesmen covering Southern territory, and an associate membership which includes some of the leading merchants and buyers of the South.

Voss & Stein, manufacturers and importers of embroideries, laces, &c., Fifth Avenue at Fifteenth Street, have added an extensive line of printed sheer silk fabrics to their other offerings. About twenty-five combinations are included in the color range of the collection, embracing light, dark and medium backgrounds. I. Jacoby is in charge of the new department.

William Bloom & Co., Inc., manufacturers of clothing specialties, 40 East Thirtieth Street, have been forced by the press of increasing business to take additional space on the tenth floor of the building at the address given, and also to take a loft at 23 West Seventeenth Street.

C. M. Wilson, who formerly was associated with the retail dry goods trade in Rochester, N. Y., is now in this market on a buying trip for Heisheimer & Shaul of Amsterdam, N. Y. The local representative of this firm is Stanley C. Macrae, 1,270 Broadway.

The Garment Salesmen's Association of New York will hold a meeting in the auditorium of the Bush Terminal Sales Building on Aug. 25 at 8 P. M. About four hundred members are expected to attend.

"You Show Too Many Styles"

After inspecting our comprehensive display of women's out-apparel, a well-known buyer remarked, "too many styles."

We have simply been compelled to resort to superlative language when describing the immense variety of fashionable styles now showing in our

Women's Ready-to-Wear Department

While you may agree with this buyer that we are showing too many styles, possibly you may be influenced by our less-than-market prices, or, perhaps by our ability to ship the merchandise when you want it.

We are anxious to interest you; no buyer ever left the place who wasn't. Come in and see what reaction you get.

WANTED—A CLOTHING MANUFACTURER

A well-known clothing manufacturing house in Montreal, Canada, specializing in popular priced Men's and Young Men's Clothing, has an unusual opportunity to offer to a man now employed in a clothing house in the capacity of manufacturer and who understands designing. He must assume responsibility, the qualifications that are definitely required. The man who succeeds in qualifying for the position offered will become affiliated with a progressive house whose business has long been established and is rapidly expanding. The initial salary will be commensurate with previous experience, and if he can prove that he will make good, an interest in the business will further be given him. A rare opportunity is offered to the right man. Applications should be made by letter stating full particulars as to age, nationality and history of experience, all of which will be treated in confidence.

WARNING!

All members of the Actors' Equity Association are personally liable for all damages and losses to the Managers caused by the strike.

DO NOT BE MISLED—CONSULT YOUR OWN LAWYER

Attention is called to the following letter sent by Mr. Nathan Burkan to the Actors' Equity Association; copy of which was transmitted to Mr. John L. Golden by Mr. Burkan.

August 10, 1919.

Mr. Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary, Actors' Equity Association, New York City:

My dear Mr. Gillmore—My attention was called last night to a list of your membership, in which was included my name as a life member.

In view of the strike called against the enterprises managed by my clients, Messrs. Winchell Smith and John Golden and Charles Dillingham, respectively, and in view of the action of the organizers of the strike in wilfully bringing about the breaking by members of your association of contracts of service existing with Messrs. Smith and Golden and Dillingham, respectively, which have long periods to run, and particularly in view of the fact that Messrs. Smith and Golden and Dillingham respectively have at all times and on all occasions treated their players with the utmost consideration, justice and fairness, as the striking players as well as all other players associated with them will admit, and against whom the players can have no legitimate grievance, I must insist that my name be forthwith stricken from your membership roll.

The action of the organizers of the strike in knowingly and wilfully ordering players under written contracts of employment with these managers to leave their employers and break up their attractions, manifests an utter and wilful disregard not only of law and order, but of the welfare of your membership, as well as of the rights of these managers, and it also betrays crass stupidity on the part of the officers of your association in permitting such acts to be committed.

Let me call your attention to the decision of the Appellate Division of this Department in the case of Grassi Contracting Co. v. Bennett, 174 A. D., page 249, where the Court held that

It is not lawful to call a strike, the result of which will be the violation of contracts of its members with their employers; and the United States Supreme Court, in Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell, 245 U. S., page 229, held that a combination to procure concerted breaches of contract by plaintiff's employees is as plainly unlawful as if it involved a breach of the peace.

In that case the members of a union were enjoined from inducing or seeking to induce the plaintiff's employees from violating their contracts of employment. The Court, in protecting those contracts, said, at page 251:

"Plaintiff, having in the exercise of its undoubted rights, established a working agreement between it and its employees, with the free assent of the latter, is entitled to be protected in the enjoyment of the resulting status, as in any other legal right. That the employment was at will and terminable by either party at any time is of no consequence."

"The right of action for persuading an employee to leave his employer is universally recognized."

Applying this princ ple to the facts involved in the strike, the strike organizers, the officers of the Actors' Equity Association, and its membership, were and are guilty of unlawful acts in directing, inducing, persuading or coercing players under contractual relations with managers to strike, to break their contract, and not to play at scheduled performances. The contract need not be for any specific period (although I know of my own personal knowledge that a great many of the contracts are for long terms and some have a two weeks' notice clause)

In justice to the many players who are members of the association and who do not realize the consequences of the acts of the organizers of the strike, and the officers of the association, in permitting the organizers to commit the acts which the courts have pronounced illegal, let me call your attention to the famous Danbury Hatters' case, known as Lawlor v. Loewe, 235 U. S., 522.

In that case the members of a labor union attempted to compel a hat manufacturer to unionize his factory, left his employment and prevented others from taking employment therein, and with the assistance of members of affiliated organizations declared a "boycott" on his goods. The court held that all the members of the labor union who paid their dues were jointly liable with the officers of the union for the damages sustained by their acts It is not essential that each member of the Union should have knowledge of the details of the action proposed to be taken by the strike organizers and the officers of the Union.

The court said, on page 529:

"The individual members are liable as principals for what their officers did in the performance of their duty, even though they did not know of the particular acts done, or may have disapproved of or have forbidden it."

In that case the plaintiff recovered a judgment for $222,000.00, and many of the members of the Union had their bank accounts attached, their property sold at public sale under execution, and many were obliged to pay whatever they had, to make good the damage.

The damages in such cases are not apportioned, but each member is liable individually and collectively for the entire damage done, and if he has sufficient property, he must make good the entire damage.

It is beyond dispute now that very serious damage has been inflicted upon a number of managers by the closing of their theatres. The damages are not speculative, because the managers will be entitled to recover for moneys refunded by them to patrons who were deprived of the opportunity to see the attraction, moneys paid as rent for the theatre while it remained dark, moneys paid to employees who had to be laid off in consequence of the strike, moneys paid for advertising, current expenses, and possible losses wherever they can be established.

The resulting damage of this strike may run into millions of dollars, and all those players who have contracts with Managers as well as the officers and strike organizers, and the individual members of this association, though they did not participate in or have any knowledge of the strike, may, within a short period of time, find themselves involved in a serious predicament. By the action of the organizers of the strike and the officers of your association, the life savings of many players have already been jeopardized.

I think it is your duty to at once direct all players who have walked out in breach of their contracts to return and to minimize the damage as far as possible.

This letter is written, not with the idea of giving you advice, but simply to justify my action.

Very truly yours,

NATHAN BURKAN.

HYLAN ASKS SWANN FOR STRIKE INQUIRY

Wants to Know if Letters on Police Work Constitute Criminal Conspiracy.

QUOTES FROM HEDGES

Hints That Railways Encourage Strikes to Bring About 8-Cent Fares.

NIXON TOO BUSY TO REPLY

Prosecutor Sees the Mayor, Who Takes Credit for B. R. T. Settlement.

Mayor Hylan asked District Attorney Swann yesterday to investigate to find out whether a "criminal conspiracy" to force 8-cent fares has inspired a series of letters to him from Receiver Job E. Hedges of the New York Railways Company, President T. M. Fazakerley of the New York Railways Company, and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

Mr. Swann interviewed the Mayor after receiving the letters and said later that he would consider the matter seriously. The Mayor's letter to the District Attorney follows:

City of New York,
Office of the Mayor.
Aug. 11, 1919.

Hon Edward Swann, District Attorney, New York County.

Dear Sir:

Herewith I hand you a series of letters as follows:

No. 1 From Job E. Hedges, Receiver New York Railways Company, dated Aug. 8, 1919.

No. 2 From T. M. Fazakerley, President New York Railways Company, dated Aug. 8, 1919.

No. 3 From Interborough Rapid Transit Company, dated Aug. 9, 1919.

No. 4 From Job E. Hedges, Receiver New York Railways Company, dated Aug. 9 1919.

Taken together they seem to have a single inspiration and a common purpose, amounting to criminal conspiracy to compel the city authorities, by threats of one kind and another, to give the railway companies extra fare. There is no strike at the present time, and there has not been any, in Manhattan.

There is a strong intimation that a strike might be profitable for the employes as well as for the railway companies. The supplication of the Receiver of the New York Railways Company, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, and of the President of the Brotherhood of the New York Railways Employes for police protection does not ring true to me. It sounds as though some one in authority has said to the men, "You go ahead and strike and make plenty of trouble and the city will have to give us increased fares, which we can divide up."

Mayor Scents a Threat.

Furthermore, I have a very strong notion that the letter of Receiver Hedges, under date of Aug 8, constitutes a distinct threat to me of the kind that is prohibited by the Penal Law, Section 530 and 80. In his letter Mr. Hedges threatens to ask the Governor for the removal of "any public official" who fails to perform his duty "in full sincerity," or, in other words, to please Mr. Hedges; and in another paragraph insinuates and suggests that the only way I can escape the humiliation and trouble of defending such charges is to have the Police Department carry out Receiver Hedges's ideas of public service. In other words, if Mr. Hedges has his way with the Governor, I will be removed if I do not turn over the Police Department to the Interborough and the system of which he is at present receiver.

In purpose and expression all these letters fit in with each other so remarkably well that there is a strong suggestion of something more than mere coincidence. Possibly if Mr. Hedges, Mr. Fazakerley, and the other railroad officials sat down together in conference and prepared these threats and planned a car strike in Manhattan it may constitute criminal conspiracy in an attempt to extort from me, as Mayor, certain undue concessions for the railroad companies. The fact, in my opinion, that they are not entitled to any increase and that these demands are against the interests of the people of this city with whom they have a bargain and a contract, has no bearing on this phase of the case.

May I ask you to give this subject your very careful official consideration.

Very truly yours,
JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

The first of the letters of Mr. Hedges of which the Mayor complains, followed charges that the alleged ineffectiveness of the police during the B. R. T. strike was due to the attitude of city officials. Mr. Hedges said he would ask the Governor to remove any city official who failed in his duty if the strike spread to Manhattan, and added:

"The police force of the City of New York is adequate to suppress disorder when adequately directed thereto in sympathy and good faith."

The receiver advised against any action or utterance on the part of the Mayor which might convey the impression that the Mayor's attitude "was that of 'lip service,' rather than right action."

Hedges Refuses Comment.

When the letter of the Mayor was shown to Receiver Hedges yesterday he laughed and said:

"As a lawyer, I deem it most unprofessional and unethical to comment on any matter in the hands of the District Attorney. Until Mr. Swann officially brings the matter to my attention I will not comment on it."

No movement in the direction of organizing the employes of the Interborough and the New York Railways Company took place yesterday, because P. J. Shea, who organized the strike in Brooklyn, and Louis Fridiger, counsel for the strikers, were busy preparing their proofs that a majority of the B. R. T. employes were organized on Aug. 8. The partial recognition of the Amalgamated Association agreed upon was made contingent upon its being shown to the satisfaction of Federal Judge Mayer that half of the B. R. T. employes engaged in car and train operation were organized on Aug. 8.

"We are surely going to start in organizing Manhattan," Mr. Shea said yesterday, "but I can't say just when we will begin in earnest. Several organizers will come here from other cities and work will begin on their arrival.

"There is nothing in the situation here to cause alarm. We don't expect a strike here, and there won't be one unless the men feel that they are forced to strike. In any event, they will present demands to the companies and give the traveling public plenty of warning."

It was stated that organization would begin on the surface lines first, and that a movement on employes of the elevated and subway lines would follow.

Mayor Hylan, who has steadily denied that the police work was ineffective during the Brooklyn strike, issued another statement yesterday regarding the B. R. T. strike complimenting the police and taking credit for his administration in settling the strike.

Mayor Praises the Police.

"As Mayor of the City of New York," he said in the statement, "I desire to thank the people of the city, and especially of the Borough of Brooklyn, for the patience and good nature exhibited by them in the recent strike. The people of Brooklyn should not have been subjected to the terrors of any strike. An obstinate Federal receiver who refused to see or listen to a committee representing his employes was directly responsible for it.

"The time has passed when capital and labor cannot sit down and confer, and it is only by such conference that an amicable understanding can be reached. Concessions must be made by both sides; each has rights that the other is in duty bound to respect, and above and beyond both of them come the people, whose rights under the law must be respected, so that they can peacefully and with the least possible discomforts be aided in their struggle to procure a decent living.

"Judge Mayer is to be commended for his quick response to the appeal made by Corporation Counsel Burr that he direct Federal Receiver Garrison to meet a committee of his men and confer, so that transit could be resumed.

"I also wish to thank the police of the city for their efficiency in keeping at all times absolute control of the situation. From personal knowledge, owing to personal visits made by me, I know that at no time was there lack of police protection for the company, and employes, could they be induced to operate their cars, would have had ample protection.

"Let us hope that we have seen the last of these strikes. The door has been opened for peaceful settlement of such differences. May I be permitted to say to those in charge of the transit systems, appointed to such control by our courts, and also to the heads of the labor unions, that every effort should be exerted by them in conference to settle all their disagreements, and if they cannot agree that they submit their differences to a neutral conference for arbitration?"

Garrison Refuses Controversy.

Receiver Lindley M. Garrison of the B. R. T. made the following statement yesterday:

"I have read the statement of the Mayor and see no occasion to continue the controversy as to the unfortunate occurrences of the last few days. I suppose it is very natural for the Mayor to desire to put himself in the position where he feels he should receive commendation and credit.

"I think, however, one very serious matter is entirely overlooked by him, and in my judgment it is the only matter of great consequence in the situation.

"It is unquestionably true that from the time of the calling of the strike the Mayor absolutely identified himself with the strikers, and by his personal statements and the conduct of those under his instructions in his Legal Department and in the Police Department he demonstrated that he was identifying the city administration with the strikers. This is a novel function of the Mayor of a city and one that has far-reaching consequences.

"In respect to the happenings of Saturday, the facts are that Judge Mayer of his own initiative called a conference of all the parties in interest and held a hearing lasting at least three hours in open court, and subsequently a later conference lasting about three hours in his private chambers. As a result of this an agreement was reached which has been printed and up to which I intend to live, not only in word and letter, but in spirit. I see nothing to be gained by rehashing the past or by starting new controversies growing out of the situation, and I for one will not indulge in any such procedure.

"I am very regretful that the Mayor considered it desirable to make a personal statement which might start anew an endless discussion and which could not, in any event, serve any good purpose."

Nixon Too Busy to Argue.

When he was shown a copy of the letter of Mayor Hylan to Judge Swann, Public Service Commissioner Nixon said:

"I am working now with the Amalgamated Association to establish their membership to the satisfaction of Judge Mayer and myself. I am too busy in sympathetic co-operation with Amalgamated officials trying to prevent further strikes to be interested in letters.

"When I was 6 years old 'who killed cock robin' interested me greatly; now it doesn't."

Earlier Commissioner Nixon made this statement:

"I am not concerned with credit. Judge Mayer conducted the conference in so masterly a way as to lead to agreement. Judge Garrison and Messrs. Fridiger and Shea deserve the gratitude and esteem of the public. Each side made definite concession in sincere desire to end a situation becoming intolerable to the public.

"My impression of the situation is altogether hopeful. Mr. Shea weighed every word of the agreement and insisted upon the interpretation of all so as to be sure of his position. It was plainly to be seen that when he signs an agreement he intends to use all his power to see that it is carried out. With such principles the Amalgamated Association can be of genuine service.

"It is not necessary for any one to worry over the decision to be made by Judge Mayer and myself. We shall do this at once and the conclusion will be made known in such way as the Judge decides. It would seem an amicable adjustment can be arrived at that should avoid a resort to strikes in other parts of the city.

"The strike was an incident, and I think it is behind us. There are other and compelling and vital problems that now again must engage all our energies."

Ignatius Lincoln, ex-M. P., Deported from Great Britain

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Ignatius Tribich Lincoln, former Member of Parliament, has been deported. He had been in prison here since 1916.

Ignatius Tribich Lincoln was formerly an Austrian subject, but became a naturalized citizen of England. He came to this country and on Aug. 4, 1915, was arrested in Brooklyn on a charge of forgery, preferred by the British Consul in New York. Lincoln declared that he was a German spy and that England wanted to try him for that offense, but extradition on the forgery charge was ordered by the United States District Court.

He was tried for forgery in London and sentenced to three years' imprisonment. Early in the year his certificate of British naturalization was revoked by the Government. A dispatch from London on July 3 said that Lincoln would be deported to Hungary.

INVADED DISTRICTS ANGRY.

Clemenceau Acts When They Threaten to Go It Alone.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—Premier Clemenceau is taking vigorous action in behalf of the liberated departments, where the feeling that they have been neglected since the Germans departed has risen to such a point that the leading men of these departments have formed a body to look after their interests, a stand which is thought almost equivalent to a threat of separation.

The Premier called a meeting of the Inter-Ministerial Commission this morning and told it that a new régime must be applied. The schools must be opened, he said, funds advanced to communes and individuals, drinking water supplied, wells sunk, camions provided, and war prisoners properly divided.

M. Clemenceau then received the Prefects of the departments and explained the program. He said that they would receive the fullest powers. They must supervise all services, inflict necessary penalties, and remain always in close touch with their administrations.

EXECUTE 15 VILLA PLOTTERS

Leaders of Conspiracy to Betray Chihuahua Pay the Penalty.

EL PASO, Aug. 11.—Fifteen leaders of the conspiracy to cause a mutiny in the Chihuahua City Federal garrison last week, and deliver the city over to General Francisco Villa, were executed, following the discovery of the plot, according to an American who arrived today from Mexico.

He said that the identity of the men executed was unknown when he left.

SENATE MODIFIES 'DRY' BILL OF HOUSE

Permits Home-Made Wines and Cider; Storage and Use of Liquor in Residence.

SOFTENS SEARCH PROVISION

Warrants Must Be Issued Under Existing Federal Law—Stiffens Advertising Clauses.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Prohibition enforcement legislation advanced another step in Congress today when the Senate Judiciary Committee began consideration of the bill passed by the House last June as amended and liberalized by the Judiciary Subcommittee.

Although the general House plan for enforcement of wartime and constitutional prohibition remains in the bill, the subcommittee eliminated several drastic House provisions and modified others. In its work the subcommittee, comprising Senators Sterling, Republican, of South Dakota, Chairman; Fall of New Mexico, and Norris of Nebraska, Republicans, and Overman of North Carolina, Walsh of Montana, and King of Utah, Democrats, first revised the Senate enforcement bill and then incorporated their amendments in the House bill, reporting the latter as amended by unanimous vote to the full committee.

Like the House, the Senate subcommittee adopted the plan of having separate sections in the bill to deal with wartime and constitutional prohibition.

The subcommittee left unchanged the House definition of intoxicating beverages as those containing one-half of 1 per cent. or more of alcohol. As revised, the bill will not interfere with storage and personal use of intoxicants in the homes of individuals.

Liberalize Home Brew Clause.

Probably the most liberal amendment to the House bill is a provision exempting from penalties any person "manufacturing nonintoxicating cider and fruit juices exclusively for use in his house." This would permit home manufacture of light wines and cider for personal consumption, and the amendment, except by implication in connection with the definition of intoxicants, does not define "nonintoxicating" beverages.

Stricken from the House bill was the provision making it unlawful for persons to be intoxicated or to drink liquor on trains, street cars, jitneys, boats or other public conveyances.

Another liberalization is a provision that reports of manufacture, sales and transportation of liquor, made to the Internal Revenue Collector, shall not be open to inspection of the general public, but kept solely for scrutiny of the Commissioner, his agents, court or other officers.

The House search warrant provision also was made less drastic, the sub-committee amending the search and seizure section so as to probide that search warrants may be issued only under the usual practice provided by existing Federal law and not on mere suspicion that liquor is being stored for unlawful purposes.

Instead of the House bill's unlimited provision for funds to enforce prohibition, the subcommittee fixed $3,500,000 for the first year's enforcement work, and leaves this duty jointly to the Internal Revenue Commissioner and the Department of Justice. The former is to report and the latter to prosecute violations.

In defining intoxicating liquor the subcommittee added the following liberalizing proviso:

"Provided, however, that the foregoing definition (one-half of one per cent. alcohol), shall not extend to dealcoholized wine nor to liquor or liquors produced by the process by which beer, ale, or porter is manufactured, but containing not more than half of one per cent. alcohol, if such liquor or liquid shall be otherwise denominated than as beer, ale or porter."

This provision rejects the request of prohibition advocates for prohibition of beverages which have the appearance of intoxicants.

Another relaxation of the House bill was made in its provision for penalizing persons having "reason to believe" their property is being used unlawfully. The Senate amendment requires "personal knowledge" of such use.

Strengthen Possession Provision.

The House provision declaring that after Feb. 1, 1920, the possession of liquor unauthorized by the law shall be prima facie evidence that it is being kept for sale is retained and strengthened by an addition providing that in proceedings under this section the burden of proof shall be on defendants to prove that such beverages do not contain more than one-half of 1 per cent. alcohol.

A house clause requiring alcoholic content of toilet, medicinal, and antiseptic articles to be labeled was stricken out.

Retaining the House provision prohibiting manufacture, sale, purchase, transportation, or prescription of intoxicants without a permit from the Internal Revenue Commissioner, the revised bill contains a provision that such acts shall be expressly authorized upon receipt of permits. The House limit of ten days on permits to purchase intoxicants also is extended in the revised bill to ninety days. Pharmacists only may sell at retail and licensed physicians only may prescribe liquor. The House requirement for physical examination by physicians of applicants for liquor prescriptions, however, was eliminated.

The House provision limiting physicians' dispensing to one pint of liquor in ten days for the same person is retained, but modified to provide that such limitation shall apply only to prescriptions to be "taken internally."

More rigorous provisions guarding transactions in wines for sacramental and religious purposes are provided by a provision requiring issuances of such permits only to ministers, rabbis, or other ecclesiastics.

House provision regarding advertising of beverages are made more stringent in some respects and more liberal in others. The subcommittee struck out provisions prohibiting sign or bill board advertising, but added a clause penalizing advertisement of "intoxicants" anywhere, by any means or method. Also stricken out was a House clause authorizing obliteration of liquor advertising or the use of pictures of a distillery, bottle, keg, barrel, or other receptacle in advertisements. A new clause permits manufacturers and wholesale druggists to advertise alcohol in trade journals.

Retaining the House provision against advertisement of compounds, preparations, or formulas for manufacture of intoxicants, the subcommittee strengthened this section by prohibiting also the advertisement of any "utensil, contrivance, or machine" for such purpose.

After informal discussion of the revised bill the Judiciary Committee agreed to take up the measure next Saturday.

ATTACK GREEK VILLAGES.

Turks Reported to Have Killed Many Peasants at Thanto.

SALONIKI, Aug. 9.—An unknown number of Greek peasants were reported killed by Turkish gendarmes and bandits who surrounded the village of Thanto, according to Athens News Agency dispatches. The Greeks were said to have refused to surrender, and to have disarmed a Turkish detachment that entered the village. When reinforcements arrived the Turks fired on the Greeks.

Another Greek village, Kermeni, surrounded by a similar Turkish force, was saved from attack by the intervention of a French detachment.

The dispatches reported the situation in Thrace to be becoming more acute, although the Turkish Government recently announced the removal of Vice Prefect Tyrolol. It was said Tyrolol was still in office, and that persecution of Christians was continuing.

Armed Fosse in Malone Search for Men Who Tarred and Feathered a Woman

Special to The New York Times.

MALONE, N. Y., Aug. 11.—While an armed posse of Sheriff's deputies and enraged neighbors are scouring the district for three unknown men who took Mrs. Prosper Le Felche, aged 42, from her bed last night and tarred and feathered her, the victim is in a serious condition tonight in a hospital here.

Three men climbed on a ladder into Mrs. Le Felcho's room in a farm house at West Bangor and pulled her from her bed while her husband was miles away on the State highway. Before the eyes of her helpless eleven-year-old son and six-year-old daughter they dragged her screaming down to the ground and while two of the assailants held her another applied the tar and feathers.

The men departed and Mrs. Le Felche was found unconscious in her yard at dawn by a neighbor who was passing by.

DEMAND REMOVAL OF NASSAU SHERIFF

Wealthy Residents File Charges of Malfeasance in Office with Governor Smith.

CITE SUICIDE OF DR. WILKINS

Say Prisoners Are Permitted to Leave Jail and Roam Mineola Streets.

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 11.—The Nassau County Association, through its counsel, this afternoon filed formal charges of malfeasance in office against Sheriff Phineas A. Seaman and asked Governor Smith to remove him from office. The association includes some of the wealthiest residents of the county, among them being J. P. Morgan, Mortimer L. Schiff, Henry D. Davison, and Ogden Mills.

The most severe charge against the Sheriff pertains to the suicide in jail of Dr. Walter Keene Wilkins, who had been convicted of the murder of his wife, Mrs. Julia Wilkins, in their home at Long Beach last February.

It also is charged that the Sheriff permitted prisoners under his care to roam about the prison unguarded, and instances were cited of prisoners being permitted to go about the streets unguarded, meet women, receive packages at the Post Office and generally do as they pleased.

Neil H. Van de Water of Cedarhurst, counsel for the association, who conducted a raid on a gambling establishment in Lynbrook several weeks ago filed the charges with the Governor at Albany.

The Sheriff is charged with "gross mismanagement, negligence, and carelessness" in his conduct of the jail. The complaint also said that "a Federal prisoner, J. B. Shaw of Brooklyn, who had been sent to the jail for eleven months in connection with the draft scandal in Brooklyn, was seen wandering about the streets of Mineola, receiving packages at the Post Office and sitting along the old country road, alone and unguarded."

It is asserted that Leo Fishel, a civil prisoner in the jail for failing to pay alimony, "was seen on Willets Avenue, Mineola, accompanied by a woman, and at various other places in the county, without a guard."

The conduct of the jail, the complaint alleged, has resulted in "open and notorious gossip," and that "the name of Nassau County, as a result of his mismanagement, has become a byword and a scandal."

The charges are signed by William M. Baldwin, a Director, and John A. Albertson, as Secretary. Among other Directors of the association are Paul D. Cravath, John T. Pratt, and Mrs. Joseph E. Davis.

Sheriff Seaman was not at the jail tonight.

WILL OFFER A SOLUTION OF FIUME DIFFICULTIES

Allied Commission Ready to Report a Plan Agreeable to France and Italy.

ROME, Aug. 11.—The allied commission appointed by the Supreme Council to investigate recent disorders at Fiume has concluded its work and will suggest a solution of the difficulties there, the Corriere Della Sera says today.

The commission's finding, according to the newspaper, are not limited to establishing facts in the case, but advance a proposal the adoption of which the commission holds would guarantee peace in Fiume.

The newspaper adds that the conclusions reached are of such a nature as to satisfy France without offending the dignity or pride of Italy.

WARRANT ACCUSES DOOLING

Lawyer Spurns North Carolina Charges Based on Means Case.

Special to The New York Times.

CONCORD, N. C., Aug. 11.—The Grand Jury here today did not take up, as reports had forecast, charges against John T. Dooling, Assistant District Attorney of New York, in connection with the trial here in 1917 of Gaston B. Means on a charge of murder, of which Means was acquitted.

A warrant has been sworn out before Justice of the Peace C. A. Pitts charging Dooling and William S. Miller, attorney for the Northern Trust Company of Chicago, with conspiracy and subornation of perjury in connection with the trial of Means. Witnesses in the case are expected to go before the Grand Jury tomorrow.

When asked yesterday for a statement relative to the reports from Concord, Assistant District Attorney Dooling said:

"In respect to the published statements of what evidence is alleged to be presented before the Grand Jury I will say that it is maliciously false with respect to the statement that I admitted that I did not state positively before the Commissioners the amount I received from the Northern Trust Company of Chicago. It is a malicious lie that I admitted receiving $12,000 in connection with the Means trial, the King estate, or for any other purpose. I received nothing from the Northern Trust Company of Chicago at any time.

"With respect to my bank account, I am and have been for more than twenty-one years a practicing lawyer. During that period it has been my pleasure to represent clients on whose behalf I have received and disbursed large sums of money.

"I do not recall what sums of money passed in my account, but I do not believe it aggregated the sum mentioned. Nearly all of it represented collections and investments for clients. I do not number among my clients the Northern Trust Company of Chicago or any person connected with that institution.

"The only person in Chicago or elsewhere from whom I received money during the progress of the Means trial was Alex. F. Richman. He refunded to me disbursements, and my recollection is that this was for travel and hotel accommodations for witnesses who went to Concord from this city. In addition I received $1,500 from Mr. Richman, paid out by me to handwriting, typewriting, and other experts.

"This is another effort on the part of Means and his associates to coerce the trustees of the charitable trust mentioned in the will of James C. King to compromise. Threats have been openly made that if a settlement with Means was not effected, W. S. Miller, counsel for the Northern Trust Company, and I would be indicted in North Carolina."

PRINCE OF WALES LANDS AT TOPSAIL

He Spends a Few Hours in the Newfoundland Fishing Village.

TO REACH ST. JOHN'S TODAY

Quebec to Give Him Four-Day Reception After a Visit to Maritime Provinces.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 11.—The Prince of Wales landed from the battleship Renown at Topsail, a fishing village on Conception Bay, for his first visit to Newfoundland soil today. After remaining for a few hours, he returned to the warship. He will come to this city tomorrow.

The Renown was sighted at 8 A. M., local time, today, from the Capt St. Francis Lighthouse, at the southern entrance of Conception Bay.

The Prince and members of his suite spent much of the time ashore strolling about the country and obtaining photographs of the scenery. Several hundred seamen, marines and cadets from the Renown and its escorting squadron received shore leave.

The Renown reported a pleasant and uneventful trip across the Atlantic. Many icebergs were seen in the neighborhood of the Grand Banks, but the weather was so good that there was no danger. The Prince and his suite found much interest in examining several small bergs in Conception Bay.

Final plans for the reception to the Prince were announced tonight. After his landing here at noon tomorrow, he will be driven through the city, passing under several triumphal arches. He will receive three addresses—one from the Mayor and City Council at the dock, one from the Board of Trade at its building, and one from the Government and Legislature at the Parliament Building.

Returned soldiers and sailors of the Newfoundland contingent in the war will escort the Prince and his party through the city to the Government House, where he will be the guest of the Governor, Sir Alexander Harris. After an official luncheon the Prince will motor through the suburbs. Late in the day he will present medals to seamen who rescued the survivors of the liner Florizel, which was wrecked near Cape Race in February, 1918. In the evening there will be a parade, a State dinner and a dance at the Government House.

Prince to Live on Special Train.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Aug. 11.—Great preparations are being made throughout Canada to give the Prince of Wales a truly royal reception. Sir Robert Borden, Premier of Canada, will leave Ottawa in a few days for St. John, N. B., to meet the Prince, who will arrive there from Newfoundland Aug. 15.

During his visit the Prince will live the greater part of two months on the royal special train. It is estimated he will travel approximately 8,000 miles during his tour of Canada, which is regarded as mainly educational for the young Prince. This special train is now being assembled at Montreal and will be devoid of the splendor attaching to similar trains during pre-war royal visits, consisting mainly of ordinary Canadian Pacific sleeping, dining, and drawing-room cars, with the exception of the private cars of Lord Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific, and J. K. L. Ross of Montreal, two of the most sumptuous in existence, which have been loaned for the Prince's personal use.

After brief visits to St. Johns and Halifax the Prince, with his suite, accompanied by the Premier and other notables, will proceed up the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Quebec on the Renown.

The Prince will arrive at Quebec Aug. 21. Following is the official program arranged for his stay in that city:

Thursday, Aug. 21.—His Royal Highness will land at the King's Wharf at 5 P. M. He will be received by the Governor General, the Lieutenant Governor, Cardinal Bégin, the Lord Bishop of Quebec, Premier Sir Robert Borden, Brigadier Gen. J. P. Landry, the Premier of Quebec, and the Mayor. The Prince will proceed to the Citadel, where dinner will be served at 8:15 P. M.

Friday—Presentation of addresses at the legislative buildings, followed by a reception at 10:30 A. M. At 11:30 A. M. the Prince will visit Laval University and Jeffrey Hale Hospital. Luncheon will be served at the Citadel at 1:30 P. M. At 3 P. M. the Prince will deposit wreaths on the Montcalm and Wolfe Monuments. He will unfurl the Union Jack on the Quebec Battlefields Park and will deposit a wreath on the Monument des Braves. He will also visit the Quebec Bridge. At 7:30 P. M. dinner will be served at the Garrison Club. At 9:30 P. M. there will be a reception at the Citadel.

Saturday, at 10:30 A. M., the Prince will visit the Ursuline Convent and the Hôtel Dieu Hospital. At 1 P. M. he will have lunch at the Citadel. At 2 P. M. he will go to St. Anne de Beaupré and St. Joachim by trolley and will return by motor, viewing Montmorency Falls en route. At 8:15 P. M. he will attend dinner and reception at Spencerwood.

Sunday divine service at the English Cathedral at 11 A. M. Lunch at the Citadel at 1:15 P. M. At 2:15 P. M. the Prince will leave by motor for St. Martin's Junction via Cap Rouge, and will take the Montreal road beyond the experimental farm.

DENIES FARE INCREASE.

Barrett Refuses Application of Erie Basin Car Line.

Application by the Van Brunt Street & Erie Basin Railroad Company of Brooklyn for permission to increase its rate of fare from 3 cents to 4 was denied yesterday by Deputy Public Service Commissioner Barrett on the ground that there was no necessity for the change.

The company's line is a little more than a mile long. Its power is furnished by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, which also cares for the street between the tracks. A prospective increase in the costs and an increase in the wages of the company's employes were arguments advanced in the application.

Mr. Barrett pointed out that while expenses have increased the company also has benefited by an increase in traffic. The company's income, he said, had grown from $40,853.98 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914, to $70,769.37 in the year ended June 30, 1919. In 1914, its net corporate income was $8,284.41, and in the last fiscal year $12,012. From 1914 to 1919 it paid 4 and 5 per cent. dividends on its capital stock.

At the close of 1914 it had a surplus of $43,013.53. At the close of the last fiscal year its surplus was $66,965.46. In the last six years, Mr. Barrett said, the company had bought back $34,000 of its bonds.

"To consider prospective expenses and to attempt to foresee what may happen, or what it is feared may happen," said Mr. Barrett in his report, "is to act upon conjecture. The company must pay approximately the market wages for its labor. If, after paying such wages for a time, it can be demonstrated that a fair return is not being secured, an application for increased fares may probably be made."

SELECTING JURORS FOR ANARCHY CASES

Each Talesman to Grand Jury Closely Questioned as to His Views on Government.

EIGHTEEN MEN CHOSEN

Trial of Finns Will Be the First Prosecution for Anarchy in This State.

Great care is being exercised by the District Attorney's office in the selection of Grand Jurors to collaborate with the extraordinary term of the Supreme Court called by Governor Smith for the investigation and prosecution of criminal anarchy and seditious activities in this State. The extraordinary term convened at the Criminal Courts Building yesterday, with Justice Bartow S. Weeks of the Supreme Court presiding, and the drawing of a Grand Jury began but was not completed, only eighteen out of twenty-three prospective Grand Jurors being selected.

Chief Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Talley, who, with Assistant District Attorney Alexander I. Rorke, has been assigned by District Attorney Swann to appear before the special Grand Jury and in court at the extraordinary term to present the evidence and conduct the prosecution in all such cases, announced before the drawing of Grand Jurors began that the District Attorney would exercise his right to challenge each prospective Grand Juror and ask the court to try out each challenge. This is a most unusual procedure in the selection of a Grand Jury.

Mr. Talley showed by his subsequent questions to talesmen that he did not intend to permit any man whose views on government were other than orthodox or whose sympathies might not be entirely with the upholders of the existing order to take his seat with the special Grand Jury. Mr. Talley asked each talesman whose name was drawn whether he entertained any ideas not fully in accord with the American form of government and if he belonged to any organization entertaining such views.

A panel of fifty talesmen had been summoned, but only twenty-three responded. This panel was exhausted after eighteen Grand Jurors had been tentatively selected. The extraordinary term then adjourned for the day, Justice Weeks directing Clerk William Penny of the Supreme Court to call another panel of thirty from which to draw the five additional members who must be selected before the Grand Jury is complete.

Names of the Jurors.

The members selected yesterday were:

JULIUS BUCHMAN, cotton goods merchant, 39 West Eighty-fifth Street.

J. SAMUEL SMOOT, coal dealer, 218 West Eighty-ninth Street.

CHARLES FRIEDENBERG, exporter, 17 State Street.

GEORGE LATHAM, tailor, retired, 34 West Thirty-third Street.

JOSEPH E. LOPEZ, fire insurance broker, 80 Maiden Lane.

OTTO S. WISE, manager R. H. Macy & Co., 146 Central Park West.

GEORGE G. SCHAEFER, Treasurer, 8 East Eighty-second Street.

PAUL A. MEYER, publisher, 419 West End Avenue.

HENRY MEYERS, publisher, 40 Stone Street.

WALTER S. SULLIVAN, insurance, 154 East Seventy-fourth Street.

ELEWOOD HENDRICK, retired chemist, 139 East Fortieth Street.

CLINTON TYLER BRAINARD, publisher, Hotel Imperial.

RAYMOND F. ALMIRAL, architect, 12 East Forty-sixth Street.

BENJAMIN HAMBURGER, woolen merchant, 23 East Twenty-sixth Street.

ISAAC LANDMAN, clothing dealer, 1 West Sixty-eighth Street.

EDWIN S. McMANUS, clerk, 465 West End Avenue.

Most of the men selected from yesterday's venire of talesmen have had experience in Grand Jury work during the last ten or twelve years.

It was said last night that probably the first cases to be presented to the special Grand Jury will be those of Gustave Alonen, Michael Itey, and Martin Peltela, three Finns arrested on a charge of criminal anarchy on Friday after a raid on their apartment, at 864 Cauldwell Avenue, in the Bronx, in which a mass of anarchistic literature was found. The three men were concerned in the publication and distribution of a Finnish magazine, The Lukkataistelu, (The Class Struggle,) in which have appeared a number of articles advocating bloody revolution and the seizure of the Government by force and violence.

The case against the three prisoners, of whom Alonen is held in bail of $25,000 and the others in $5,000, came up in the Harlem Court yesterday, but the examination of the prisoners was postponed until tomorrow, as Assistant District Attorney Rorke was engaged before the extraordinary term.

First Prosecution for Anarchy.

It will be the first prosecution for anarchy in this State. The prisoners were charged with violation of Section 161 of the penal law, which was enacted by the Legislature in 1902 after the assassination of President McKinley and after the arrest of the late John Most, an avowed anarchist, had brought the prosecuting authorities face to face with the fact that nothing more than a misdemeanor could be charged against any person identified with anarchistic propaganda and activities where these fell short of murder, assault, rioting, or destruction of property. The new section is broad enough to permit the Grand Jury to return indictments against persons identified with ultra-radical propaganda or those who sell and distribute books, pamphlets, and literature advocating a change in the form of Government by other than peaceful means.

Assistant District Attorney Rorke, in discussing the coming investigation, said:

"If we can obtain competent presumptive evidence to support a mass of charges that we are now investigating, I predict that the work of the extraordinary Grand Jury and special term will be historic and epochal."

RACE RIOT IN JAMAICA.

Panama Hears of Kingston Disorders Suppressed by Troops.

PANAMA, Aug. 9.—A race riot at Kingston, Jamaica, on Wednesday, July 30, was suppressed only after West Indian troops and fifty marines with machine guns were called out, according to news of the affair received here today. These reports made no mention of casualties.

Salvage $5,000,000 in Gold from Wreck of the Laurentic

BUNCRANA, Ireland, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—Gold ingots to the value of £1,000,000 sterling have been recovered by salvagers from the wreck of the former White Star Dominion liner Laurentic, which was sunk Jan. 28, 1917, off Fasad Light.

The Laurentic, a vessel of 14,892 tons, which was acting as a British auxiliary cruiser, struck a mine off the north coast of Ireland. Of a personnel of 470, only 120 were saved. According to the testimony of Captain Norton before the Coroner's hearing a large number of the men perished in open boats as a result of the bitter weather then prevailing.

SAYS UNION LEADERS CURB SOCIAL UNREST

Garretson Warns House Interstate Commerce Committee of Danger in America.

DEFENDS THE PLUMB PLAN

Brotherhoods Spokesman Clashes with Webster Over a Letter Received by Representative.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Nine-tenths of the leaders in the labor union movement are "sitting on the lid" in an attempt to prevent the industrial unrest in this country from breaking into flame, according to A. B. Garretson, chief spokesman for the railway brotherhoods and former President of the Order of Railway Conductors. Mr. Garretson, who appeared before the House Interstate Commerce Committee this afternoon in advocacy of the Plumb plan, declared the sporadic strikes throughout the country were indications of the way the wind was blowing, and that lack of action by Congress to curb present conditions was the surest way of bringing the unrest to the surface.

During Garretson's testimony it became known that the brotherhoods, just before the retirement of former Director General McAdoo, went to the President to urge upon him the appointment of a successor upon whom they had agreed. The name of this man was not made public. Mr. Garretson asserted that, as it turned out, he would not have been as "strong" a man as the present Director General, Hines, nor as desirable.

Like Warren S. Stone, Glenn E. Plumb, and Frank Morrison, who have already testified, Garretson was enthusiastic in his support of the Plumb plan.

In a "personally privileged" statement Garretson denied that any attempt had been made to coerce Congress during the passage of the Adamson law.

"The Brotherhoods," he said, "and I have been pilloried from the Atlantic to the Pacific as compelling the President and Congress to do this. We were unwilling participants in being forced into Congress. Only the power, influence and prestige of the President put us there. We went there out of respect to him, when otherwise we would have settled in our own way."

One Factor in High Cost of Living.

Two years ago, said Garretson, he would have declared the Plumb plan a basis question, but now it was only one of the factors entering into the high cost of living, which he termed an "inexorable law," bearing down upon all men. He said that force was seldom used until all methods of reason failed.

"And when men suffer as they suffer now," he said, "it is hard to convince them that all means have been exhausted until all means have been actually tried."

"Why not extend this Plumb plan; suppose all the bank clerks wanted to participate in bank control?" asked Representative Denison.

"There is not an industry on the face of the earth," replied Garretson, "in which the men who serve are not entitled to be heard as to the conduct of it. If any men deserve sympathy, it is the bank clerks."

"They receive less than the railroad men?" put in Representative Montague of Virginia.

"They don't receive as much as anybody," replied Garretson. "Politics would not play a part in the Plumb plan," he said. The great desire of his organization, the Order of Railroad Conductors, he added, was to prevent men who can exercise political pull from exercising it.

"How about the 1916 campaign?" asked Representative Cooper of Ohio, Republican, a former locomotive engineer. "Almost all the railway men voted for Mr. Wilson following the passage of the Adamson law."

"Even with all my Republican affiliations, I plead guilty," answered Garretson. "But that was purely an act of citizenship."

The letter which Representative Webster received from a railroad man, Garretson asserted, was both "a statement of position and a threat." The statement of position he defined as the fact that one of Mr. Webster's constituents wished him to vote a certain way.

Admitting that the declared intention to "post" Mr. Webster was a "threat," Garretson said that if a Chamber of Commerce wrote the Representative a polite letter, saying it would be "un-American" to vote for the Plumb plan, he would consider the word "un-American" to include the definitions of "alien, pro-German, anarchist."

Mr. Webster said that if such a letter was written to a Judge, the writer would "exercise the right of going to jail."

"I have exercised that right twice," said the labor leader.

Mr. Webster asked if Garretson indorsed a threat to kill a man because he did not vote as was desired. Evasive answers followed. And Mr. Webster thundered out:

"My reputation has been assailed. Is not an honorable man's reputation worth more to him than his life?"

Mr. Plumb, in concluding his testimony, during the forenoon denied that the letter was a threat to force the Plumb plan.

Mr. Webster said that he had never said it was a threat in that particular connection, but that it was an attempt to intimidate a member of Congress in connection with labor's general demands.

"There has never been a coercive threat behind our plan," said Plumb. "If so it was not a part of our plan, and was without our knowledge."

Plumb presented a telegram from Harry A. Bard of the Spokane Railway Unions saying that letters, such as Representative Webster received, were written long before the Plumb plan had been considered by the railroad crafts of that vicinity. One line of this telegram read:

"Congressman Webster's tirade looks like political camouflage to confuse the issue on the Plumb plan, and not the action of a few members of organized labor."

Before the committee adjourned this afternoon Garretson said:

"It is charged that the Plumb plan is conjectural. That was said of the American Republic. It had no evangelist. Christ had John the Baptist, but the American Republic had none."

"Well, the other plans presented might also be called conjectural," put in Chairman Esch.

"Our plan is in no way so radical as the others presented, including the Warfield and railway executives plans," replied Garretson.

The witness will continue tomorrow.

During the day Lewis H. Haney of Jacksonville, Fla., representing the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association, suggested that the packers were dominating the refrigerator car system, and asked that this be controlled.

SEE AMERICA OUT OF LABOR PARLEYS

Administration Leaders Say We Cannot Participate Till Treaty is Ratified.

OCTOBER MEETING CALLED

International Gathering to be Held in Washington, but Americans May Be Only Onlookers.

TO DISCUSS BIG QUESTIONS

Will Consider Eight-Hour Day and Woman and Child Labor Among Other Subjects.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—In announcing today that the first annual international labor conference provided for under the treaty of peace would be opened in Washington Oct. 29, Administration leaders today laid stress upon the point that unless the peace treaty was ratified by that time the United States would be forced to sit by as an onlooker, despite the fact that the conference was to be held in the nation's capital.

President Wilson was authorized to call the conference by a joint resolution passed by Congress, but the Administration leaders say that it will not be possible for the United States, or any other nation which was invited to membership in the League of Nations, to have any part in the sessions until it has subscribed to the treaty with the League of Nations covenant included in it.

An informal announcement of the calling of the conference was contained in the following statement issued by the Department of Labor today:

"The annual labor conference, which Part XIII. of the treaty of peace between the allied and associated Governments and Germany, signed at Versailles June 28, 1919, requests the Government of the United States to convene in Washington, has been called by the President, under the authority vested in him by Congress, to assemble at noon on the 29th day of October, 1919.

"The invitation is extended to each nation which is, or which prior to the meeting shall become, a member of the International Labor Organization, as defined in Article 387 of the Peace Treaty, in the form of a cablegram to American Ambassadors reading as follows:

You are instructed to deliver the following invitation in the name of the President to the Government to which you are accredited:

"The President of the United States, in accordance with the provisions of Part XIII. of the Treaty of Peace between the allied and associated powers and Germany, signed at Versailles June 28, 1919, and under authority vested in him by Congress, hereby convenes the first meeting of the annual Labor Conference therein described to assemble in Washington at noon on the 29th day of October, 1919.

"The Government of the United States hereby extends to each nation which is or which prior to the said meeting shall become a member of the International Labor Organization as defined in Article 387 an invitation to send its delegates and other representatives to Washington for the purpose of attending such conference."

"You will also inform the Government to whom you are accredited that all details as to reception of and accommodations for its representatives in Washington may be arranged through its diplomatic representatives here. Please obtain and telegraph to the department the names of the delegates and their advisers. The cost of all telegrams should be stated therein in order that the department may obtain reimbursement.

"You will also offer your aid in the matter of passports, transportation, &c.

President Wilson on July 24, 1919, personally instructed the Hon. W. B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, to take entire charge of all the arrangements for convening and holding the conference. Secretary Wilson thereupon appointed Nathan A. Smyth, of New York City, assistant to the Secretary for this purpose. E. H. Greenwood of Washington, special assistant to the Director of the War Risk Insurance Bureau, has been appointed by the Secretary as assistant to Mr. Smyth.

The International Organization Committee of the annual labor conference which has been sitting in London has completed its work. Ambassador Davis has been instructed to invite the committee, in the name of the President, to meet in Washington in September, and it will probably transfer its office to the Department of Labor at that time.

The Government will be largely in control of the make-up of the international conference, and will determine whether radical or more conservative delegates are sent. There are to be present for each country a representative of labor, one of the employers, and two appearing as representatives of the people. They will be accompanied by experts, who will sit in the conference but will not have a vote.

The program for the first conference deals with four major questions:

First—The application in each country of the principle of the eight-hour day. In the treaty all powers have agreed to accept this principle.

Second—The question of State help to remedy unemployment. The Treaty of Peace establishes the duty of each member of the League of Nations to provide for legislation to undertake remedial legislation with reference to unemployment. The conference in October will discuss and develop the definite laws which the experience of all the world may suggest.

Third—The question of women in industry. This will include the question of the prohibition of night work for women. Another consideration will be the question of women's employment in dangerous trades.

Fourth—The last major question to be considered will be that of children in industry. The prohibition of child labor up to 12 years is proposed.

WAR ON RECKLESS DRIVERS.

League for Motorists' Protection Appears in Court.

The first appearance in court of the League for Motorists' Protection took place yesterday when Fred Schillitani, a chauffeur of 241 Mulberry Street, was arraigned in Jefferson Market Court on a charge of felonious assault. He pleaded not guilty, and was held in $1,500 bail for trial. The complainant was Harry W. Gaston, President of the league, which was organized five weeks ago to assist the police in arresting reckless drivers, and make the roads safe for automobilists and pedestrians.

The charge against Shillitani is that while acting as a chauffeur on June 26 he knocked down a sixteen-year-old boy on Fourth Avenue near Eighth Street, after which he drove away at full speed without trying to learn the results of the accident. The boy's leg was injured and he was not able to appear in court until yesterday.

The League for Motorists' Protection now has 7,000 members among the private automobile owners of New York City. It was organized by drivers and users of automobiles to strike at the evil of reckless driving.

AMERICAN LEAGUE'S WARRING FACTIONS NOW VEERING TOWARD PEACE

MAYS CASE NEARS PEACEFUL ENDING

So Predicts Charles Comiskey, White Sox Owner, After Conference of Club Owners.

COURT HEARING POSTPONED

Put Over Until Friday at Johnson's Request—American League Board of Directors Meets Thursday.

A new and startling development came up in the Carl Mays case yesterday when it was discovered that the Ruppert faction controlled the Board of Directors of the American League. The board is composed of Colonel Ruppert, Harry Frazee of Boston, Charles Comiskey of Chicago, and James Dunn of Cleveland. It also developed that it is within the power of the Board of Directors to overrule President Ban Johnson on the Mays suspension, so a special meeting of the board has been called for Thursday, when the Directors will probably set Mays free, right over the edict of the league boss.

The hearing on the Mays injunction was to have been heard in the Supreme Court today, but on the request of the attorneys for President Johnson the case was put over until Friday morning of this week.

The meeting of the American League club owners, which was held at the Biltmore Hotel yesterday at President Ruppert's invitation brought forth representatives of only the New York, Boston, and Chicago Clubs, as expected. The coming of the Old Roman, Charley Comiskey, from Chicago, to the conclave had a deep significance, because he has always been one of the staunchest supporters of the national game, and has done more in promoting it to its present high standing among American sports than any other one man.

Predicts Peaceful Settlement.

That the Mays case will be satisfactorily settled without instigating a war in the American League was the opinion of Mr. Comiskey yesterday. "I think this unfortunate thing will be smoothed out satisfactorily," said the Old Roman. "It's too bad that this thing happened. Baseball was coming back with greater interest than we ever expected, and it is to be regretted that any such thing as this should happen to detract interest in the sport."

Mr. Comiskey hinted that some of the other club owners might be persuaded to join the opposition to President Johnson in the Mays case, but he refused to say what club owners he thought would do this. It is believed, however, that Washington and Philadelphia could be persuaded to join with New York in its fight against Johnson if the occasion became serious enough.

The Chicago owner was outspoken against Johnson's action in suspending Mays. "The jurisdiction of the President of the League," said Mr. Comiskey, "ends when the player leaves the ball field. His authority over him is only as a player on the field. If there was any disciplining to be done it was a matter of the Boston Club to punish Mays. If the President thought that the Boston Club was not dealing with the player properly he could have called it to that club's attention when he would have the evidence in the case first hand. But what he did was to suspend the player without even consulting the Boston Club. He clearly overstepped his authority, I think."

Colonel Ruppert, Colonel Huston, Mr. Comiskey, and Mr. Frazee got together at the Biltmore yesterday morning and were closeted all day with Colonel Ruppert's lawyers. As soon as they discovered that they had a majority of the Board of Directors on their side their campaign was immediately mapped out.

Directors May Overrule President.

It developed that a meeting of the board may be called by a majority of its members at any time. It is also within the jurisdiction of the Directors to overrule any decision of the League President in a matter of a player's suspension. This leaves the way open for the Directors to reinstate Mays over Johnson's suspension. The Board of Directors cannot be changed until the next annual meeting of the League in December.

Notices were sent last night to President Johnson, who is now in this city, and to President James Dunn of Cleveland to attend the meeting of the Board of Directors here Thursday. As President, Mr. Johnson is a member of the board and his presence is urgently requested. Johnson was in this city yesterday to attend the hearing of the injunction which was set for today. He did not get into communication with Colonel Ruppert, only through his attorney, and the fact that Johnson's lawyers asked for a continuance of the injunction proceedings is taken as an indication that Mr. Comiskey's prediction that the case will be satisfactorily settled will probably materialize.

After their meeting at the Biltmore yesterday the three club owners made the following announcement:

Urgent necessity requiring a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the American League of Professional Baseball Clubs, the undersigned, being a majority of the Board of Directors of the said league, hereby call a special meeting of such Board of Directors to be held on Thursday, Aug. 14, 1919, at 11 o'clock A. M., at Room 131, Biltmore Hotel, New York City.

This meeting is called pursuant to Section 16 and the other sections of the constitution of said league, for the purpose of considering and taking action in the matter of the alleged action of the President of the league in purporting to suspend player Carl W. Mays; and for the purpose of considering and taking action in the matter of the relation of the President of the league to the league and to the Board of Directors, and considering the management of the affairs of the office of President of the league by its present incumbent, Byron B. Johnson, the President, Secretary, Treasurer, and a Director of the league, is specially requested to attend the meeting.

CHARLES A. COMISKEY.
(Signed) H. H. FRAZEE.
JACOB RUPPERT.

No Statement from Johnson.

President Johnson was careful to remain in seclusion yesterday, and no statement could be obtained from him about the call for a special meeting of the Directors. He gave as his reason for not attending yesterday's gathering of the League that it had not been called with proper authority. As the calling of the Directors' meeting is within the provisions of the League's constitution, it is believed that he will not refuse to accept the call for the Thursday gathering.

It was clearly the sense of yesterday's gathering that litigation over the Mays case should be avoided for the good of the game. The wise counsel of Comiskey in the controversy leads baseball men to believe that the overruling of Johnson's suspension of Mays will be gracefully accepted as defeat by Johnson and the clubs who have backed him in the present trouble. Comiskey is better versed in baseball procedure than perhaps any magnate in the game, and through the medium of the Board of Directors it is believed that a solution of the matter will be found which will be acceptable to Johnson.

It would seem, however, that the board will have Johnson on the carpet for his action in the present trouble, for in the call of the meetinga the wording says "for the purpose of considering and taking action in the matter of the relation of the President of the eLague to the League and to the Board of Directors, and considering the management of the affairs of the office of President of the eLague by its present incumbent."

This part of the statement was taken as a threat that the Board of Directors might impeach the League President, but none of the club owners at the meeting would say that this was one of the purposes of the board when it gets together on Thursday. It is believed doubtful if the board would have the power to impeach Johnson, although if the Directors can overrule his decisions, it would soon bring about a lack of confidence in their leader among the club owners.

One thing is certain and that is that because of his alleged arbitrary actions in the Mays matter, Johnson's powers are going to be curtailed in the future, and the Board of Directors, which in the past has been simply a body appointed as a matter of form and which never conducted any business on its own account, will be a busy committee from now until the time of the next League meeting in December.

Ainsmith's Home Run with Two on Bases Defeats Mackmen, 7 to 4.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—Philadelphia hammered Dauss for a three-run lead in the first inning today, but two outfield fumbles by Burrus gave Detroit two runs, and long drives by Jones and Ainsmith accounted for the five others, the visitors winning, 7 to 4. Jones knocked in runs in the second and fourth and Ainsmith scored two men ahead of him on a home run in the eighth. Walker also made a circuit drive in the latter half of the same inning. Cobb made two bases on an ordinary single to centre in the seventh.

YANKEES DEFEATED IN RUN CARNIVAL

All Pitchers Alike and Indians Win, 15-9—Homers by Lewis, Pipp, Bodie, and Smith.

The ball game up at the Polo Grounds yesterday between the Yanks and Cleveland developed into the sort of a baseball goulash one would expect when the married men play the single men at a Sunday school picnic. Cleveland won the game, 15 to 9. Three Yank pitchers were thoroughly bruised, first Jack Quinn, then Ernie Shore, next Walter Smallwood and last Frank O'Doul who got into action for the first time. New York had the lead for four innings and contributed three home runs to the afternoon's entertainment. Outside of that, the Yanks stood around sort of bewildered watching Cleveland runs filter over the plate.

The Yankee home runs were embroidered by Lewis, Pipp and Bodie. There was no one on the bases when Lewis spanked out his drive into the bleachers so only one run was cashed in. Bodie drove in one ahead of him and Pipp two. The runs came in such flocks that no one knew just what the score was until after it was all over. Larry Gardner made four hits while Speaker got three hits and two passes out of six times up. Sam Vick did some lively hitting for the Yanks with three bangs, one a double. The Indians worked the sqeeze play a couple of times and in fact they did everything which the Yanks should have done themselves.

Indians Start Early.

The Indians started to get gay with Quinn in the first inning. After Graney was tossed out by Baker, Chapman singled to centre. Speaker jammed a bouncer through short, sending Chapman to third. Smith rolled a grounder to Pipp, but Chapman beat Wallie's toss to the plate. Gardner doubled to right, Speaker scoring and Smith going to third. Wamby's sacrifice fly to Bodie sent Smith over the plate. Johnston closed the round by skying to Lewis.

The Yanks knocked this three-run lead to bits in their turn at the bat, and grabbed a one-run lead. With two gone, Baker singled to centre and traveled to third on Lewis's slap to right. Pipp bounded a home run off the upper balconade of the right field stand, pushing Baker and Lewis home ahead. Pratt hit safely to left, and Bodie ambled. Ruel cracked a hit to left, scoring Pratt.

The Yankees widened their lead in the third. Pipp walked and Pratt skied to Speaker. Bodie's safe crack to right sent Pipp to third. Ruel then worked a squeeze play, tapping the ball to Myers, Pipp sliding home safely under O'Neill at the plate when the pitcher soaked the ball home to get the runner. Ruel went to second and Bodie to third when Myers pulled a wild throw to second base. Quinn dropped a dinky little hit back of second and Speaker made a quick throw home and nailed Bodie. Fewster singled to left and coaxed Ruel home. Vick ended Yank hostilities when Gardner tossed him out at first.

The Indians began to creep up in the fourth. Johnston doubled to right and Pratt made a circus catch of O'Neill's fly. Fewster tossed Myers out at first, and Graney hit the ball in front of the platter. Ruel picked up the ball and meant to toss the runner out at first, but instead he bounded the ball off Graney's anatomy and Johnston scored.

Cleveland got very fussy in the fifth and tied the score. Speaker beat out an infield tap and Elmer Smith indulged in his favorite occupation of smashing the ball against the stand for a home run, sending Speaker home at the head of the procession.

Quinn Replaced by Shore.

Jack Quinn kissed the game good-bye, and Ernie Shore was elected to his job. Ernie did pretty well until the seventh, when he faded like a morning glory in the sun. Chapman got a walk and Speaker singled to centre. Smith did the same thing, and scored Chapman. Gardner poked a hit to centre, scoring Speaker. Shore was groggy and falling on the hopes, so he was sent to the clubhouse for smelling salts. Walter Smallwood officiated on the mound after that. He started generously by giving Wamby a pass. Johnston cudgeled a single to centre, sending Smith and Gardner over the scoring dish. O'Neill rapped a single to centre, scoring Wamby.

There was still a little kick left in the Yanks. In their half of this same disastrous seventh, with two out of the way, Pratt singled to centre. Ping Bodie sent Del on a trip home by pasting a home run against the upper boxes of the right field attic.

Cleveland wasn't through yet. In the eighth Speaker walked and stole second. After Smith fanned, Gardner crashed a double to right, scoring Speaker.

The worst was yet to come. With O'Doul pitching the ninth inning, Myers started out with a single. Graney walked and Chapman ballooned to Bodie. After Speaker forced Graney, Joe Wood, batting for Smith, was safe on Fewster's fumble, and Myers scored. The Indians stole a little Yankee thunder and worked the squeeze play, Speaker scoring. O'Doul picked up Gardner's bunt on this play and made an atrocious throw to first, Smith scoring. That brought Cleveland's total to fifteen runs, which was more than plenty.

The dying gasp of the Yankees was a home run belt into the left field bleachers by Duffy Lewis in the ninth.

INFIELDERS TALK AND DODGERS LOSE

Johnston and Olson Converse, Miss a Play, and Pirates Rush Through to 5 to 3 Victory.

Ivan Olson and Jimmy Johnston discussed President Wilson's high cost of living speech from all its angles yesterday at Ebbets Field; Chuck Ward mistook Big Ed Konetchy for the Washington Monument in a ball-throwing test for height; the Pittsburgh Pirates selected the occasion to hop all over the offerings of Sherrod Smith, the nonchalant Flatbush southpaw, and the natural result followed. The Pirates garnered a ball game from the generous Robins by the modest margin of 5 to 2.

All this happened in the Pirates' fourth frame. Sherry Smith had passed through the first three chapters without serious damage, although he was not quite up to the top of his form. He was nicked for solid singles in the first and third innings, and dazzling fielding prevented additions to this total. The Dodger infield held better than the water-tight compartments on transatlantic liners for these three innings, but in the fourth somebody threw a monkey wrench into the machinery. Then things began to happen, and with a suddenness which stunned all of the 2,000 faithful who witnessed the travesty.

Max Carey opened the fourth with a single to left. Billy Southworth popped up to Johnston, and then George Cutshaw maced a single to right, which sent Carey to second. Barbare lashed a single over second to centre, scoring Carey and sending Cutshaw to third. The situation was alarming, but nobody was prepared for what followed. Fred Nicholson, who plays any position on the field except pitcher, rapped a hopper to the box, and Smith turned to choke off Barbare at second. Sherry saw Johnston and Olson both within a foot of the bag, one on each side, so he heaved the pellet straight and true over the sack.

That Mysterious Discussion.

It appeared that Olson and Johnston were too deeply engrossed in their mysterious discussion to give serious attention to Smith's throw. Some people thought they were discoursing on the happiness which is to come when President Wilson's dream of jailed profiteers is realized. Others opined they were visioning the scene down in Baltimore, where Manager Wilbert Robinson's son was undergoing matrimony. No matter what they were talking about, both stood stock still in their positions, while Smith's throw, cutting over second base like a strike over the plate, sailed serenely into centre field, where Hy Myers scooped it up. Cutshaw scored, Barbare was safe at second, and Nicholson was bobbing impatiently off first.

Terry grounded to Konetchy, who threw quickly to Olson, forcing Nicholson at second, while Barbare scampered to third. Olson fondled the pill long enough to count the stitches in it, and Barbare continued almost without interruption to the plate with the third Buccaneer run. Cliff Lee hit a bounder to Ward, who forced Konetchy to jump into the air for the throw, and Lee was safe, with Terry on second. With this setting before him, Frank (Bullet) Miller, who did the hurling for the Bezdek crew, laced a double into right field, scoring Terry and Lee. Bigbee obligingly lofted to Hy Myers in centre, ending the agony.

The misplay of Johnston and Olson at second on what should have been an easy force out, and possibly a double play, presented a puzzling topic to the scorers. Johnston officially was given the error, the assumption being it was his position and he should have covered the bag. Others inclined to the belief that Olson was in better position for the force-out and attempt at a double killing, inasmuch as he was facing both plays, while Johnston would have to turn completely around to try for a double play.

Miller Is a Puzzle.

Miller served a puzzling variety of slants to the Dodgers, and let them down with six hits. Three of these were collected in the fifth inning, when the Flatbush lads manufactured a run. Another brace in the seventh, with a fumble by Zeb Terry, gave the Dodgers their remaining marker. In every other inning but three men faced the Pirate slabman, Olson being killed off in a double play in the first inning after getting the opening hit off Miller.

Wheat's first rap came in the fifth, when he singled to left. Hy Myers drilled a single into centre, sending Wheat to third. Konetchy poled a rocket to Southworth, who muffed an easy catch in his eagerness to whip the ball home, and Wheat scored easily. The Pirate outfielder, however, quickly picked up the ball and threw it to Terry in time to force Myers, who remained stationary at first, thinking Southworth would catch the ball. Ward forced Konetchy at second with a grounder to Nicholson, and Mack Wheat larruped a single over third to left, sending Ward to second. Smith grounded weakly to Nicholson, ending the inning.

Zach Wheat opened the seventh with a crashing double off the right-field stockade. When Terry fumbled Myers's hot grounder Wheat took third, and he scored when Konetchy hit into a double play, Terry to Cutshaw to Nicholson. Ward followed with a single to left, but was forced at second when Mack Wheat grounded to Terry.

MACK BUYS WHOLE TEAM.

Athletics' Manager Acquires Rights to Atlanta Club Players.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Americans announced tonight that he had purchased the right to the entire playing personnel of the Atlanta Club of the Southern Association. He already has picked nine of the players to report to him at the close of the Southern Association season, on Sept. 7.

Mack also announced the purchase of Pitcher Zinn of the Waco (Texas) Club and Pitcher Rommell of the Newark International League Club. Zinn and Rommell will report on Sept. 1.

Curves and Bingles.

It must have dawned on Manager Huggins yesterday that his pitching staff is in a pretty bad slump. Unless Thormahlen, Quinn, and Shawkey get back into shape, the next Western jaunt is going to be worse than the last one.

The Giants and the Dodgers will have a family controversy over at Ebbets Field this afternoon. Unless McGraw's men brace pretty soon there are going to be a lot of disappointed folks in this metropolis who made sundry bets that New York would win the National League pennant.

Sam Vick made a highly illuminated catch of Larry Gardner's drive in the third. Sam corraled the ball with one hand just when it was headed for the wilderness.

The Yanks did enough hitting to win two or three games, but the Indians got better breaks with their hits and they clustered them more judiciously.

The kind of baseball they had on tap yesterday can be seen on the back lots any Sunday afternoon, but it is seldom seen in a major league park.

It begins to look as if the Yankees had Ban Johnson up a tree in the Mays case. His power will be curbed if the Directors have as much power as they believe they have.

The Yankees did some things in a commendable way yesterday, anyway. Del Pratt made a spectacular catch of O'Neill's fly in short centre in the fourth which wasn't half bad.

When passersby saw the people coming out of the Polo Grounds at such a late hour last evening they asked how the double-header came out.

The Giants got back last night after a trip which was the most costly series of games of the season. They won five and lost nine games.

BEARS BEAT LEAFS IN DOUBLE COMBAT

Play Well Behind Steady Pitching and Trounce Toronto, 5 to 3 and 2 to 1.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 11.—Newark downed Toronto in both parts of a double-header here today, winning the first game 5 to 3 and the second 2 to 1. Steady pitching accounted for the Newark victories, while Toronto fielded erratically behind John Paul Jones, who pitched both games for the Maple Leafs.

Dick McCabe was on the mound for Newark in the first game against Jones and he allowed the Leafs four hits, while Newark found Jones for six safeties. George Gaw pitched the second game for the Bears and he was touched up for six safeties by Gibson's men, but kept them pretty well scattered, while Newark, although only getting four hits off Jones, took advantage of the four misplays made by the Leafs to tally.

COLTS BLANK SKEETERS.

Jersey City Outhits Rochester, but Is Defeated, 2 to 0.

Bill Donovan's Skeeters outbatted Rochester in yesterday's game at Jersey City, but the failure of the home players to put their hits together cost them the ball game. Irwin's colts had the good fortune to bunch their wallops for a run in the fourth inning and another as a windup in the ninth, giving them the victory, 2 to 0.

Walter Devitalis, the latest addition to the Jersey City stable from the Yankees' camp, was in charge of the battery works for the home team and pitched excellent ball, holding the opposition to eight hits, while Joe Acosta, the Rochester deceiver, was found for nine.

CLINE EASY VICTIM FOR BENNY LEONARD

Lightweight Champion Toys with Opponent in Slow Six-Round Bout.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—A great crowd packed the Phillies' Ball Park tonight to witness Philadelphia's greatest open air boxing carnival, the principal magnet being Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard and Patsy Cline.

Previous records for attendance here were shattered, with a fair estimate placing the crowd of fight lovers at 22,000, and as the park could hold no more, surging crowds were left on the street surrounding the grounds, taxing the police arrangements. More women were noted in tonight's gathering than ever attended a fight in this city.

The preliminaries over, the crowd settled itself for the big fight, which, while full of action, proved to be more of a sparring exhibition than anything else. Cline chased Leonard around the ring throughout the battle, but was staved off in easy fashion by the champion, who used short, choppy right and left uppercuts and hooks to good advantage. Benny was suffering with a bad cold in the head, but displayed championship form whenever occasion required and Cline was no more than a novice before his generalship and masterly defense. Neither man was in danger at any point.

First Two Rounds Even.

At the opening of the bout between Leonard and Cline, after considerable delay, both tried left jabs and feinting tactics, each seeking an opening. Leonard landed two body blows without much force, and the fighters fell into a clinch. Cline jumped around Leonard speedily, but was unable to find an opening. In a clinch Leonard rocked Cline's head back with an uppercut. The round was even.

In the second round they went into a fast exchange of blows, broke away and then rushed, with Leonard whipping over a fairly hard right to the jaw. Cline rushed Leonard to the ropes and gently tapped him in the stomach without much evidence that he intended to harm the champion. It was another slow round with honors even.

The third round opened with Cline rushing Leonard, and an exchange of punching developed, in which both landed rights to the jaw. Leonard's blows were the harder and staggered Cline for a moment. Leonard's left jabs opened a cut over Cline's left eye, and every time Cline rushed Leonard backed away and shot a volley of straight right-handed punches. The round went to Leonard.

In the fifth round Leonard swung his right and left at Cline, but Cline came back with a fast exchange and took all Leonard gave. Cline's head bobbed like a cork on a choppy sea from Leonard's uppercuts.

It was Leonard's round, and it showed that he was about 99 per cent. better than Cline.

Cline Makes Wild Blows.

Cline rushed at the start of the sixth, but, as usual, could not land, while Leonard toyed with him. Cline only missed a hard left swing by at least two feet. Cline's right cheek was slashed open by a hook. They stood in the centre of the ring and slugged. Cline held Benny in a clinch, while Benny landed uppercuts. Leonard won the round and bout.

Johnny Dundee beat Joe Welling of Chicago, by a slight edge, in a marvelous fight. It was a slashing whirlwind of a battle with gloves flying like straws in a cyclone. Both men took punishment that would have stopped a fighter of ordinary heart, without going down. Welling, noted for his terrific punching, landed his best blows without harming Dundee, and the harder he hit, the faster Dundee came back.

Joe Benjamin, lightweight champion of the Pacific Coast, made his début in the East when he defeated Al Thompson, the fighting marine from League Island, in the opening bout of the card.

In the second bout, Johnny Mealey and Eddie Morgan of England, ended about even. Charlie White, once great Chicago lightweight, either could not solve Harry Pearce, the Brooklyn war horse, or refused to try, and Peace won.

PHILS RALLY IN SEVENTH.

Come from Behind With Five Runs and Defeat League Leaders.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 11.—Philadelphia staged a batting rally in the seventh inning today which gave the visitors a victory over the league leaders, 5 to 3. For six innings Eller shut out the visitors, but in the seventh Blackburne's triple, a single by Luderus, two passes, and a home run by Paulette gave them five earned runs and the game. Luque finished the game without being scored on.

Rixey was very effective. In the first inning Daubert's single, a walk, a double steal, and an out at first gave the Reds their first tally. They scored again in the second on errors by Bancroft and Blackburne, and one more in the sixth on a walk, a sacrifice, and a single by Kopf. The fielding of Rath at second base was a brilliant feature.

O'Dowd Defeats Clark.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Mike O'Dowd of St. Paul, middleweight champion, outfought Jackie Clark of Allentown, Penn., in a ten-round bout here tonight. Clark fought a game, heady battle, but could not withstand the rushing attack of the titleholder, who won six rounds against two for the challenger. Two were even. The men weighed 158 pounds at 6 o'clock tonight.

Levinsky Outfights Turner.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 11.—Battling Levinsky of Bridgeport, Conn., outfought Clay Turner, the Indian from St. Paul, in an eight-round bout here tonight. The first round was an even go, but all the others were Levinsky's easily. Weights at ringside were Levinsky, 173 pounds, and Turner, 170.

Cross and Loughlin Draw.

SCRANTON, Penn., Aug. 11.—Marty Cross of New York and Willie Loughlin of Bethlehem, Penn., middleweights, fought a ten-round draw here tonight at an open-air show. Steve Latzo of Hazleton outclassed Tommy Ferguson of this city in another ten-round bout. Four thousand fans attended the bouts.

Brandt Outpoints Reddy.

MERIDEN, Conn., Aug. 11.—"Dutch" Brandt of Brooklyn won over Battling Reddy of New York in a fast fifteen-round bout staged in the open air here tonight.

A PARTICULARLY significant fact about our clothing is its general and complete excellence.

If you appraise on a fabric basis, you are gratified to find it all wool.

If you look to the tailoring, you find it splendidly done. And the style, of course, is thoroughly Correct and Metropolitan.

We make these advantages additionally attractive by a price range that delivers true value.

The Will to Serve

IDEALS are sometimes strange, impractical thoughts that have no place in the scheme of modern business.

Other ideals, on the contrary, form the very foundation of a great enterprise.

"The Will to Serve" is a practical ideal upon which the world-wide business of the Republic Motor Truck Company has been built.

This ideal has its root in the engineering department and factory where efforts never cease to make the Republic Truck better and better. It spreads to the local dealers all over the country where the effort is made to sell Republics where they can serve. And it is the foundation of the service stations, where the dominant thought is to keep Republics in operation.

"The Will to Serve" is the foundation of Republic satisfaction and it is the universal realization of this ideal that has sold about 60,000 Republics—that has made Republic the most popular truck in the world.

Men Often Build Their Estates on Sand

Spend their life accumulating wealth—or building a business—then die and leave it in less competent hands to manage. The result—another generation sees the estate dissipated.

There's only one way to permanently perpetuate your estate.

The Brill & Scott Plan

shows you how you can best do this. For example

To guarantee your wife or family $200 a month. An equal income to a $50,000 estate.

McLOUGHLIN AND BUNDY WIN OPENING DOUBLES TITLE MATCH AT LONGWOOD NETS

EX-CHAMPIONS TAKE MATCH IN DOUBLES

McLoughlin and Bundy Defeat Davis and Johns in Start of National Tourney.

NEW ENGLANDERS ALSO WIN

Williams and Washburn Capture Three Sets Out of Four from Kumagae and Throckmorton.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—With ten strong teams entered, eight composed of sectional winners and two from Australia, representing the season's top flight of tennis abroad, the annual tournament for the doubles championship of the United States began today on the new turf courts of the Longwood Cricket Club. Only two matches were decided this afternoon, as the draw presetned six of the competing pairs with byes in order to preserve the mathematical balance.

Maurice McLoughlin and Thomas C. Bundy, former national champions, defeated another California combination, Willis E. Davis and Van Dyke Johns, 6—4, 9—7, 4—6, 6—4, in the curtain raiser, while the later contest resulted in a victory for Richard Norris Williams, 2d, and Watson M. Washburn, former Eastern and present New England title holders, over Ichiya Kumagae and Harold A. Throckmorton, the Middle States winners, by scores of 6—4, 3—6, 6—1, 8—6.

The two successful combinations move up into the second round, each completing a quartet of contenders whose survivors will meet in the semi-final round after tomorrow's four matches have been decided. Williams and Washburn are bracketed with Norman Brookes and Gerald Patterson, the Australian stars, who defeated them last week in the semi-finals at Newport. The second pair of visitors, R. V. Thomas and Randolph Lycett, will play Frederick B. Alexander and S. Howard Voshell in the upper quarter at 2:30 P. M. tomorrow. McLoughlin and Bundy, now occupying the first line of the lower half, meet as their next opponents the Middle Atlantic winners, Conrad B. Doyle and Fred C. Harris, while the bottom bracket is occupied by the Californians, William M. Johnston and C. J. Griffin, facing the southern champions, L. Thalheimer and [illegible], who are distinctly the dark horses of the event, being practically unknown in tennis circles.

It is planned to play the final round on Thursday, if the weather continues fair, with Friday as a day of rest for the team which comes through the tournament, and which will challenge the present national champions, William T. Tilden, 2d, and Vincent Richards, on Saturday for the title.

Well Filled with Thrills.

Both of today's encounters were full of thrills for the gallery and gave a pleasant premonition of the magnificent battles of the racquet still to come. With the famous California comet returning to the Longwood courts for the first time since his meteoric successes in 1914, in partnership with the "Little Napoleon," who twice helped him to achieve national honors, there was a quick gathering of the fans when these two heroes of the game appeared on one of the outside courts. With the veteran [illegible] Mansfield in the umpire's chair, they began their match against Davis and Johns, two more players who have contributed largely to the tennis reputation of the Far West.

It became evident almost at once that Willis Davis was the real star of the quartet. From his very first shot, a clean service ace, he dominated the court, hitting like a demon and making the most spectacular recoveries, but, unfortunately, getting very little support from Johns. The latter has had less tennis than the average since completing his military service and is by no means back to the form that made him redoubtable several years ago. (At his best, however, it is doubtful whether the young Californian could have competed on even terms with the experienced doubles players in whose company he found himself today. The pace was too fast for him throughout, and he eventually became the target for most of the successful shots.

McLoughlin was somewhat better overhead today than in his matches at Newport last week. He did not get many chances at the ball, as most of the opposing attack was directed against his partner. But when he found a setup or even a fairly deep lob to his liking, he put an end to the rally quite in his old style. But it was evident to even the most casual observer today that the great McLoughlin's service of the past is completely gone. His first ball is an awkward halting shot, with little elevation and, instead of coming with the glorious sweep of the racquet that once seemed the poetry of motion, it has little speed or break or even accuracy. McLoughlin's second ball on the other hand is still a very aggressive stroke, with a high puzzling bound, and it proved exceedingly troublesome to both his opponents this afternoon.

Bundy Bears the Brunt.

As for volleying and ground strokes, the ex-champion displayed an average high-class game today, a game which would be thoroughly impressive in any man of less than McLoughlin's past reputation. It was Bundy, however, who bore the brunt of the playing for the winners this afternoon. It is probably no exaggeration to say that he hit three times as many balls in the course of the match as did his partner. He was not often permitted to finish a rally. McLoughlin usually attended to that in one direction or the other. But it was Bundy who supplied the steadiness to wear out the opposition, the power to return everything that was hit at or near him, lobbing accurately even off the hardest smashes, chopping to such openings as presented themselves and rarely missing the opportunity for volleying his rivals out of position. Bundy's play today compared favorably with any of his great performances of the past, which means that he is far from ready for retirement.

Serving in sensational style, Davis won the opening game of the first match, but was promptly answered by a love game from McLoughlin's delivery. The weakness of Johns was grasped at once by the old champions and they broke through for a lead of 2—1, which Bundy made 3—1 with his tricky reverse twist. Davis won again, although the points went to deuce, and, after McLoughlin had boosted the score to 4—2, another break against Johns, in which the losers failed to tally, put the set on ice at 5—2. A good rally, however, brought a counter break through Bundy's delivery, and Davis, again serving successfully, brought his side to within one game of a tie score at 5—4. McLoughlin, however, had too strong an attack in reserve and quickly put the lid on the opening session, 6—4.

The second came with more difficulty, although the ex-champions ran into an early lead of 4—1. Here, however, they were stopped short, Davis and Johns staging a splendid pull-up, which netted three games in a row and squared the set, 4 all. Davis then put his team ahead by serving a love game, a feat which McLoughlin promptly duplicated, and, although Johns again lost his service, the games were 6 all when Bundy was similarly upset. One more alternation led to the winning break which came against Johns, Bundy eventually closing out the set, 9—7.

Johns's Play Improves.

But the younger pair were not yet beaten, and with Johns for the first time giving his partner adequate support they held their own in the interchange of deliveries up to 3—4 and then actually broke through McLoughlin for the third set, 3—4. They resistance continued sturdily in the final session and they held their own up to three-all, when Johns once more fell a victim to superior play, some surprisingly good lobbing by McLoughlin conspicuously marking the [illegible]. A long deuce game went in Bundy's favor for a 5—3 lead and, altogether Davis won his last desperate cannonading service, McLoughlin closed the argument with the unmistakable finality of a love game, the set and match going at 6—4.

The later encounter, which took place on the grand stand court, also offered some brilliant tennis, although the showing of the winner, who triumphed in the sectional event on this same court over two weeks ago, was far from satisfying. Washburn kept up the steady pace which he has shown of late and was the mainstay of his side, Williams often coming through with spectacular shots, but making far too many errors for consistent success. Of the losing side, Kumagae played his usual active game, covering lots of ground and volleying with surprising skill in addition to showing tremendous power in his ground strokes. Throckmorton, in general, supported him well, his tennis showing more steadiness than is customary with him, but his firmly grounded habit of gallery play still keeps him somewhat below the level to which his versatile assortment of strokes would seem to entitle him.

Kumagae Wins His Service.

Kumagae served first and won without difficulty, Williams equalizing in similar fashion, after which the New England champions broke through Throckmorton's delivery for a lead of 2—1, which Washburn promptly raised to 3—1. From this point to the end of the set service won with absolute regularity, Williams and Washburn maintaining the advantage of the single break, the former eventually putting away the set at 6—4. Kumagae and Throckmorton, however, came back strongly and squared the match with a well-earned 6—3 victory. Service continued to win up to 4—3, when the crucial break came against Williams, Kumagae finishing the session with a hard-fought deuce game.

The third set found the New Englanders near the top of their game, whereas the Middle States champions slumped correspondingly. Kumagae managed to win his service in the second game, but thereafter the tallies ran steadily in the other direction, Williams and Washburn taking the set by the one-sided score of 6—1. The final, however, was another magnificent battle fought out on absolutely even terms. Kumagae and Throckmorton had a lead of 3—0 before their opponents got started, but the New England team also ran three straight, squaring the set.

Service then won alternately up to six-all, when Williams and Washburn finally succeeded in upsetting the delivery of the Japanese left-hander, three games in a row, the last one, served by Williams, accounting for the set and match, 8—6. The two Australian teams warmed up against each other today and seemed in fine shape for their matches tomorrow.

KINSEY VICTOR IN TENNIS.

Californian Beats Dionne in Opening of Rockaway Tournament.

The surprise of the opening round of the tennis singles of the Rockaway Hunting Club at Cedarhurst, L. I., yesterday was the easy victory of Robert Kinsey over G. A. L. Dionne. The Californian played Dionne at his own game, staying close to the base line. Kinsey was much steadier than Dionne, and outdrove him. The score was 6—1, 6—1.

Francis T. Hunter out-smashed Harold C. Taylor, although it took every ounce of driving ability on the part of the recent Eastern New York State champion to win the match. After taking the first set 6—1, Hunter had a close call in the second encounter, which he won 9—7. Hunter displayed the same consistent driving that was in evidence at the Mount Pleasant tournament recently, when he defeated Harold Throckmorton.

Only one second round match was played. In this contest W. B. Morgan was defeated by T. L. Kynaston, 6—3, 6—2. The other second round matches will be played today.

The summaries:

Rockaway Hunting Club Invitation Tournament.

TO PLAY AUSTRALIANS.

International Tennis Match at Forest Hills Sept. 5 and 6.

Plans for a team match between Australia and the United States have been discussed by representatives of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association and the Australian teams now in this country. The event appeals to both and a date has been set, following the singles championship. The match will take place on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 5 and 6, at Forest Hills, as the arrangements necessary for the championship permit the event to be held there without any elaborate preparations.

From the interest already apparent in the playing of the teams from the Antipodes, it is clear that the tennis public will welcome a chance to get a line on their respective strengths. This is particularly true in view of the fact that the United States will not be represented in the Davis Cup matches this year. The number of events has not been settled, as that will depend upon how the Australians want to play their men. There will be singles and doubles, of course, and the suggestion has been made that four singles and two doubles be scheduled. In the event that there was a tie, the sets could be counted.

Although it is too early to forecast the personnel of the American team, it will probably include Robert Lindley Murray, William M. Johnston, William T. Tilden, and R. Norris Williams. With such famous Californians as Maurice E. McLoughlin and Clarence J. Griffin available, as well as several strong men in the East, among whom might be named Watson M. Washburn, Frederick B. Alexander, S. Howard Voshell, Walter Merrill Hall, and Dean Mathey, a representative team can be assembled.

WALLACE MEDALIST IN GOLF TOURNEY

Forest Park Linksman Wins Qualifying Round in Herald Cup Play with a 73.

William Wallace of the Brooklyn Forest Park Golf Club, wielding a midiron as well as his doughty ancestor did a sword, won the medal in the qualifying round of the Herald Cup tournament for the public parks championship yesterday at Van Cortlandt with the neat score of 73. He played a very canny game, having nothing worse than a 5 on the whole card. Harry Linton of the New York Golf Club was but a stroke behind with a 74, but in the afternoon the putter of the New Yorker was full of drives instead of putts and he was eliminated in the first round of match play by E. L. Rohdenberg of North Jersey.

Wallace started poorly for his winning round, taking two 5s on the first two holes. After this he settled down and lost but one more stroke to par on the outward journey, getting to the turn in 39. At this point he was four strokes behind Poinsette of the Newspaper Golf Club, who played beautiful golf to this point and turned the corner with a 35. Poinsette found trouble on the way home, however, while Wallace lost but two strokes on the nine holes, finishing with 34 and a total of 73. Wallace's card was as follows:

Out	5	5	4	4	4	5	4	3	5	39
In	3	3	5	3	5	4	4	3	4	34—73

Roger B. Taft, playing from the Ocean Country Club, and Walter Purcell of Dunwoodie, both of whom hold a leg on the trophy, as does Wallace himself, finished their morning rounds well within qualifying distance, but Taft lost his chance to get permanent possession of the trophy, this year at least, by falling afoul of Wallace in the luck of the draw. Taft started out by getting the advantage of a hole at the second with a 5, where both players were a bit off. He held this to the eighth, where Wallace started a winning streak that took in four holes in succession. This lead was too much to be overcome, and Taft was eventually subdued by the margin of 3 and 2, though as a medalist Wallace should have been the loser according to all golf precedent.

Wallace and Purcell are the only two golfers now in the tournament who have a leg on the trophy. Wallace won his mortgage on the cup back in 1908, while Purcell placed his lien on the troph in the comparative recent season of 1916. Taft won it in 1915. Purcell and Wallace are in opposite halves of the draw and may meet in the finals for permanent possession of the trophy, which has never yet been taken away for good and all in the long record of the tournaments.

Purcell had a rather easy time disposing of Herbert Oberndoerfer, unattached, in the first round of match play. He was going at the rate of about 75, and won by the wide margin of 5 and 3.

SUNDAY GOLF TEST CASE.

Decision from Supreme Court to Settle Bay State Tangle.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—Chief John H. Plunkett of the Massachusetts District Police announced today that he had entered into an agreement with officers of the Massachusetts Golf Association, whereby a decision of the State Supreme Court on the legality of Sunday golf playing will be speedily obtained.

According to the agreement, a member of one of the clubs of the State Golf Association will begin a match next Sunday, and after playing a few shots will be summoned by district police officers to appear in court the next day on a charge of violating the law by playing golf on Sunday. The case will be taken as soon as possible to the Supreme Court.

Chief Plunkett said, that pending the Court's decision he would make no further effort to stop Sunday golf. The decision to bring a test case was reached after the district police had stopped play on a number of courses in Massachusetts yesterday.

ANDERSON TENNIS VICTOR.

Junior Player Wins Flatbush District Title.

Frank T. Anderson played through the entire junior tournament at the Terrace Club of Flatbush yesterday and won the right to represent the Flatbush district in the matches to be played at the West Side Club, beginning later in the month. Anderson defeated H. Brunie in the final singles, 6—0, 6—3, 2—6, 17—19, 6—3. Anderson won from Julius Malwig by default in the first round, and from E. Adelstein in the second round.

WAR ZONE WINNER AS KALITAN TIRES

Jockey's Poor Ride Plays Important Part in Result of Hoosick Falls Handicap.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Mrs. C. W. Starr's War Zone, which has tried in vain a number of times to compete successfully against real turf stars like Purchase and Sir Barton, found himself in light today in a field that was to his liking, and quite easily captured the Hoosick Falls Handicap. This was the outstanding event on a card that made no pretence of offering a really important race.

War Zone was not only aided by the light weight assigned to him, but was partially indebted to Jockey Lawrence Lyke for his victory, Lyke riding so poorly on Kalitan as to lose a race which he might have won handily by using better judgment. As it was, Kalitan, which had been heavily played along with Escoba, did not finish among the first three after leading all the way to the stretch. Elmendorf came up to take second, while Kashmir was third.

At the very start of the mile journey Lyke took Kalitan to the front, despite the fact that the horse carried top weight of 126 pounds, and sent him so far out in front that by the time the half mile post was reached Kalitan was five lengths away, and running all alone. War Zone meantime was being rated second, leading the rest of the field by a safe margin, Hamilton being content to wait for the weight to tell on the leader.

Kalitan Tires Badly.

Kalitan had showed a fine burst of speed, but turning into the stretch he was tired and had run his race. At this point he began to slow up, and War Zone had no trouble in coming through to the rail and passing him. Kalitan slowed up so badly that horses passed him all the way down the stretch, and he was fortunate to finish eighth.

In this event K. D. Alexander's Escoba came back to the races for the first time this year, and because of his great races as a three-year-old was given considerable attention. Escoba was not able to come back into his best form in his first race after such a long layoff. After showing some speed early in the race he fell back and came in among the stragglers.

H. P. Whitney scratched his Vindex and Blue Laddie, both of which were highly regarded in this event. Vindex has not raced since the Preakness at Pimlico, when he was left at the post, so this would have amounted to an attempt to come back for him also.

P. A. Clark scored another costly victory today with his Lion d'Or, which won the Seneca Handicap at six furlongs from a field of sprinters. The victory cost Mr. Clark nearly $1,500, as his colt was bid up after the race and was retained by the owner for $5,505 after having been entered to be sold at $2,100. This is the second time that Lion D'Or has won since the beginning of the Saratoga meeting, and both times the owner has had to sacrifice more than the purse to retain his horse. On the opening day of the meeting Lion D'Or was bid up to $4,500, costing Mr. Clark $1,500 above his share of the stake.

Lion D'Or Easy Winner.

Lion D'Or was one of the favorites to keep faith with his backers. He was quoted at 1 to 2 against a field which included Gath, Rapid Day, and Thistledon among others. He broke ahead of the others as the barrier went up and set the pace all the way to the wire. Gath and Rapid Day drew up on him at the last turn and attempted to catch him, but Lion D'Or was still fresh and raced away from his challengers to win by four lengths. Gath, which had run nicely to the turn, dropped back and Rapid Day took the place, while Thistledon was third.

Well dried out from the rains of last week, the track was again fast today, as was indicated in the running of the first race when the best time of the present meeting for five furlongs was made by W. R. Coe's Masked Dancer, which stepped the distance in .58 3-5. This was in a race for two-year-old fillies, and Masked Dancer won handily by four lengths with Wedding Cake second and Busy Signal third.

H. P. Whitney's Wendy was made favorite, but ran a very poor race, and was never a real contender. Wendy had showed poor form in his last start, but was made the choice over a field of fillies which had failed to win in good two-year-old company. Masked Dancer leaped away from the barrier fully two lengths in front, and showed her heels to the others all the way.

Enfilade Wins by Neck.

The final race of the day, the Salem Handicap, for mares three years old and upward, at six furlongs, provided the best contest of the day. M. L. Schwartz's Enfilade won by a neck in a driving finish with Passing Shower, receiving a very good ride from Jockey Johnny Loftus. Elfin Queen, which was the sensation among the two-year-old fillies last year, made her first start in this event since she raced at Jamaica early in the season, and showed great improvement. She managed to take third after leading the field into the stretch.

Fruit Cake, which was a victim of a decision by the judges in her last start, went into the lead at the start, but Elfin Queen quickly rushed up, and, with a show of speed which had made her a sensation a year ago, drew away from the field and seemed to be the winner. She was not ready, however, for such a test, for she was not able to continue the pace beyond the stretch turn, and there Loftus sent Enfilade into the lead. Passing Shower also came up quickly and was neck and neck with the leader all through the last eighth of a mile. Loftus fairly lifted the winner over the finish line.

The Ogden Stable's Looking Up, which was regarded as one of the best of the Western fillies, failed again to show she was entitled to consideration in such company as she ran in today. She was strongly fancied, especially by those who had seen her run in the West, but could not get up with the leaders at any stage of the race.

J. F. Sweeney's Hauberk took the second race at a mile from a number of second raters, defeating Ballast and Tailor Maid. George Peterson's Beck and Call won the fifth race, for two-year-olds, at five and a half furlongs. Walk the Plank was second and Coben third.

SALE OF MACKAY'S HORSES.

Stable of Famous Horseman to be Auctioned at Saratoga.

Clarence H. Mackay, who has bred and raced thoroughbred horses in the United States, Great Britain and France for upward of twenty-five years, will sever his connection with racing and thoroughbred production this week. The Fasig-Tipton Company will disperse Mr. Mackay's stud and sell his yearlings and weanlings by public auction at Saratoga on Thursday.

The stallion Spanish Prince, a splendid son of Ugly and Galazora, and an inbred representative of the celebrated Agnes family, will be offered to the highest bidder, along with fifteen brood mares, fifteen yearlings, and seven weanlings. Mr. Mackay brought Spanish Prince from Great Britain last Fall, along with his mares, which had been in France since 1910. Some of the yearlings and most of the weanlings are sons and daughters of Spanish Prince. Most of the mares were mated with Spanish Prince at Arthur B. Hancock's Claiborne stud in Kentucky. Spanish Prince is a superb individual, and he was a capital race horse in Great Britain. Moreover, he has had winning offspring, both in Great Britain and the United States, his American winners being War Marvel and Merry Princess.

Eleven of the fifteen broodmares Mr. Mackay will offer are daughters of the celebrated Meddler. Durbar 2d, winner of the British Derby of 1914; Naturalist, Johren, Courtship, Sweep On, Atta Boy 2d, Tan, Cirrus, Dottie Vandiver, Lord Herbert, Kilts 2d, Frederick the Great, and Dendera are recent winners which claim for dams daughters of Meddler. By bringing these eleven Meddler mares back to the United States to sell, Mr. Mackay has rendered the thoroughbred industry of this country a service.

The yearlings Mr. Mackay will offer are sons and daughters of Sea Lord, Fitz Herbert, Rire-aux-Larmes, Macdunald (sire of Elysian and Kilts 2d), Rabelais (sire of Naturalist and Alphee), Phoenix and Sardanapale. Beside Spanish Prince, the famous stallions Prince Palatine (sire of Afternoon and Donaconna), and Rabelais will be represented among the weanlings.

Viva America Sells for $10,000.

PARIS, Ky., Aug. 11.—Viva America, widely known race horse, has been sold by her owner, Charles T. Worthington, of Danville, Ky., to S. K. Nichols of this city for a reported price of $10,000, it was announced today. Viva America, third in the Kentucky Derby in 1918, is 4 years old.

MARINE RIFLEMEN WIN TEAM MATCH

Take First Honors for Enlisted Men at Caldwell Range by Narrowest of Margins.

CALDWELL, N. J., Aug. 11.—The enlisted men's team match at the 600-yard and 1,000-yard ranges held today at the rifle tournament now going on here engaged sixteen teams, with first prize going to the First United States Marine Corps Team No. 2.

The Great Lakes Naval Training Station Team was leading in this match until the last shot was fired. Had E. A. Szymanski made a bull's eye he would have brought victory for his team. As a matter of fact, he did place a shot squarely in a bull's eye, but on the wrong target. He was so absorbed in his work that he did not notice that he was drawing a bead on the target of the man shooting next to him, and this lost the match for his team.

Two teams tied for high score, first prize going to the team making the best score on the 1,000-yard range.

The results follows:

First—U. S. Marine Corps team No. 2, score at 600 yards, 270; at 1,000 yards, 266; total, 536. Second—U. S. Marine team No. 1, 600 yards, 283; 1,000 yards, 253; total, 536. Third—Great Lakes Naval Training Station team, score, 283 and 249; total, 532. Fourth—United States Infantry team, score, 278 and 253; total, 531. Fifth—American Expeditionary Forces team, score, 283 and 243; total, 526. Sixth—Philippine Scouts team No. 1, score, 272 and 252; total, 524. Seventh—United States Cavalry team, score, 274 and 247; total, 521. Eighth—Company Caldwell Marine detachment, score, 506. Ninth—Philippine Scouts No. 2, score, 505. Tenth—Quantico Rifle Range team, Quantico, Cal., score, 503.

In the National Rifle Association individual pistol match, 25-yard range, for any automatic pistol or revolver firing a .38-calibre ball or larger, A. P. Lane of the Norwalk Rifle Club won handily.

The results follow:

First—A. P. Lane, Norwalk Rifle Club, score, 293. Second—H. Bayles, Connecticut, civilian team, score, 286. Third—T. Le Boutillier, unattached, score, 285. Fourth—J. A. Wade, Wyoming civilian team; J. S. Bailey, Texas civilian team, and Captain Paul Ramee, Philippine Scouts, tied at 283. Seventh—Herman Thomas, Philadelphia Rifle Association; K. T. Frederick, Manhattan Rifle Club, and H. A. Friss, Wyoming civilian team, tied at 282. Tenth—G. L. Cooke, U. S. Ordnance Department, score, 279.

In the small bore match, 1,000-yard sweepstakes, 22 calibre, J. H. Miller, of Bucyrus, O., won with a score of 99 out of 100. Second place went to W. H. Richards, winner of the Leech cup, with a score of 98. Gunner J. L. Renew, U. S. Marine Corps, scored 96, and W. G. Hansen, New York Associated Rifle Club, and John Hession, New Haven, Conn., tied at 94.

The junior re-entry match was won by Marjorie F. Kinder of Bridgeport, Conn., winner of the national indoor championship, with a score of 97 in a possible 100. She shot with a twelve-pound rifle longer than she is tall. The girl recently won the junior national championship for consecutive bullseyes with a score of 85.

The United States cavalry team, with thirty-two members, arrived at the range last night, captained by Colonel M. C. Mumma. The United States Infantry team, captained by Colonel H. [illegible] Awley, also came in last night, as well as a team from Nebraska, captained by J. E. Storch.

PERFECT SCORES AT TRAPS.

Three Shooters in Grand American Reach Hundred Mark.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—The twentieth grand American handicap trapshooting tournament opened at the South Shore Country Club today, with three shooters making perfect scores in the club's special event. F. J. Cairns, Tamoa, Kan.; William S. Hoon, Jewell, Ia., and E. W. Thimgan, Louisville, Neb., each broke 100 targets.

Five contestants, including L. M. Weedon, Cleveland, broke ninety-nine targets, and there were twenty-six scores of 98. Officials said the scores were as good as ever recorded on the opening day of the event.

Those who scored 98 included: J. Jennings, Toronto; S. G. Vance, Tilsonburg, Canada; F. S. Wright, Buffalo; W. W. Vanderhoef, Watkins, N. Y.; E. E. Reed, Manchester, N. H.; W. Henderson, Lexington, Ky.; J. Ed Cain, Dayton; J. E. Penrod, Pitcairn, Penn., and J. S. Day, New Orleans.

James S. Day of New Orleans, with a score of 198, won the South Shore registered shoot concluded today. The American amateur trapshooting championship will be shot tomorrow, with 318 amateurs entered.

Cornetta Brothers Join N. Y. A. C.

The services of the Cornetta brothers, Carmine and Jack, two of the club's leading distance runners, have been lost to the Paulist A. C. Jules Schwab, track manager at the West Sixtieth Street club, yesterday announced that his stars had joined the New York A. C. The runners will not be allowed to wear the Mercury Foot in open competition for a period of one year, as under the A. A. U. rules an athlete who transfers his registration must do this term of penance before joining another organization.

The opinions of two eminent men
A FOREMOST European engineer, a French High Commissioner, visiting leading American factories, buying materials for his Government, declared:
"One truck built in America is superior to any made in the world. The Pierce-Arrow is without a peer."
An English manufacturer head of one of the great English machine shops, recently said:
"Pierce-Arrow manufacture is undoubtedly first in America. Perhaps it is not too much to say, it is unequalled anywhere."
These are only the opinions of two men, but you can find no man informed as to manufacturing who will dispute the high standing of the Pierce-Arrow.
This good repute has been earned by performance—on the road.

Stocks Move Irregularly in Uncertain Trading—Traders Seek Breathing Spell.

Public participation in yesterday's business in stocks was negligible with the result of a highly irregular price list at the close after professional traders had spread their activity over both sides of the market. There was a fairly strong tone in the first quarter hour, followed by a general reaction and a moderate recovery from lower levels late in the day. Some of the steel, tobacco and miscellaneous industrial issues were picked out for bearish pressure after the early dealings had disclosed the lack of broad buying power. Declines extended for a while from 2 to 4 points or more. The natural process of covering short sales near the end of the session found offerings sufficiently scarce in the industrial group to result in a number of rather quick advances, although these betokened nothing more than technical forces at work temporarily on the quotation list. Trading was much less active than last Thursday and Friday, the turnover being less than 1,000,000 shares.

The market supplied no unusual features and contained few which had not often been seen before after a severe reaction. It looked as though the public was seeking to get its bearings, following the rather bewildering developments of the last few days. There was relief, as on Saturday, over the widespread opposition to the railroad union plans for nationalizing the roads. Also, the program under tentative consideration for investigating factors behind the present high cost of living, and the proposed cures were found to contain little, if anything, of a nature disturbing to holders of securities. The Street had a satisfactory situation to consider in the steel trade, as disclosed by the large increase in bookings of the Steel Corporation during July. Nevertheless, comment of commission houses showed that speculators were desirous of seeing a little further into current events and future possibilities before renewing their purchases of stocks. It usually happens that a sudden fall of quotations brings on a period in which the market drifts until a fresh impetus is received to give a definite tendency to it. It seems clear now that the trading community has been seeking new influences since the maximum price levels were reached on July 16, influences which have less to do with prospects for business prosperity, as in the Spring rise, and more with means to solve the labor problem and other difficulties now present. The railroad stocks yesterday scored good recoveries in the initial hour and held them well to the close. Whether this movement was a product of new confidence over the carriers' outlook was a debatable question that received considerable attention in market quarters.

The day was devoid of important news developments of a sort to exercise influence upon security dealings. Call money was a trifle firmer than in the second half of last week, rates standing firmly at 6 and 6½ per cent. The foreign exchange market was marked by diverse movements of rates, French and Italian quotations scoring an advance over Saturday's closing prices, while sterling was steady and Spanish exchange receded.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Prices Irregular.

The tone of yesterday's stock market was irregular, with many of the price changes only fractional. At the opening there was a degree of strength, no untoward developments having arisen over the week-end. Weakness developed before noon, professional short selling making its appearance in another effort to force down quotations. The raid was only partly successful, and prices recovered somewhat in the early afternoon, with a subsequent easing off. The break of last week has created a large short interest in certain stocks, some of which do not appear to be in any great supply.

A Trading Market.

Opinion is divided in brokerage houses as to whether the market will relapse into a trading affair once it settles down after the turmoil of last week. Yesterday there was no question but that the session was of the trading variety, but that is not, by any means, proof that it will continue that way. Many expect a decline, but there apparently is a larger element in the Street which holds that with underlying industrial conditions as good as they are, and with every prospect of even greater improvement, there are factors on the constructive side which the market cannot overlook. In so far as the public is concerned, there is not evidenced any very keen desire to accumulate stocks, but strong interests are said to have purchased large blocks at the low prices of last week.

An Old Game.

Several brokerage houses last week received checks on the Columbia Trust Company with orders to buy 300 shares of Freeport Texas stock. The name on the checks was the same in each case, and in each instance the supposed purchaser was unknown to the brokerage concern. For this reason the stock was not bought. The return of the checks to the sender revealed that the address was fictitious and the checks were no good. Such endeavors as these often crop out in a falling market in an effort to stimulate prices, and Stock Exchange houses are too wary to be caught napping by unscrupulous tricks of such old origin. The same sort of fake buying is sometime attempted by use of the telephone, and there have been times when brokers suffered losses thereby.

American Car and Foundry.

American Car and Foundry attracted attention last week by its strength when the rest of the market was breaking. The company was known to be in a strong financial condition, but not even this was sufficient reason for the upturn against the downward swing elsewhere. Rumors were current that there might be an increase in the dividend. Yesterday there was greater insistence in these reports, and mention was made that the dividend might be increased from 8 to 12 per cent. There was nothing to confirm this. The stock continued to move forward, a gain of nearly 5 points being made. The last balance sheet showed the company had cash, Liberty bonds, and treasury certificates to the amount of $48,895,000, or the equivalent of about $162 a share on the common stock.

Steel Common.

The strength in Steel common at the opening undoubtedly reflected the favorable unfilled tonnage figures put out after the close of the market Saturday. The buying power was not great enough to keep the issue for long above Saturday's close. Steel has been a target for bear attacks since prices began to slip early last week. It was reported at one time that Steel would be driven below par, the belief being expressed that if this could be accomplished the rest of the market would take a headlong plunge. The real attack on Steel was made Thursday, and while the issue did not touch par, the rest of the market crumbled badly. The steel industry is doing a big business, as is evidenced in record export figures for June. This the professional element ignores.

Foreign Loans.

While it is admitted that representatives of foreign Governments and foreign private interests are continually sounding out this market for the placing of loans, it seems the consensus of opinion in local banking circles that for a time, at least, there will be no wide lending of funds abroad. The local investment market apparently is awaiting the development of a more certain trend to events which are attracting most attention before bankers will buy foreign paper to offer it for public subscription. Some of the new States in Europe are known to be feeling out this market for financing and it also is known that many proposals have been made recently by South Americans. Action on these is not expected until the situation becomes more settled.

The Railway Wage Advance.

Since 1913 approximately $1,400,000,000 has been added to the annual payroll of the American railways, according to the Bureau of Railway News and Statistics. The Bureau adds that it is doubtful if there are more employes now than then. In June, 1913, there were 1,864,303 employes. The present number has not been made public by the Railroad Administration.

The big pay advance would indicate that the average railroad wage has advanced from a little more than $750 in 1913 to approximately $1,500 this year, or about 100 per cent. The increase in the price of foodstuffs has averaged about 85½ per cent. The Bureau also says that in 1913 the workers moved 301,000,000,000 tons of freight one mile, and in 1919, with the six months' payroll approximately $1,400,000,000 there were only 164,000,000,000 tons of freight moved one mile.

Low-Priced Rails Improve.

In the railroad group low-priced shares found favor in yesterday's trading session, and the majority of these issues moved into higher ground. The movement, while due in some part to a natural rebound from the heavy recent selling, was also attributed to a resumption in certain stocks of the speculative interest which helped them materially before the reaction began last week. Although a large share of yesterday's buying was attributed to professionals, it was apparent that some issues were being accumulated by substantial interests.

Shipping Shares Irregular.

Shipping shares were irregular yesterday, the Marines and Atlantic Gulf & West Indies finding favor early and later selling off on a fair volume of profit taking. Marine common sold up in the morning to almost 7 points above the low of last week, and other shipping shares were in fair demand. Because of profit taking sales later the group as a whole closed lower than the last prices on Saturday. The exception was Pacific Mail, which on a turnover of only a few hundred shares closed with a net gain of more than 1 point.

Equipment Shares Active.

In late trading yesterday the equipment shares attracted considerable interest and a following sufficient to advance prices materially. Haskell & Barker led the list, with an advance of more than 2 points, and Baldwin and Railway Steel Springs gained fractionally. American Locomotive closed fractionally lower than on Saturday. The sudden activity in these shares was attributed in part to a belief that the establishment of a national equipment trust to finance the rolling stock, which has been a subject of contention between the Railroad Administration and many carriers, is only a matter of time. It is also known that many of the roads will have to come into the equipment market with substantial orders within a short time after Government control terminates.

BRITAIN GUARDING RUPEE.

Meeting in Pounds Sterling Recent Advance in Indian Coin.

Basil P. Blackett, fiscal representative of the British Treasury, issued the following statement at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. yesterday:

"The Secretary of State for India announces that on and after Tuesday, Aug. 12, until further notice, the Deputy Master of the Ottawa branch of the Royal Mint, Ottawa, Canada, has been authorized to sell on behalf of the Secretary of State for India, immediate telegraphic transfers on India without limit of amount in exchange for gold tendered at the Ottawa Mint at the rate of one rupee for 10.3585 grains of fine gold."

In explanation of this Mr. Blackett stated that the pound sterling value of the Indian rupee is now 1s. 10d., as compared with a former value of 1s. 8d., and a pre-war value of 1s. 4d. In money brokerage and exchange circles the announcement was received simply as a movement by the British Treasury to meet in pounds sterling the appreciation of the Indian rupee as bullion because of the recent sharp advance in the price of silver.

It was not expected generally that the announcement foreshadowed any heavy shipments of either gold or silver from India to Ottawa or from Ottawa to India. In fact, in some quarters it was believed that the increase in the value of the rupee in pounds sterling was probably accomplished to keep that Indian coin in circulation as a coin and to prevent its being melted down for the actual silver bullion it contains.

AMERICAN AID SAVED MANY FROM FAMINE

New European States Would Have Suffered Starvation Without It, Says Dr. Taylor.

DID NOT RAISE PRICES HERE

Increased Production the Remedy for High Cost of Living Suggested by Hoover's Investigator.

Dr. Alonzo E. Taylor, Chief Investigator for Herbert Hoover of food conditions in Europe, who has recently returned from France, when seen yesterday at the office of the American Relief Administration, said that had it not been for the $700,000,000 worth of foodstuffs shipped abroad by the United States and Canada, some of the newly formed European States would have felt starvation in the year just passed. Dr. Taylor also stated that in order to bring down the high cost of living in this country increased production is a vital necessity.

"Of the $700,000,000 in food shipped abroad," added Dr. Taylor, "about $300,000,000 worth was sent to Germany and the Central Powers by North America, and Germany paid well for what she received. I have seen American bacon selling in Germany for $1.60 a pound."

"Do you think, Dr. Taylor, that the exporting of those foodstuffs by the United States aided in bringing about an increase in the cost of living here?" was the question.

"No," was the reply, "I do not, as those shipments were our exportable surplus."

"What do you think would be the solution of the high prices for commodities here now?" he was asked.

Remedy for High Cost of Living.

"Increased production," was the reply. "There has been little real evidence here that the public finds the cost of living too high. We have heard a lot of talk about high prices, but the real proof that prices are too high has not become evident as yet. When the public begins to modify its diet by increasing the amounts of cheaper foods, such as cereals, that is the proof that the cost of living is too high. We talk about the increase in the cost of bacon, but we go right on eating it. In England before the war the consumption of breadstuffs was about 30 per cent. This has now increased to about 50 per cent. In France the increase has been from about 50 per cent. to 60 per cent., and in Italy the consumption of breadstuffs has been from 60 to 70 per cent. We have not yet reacted to the high cost of living, or we would be eating more of the cheaper foods."

In this connection Dr. Taylor stated that the people of the United States are consuming about the same amount of flour as they did in the pre-war years. Dr. Taylor said that the European nations are all on their own feet at the present time as far as food is concerned, but that his estimate of European food requirements next year from the rest of the world was approximately 20,000,000 tons.

"The situation in regard to Bolshevism in the Central Powers," he said, "shows considerable improvement, and the failure of Bolshevism in Vienna was suspicious, as some of the leading newspapers are urging that, in order to earn the huge indemnity she must pay, Germany must work as she has never worked before."

Production Would Ease Money Situation

Touching on the exchange situation in Germany, France, and England, Dr. Taylor said that there could be no effective stabilizing of the mark, the franc, and the pound until the countries in which those units circulate speed up their production to a point where they will have an exportable excess of manufactures which can be sent out to counterbalance importations. Taking the course of French exchange in this market as an example, Dr. Taylor said:

"In the case of the franc you first had the rate 'pegged.' Then the peg was removed, but restrictions were placed upon certain imports from our markets. This raised a hue and cry by French merchants and consumers, and the French Government removed most of those restrictions, with the result that the franc immediately began to decline in this market. Until France is able to produce enough to have an exportable surplus it is logical to believe that francs will remain cheap here."

On the question of British exchange Dr. Taylor coincided with some of the local foreign exchange bankers who say that Great Britain is not anxious to place a huge credit here, which will mean further inflation for her. At the same time the depreciation in the pound sterling in this market is looked upon as an automatic check on American exports to Great Britain and a cutting down of that overinflation. Another point which Dr. Taylor brought up was that British economists apparently want the pound to decline to a normal level in this market. "When the bottom is reached," he said, "capitalists will then be ready to put their funds into reconstruction and business again without fear that there will be a further depreciation."

Dr. Taylor said that he believed Mr. Hoover would return to the United States in September.

$10,000,000 BOND OFFERING.

American Cotton Oil Securities to Yield 6.18 Per Cent.

The first substantial domestic financing in this market for some days was announced yesterday, when the First National Bank offered for public subscription $10,000,000 American Cotton Oil Company five-year 6 per cent. gold notes at 99¼ and interest, to yield the investor approximately 6.18 per cent. Interest on the bonds is payable March and Sept. 2. The company has agreed to retire $500,000 par value of the notes, either by purchase at 102 and interest or by call at a similar price.

Under the indenture securing the notes it is provided that no mortgage lien shall be placed on the property of the company without the written approval of holders of 80 per cent. of the amount of the notes outstanding, and that should such a lien be authorized the notes are to be funded into obligations secured by the mortgage.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to pay off $5,000,000 5 per cent. notes which mature Sept. 1 and an equal amount of 7 per cent. notes which mature Sept. 3 of this year. Net earnings of the company in the last ten years have averaged about five times the average fixed charges for the same period. On June 30, 1919, current assets exceeded current liabilities by more than $19,000,000.

Absorbs Sinclair Delaware Interests.

The stockholders of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation of Delaware at a special meeting yesterday ratified the sale of all of the corporation's assets to the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation of New York. In payment, the New York corporation will assume all of the liabilities of the Delaware corporation, and will issue all of its authorized capital stock, consisting of 1,000,000 shares of no par value. The stockholders will meet on Aug. 25 for the purpose of dissolving the Delaware corporation.

London Bank Figures Grow.

The latest statement of accounts by the London Joint City and Midland Bank shows, under the head of liabilities, capital paid up and reserve fund amounting to £16,578,144, as compared with £13,833,698 in June, 1918; current deposit and other accounts £374,054,601, against £294,797,450, and total liabilities £403,700,951, as compared with £319,502,504. On the assets side of the account some of the items shown are an increase in cash in hand and at the Bank of England from £63,811,127, in June, 1918, to £79,426,772.

Asphalt Base Crude

The oil industry has often been misled by appearances in its conclusions. For instance: for a long while there was no market for Healdton, Okla., crude; it was considered of no value for refining purposes. Then suddenly it was discovered that Healdton refiners were making mighty neat profits. For a long while Middle Western and Eastern refiners claimed the California refiner could not make gasoline. Yet the California refiner is getting 14.5 per cent. of gasoline from his crude. The improvement in "cracking" is constantly adding to the value of the lower grade oils.

GOOD START FAILS TO KEEP COTTON UP

Market Has Strong Opening, but Soon Declines for Lack of Support.

LITTLE DEMAND FOR SPOTS

Prices Declined from 58 to 73 Points—New Orleans Sold Off Sharply in Afternoon.

Another wave of weakness swept over the cotton market yesterday, resulting in declines of from 58 to 73 points. The opening was strong, with gains of from 10 to 14 points, but the upward turn was soon checked through lack of support, and prices fell off as selling pressure was exerted. The firm tone at the opening was attributable to the strength in Liverpool, which was making up for the gains here Friday afternoon and Saturday. By 2 o'clock yesterday the market recessions had amounted to from 80 to 90 points, but there was a mild rally in the final hour. October sold down as low as 31.20c, as against a close on Saturday of 32.12c, and ended the day at 31.39c.

There was a tone of nervousness throughout the day, traders being disinclined to follow prices up at the outset. It was felt that the recovery at the close of last week had left the market vulnerable to selling pressure, and this eventually came from the South, where the New Orleans market sold off sharply in the afternoon. Hedge selling was reported to have caused the decline in New Orleans, there being a disposition to hedge spot holdings carried over from last year, with sales of December contracts here and October and December in New Orleans.

According to brokers, there is little actual demand for spot cotton from either British or French exporters, and this proved a brake on the enthusiasm of those who took the bull side last week. The unsettled condition of the foreign exchange market is upsetting what would be the normal demand for spot cotton. Yesterday's decline was in the face of continued unfavorable crop reports and weather conditions.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

OFFER HIGHER PAY FOR ROAD

Long Island City Dwellers Want a Better Street.

When a group of more than a dozen men and women, owners of property along the Boulevard in Long Island City, appeared before Borough President Connelly yesterday at the borough hall in Long Island City and insisted on increasing the amount that would be assessed against them for payment to the city, the borough president was so surprised that at first he could not believe that he heard correctly.

"I have had taxpayers here on all kinds of propositions," said the borough president. "They have offered every possible excuse to get out of paying what was charged them, but you are the first delegation that has come here asking that your payments be increased."

"You should worry," said Mrs. Rosie Tomasino, of 588 Boulevard, leader of the women's delegation. "We have to pay the bills and we are willing to pay more, so give us what we want."

President Connolly has advertised to receive bids on Aug. 15 for the paving with asphalt blocks the Boulevard from Broadway to Washington Avenue, at a width of eighteen feet. While most of the owners are of foreign birth, they are all in good circumstances. They insisted that they did not want the roadway paved eighteen feet, but for its entire width. President Connolly told them that the width of eighteen feet had been decided upon by the Board of Estimate upon the recommendation of Engineer Nichols because the latter feared that the assessments, which will be from $20 to $30 a front foot for the narrower width, would be too heavy for them to bear if more pavement was put down.

"We can pay and we want the completed street or nothing," declared Pa J. Lynch, chairman of the delegation.

Borough President Connolly said he would endeavor to have the Board of Estimate reconsider its action and give the property owners on the street a bigger assessment and a finished street.

Government Sues S. Anargyros.

Frank E. Carslarphen, as special counsel for the Government, brought suit in the Federal Court yesterday to recover $108,567.81 from S. Anargyros, which, it is alleged, had been allowed on overpayments on importations of tobacco from 1903 to 1913. The money returned by the Government, it is alleged, was allowed through a mistake as to the value of the importations.

Local Banks in Rockaway Mills.

New York and Western banking interests have joined with Philadelphia banking interests, heretofore dominant in the affairs of the Rockaway Rolling Mills Corporation. The new company recently retired the preferred stock and bonds of the old company and has purchased all of its common stock. The capitalization of the company consists of 60,000 shares of no par value.

Takes Over Mount Vernon Benford.

The Benford Auto Products Company, a Delaware corporation, with a capital of $1,000,000, has acquired the business assets and good will of the Benford Manufacturing Company of Mount Vernon. The latter company was organized in 1906, and since then has been engaged in the manufacture and sale of spark plugs and other motor accessories.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The National Park Bank has been appointed transfer agent and the Guaranty Trust Company has been appointed registrar for the preferred and common stock of the Astoria Mahogany Company.

Henry L. Doherty & Co. has issued a circular dealing with the conversion features of the Empire Gas and Fuel Company 6 per cent. convertible notes of 1924.

E. E. du Pont and W. P. Conway have been elected Directors of the Phillips Petroleum Company.

The Producers and Refiners Corporation has begun construction of a pipe line from Beggs to its refinery at Tulsa, Okla., a distance of forty miles.

R. M. Grant & Co. have opened a new branch office in St. Louis under the management of R. H. Bergren.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday 12,173 packages. Prices were ½ to 1 cent lower on fresh creamery, and the market is still unsettled, though the tone at the close was perhaps a little steadier on the higher grades, which comprises a smaller part of current receipts. Ladles and packing stock favor the buyer. Creamery, higher than extras, pound, 54@54½c; extras, 92 score, 53@53½c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 51½@52¼c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 49½@51c; lower grades, 43@49c; unsalted, higher than extras, 57@57½c; extras, 50@50½c; firsts, 54@55c; seconds, 51½@53½; State dairy tubs, finest, 52½@53c; good to prime, 50@52c; common to fair, 40@49½c; renovated, firsts, 50@50½c; lower grades, 45@49c; ladles current make, firsts, 48@49c; seconds, 46½@47c; lower grades, 43@45½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 14,789 cases. No improvement in qualities appeared in the receipts and the market is still burdened with heavy accumulations of medium and under grades, which are pressing for sale without much regard to price. Values are extremely irregular, and show no material change. The scarcity of really fine quality maintains the market for top grades, although there are few arriving of a character to reach outside quotations for firsts and better grades. Storage eggs are quiet, and the situation somewhat unsettled. Quotations represent usual asking prices, but would have to be shaded to force important quantities on the market. Nearby white eggs are in liberal supply, trade is quiet and selective, and most receivers report an accumulation even of their finest marks, for which they are generally willing to accept less than recently quoted, in the effort to effect a clearance.

Havre

ITS importance as a seaport is indicated by its name, which in English means harbor. Situated in northwestern France, the port of Havre which is an important point of emigration, has regular steam communication with New York and with many of the chief ports of Europe, North, South and Central America, the West Indies and Africa.

The city covers an area of about twelve thousand square miles, and has a total population of about 2,500,000.

In 1913 commerce totalled $616,719,000, of which $357,924,000 were imports.

The handling of American cotton has long been the principal branch of international commerce at Havre, and for several years prior to the outbreak of the war annual imports of this staple exceeded one million bales.

On account of the great transportation difficulties and governmental restrictions commercial activities were greatly curtailed.

With the resumption of pre-war standards, extraordinary trade opportunities should be afforded American manufacturers in a great diversity of lines.

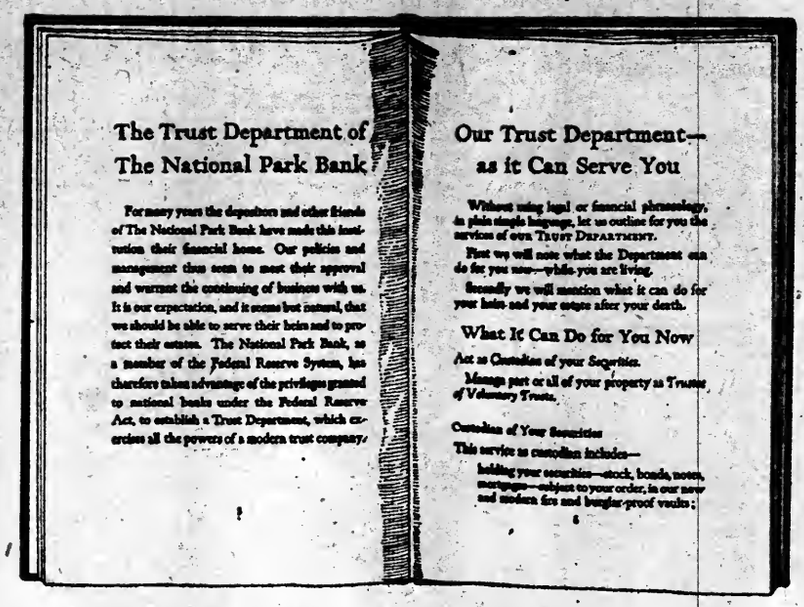
THE NATIONAL PARK BANK OF NEW YORK



THE National Park Bank is equipped and privileged to act in any trust capacity. For over half a century this institution has enjoyed close affiliation with the commercial and financial life of our nation and on its record of banking service now invites trust business of every type.

The book shown "The Trust Department of The National Park Bank" outlines in simple terms our complete trust facilities. We shall be glad to send you a copy and to have you call and discuss with us any matter relating to trusts or estates.

Canada, the Land for a Vacation

Discriminating Americans, seeking travel and recreation, scenic beauty and an exhilarating climate, years ago discovered Canada. From Nova Scotia on the Atlantic to British Columbia on the Pacific there stretches an almost endless variety of natural beauty—seas, rivers, lakes, praries and mountains—the varied charms of which appeal to people of all tastes and inclinations. Today approximately $50,000,000 a year is spent by tourists in Canada.

With 360 branches in all parts of the Dominion, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the Union Bank of Canada, through its Canadian branches and its American connections, is in a position to offer the American visiting Canada every facility for the transfer of money to and from the United States.

Commercial Banking for the Textile Industry

The prime functions of the Textile Banking Company, Inc.—which acts, exclusively, as commercial banker, or factor, for interests in the textile field—are to foster and facilitate sound financing among mills, converters, and other merchants in the industry, and to provide the requisite resources for the expansion of its clients' businesses.

The broad services of our Industrial Department will prove of much value in the operation and expansion of American textile interests, both here and abroad.

We shall be pleased to discuss with you your particular problem relative to textile financing.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

The equipment and rail issues for the most part netted comparative gains on the Consolidated Stock Exchange yesterday, while the tobacco, steel, marine, and copper properties averaged lower than Saturday's closing figures and the oil shares were practically unchanged for the session. American Car and Foundry's shares were bid up 6⅛ to a new high level, while Baldwin Locomotive moved up to 108⅞. Texas & Pacific was advanced in the early trading 3 points, St. Paul 3⅞, and Southern Pacific 1¼. Crucible Steel receded 4 points and Bethlehem Steel B 3½. American Sumatra declined 5¾ and Tobacco Products 4⅞, both closing about 2 points above the lowest figures. The oil shares, after netting gains of from 1 to 2 points, subsequently fell back to the level of Saturday's closing quotations. Copper shares netted losses averaging about 1 point, while the marine shares closed from 1 to 2 points below Saturday's final figures.

FINANCIAL NOTICES.

ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT
5% Internal Gold Loan 1909

Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co. are instructed to give notice that they are prepared to receive tenders for the amortization on or before 30th September, 1919, of $327,600 Argentine gold pesos, say 165,520 nominal of the above loan.

Tenders for sale of bonds with coupons due 1st March, 1920, at a price to be stated in the tender, must be lodged not later than 12 o'clock noon on 15th August, 1919, with Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., 23 Wall Street, New York.

Tenders will be received also in Paris by the Banque de Paris et des Pays Bas, in London by Messrs. Baring Brothers & Co., Limited, and in Buenos Aires by the Credito Publico Nacional.

Each bond has a par value of $978 U. S. Gold Dollars, and tenders must be made at a flat price under par expressed in dollars per bond.

Tenders must be made on a form obtainable on application and be accompanied by a deposit of bonds of the above-mentioned loan at the rate of not less than £10 per £100 nominal capital tendered. The deposit and tender must be securely enclosed in an envelope marked "Tender of Argentine Government 5 per cent. Internal Gold Loan 1909 Bonds for redemption." In the event of the bonds tendered not being lodged with Messrs. Baring Brothers & Co., Limited, by 31st October, 1919, the deposit will be forfeited.

The tenders will be opened in London on 18th August, 1919, and the result will be notified as soon as possible thereafter.

MESSRS. BARING BROTHERS & CO., LIMITED, hereby notify that H. M. Treasury Certificates representing bonds of the above loan deposited with the Treasury will be accepted in London in lieu of the actual bonds, and that in considering tenders, bonds and Treasury Certificates will be given equal treatment.

Forms of tender may be obtained on application to Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., 23 Wall Street, New York, who reserve the right to reject all or any tenders.

Dated New York, 11th August, 1919.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

As a permanent business home to meet the increasing demands of trade the New England Panama Hat Company purchased from the Normar Real Estate Corporation, Max M. Natanson, President, the twelve-story loft building at 26 to 32 West Seventeenth Street. The structure, which was held at $500,000, occupies a plot 93.6 by 92 feet, located between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. The buyers paid all cash above a first mortgage of $260,000, reduced from $350,000. At present the building yields an annual gross rental of about $70,000. The Natanson Company acquired the property from the Phillip Braender estate last Winter. Joseph G. Abramson, attorney, represented the buyers.

Hotel Princeton Sold.

The Broadway Mortgage Investing Company sold to Theresa Bartholdi the Hotel Princeton, a nine-story structure on a plot 40 by 100.4, at 116 and 118 West Forty-fifth Street.

The Shuberts Lease More Property in Times Square.

Hattie Hill has leased to Lee and J. J. Shubert the property at 219 to 225 West Forty-eighth Street, a site 80 by 100.5, containing four three-story dwellings. The lease is for twenty years from July 11 last, and carries an option of three renewals for similar terms. The rental is $13,000 a year. The property is located just west of Broadway and opposite the Longacre Theatre. It adjoins on the west the Union Methodist Episcopal Church.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Slawson & Hobbs sold for Mrs. Helen M. Warner and others the northeast corner of West End Avenue and Ninetieth Street, a five-story modern American basement dwelling, on a lot 25 by 65. The purchase was made for investment and eventual occupancy. The property has been held at $75,000.

The Brown, Wheelock Company, Inc., sold for Mrs. Virginia M. Bacon the four-story high-stoop stonefront dwelling at 130 East Sixty-fifth Street, 20 by 65 by 100.8. The buyer will occupy after extensive alterations have been made.

Joseph H. Schwartz sold to Koby Mayer the three-story and basement private dwelling 77 West 113th Street, on a lot 17 by 100, for $15,000.

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd sold 126 West Seventy-first Street, a four-story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100, for Henry Brill. The purchaser will alter the dwelling into small apartments. The property was recently taken in under foreclosure.

The Bronx Market.

Samuel Schroeder sold to Frederick Brown, operator, 874 Kelly Street, a four-story apartment house, on a plot 37 by 100, held at $27,000.

H. T. Wood sold for Dr. William Whitney 288 East 168th Street, southeast corner of College Avenue, a five-story apartment house, on a plot 50 by 100, renting for about $12,500, and held at $75,000. The purchasers are Ignatz Herman and I. Freed.

Leitner, Brener & Starr sold for Major Lorillard Spencer to Anna Guttman 651 Bryant Avenue, a two-family brick house on a lot 25 by 100. The same brokers also sold for J. Birnbaum to Philip Mattenburg 828 to 830 Hunts Point Avenue, two three-story dwellings, each on a lot 20 by 113.

Brooklyn.

Samuel Galitzka and J. Lacov as brokers sold for the Poret Building Corporation to two clients for occupancy the new two-story and attic, one-family houses, with garages, each on a plot 20 by 100 feet, located on the east side of East Fourteenth Street, 140 and 160 feet north of Avenue I, Flatbush. The houses were sold from plans, and will be ready for occupancy in January, 1920.

Walter S. Ross and C. C. Gretsinger sold for W. Fritz Reuter the two-family house known as 351 Seventy-second Street to an investor.

The Meister Builders, Inc., purchased from the Bond and Mortgage Company the five-story tenement at 191 Adams Street, on a plot 25 by 97.6.

Buying in Queens Borough.

Jack Oliver purchased through Minor L. Platt, as broker, from Michael J. Fried, the ten-room dwelling, on a plot 33 by 100, on the west side of Lockwood Street, 109 feet north of Elm Street, Astoria. The property was held at $10,000.

Westchester County.

The Robert E. Farley Organization sold the home of Mrs. Chandra Williams on Ridgeway, White Plains, N. Y., to Samuel Heller.

Hoboken Terminal Deal.

The Harrison S. Colburn Company has consummated a twenty-year lease of Building C of the Hoboken Factory Terminal. The property is owned by the Hoboken Land and Improvement Company, the real estate holding company of the Stevens estate, and the tenant is Charles Hardy, Inc., at 21 Park Row, who will use the building for storage. This building was constructed a year ago on land belonging to the Terminal Company by the United States Government and operated by the Remington Arms in the manufacture of munitions. The gross amount of the lease is approximately $150,000.

Buyer in Harlem.

Charles Wynne and Louis H. Low are the buyers of the five-story flats at 9 East 117th Street, adjoining the corner of Fifth Avenue, and at 303 West 120th Street, adjoining the corner of Eighth Avenue. The lots are 25 by 100 feet, and were held at $30,000 each.

Good Broad Street Lease.

David Kramer has leased from Samuel Untermyer the two five-story buildings on plot 52 by 104 feet, at 82 and 84 Broad Street, for a long term of years, at an approximate aggregate rental of $300,000. Mr. Kramer, who has been for the past twenty years at 43 and 45 Broad Street, which property was recently sold to the Alliance Realty Company, will remodel the leased premises for his business of office furniture.

The lease removes from the market two buildings for the possession of which there has been considerable rivalry owing to the scarcity of space in this section.

E. H. Ludlow & Co. and Rice & Hill were the brokers.

Long Island Auction Buyers.

Joseph P. Day sold on Saturday at Woodmere, L. I., twenty plots and one dwelling to close the realty holdings of the Far Rockaway Investing Company. The two and one-half story dwelling on the northwest corner of Central Avenue and Irving Place, on a plot 152 by 73, was bought by Jose Comprati for $9,900. The southeast corner of Central Avenue and Linden Street 80 by 130 was purchased by William Silberstein for $4,000. W. Ruhman bought the two plots, 60 by 150 each, on Pine Street, near Central Avenue, for $5,040. The plot, 80 by 150½ on Park Street, near Central Avenue, near the railroad station, was sold to Nathan Arnold for $3,570. The large plot, 313.9 by 161.35 by irregular, on Wood Lane and Keen Lane, was purchased by Louis Silk for $8,285.

Among the purchasers at the Lawrence sale later in the day was Samuel L. Golden, who bought the southeast and southwest corners of Broadway and Muriel Avenue for $8,500 each. They averaged 100 by 200. Two houses at Wavecrest, Far Rockaway, known as 2,366 and 2,381 Brookhaven Avenue, were purchased by A. Chinz for $10,500 and $11,500, respectively.

TO CLOSE AN ESTATE AT AN EARLY DATE

We offer at less than cost a very attractive pretty Colonial Country suburban home in a beautiful, strictly residential section, near New York. The desires of the former owner as to personality of buyer will be respected. The house itself is in perfect condition, of Dutch Colonial design and contains ten comfortable rooms and two baths. There is also a completely equipped garage, corresponding to the house in architecture. The plot consists of almost ¾ of an acre with 200 ft. street frontage. Unusual care and taste have been used in landscaping the grounds, which are beautifully shaded and contain many shrubs and flowers. The elevation is about 700 ft. The railroad station is within 4 minutes' easy walk. Commuting facilities to the city are of the best. The price is $12,500 complete. Easy terms of payment can be arranged. Complete details can be obtained from Attorney, P. O. Box 529, City Hall Station, New York City.

QUALIFY FOR JUNIOR ACCOUNTANT, NOVEMBER, 1919;
SENIOR ACCOUNTANT, NOVEMBER, 1920.
November 15 to January 1 is the period during which one-fourth of the year's business changes, readjustments and building-up of staffs are made.
If you have a faculty for figures and the crude stuff for the making of an accountant, there is just about time between now and November 15 of this year for you to qualify for a Junior Accountancy position that will pay at least $35 a week.
And ample time to qualify before November, 1920, for position of Senior Accountant, Auditor, or Income Tax Expert, at a salary of at least $75 a week with possibilities of more than twice that amount.
FACTS AND FIGURES.
During the three months ending May, 1919, 715 men and women who are being given specialized vocational training by our institution received important promotions and salary increases aggregating $422,060. Our records show that 171 of these 715 members have completed, or nearly completed, their training, while 372 are not yet half way through.
It is only a question of raw ability and industry, a resolute purpose to devote five or six spare hours a week to intensive training in accordance with the most successful business training system ever devised, under the supervision of a corps of eminent Certified Public Accountants who are renowned as practical teachers.

The Civil Service.

United States.

The Commission announces for Aug. 19 an examination for specialist in cotton classing, for men only. Three vacancies in the Bureau of Markets, Department of Agriculture, will be filled from this examination. The duties will be to assist in the classification of any cotton which may be submitted to the Secretary of Agriculture for classification and in the preparation and final inspection of the Official Cotton Standards prepared in accordance with the provisions of the United States cotton futures act.

Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on education, experience, and fitness, 80; thesis or discussion, (to be filed with application,) 20. Applicants must have had at least eight years' experience in cotton classing and stapling, except for substitution of education for experience. Graduation from a standard high school or the completion of a course of study equivalent to that required for such graduation will be accepted in lieu of two years, and the completion of each two years of study in a college or technical school of recognized standing will be accepted in lieu of an additional year of the required experience. Applicants must have had at least four years' experience of a thoroughly responsible character. Special consideration will be given for variety of experience in different sections of the cotton belt. At least two years of the required experience must have been had within the four years immediately preceding the date of the examination. Applications will be accepted from persons whose experience has been confined to grading or classing in subordinate positions.

Education Notes.

The public schools of the city will open for the admission and transfer of pupils on Sept. 3, 4, and 5. The school term will begin on Sept. 8. The registration hours will be from 9 to 12 in the mornings and from 1 to 3 in the afternoons.

An adjourned meeting of the Board of Education will be held this afternoon.

The Board of Education has been asked to prepare and to furnish to the Committee on Finance and Budget of the Board of Estimate a set of maps of each borough, showing the location of existing school sites for which appropriations will be requested in the 1920 budget.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The tropical disturbance in the Caribbean continues to move westward in about latitude 15 degrees. Indications are that it is of slight intensity and that it will not pass into the Gulf of Mexico. The temperature is high over the Lake district and Middle States, but is falling generally. It is low over the Canadian Northwest and the Middle and North Plateau region. During the last twenty-four hours showers and thunderstorms have occurred in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States and portions of the Lower Missouri and Upper Mississippi Valleys and the west Upper Lake region. Elsewhere throughout the country east of the Rocky Mountains the weather has been fair. Temperatures have risen to above normal over the Plains States and the North Rocky Mountain region, but elsewhere throughout the country they are near the average for the month.

The outlook is for generally fair weather Tuesday and Wednesday in the Atlantic States north of Virginia and unsettled weather with showers and thunderstorms elsewhere throughout the country east of the Mississippi River. Temperature changes will not be important.

Winds off the Atlantic Coast—North of Sandy Hook, Sandy Hook to Hatteras, gentle to moderate variable winds and fair weather; Hatteras to Florida Straits, gentle variable winds, mostly east, partly cloudy weather; East Gulf Coast, gentle and variable winds and partly cloudy weather.

FORECASTS TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

New England, Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, fair Tuesday and Wednesday, not much change in temperature.

Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Western New York, partly cloudy Tuesday, Wednesday probably showers, not much change in temperature.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1919	1918		1919	1918
3 A. M.	65	62	4 P. M.	80	69
6 A. M.	65	63	6 P. M.	79	69
9 A. M.	67	64	9 P. M.	74	69
12 M.	74	67	11 P. M.	72	69

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 72; for the corresponding date last year it was 66; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 73.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 66; at 8 P. M. it was 75. Maximum temperature, 80 degrees at 5 P. M.; minimum, 65 degrees at 5:30 A. M. Humidity, 64 per cent. at 8 A. M., 43 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.24 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.21 inches.

Ideal Vacation

2000 MILES 8 Days on the Water — $68.52 and up—according to stateroom selected — All Expenses Included On Steamers

Don't miss this most unusual, exhilarating and economical 8 to 11 Day Trip

From New York every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday

The trip includes 1650 mile cruise along the Atlantic Coast, permitting shore visits at Charleston—famous homes of old Southern Aristocracy, Cathedrals, Forts Moultrie and Sumter of Confederate fame, Navy Yard, etc. At Jacksonville—Metropolis and Gateway to enchanted land of Ponce de Leon, Ostrich farm, curio shops, sightseeing trolley and automobile trips, beaches, etc. Also 400 miles of luxuriant scenery by daylight and searchlight.

On the Beautiful St. John's The American Nile

The most fascinating and interesting inland water trip in America, with glimpses of alligators, tropical birds, marvelous water foliage and quaint native settlements. Every convenience and comfort in ocean travel: social halls, music room; open air shelter, sun parlor, wide promenade decks; incomparable dining service with party tables for two, four or eight persons, meals being served during hours at passenger's convenience. Drawing Room accommodations, consisting of large bedrooms with twin beds and private bath; Rooms with double bed and private bath; Rooms en suite or singly, without bath, but with private lavatory; may be obtained at moderate additional cost or you may select a more modestly appointed—but none the less comfortable—stateroom or berth without additional room charge.

EXPENSES

The eight day trip can be made on certain steamers without necessity of stopping over at any point, for $68.52 including transportation, meals and minimum priced stateroom accommodations in both directions—although higher priced rooms are available if desired. On other steamers there is a stop-over of one to three days at Jacksonville—dependent upon schedule, in which case shore expenses are to be borne by the passenger; but in any event, cost of the entire trip of from eight to eleven days may be kept well within $100 per person. All fares are subject to 8 per cent. war tax.

Taking Lessons from the Ostrich

SOME busy business men are prone to shut their eyes to anything but the obvious. They evidently figure, like the proverbial ostrich, that what isn't seen doesn't exist.

Accounting errors, for instance, that might have been prevented by proper "checks" frequently slip through unnoticed. They are simply swallowed up in the volume of business done.

How much more efficient to guard against inaccuracy by the introduction of efficient accounting methods! It is always easier and safer to prevent blunders than to correct them.

SAYS AUTOMOBILES HURT STREET CARS

Statistician Tells Federal Commission They Are to Blame for Traffic Losses.

BAKER FAVORS 5-CENT FARE

Secretary of War Contends Any Increase Should be Granted by the People Themselves.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Troubles of traction companies serving American cities were again the subject of consideration from manifold viewpoints today, when the Federal Electric Railways Commission resumed its sessions after two weeks' recess. Secretary of War Baker, classed as an expert on street car troubles by reason of his inheritance of Tom Johnson's methods in Cleveland, had the stand much of the day.

City governments are better rulers of traction company affairs than State regulative commissions, Mr. Baker said. The 5 cent fare, he classed as a "psychological necessity," adding that its elimination in most cities would cut the heart out of the profitable short haul business.

"The street railway problem is essentially a local one," Mr. Baker said. "Medicine for one community is poison for another. The solution of the street railway problem is one of popular education."

Co-operation between the railroad employes and managements, along the lines of the Plumb plan proposed for steam roads, Mr. Baker thought was possible, if the public interest was clearly kept paramount.

Asked by Commissioner Gadsden if increases in fares for companies in dire straits would not be the emergency remedy, Mr. Baker said he thought it was possibly the only way to re-establish service where no return is secured on capital invested.

"But if fares are raised, they ought to be raised by the people who are to pay for it," Mr. Baker continued. "If it is done otherwise it will be resented."

Roger Babson, statistician and a Director of the Bay State Railway Company, blamed automobiles for much of the car traffic loss. With 5,000 street cars in Massachusetts, there are 185,000 automobiles running.

He suggested that paving charges against the companies should be lifted and general taxes on the business removed, after which he suggested that "street cars and jitneys should be permitted to fight out their future on a basis of service."

Other witnesses heard were Lieut. Col. Kuts, Engineering Commissioner for the District of Columbia, who suggested municipal ownership of car tracks but not of operating equipment, and John P. Fox of New York.

FLYING TO NEW ORLEANS.

Winged Boat Going by Way of Great Lakes and Mississippi.

PORT WASHINGTON, L. I., Aug. 11.—Major Sidney E. Parker, R. A. F., left here at 2:20 o'clock this afternoon in a Curtiss flying boat, the Sea Gull, for New Orleans, by way of the Great Lakes and the Mississippi River. After a stop at Mamaroneck to pick up the other member of the crew, Captain H. T. Wilcox, formerly of the Scotch Guards, the first stop scheduled is Saratoga Lake. It was said, however, that a passenger might be taken on at Mamaroneck, who might get set down at Albany. It was said that the flying boat ought to make from seventy to eighty miles an hour today.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Major Sidney E. Parker landed here from New York at 5:45 on his way to New Orleans by way of the Great Lakes in the Sea Gull, having as a passenger to Poughkeepsie Miss Anna Case, the opera soprano.

All Metal Conducts Heat

SHEET steel, oil stoves, frying pans, kettles, and the old-fashioned plain-wall steel filing cabinets—all these metal articles are quick conductors of heat. (We ourselves make a variety of plain wall steel filing cabinets, but not for fire or heat-protection.)

Plain steel is fine for cooking utensils but impossible for filing cabinets, used in offices where there's a fire risk. But—

Asbestos repels heat

THAT is why we build our Fire-wall cabinets—for fire protection—with asbestos lining, like safes. Asbestos, as everybody knows, is one of the best protective elements against fire and heat. If it were ever built into oil stoves, it would defeat the purpose of the stove; but, used within double steel walls, it makes a filing cabinet three to thirty times as protective against fire and heat as any plain-wall cabinet made. This exclusive construction is found only in

"Y and E"

"BUILT LIKE A SAFE"

FIRE-WALL STEEL FILING CABINETS

"FIRE-WALL" construction goes all around the cabinet. At top, bottom, front, sides, and back there is an interlining of asbestos, placed in a protected air chamber and enclosed in two strong walls of steel.

Cost no more

THOUGH "Y and E" Fire-Wall Cabinets protect your records over three times as well, they cost no more. In spite of this asbestos construction—in spite of four additional features, these better cabinets are sold at the price of ordinary steel filing equipment. One fire will convince you. Why wait for a fire? It will pay you to get our new booklets: "Steel Cabinets that Protect" and "Vertical Filing Down-to-Date."

Five Exclusive Features
—at no extra cost

1. The layer of asbestos which is built at top, bottom, front, sides and back of the "Y and E" Cabinets.
2. The Automatic Safety Latches, which prevent the drawers from opening in a fire emergency or in office re-arrangement.
3. The "Y and E" Frictionless Slides which give the drawers an easy gliding movement.
4. Drawers strike all around—like a safe door. This protects contents against dust, water, flame and heat.
5. The "Y and E" Filing System, which enables you to keep your records with greatest convenience and at lowest cost. System service without charge.

Note How the Essex

In Speed, Hill Climbing, Comfort and Reliability It Has Won 10,000 Owners

Proves Endurance

The 10,000 Essex cars already in service have been so distributed that every community now knows their distinctive performance.

Here for instance are people who have had wide motor car experience. They will tell you how they esteem the Essex. Its economy of operation and the fact that practically no attention is required to keep it in prime operation appeals to all.

As For Its Performance

If you haven't ridden in the Essex take the first opportunity to do so.

Come to us and we will give you the same kind of demonstration that has caused thousands to acknowledge Essex supremacy. Watch the way in which Essex cars perform on the road. If it is at a street crossing when traffic is signaled to go ahead, observe how quickly the Essex jumps to the lead. The only car that beats it is another Essex with a better driver.

If you are on a narrow country road where an Essex signals its intention to pass another car, you will see how easy with its acceleration it can jump to the lead.

And It Will Do That Whenever Called On

Essex performance is acknowledged by everyone. No one classes it with any but the largest and more costly cars—never with cars of its weight or price class.

Now that thousands of Essex cars have been driven more miles than is usually rolled up in a season by the average automobile, owners are realizing Essex endurance.

That is why they tell you about the small upkeep expense of the Essex. They tell you about the way in which it retains its power and wanted qualities even after the hardest service. In every endurance run entered, the Essex has made perfect scores.

Such Is the Car You Should Have

It gives dependable service. It is the new day car, the type to which all moderate priced cars must come, for in addition to light weight and low operating cost, men now demand performance, luxury, comfort and endurance. The Essex is easy to drive. It turns in a short radius. It steers easily. It can be parked in spaces too small for the average car. It has many qualities you will like.

Ask yourself what car is so modern, what is the type of the future, what light car can match its performance. It is exclusive in many particulars and no other car built has all the features of the Essex.

LODGE OUTLINES FIVE RESERVATIONS TO LEAGUE PLAN

WANTS NO LEADING-STRINGS

Demands Freedom for America to Perform Her Work of World Service.

WILLIAMS PROVOKES HISSES

Misunderstood Accusation Against Lodge Occasions Tumult Shared in by Marines.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—In a two-hour speech in the Senate today, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, majority leader, who is handling the fight for reservations to the League of Nations covenant, assailed the League plan as accepted by the Paris Conference as a "deformed experiment" in which the inherent interests of the United States were sacrificed to a dangerous internationalism.

At the end of Mr. Lodge's eloquent perforation, an unusual demonstration of approval broke out in the crowded galleries. Marines, who had been in the attack upon Château-Thierry and who had squeezed their way into the galleries after the big parade, in which more than 8000 of them were reviewed today by the President, joined in the wild ovation that was accorded Senator Lodge. For three minutes the galleries were in a tumult, such as had not been witnessed in years.

Vice President Marshall, in the chair, made no effort to check the thunder of applause. Later, when the galleries burst out in disapproval of Senator Williams of Mississippi, who accused Mr. Lodge of making a "show" of himself, the Vice President threatened to clear them in the event of repetition.

Outlines Five Reservations.

Senator Lodge's speech was hailed by the majority of the opposition Senators as sounding the keynote of reservations that were likely to be adopted as the majority program when the Versailles treaty comes up for vote. Mr. Lodge urged five reservations, along the line of those advocated by Elihu Root and Charles E. Hughes. They are:

1. On Article 10, touching upon the guarantee of territorial integrity of nations in the league, so as to provide that Congress retain definitely the right to say when and where American soldiers are to fight. Under this reservation it would be impossible for the league to compel America to send forces into any conflict anywhere without the consent of Congress.

2. On Article 11, relating to the right of the Council to pass upon any emergency of "war or threat of war" and to recommend any action it deems "wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of the world." Under this Lodge reservation proposal any decision of the Council involving the use of American forces would be subject to the consent of Congress, as in the case of Article 10.

3. As to the Monroe Doctrine, stating plainly that it is not to be subject to interpretation or construction by the League Council.

4. On purely domestic questions such as immigration, the tariff and racial matters, these all being reserved entirely for American determination.

5. On the two years' withdrawal clause, the United States Government, and not the League Council, to determine if America's obligations under the covenant have been fulfilled.

Neither Mr. Root nor Mr. Hughes mentioned a reservation as to Article 11, but there is a strong sentiment in the Senate for such a reservation. Mr. Lodge argued that it would be equally binding with Article 10 in putting the United States into the quarrels of European nations.

Reservations Equal to Amendments.

Senator Lodge's speech made it clear that he and those who supported him would insist upon reservations that would have the effect of direct amendments. Mr. Lodge takes the ground that, to make them binding, they ought to be passed upon by the other four chief allied and associated powers.

In his speech the Massachusetts Senator characterized the League of Nations as a "political organization," in which the affairs of all the nations entering it would be thrashed out from the political point of view. It was not, he said, a league of peace, "but an alliance dominated by the five great powers of the world."

Senator Lodge regarded it as imperative that the United States should not become embroiled in the politics of Europe, and he did not want Europe mixing in American affairs. To preserve the sovereignty of America, he said, the five reservations which he urged were necessary.

In his peroration Senator Lodge asserted that the League of Nations, as drafted at Paris, was merely an "ideal."

"My first ideal is my own country," he exclaimed. "We have our own ideals, even if they differ from the ideals of those who have tried to establish a monopoly of idealism. To us, America should come before anything else."

As Mr. Lodge ended his speech, Senators on the Republican side went forward to shake his hand, while the galleries rang with applause. The cheers

Surplus War Supplies Now Offered to Europe

PARIS, Aug. 12.—C. W. Hare, director of sales for the United States War Department, has opened offices in Paris for the purpose of selling surplus war supplies now held in the United States to countries other than France. Should the French Government desire to purchase any of the American supplies, which are not connected with the sale of American stock in France to France, Mr. Hare says he will be glad to open negotiations concerning them.

A substantial part of these supplies, according to Mr. Hare, already have been sold on the American market, but there remains, subject to prior sale in the United States, a large amount of raw materials, textiles, machine tools, drugs, chemicals, and miscellaneous army stores. Mr. Hare said that negotiations already had been opened for the sale of these stores with most of the neutral countries and Belgium through agents.

ST. JOHN'S GREETS PRINCE OF WALES

Newfoundlanders Give Cordial Reception to Heir to the British Throne.

St. John, New Brunswick, Is Alive with Expectancy Awaiting Royal Visitor.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 12.—The Prince of Wales came to St. John's this morning and the town was gay with flags and cheering crowds.

The Prince was transferred from the Renown, on which he crossed the ocean, to the more accommodating Dragon. St. John's Harbor takes many ships, but the latest word in battle cruisers is beyond its capacity. The Dragon leading, with the Dauntless following, swept round from Conception Bay, the sirens at the Bell Island iron mines giving a parting salute. As the Dragon pushed through the high rocks at the entrance of St. John's Harbor the salute sounded in a hundred echoes among the surrounding hills.

The harbor was an animated scene. Hundreds of fishing craft crowded with cheering men and bright clad women sputtered about the harbor. A five-masted American schooner was covered with flags. On the roofs of all freight sheds, on the big stacks of Newfoundland timber which lie on the wharfs weather-hardened Newfoundlanders greeted the heir to the British throne. While they waited for the Prince the Renown appeared off the harbor and showed herself to admiring St. John's.

On the King's Wharf, a jetty thrust out between stacks of timber, the guard of honor was lined up. Naval men, with service chevrons and wound stripes on their arms, and stocky men of the Newfoundland Regiment, all had seen service and many had fought in the grim battles of the Somme. These men, though all had been demobilized, came together again to give the salute to the Prince.

The Prince came in the Royal barge, with all the boats of St. John's crowding in after him, as an informal escort. Directly he landed they jammed up the entrance to the jetty in their ardor to get as close as possible. The Prince in naval uniform, a slight figure moving briskly, inspected the guard. The notabilities were presented to him and he received an address of welcome from the town. This address had been specially painted by an Irish nun in one of the convents of St. John's.

The King's Wharf was strung with flags and lights, and set about with small fires and a veritable forest of Christmas trees.

The police had the greatest ado to prevent small boys from swarming over the fences from the wharf yards and taking the closest possible snapshots of the Prince.

Progress through the streets had to be slow. No soldiers lined the route, and the townspeople were determined to see everything, and that as close as possible. The carriages went at a walk, half the population keping step with them and cheering as they went. If the carriages did at any time break into a trot so did the crowd, and the Prince went forward amid a mass of running people. So the Prince went along Water Street and climbed the steep hill to the Government House, where he received further addresses and ate an official luncheon.

In the afternoon he had a taste of the beauties of Newfoundland. He drove out in a car through the hills and the forests of fir. Back from this ride he attended a garden party in the grounds of Government House, and dined, and later drove through the town to see the illuminations. Everywhere there were lights, and under the shifting lights the Newfoundland fishermen, still in their great set boots and oilskins, teamsters in working jeans, and women in their brightest clothes moved and made holiday. All the town was taking a day off and all were making the most of the visit.

Tomorrow they will make the most of the hour or two he is with them to show him how Newfoundlanders can row on the beautiful Quidi Vidi Lake that nestles nearby among the hills. Then

CHICAGO THEATRES CLOSED BY STRIKE; FIGHT BITTER HERE

George M. Cohan Quits the Friars and Pledges His Last Dollar Against the Equity.

ELEVEN HOUSES NOW DARK

Many Premieres Postponed by Refusal of Casts to Go On with Rehearsals.

CHORUS PEOPLE JOIN UNION

Actors Retain Wickersham to Fight Suits That May Run Up to $7,000,000.

The actors' strike, which has already closed a dozen theatres in New York, last night spread to Chicago, where the players in two attractions walked out, preventing their plays from opening. This is believed to be the beginning of an extension of the strike to Boston, Philadelphia, and the remainder of the country.

Increasing bitterness, with determination to fight to the end expressed by both actors and managers, marked the sixth day of the strike in New York.

George M. Cohan, following his resignation from the Lambs on Monday, yesterday resigned also from the Friars, of which he has been Abbot for many years.

"I am not going to associate as a fellow-club member with actors who insult me and my family," he declared. "I am an actor and have always been a friend of the actor. The stage is my life, but I value my manhood above everything else. I am through with the Lambs and the Friars, and that is final.

"Every dollar that I have in the world is on the table in this fight against the actors, who are being misled by the Actors' Equity Association. Before I will do business with the Actors' Equity Association I will lose every dollar I have made, and will run an elevator to make a living."

With other managers committing themselves with equal determination and the Actors' Equity Association gaining both numbers and strength, the beginning of a long struggle is seen by most observers.

The Equity Association, as its first move in the fight which it will make against the lawsuits begun by the managers on Monday, retained George W. Wickersham, former Attorney General, as counsel for the association and its members. The aggregate of suits against the actors may reach $7,000,000, since every manager who had an attraction affected, the managers said, had pledged himself to bring suit.

Actor Pickets Out in Force.

Actor pickets thronged the streets again last night, although in lesser numbers than on the preceding night. Forty-fifth Street, in front of strike headquarters, was packed from building line to building line all evening by actors and crowds of the curious. Sightseeing automobiles loaded with cheering actors rolled through the streets to the accompaniment of applause from the sidewalks.

None of the many closed theatres—the number is now eleven, inclusive of "She Would and She Did," which was to have opened last night—resumed last night, and only one is announced positively for reopening tonight. This will be "East Is West" at the Astor Theatre. Fay Bainter will have her original rôle, and a part will be played by Clifford Brooke, an English stage director, who has never before acted in this country.

Managers readily admitted last night that the actors were playing havoc with nearly all shows in rehearsal, and said that it was almost impossible to get together a cast with any assurance that it would remain intact. A case in point was A. H. Woods, who had announced five new plays for presentation on Broadway during August or early September and planned to send more than a score of companies to the road.

Mr. Woods's production of "A Voice in the Dark," at the Republic Theatre, was closed by the strike on the first night. New players were immediately engaged an dreheared, but after viewing a rehearsal a few days ago the manager dismissed the company. It is considered unlikely now that the play will reopen before the end of the strike, at which time the original company will be available.

"Too Many Husbands," which Mr. Woods announced for the Hudson Theatre next week, will not be presented, nor will "A Bashful Hero," planned for the Bijou. This latter organization was headed by Ernest Truex, an Equity member. "The Girl in the Limousine," intended for the Eltinge, and "The Great Illusion," announced for the Booth, also have been indefinitely postponed. Of the many companies which were to have gone upon the road, only one is now playing "Breakfast in Bed," now in Atlantic City,) and there are no companies in rehearsal.

Two Wanger Companies Strike.

Other managers are being affected proportionately. Two companies placed in rehearsal by Walter F. Wanger, who joined the Producing Managers' Association on Monday, went on strike yesterday, and in both cases the productions will await the end of the strike. The plays were "The Purple Slipper" and "Five o'Clock," "John Ferguson," which Mr. Wanger and others are

Dutch Allow ex-Crown Prince to Visit His Wife in Prussia

BERLIN, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—With the permission of the Dutch Government, the former German Crown Prince has just spent several days with his wife and children at Soden, Prussia, and accompanied them part of the way back to Potsdam, according to the Lokal-Anzeiger.

The newspaper adds that Frederick William has now returned to Holland.

WAR-TIME DROUTH EXTENDED A MONTH

Secretary Baker Announces Demobilization Will End the Last of October.

NEW ARMY STATIONS CHOSEN

He Asks Communities Where They Will Be Quartered to Aid in Upholding Morale.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Secretary Baker announced today that the actual demobilization of the army—that is, all combatant units, would be practically completed by the last of October. He pointed out, however, that after demobilization there would remain many details involving the care and disposition of surplus army property, the completion of permanent records, and the care of those in hospitals that would require for some time the attention of many officers and enlisted men. In the meantime, the Secretary added, the units of the mobile army, would be busied with plans for the future.

The announcement means that wartime prohibition will remain in force at least until the end of October, instead of the end of September. It will be noted that in his reference to demobilization he refers specifically to "combatant troops." Whether the fact that certain noncombatant units are to be retained after the demobilization of the combat troops means that wartime prohibition will continue until the latter are also demobilized is a question a lot of people in Washington are trying to answer tonight. The Secretary did not mention the prohibition situation in his prepared interview. In any event the end of wartime prohibition cannot come until after the President issues his peace proclamation, and this, in turn, must await the ratification of the Peace Treaty by the Senate.

The Secretary also announced the permanent stations of the seven divisions of the regular army which are to be reorganized on a peace basis. These stations are:

First Division at Camp Taylor, Ky.
Second Division at San Antonio, Texas.
Third Division at Little Rock, Ark.
Fourth Division at Des Moines, Iowa.
Fifth Division at Atlanta, Ga.
Sixth Division at Rockford, Ill.
Seventh Division at Fort Riley, Kans.

"In these divisional camps and in the permanent camps of the Southeastern Department," Secretary Baker said, "the whole new program of helping the soldier to become a more efficient and useful citizen by reason of his enlistment in the army, will be put into play. Each one of these divisional camps will be a branch of the 'University in Khaki' as will every other station of a regular army unit. As fine a type of young American manhood is now enlisting in the regular army as ever wore the American uniform. They are going to get out of their enlistment, we hope, a practicable benefit that they can turn to use all the rest of their lives. Enlistments for the regular army have now reached nearly 100,000 and the rate continues at about 5,000 a week.

"In this work, I want to ask the cooperation of the communities where the regular army units are stationed. I fear that in the days before the war we had rather fallen into the habit of taking the regular for granted as a permanent police force we could forget about until trouble happened. We had lost sight, we civilians outside the uniform, of the tremendous potential value of the army as an educational institution for training young men to become not only finished soldiers, but citizens able to earn more and be more after their terms in the army were finished.

"In this work, we need the co-operation of the civilian communities, the constant mindfulness and helpfulness of the whole citizenship. It is not too much to ask these cities and towns where the regulars are domiciled, to regard the divisional or the regimental camp and the soldier inhabitants as Cambridge regards Harvard or New Haven regards Yale, or Berkeley regards the University of California, and as all of these college towns regard the students.

"The nation's debt to those splendid units of the regular army can never be paid. Each one of them has traditions that should be inspirational in their effect upon the young men who belong to them, working for high standards of service and second Americanism in the army and out of it. Let us realise this and show our gratitude by our helpfulness.

"What I have said about the communities where the units of the mobile army are to be applies equally to those communities where other soldiers are going about their irksome tasks of closing up the business of the war that is over. These soldiers certainly have the most difficult part to take. Let us not forget them. Let's keep them in mind, cordially and helpfully, through to the end.

"I would like the citizens in these various communities, through the proper organizations, to take up practically and in consultation with the commanding officers some workable plan of peace-time relation and friendship. Conditions ought to be so arranged that the men who serve in these camps and stations will be glad their training is near such good people and in such kindly surroundings.

KOLCHAK REGIME, WASHINGTON HEARS, IS VERY INSECURE

Ambassador Morris Said to Have Found Conditions at Omsk Unfavorable.

ADMIRAL'S BACK TO WALL

Many Disintegrating Elements at Work Which Appear to Foreshadow Collapse.

RUSSIANS HERE STILL HOPE

Liken Bolshevist Drive to Last Desperate Effort of Germans Before the End Came.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Roland S. Morris, the American Ambassador to Japan, who some weeks ago was sent to Omsk, Siberia, to make an investigation of the Kolchak Government, is returning immediately to his post at Tokio.

The Ambassador, it is understood, reported not only on conditions in Omsk proper but also on the situation at the fighting front, where the Kolchak army is now retreating before greatly superior and better equipped and armed Bolshevist forces. The Ambassador is said to have found many disintegrating elements at work, which appear to foreshadow the collapse of the Omsk Government and its hard-beset and poorly equipped army.

From a reliable source, information has been received that the Omsk Government is not as strong internally as has been generally believed to be the case. Its power to enforce obedience to its decrees is reported to be insufficient, many of the local political organizations have failed to give Kolchak their best support, while as a result of the work of Bolshevist and other enemy agitators a feeling of distrust toward the authorities at Omsk has been created in many parts of Siberia.

Lacks Outside Support.

Back of all this the Kolchak Government has found it impossible, owing, its friends say, to a lack of outside support, to organize an effective military force. It has not the money to pay and equip its troops, and also lacks the means to afford needed and urgent relief to the population in the territory over which it exercises titular control.

In addition to the information which Ambassador Morris is understood to have conveyed to the Government here, there came today confirmation of the extreme critical nature of the situation in Siberia from Admiral Kolchak himself. This was the cable translation of the appeal issued to his troops by Kolchak a few days ago, in which the commander of the Siberian Army pointed out that he was in a death struggle with Bolshevism, and that the issue now was one which involved either the defeat of the enemy or the death of himself and his men. The text reads:

"In the Spring of last year our troops began on offensive on the Ural front. Poorly equipped and armed, owing to lack of military supplies in Siberia, they, nevertheless, threw the Bolsheviki back nearly to the Volga and to the Viatka. Having drawn to ourselves the main forces of the enemy, we thereby permitted the armies of General Denikin and the Ural Cossacks to defeat the Bolsheviki.

"The losses of these southern and eastern provinces deprived the Soviet power of wheat, coal, and iron, and the Soviet Government was thereby condemned to slow but certain death. It is to regain wheat, iron, and coal, the possession of which the Bolsheviki know to be their salvation, that they are using every effort to advance toward Siberia, obliging our greatly outnumbered troops to retire.

At this hour of anguish, when our troops, though harrassed by incessant fighting since March, are nevertheless accomplishing their duty toward the country and will continue to do so to the very end, I address myself to the population free from the yoke of the Soviets.

"We are in a death struggle with Bolshevism which cannot end by mutual understanding because in this struggle we defend liberty against tyranny, civilisation against barbarism. In this struggle we are not dealing with honest opponents, but with a band of robbers, composed of outlaws of all nations.

"The methods used against us in this struggle are infamous; innocent people are martyrised, undergoing violence and robbery. One cannot evade this struggle or its consequences as long as the enemy is not annihilated.

"The only issue for us in this last and terrible struggle is to defeat the enemy or die. To be able to work in common and in peace, rally around the army: take the places of those who are no more; extend to the army every possible assistance, alleviate the burden which it is bearing and defend it vigilantly against everything which can harm it from within.

"Let every officer and every soldier fighting at the front feel and see the affection which the people are extending to him when grappling with the foe with all the heroism characteristic of the Russian soldier. A contented and united army, well equipped, is the assurance of our security and even of our very existence."

Coincident with the bad news from Omsk came the appeal to the State Department from the Provisional Government of Northern Russia at Archangel

WILSON WANTS USE OF SECRET SERVICE IN PROFITEER HUNT; $500,000 FOR INQUIRY; CITY TO GET FAIR FOOD PRICE LIST TODAY

Paris Food Stores Pillaged in Rioting Between Vendors and Vigilance Committees

PARIS, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—The opening of the Central Markets early this morning was the occasion for brawls between vendors and the Price Vigilance Committees and would-be purchasers. Fist blows and battles in which vegetables were used as missiles were numerous. During the fighting the problem of bringing down the cost of living was solved by some of the combatants, who pillaged stores and stands and made their escape with the stolen goods.

All the market stalls were hurriedly closed, except those where meat is sold. The vegetable vendors placed their stocks which had escaped pillage in storage. An understanding between the dealers and the Vigilance Committee was reached at 10 o'clock on the prices which the dealers might charge in disposing of their remaining stocks of butter, eggs, and cheese.

The Montmartre pushcart men struck this morning. Later they held a meeting of protest against the Vigilance Committee and then thronged through the streets where their carts were stationed, upsetting the display of vegetables and fruits before the shops and breaking windows. The shopkeepers closed their places hurriedly.

Eight arrests were made in connection with the disturbances in the Central Markets. The chief factor for the trouble was an attempt by members of the Vigilance Committee to prevent foodstuffs, including fish, bought by the big hotels and restaurants, from leaving the markets. The Vigilance Committee argued that it was the readiness of such buyers to pay any price, however high, that was resulting in the raising of all prices.

SENATORS CHARGE WHEAT PRICE FRAUD

Farmers Victimized by Grading System, the Agriculture Committee Says.

CROP MAY AVERAGE $1.50

Grain Bought Low Is Milled and Sold at Top Price, It Is Asserted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—A statement having to do with the cost of living controversy and which, it is explained, is given out for the purpose of acquainting city residents with the "plain, unvarnished truth" regarding the agricultural situation, was issued today by the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

The statement, which was made public by Senator Gronna, Chairman of the committee, has the indorsement of the full membership of the committee, Senators Gronna, Page, Wadsworth, Norris, Kenyon, France, McNary, Capper and Keyes, Republicans, and Senators Gore, Smith of South Carolina, Smith of Georgia, Ransdell, Johnson, Kenrick and Harrison, Democrats. It is also approved, Senator Gronna announced, by the National Board of Farm Organizations and by the National Grange.

"The people of the farms," said Senator Gronna, speaking for the committee, "are deeply concerned in the unrest manifest now in the serious protests against the high price of the necessaries of life. While entirely sympathetic with the hardships which present prices cause the people of the city, farmers, individually and through their organizations, are no less concerned with their own economic situation and with the question of production of the raw materials of food and clothing.

"The powerful machine of the Government is being now set in motion to apprehend and bring to justice those who are guilty of conspiracy to restrain trade and secure undue profits. But it must be remembered that this drive is now coming at a time when the great staple products of the farm are going to market and that in selling the wheat crop, for instance, the farmer is selling his entire season's labor.

"This is an experience with which the farmer is very familiar, and he instinctively connects it with the interests and use the resale of wheat to help control the domestic market price against further advance.'

"The result of such policy, together with the manipulation of systems of grades and standards, has been to reduce materially the farmer's income and to deny him access to a free market, where he can secure actual cost of production. It has placed the city consumer in a position where he is treating bread produced by the labor of men, women, and children of the farms of this country when they have not been able to count their time as a proper charge in making up the cost sheet of production.

"We believe that city people should know that the annual labor income of the farmer, including that of his wife and children, as shown by the last Federal census, was only $318.22. They should know that owing to manipulation in administering the grades and standards, together with the damage done by hot weather to maturing crops, the Winter wheat producers are receiving as low as $1.35 per bushel for their wheat—not the $2.05 which Mr. Barnes gives as a theoretical average—and that this year's crop may average not over $1.50 per bushel net.

"What has been said in detail relative to the wheat situation applies in general to every farm product.

"Hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat have been shriveled by extreme heat this season, which, under the present grading and discount rules, may not average the producer $1.50 per bushel. Authoritative investigators have found such wheat to be of a highest milling value, and it is unthinkable that farmers should sustain a loss of from 50 to 75 cents per bushel by reason of the arbitrary standards that have been established. This wheat in large measure will go into the production of the best patent flours, and will be sold to the consuming public at prices based on No. 1 wheat. The producers are thereby defrauded and the consumers receive no benefit."

READY TO PUBLISH FAIR FOOD PRICES

Administrator Williams Names Committee to Meet Today and Fix Retail Rates.

ARMY FOOD COMING SOON

Meats Take Another Advance—Market Man Thinks Temporary Schedule Too High.

The first step in the "fair price list" campaign against food profiteers was taken locally yesterday when Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator for New York, appointed the committee which will determine fair prices here, which will be the basis for actions against those who attempt to exact undue profits. Those who will serve here are:

ALFRED E. MARLING, President, Chamber of Commerce, State of New York.
W. FELLOWES MORGAN, President, Merchants' Association of New York City.
OSCAR S. STRAUS, ex-Chairman, Public Service Commission.
MICHAEL FRIEDSAM, President, B. Altman & Co.
Mrs. JAMES LEES LAIDLAW, Woman Suffrage Party.
Mrs. HENRY MOSKOWITZ, Secretary, Reconstruction Commission.
Mrs. CHARLES C. RUMSEY, Chairman, Committee on Co-ordination of Community Councils.
Mrs. SARA CONBOY, Secretary-Treasurer, United Textile Workers.
HUGH FRAYNE, American Federation of Labor.
JONATHAN C. DAY, Commissioner of Markets, New York City.
THEODORE F. WHITMARSH, Vice President, Francis H. Leggett & Co.
W. WRIGHTSON, assistant to the President, Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company.
EDWARD H. FLASK, Jr., President, New York Produce Exchange.
PETER H. ALNOR, President, New York Retail Grocers' Association.
F. C. HENDERSCHOTT, Executive Secretary.
Voluntary Counsel—ALAN FOX of Trowbridge & Fox, and SAMUEL A. BERGER, Deputy Attorney General.

The committee will meet today at 4 o'clock at 65 Liberty Street for organization. "We will establish headquarters," said Mr. Williams yesterday, "where we shall receive complaints and from which they will be investigated, but the big work will be to establish fair prices and keep them before the public. I shall suggest that a sub-committee seek the co-operation of food organizations in abiding by the margins, and that through this committee unfair prices be reported back."

Notwithstanding efforts to bring down the cost of food, the Federal Bureau of Markets reported that yesterday beef went up a cent a pound; veal 1 to 2 cents, and lamb 1 to 2 cents.

With regard to the profit margins permitted by the Food Administration; an official of the Bureau of Markets said he considered them entirely too high, and that out-of-town dealers would be overwhelmed with such profits. He thought those margins might be all right for the very small dealer with large "overhead," but for large dealers the margin was entirely too great.

The margins which the Food Administration recommends temporarily, based on wholesale prices of yesterday, fot ow:

FUNDS ASKED IN FOOD FIGHT

Wilson Backs Application for $175,000 for Secret Service.

URGE RENEWAL OF POWERS

FESS CALLS FOR ECONOMY

Heavy Penalties for Profiteering Provided in Bill Proposed by Representative Gard.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. — President Wilson has decided that the Secret Service men of the Treasury Department should be used in running down profiteers. In a letter approved by the President, Carter Glass, Secretary of the Treasury, today asked Speaker Gillett for legislation which will allow the use of these detectives "as soon as possible."

The request puts squarely up to the Republican House leaders the question whether they will consent to making an appropriation of $175,000 and altering the action by which they struck a clause from the Sundry Civil bill depriving the Food Administration of the services of the Secret Service men. Democrats said today that they did not see how the Republicans could refuse, as the subject of the high cost of living is now paramount and affects every one.

The Federal Trade Commission sent a message to Congress saying that it would require an appropriation of $500,000 in order to proceed with the detection of profiteering. This is the first of the estimates of sums which the President said in his message last week would be needed by various departments for the task.

Acting Secretary Moyle of the Treasury submitted the estimate from Victor Murdock of the commission with the explanation that it was for these purposes:

"For all expenses necessary in connection with the collection of information as may be directed by the President of the United States or Congress, or within the scope of its powers, regarding the production, ownership, manufacture, storage, and distribution of foodstuffs or other necessities and the products or by-products arising from or in connection with the manufacture or preparation thereof; together with figures of cost and wholesale and retail prices, said amount to remain available until expended."

Fess Proposes Economy Program.

Further steps were taken today in the House affecting the question of living costs. Representative Fess of Ohio, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, in a speech to that body, laid down nine directions which he thought should be followed in the campaign against high prices and profiteering. Representative Garner of Texas, Democrat, forced Mr. Fess to admit that he was opposed to the recent suggestions of President Wilson on trying to reduce the cost of living.

A measure by Representative Gard of Ohio, Democrat, intended to check profiteering in all necessities of life, including food, clothing, fuel and feed, was introduced in the House.

Senator McKellar, appearing before the House Agricultural Committee, accused the packers of controlling the cold storage industry, and spoke in behalf of his bill regulating frozen products.

Representative Goodykoontz of West Virginia, Republican, asked the House Judiciary Committee to bring out anti-profiteering measures immediately, without reference to other committees.

Letter of Secretary Glass.

The letter which Secretary Glass wrote to Speaker Gillett, and which bore the words "approved, Woodrow Wilson," was as follows:

"The co-operation of the Secret Service of this Department (Treasury) has been asked in the campaign against food hoarders and profiteers, because these Secret Service agents were employed as the investigating force in co-operation with the Food Administration during the fiscal years 1918 and 1919, and are, therefore, especially well equipped to render valuable service.

"This aid cannot be extended in the present emergency because the clause authorizing the President to direct, without reference to existing limitations, the use of Secret Service agents, if in his judgment an emergency requires such action, and which was incorporated in the sundry civil acts of 1918 and 1919 under the caption, "Suppressing Counterfeiting and Other Crimes," was omitted from the act of the current year, and for the additional reason that the appropriation which sustains the field operations of the service is inadequate.

"I therefore beg to amend the estimate of a deficiency in the appropriation for the service submitted with my letter of July 28, 1919, by increasing the amount asked for to $175,000 and the inclusion of the clause above referred to, as follows:

"Provided, further, that until June 30, 1920, the President is authorized to direct, without reference to existing limitation, the use of persons employed hereunder, if in his judgment an emergency exists, which requires such action.

"It is respectfully urged that this request receive immediate attention in order that the service of these agents may become available as soon as possible."

Rules Urged by Fess.

The rules which Mr. Fess urged the Government should adopt were:

"1. Take immediate steps to increase the purchasing power of the dollar.

"2. Control the export of foodstuffs even to the point of an embargo, if necessary.

"3. Get out of Europe, bag and baggage, as soon as possible.

"4. Dismantle immediately the war machine and repeal the war emergency legislation so as to get back to a peace basis.

"5. Eliminate every item of waste, cut off every unnecessary agency induced by the war, and reduce the national payroll to pre-war times as soon as possible.

"6. Dispose of the vast stores of war materials both in Europe and this country on the best salvage basis, and to the best advantage of the public at large, by opening sales direct with the public.

"7. Inaugurate a campaign of 'work and saving' against the baneful extravagance so widely prevalent.

"8. The Government must get out of business at the earliest possible day, but, if necessary, exercise a regulatory control of transportation under private enterprise, that economy and efficiency may be assured without the danger of advantage being taken of the public.

"9. All profiteering must be punished to the limit."

Says Laws Are Not Enforced.

Mr. Fess said that "whenever it appears that more power should be granted to the President, it will be granted immediately." Admitting that Mr. Wilson "struck a popular chord" when he laid the high cost of living to profiteering, Mr. Fess denied that there was not now sufficient power under the Food Control act.

"The only thing necessary," he said, "is for the President to use the authority he now has to enforce the law. The activities now observed of the various departments, including that of the Department of Justice, clearly show that the failure is not want of law, but lack of enforcement incident to an itinerary Government too much engaged in European duties to look after American affairs."

Defending his assertion that Governmental wage increases, as the "chief item in cost of production," and the inflation of the currency were the two fundamental causes of exaggerated prices, Mr. Fess said:

"The country suddenly went to a war basis. It called labor in great masses at unheard of wages into building cantonments, aviation fields, munition plants, shipyards, and numerous other activities. It drained all the country of its labor.

"The peace industries which were not closed were compelled to meet the Government in its competition for labor. This was done and the Government's scale of wages became the general scale, and the additional cost was passed on to the public. It is well known that the Government doubled or trebled wages, fixed eight hours for a day, with time and a half for overtime, paid transportation for its labor, including time en route, and in many cases built houses for its labor."

Tells of Currency Inflation.

According to a report of the American Economic Association, submitted by Mr. Fess, the inflation in the currency since 1915 amounted to 60 per cent. and in the country's money stock more than 50 per cent. This inflation, together with that in deposit currency, he said, "explains the abnormal prices for everything purchased and measured in this inflated period."

"It is as bad," he said, "as it was in the greenback period following the civil war."

Referring to the effect of the export demands for American raw materials, including food, and the demand of Europe for more money with which to pay for these supplies, Mr. Fess exclaimed:

"The remedy here is to force Europe to work. War has had the effect to induce idleness, as may be seen today in France and Belgium and elsewhere. Already can be read placards all over Paris, 'To work? To work?'

"The sooner we are out of Europe, the better it will be for both Europe and America. This is the testimony of every soldier boy returning and of every member of Congress who has given an opinion upon the relation between us and Europe."

The bill introduced by Representative Card, was described by him as a "necessaries control act." The term "necessary" is defined in the bill as covering food, feed, fuel, wearing apparel and all other commodities necessary for life. The bill fixes punishments for hoarding, excepting legitimate transactions on grain exchanges and accumulations by farmers or gardeners. It provides for the punishment of all efforts at unreasonable restriction of supply, the creation of monopolies and selling at unreasonable profit by a penalty of not more than $10,000 fine, or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both.

Heavy penalties are provided for conspiracy to aid in profiteering, hoarding, or other practices declared illegal by the bill.

PRICES FALL IN CHICAGO.

Combined Efforts Against Profiteering Show Results.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Concerted attacks by Federal, State and municipal officials on the high cost of living resulted today in lower prices of many articles of produce to Chicago consumers. It was the first definite benefit from the attacks on food profiteers and hoarders. With the decrease in wholesale and retail prices there came a substantial increase in receipts of various articles of food. It was said that producers were rushing shipments to the Chicago market in fear of further reduction of prices in the near future and large quantities of supplies were being taken out of cold storage warehouses and offered for sale.

Yesterday the first sale of army canned goods at two downtown department stores resulted in the disposal of 60,000 cans of corn and peas at a saving of 50 per cent. over the current retail price. To meet this competition there was a general reduction of prices by retailers.

The prevailing retail price for sugar was 12 and 13 cents a pound in a majority of stores after the Federal Food Administration officials had declared that 12 cents was a fair price. A few days ago sugar sold as high as 16 cents a pound. Potatoes today dropped $1 per 100 pounds in retail price and there was a corresponding reduction in nearly all vegetables and fruits.

The price of peaches tumbled after the receipt of eighty cars from Southern Illinois, Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas, and California.

PREDICTS CHEAPER SHOES.

But Prices Won't Drop for a Year, Say Makers.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—Predictions of a decided drop in the price of shoes were made today by leather dealers and shoe manufacurers who testified today at the Grand Jury investigation of the high cost of living conducted by District Attorney Pelletier. The consensus of opinion, however, was that the decline might not come for another year.

Witnesses said that the people demanded a high grade of shoes and were willing to pay for them. One leather firm, it was testified, had millions of dollars' worth of cheaper grades of sole leather on hand which manufacturers would not buy because it did not come up to the standard demanded by purchases of shoes.

The District Attorney's office said one man called as a witness, representing a large leather house, declined to testify on the ground that his evidence might tend to incriminate him.

Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers questioned all asserted, it was said, that the margin of profit on high grade shoes was no greater today than that received when shoes were selling at a much lower price.

PARIS RAIL DELAYS RAISE FOOD PRICES

Consumers' League Leader Finds Them More Baneful Than Profiteering.

STRIKES A BIG FACTOR, TOO

Giraud Says in This Crisis They Are "A Crime Against the Whole Nation."

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—"By the end of the month there will be consumers' leagues in every ward of the city," said Henri Giraud, one of the most active members of the 18th Montmartre District League, the first formed here. "Already more than half a dozen districts have followed our example, and the results have been most satisfactory.

"Yesterday we instituted a novelty on the lines of the Noulens list system by visiting the central markets the first thing in the morning and getting a thorough knowledge of the average wholesale prices. Armed with this we made a comprehensive tour of our ward, and wherever we found retail prices more than 20 per cent. higher—that is a fair margin for overhead cost and profit—we insisted on their reduction. You know it is the dealers in small shops and popular markets and on street barrows that are the worst offenders in profiteering. Their profits are often from 75 to 100 per cent.

"As a result of the war—especially owing to the huge numbers of foreign soldiers who used to clean up the markets at any price—the good old French custom of bargaining if prices seemed exorbitant has vanished. We are out to restore it, and we are succeeding. The wartime scarcity has brought about a general determination on the part of purchasers to get what they want at all costs. The higher prices were the more it seemed to them that a commodity was scarce, and the greater was the desire to acquire it. We will end all that by a campaign of popular education.

"At present our league is not recognized officially because it is neither a syndicate nor a co-operative organization; but we are taking steps to remedy that and group the leagues of all the wards, and of the provincial districts also, into a big organization, to undertake a national campaign concurrently with the efforts of the Food Ministry to reduce prices."

When asked whether he agreed with the view of Joseph Noulens, the Food Minister, that transportation delays were largely responsible for high prices

"I should think so! Why, yesterday a poultry train from the famous chicken-rearing district of Bresse did not reach Paris till nearly noon—far too late for sale at the central markets. Crates of fowls, plucked and drawn, ready for cooking, were lying all afternoon on the station platforms in the blazing sun, when the temperature was 90 degrees in the shade. How much of that consignment will be fit for consumption today? The same thing happened with a trainload of skinned rabbits, and at the fish market they say the average loss in this manner is over 25 per cent. on the week's arrivals. Such a state of affairs is scandalous, and our league has drawn up a report which will be sent to the official responsible for it.

"At present it is difficult to shake these people out of their phlegmatic indifference, but as we grow stronger we shall bring every available pressure to bear, and we shall spare none. Minister Noulens shows every willingness to help us and has declared that he will act with the utmost severity where negligence is incontestably shown. In this country, as in America, there is a great outcry against profiteering, but what we want the public to understand is that carelessness and lack of organization on the part of the transport people does more to increase prices than profiteering. The same thing applies to strikes. We belong to the proletariat, and we are going to show organized labor that by upsetting transport at present it is committing a crime against the whole nation."

SAYS BRITISH UNREST IS DUE TO PROFITEERS

Sir Auckland Geddes Puts Bill Against Them Through the Second Reading.

LONDON, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—The House of Commons, after hearing Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister for National Service and Reconstruction, who declared that profiteering in foodstuffs was responsible for social unrest and discontent, passed tonight on second reading the Government bill providing for prosecution and penalties for persons guilty of profiteering. The bill was supported on second reading by the Labor Party, and the vote on passage was 251 to 8.

Sir Auckland, who is in charge of the bill for the Government, said the measure would have a bad effect upon profiteering. The Minister said that a manufacturer in Northern England had told him he was "ashamed" of the profits he was making. He added that shoes which sold at wholesale at from 15 to 25 shillings retailed at from 50 to 60 shillings. The bill is now in the hands of a committee of the whole House preparatory to bringing it up on final passage.

Sir Auckland explained that the Government had rejected the idea of internal control of trade and also the idea suggested in America of stamping goods with factory prices and establishing a system for fixing prices. He admitted that the Government had no alternative but to confess it was powerless under the laws as they stood at present.

Sir Auckland declared that the pending bill had not been hastily introduced, but had been long and carefully considered.

The profiteering bill before the House of Commons provides for the establishment of a central authority to deal with those speculating in the necessities of life. Local and county tribunals would be associated with the central authority. These tribunals would be empowered to inflict penalties up to £200 or six months' imprisonment. The bill would apply to England, Scotland, and Wales, but not to Ireland.

GOVERNOR DELEGATES POWER.

J. P. Finley and Martin H. Glynn Named as Food Investigators.

ALBANY, Aug. 12.—The powers of inquiry and recommendation vested in Governor Smith under the terms of the Moreland Act will be delegated to John P. Finley, State Commissioner of Education, and former Governor Martin H. Glynn, who recently were appointed by the Governor to investigate the causes of the present cost of living and to suggest remedies therefor, the Governor announced today.

The Governor's announcement, it was explained, means that Messrs. Finley and Glynn will be empowered to investigate the State Department of Foods and Markets and the State Council of Farms and Markets, and may, in addition, recommend that these departments proceed against food profiteers.

The statute creating the Council of Farms and Markets provided that the Council might fix the margin of profit to dealers in foodstuffs. It is stated, however, that although the Council has this authority, it has not the machinery or funds with which to enforce the provision.

Governor Smith and Messrs. Finley and Glynn will meet in New York tomorrow to determine on their procedure.

The Governor today notified District Attorney Swann of New York that he would provide him with a special grand jury in connection with the prosecuting official's investigation of food profiteers. If it is legally possible the Governor will have the powers of the special grand jury now investigating Bolshevism enlarged so as to include a food inquiry. If this cannot be done the Executive will direct the empaneling of another special grand jury.

SALVAGE $5,000,000 AT RISK.

Admiralty Could Reach Sunken Laurentic Only in Calm Weather.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The salvage operations by the British Admiralty by which gold bullion worth over a million pounds sterling has been recovered from the sunken liner Laurentic, have only been possible in very calm weather as the wreck lies in an exposed position about four miles northeast of Fanad Light at the western side of the entrance to Lough Swilly.

The Laurentic, which was on active service as an auxiliary cruiser, was sunk by a mine late on Jan. 15, 1917.

SHOES WORRY ARMY POLICE

"Fraternizing" Frauleins No Longer Detected by War Footwear.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COBLENZ, Aug. 12.—Shoes are giving the American military authorities a new problem in the enforcement of the anti-fraternization rule.

Heretofore, ever since the American régime started on the Rhine, the most trustworthy method used by the military police in deciding whether or not a girl in civilian clothes with an American was a German was to glance at her feet. If she wore the awkward shoes and cotton stockings which were the best the German frauleins could get during the war, she was German, and the military police became busy. If the young woman had neat feet and silk stockings she was American, British, or French, and the couple were not molested.

However, merchants here have imported large quantities of French shoes, and the German girls, despite the high prices, have been buying them. Wherefore it has come to pass that by glancing at a girl's feet the M. P.'s can no longer tell whether the owner is or is not German.

The situation is further complicated by the fact that there are now large numbers of visitors daily in the American territory, and considerable numbers of young women attached to various bureaus of the Inter-Allied Rhineland Commission. These young women, having neat feet, are not verboten for Americans, whereas German girls with or without neat nether extremities are verboten.

When an M. P. goes up to an American Major in company with a young woman and desires to know if she is German, the Major and the young woman both get very irate if she is not German. The M. P. is thus liable for a rebuke by the Provost Marshal.

International complications have arisen over refusal by the M. P.'s to believe young women who said they were not German. French girls whose identity was suspected of being German appealed to the missions of their country.

The net result of the importation of French shoes and stockings has been to make the M. P.'s life a bad one. In this predicament he gets little sympathy, for most of the Americans believe it is about time to forget the anti-fraternization ban. However, the army command doesn't agree with this view, and in the meanwhile the M. P.'s are trying to figure out how to spot German girls without asking English or French girls if they are Teutonic.

BOLSHEVIKI SOLICIT TRADE

To be Sent Via Stockholm—Not Permitted, Says Lansing.

A statement sent out yesterday by L. C. A. K. Martens, the "Soviet Ambassador" whose "Embassy suite" was raided in June by the State Constabulary in a search for documents for examination by the Lusk Committee in its investigation of Bolshevism, said that the Russian Soviet Bureau here had been advised by the Bolshevist Government of Russia that it had large quantities of raw materials to be shipped to America. The statement reiterated a declaration by Martens that the Bolsheviki desired to buy $200,000,000 worth of goods in this country.

"We have just received a cable from the representative of the Russian Soviet Republic in Stockholm, advising us to ship merchandise immediately," said the statement.

"Mr. Strem, the Soviet representative in Stockholm, states in this cable that he is authorized by the Moscow Government to guarantee payment for such merchandise in Petrograd, and to issue the proper permits for importation into Russia. Mr. Strem also states that he is making arrangements for the establishing of a gold credit in Stockholm for us to draw upon.

"Initial orders have been received by this bureau from Moscow for purchases amounting to $15,000,000 for railway material and equipment; $30,000,000 for agricultural implements and tractors; $10,000,000 for machinery and machine tools; $5,000,000 for hardware and metals; $30,000,000 for boots and shoes; $20,000,000 for textiles, dry goods, &c.; $5,000,000 for paper, rubber, &c.; $25,000,000 for cotton, and $25,000,000 for foodstuffs."

In a statement in May, Martens said the gold had been set aside by the "Foreign Imports Committee of the Supreme Council of National Economy of the Soviet Government." His list of the wants of the Bolsheviki was similar to the later announcement, although his proffer of raw material for export is new.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Secretary of State Lansing tonight told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that no arrangements have been made to permit any trade whatever between the United States and Bolshevist Russia. Mr. Lansing's attention was called to the statement issued by the unrecognized Bolshevist trade bureau in New York, that the Soviet Government in Russia authorized it to offer to America a quantity of raw materials now ready for shipment. While the blockade against trade with the Central Powers has been raised, no steps have been taken by the Government toward a resumption of trade with Bolshevist Russia.

URGES MORE POWER FOR FOOD OFFICIALS

State Commission Makes Additional Report on Distribution to the Governor.

WOULD STRENGTHEN LAWS

Recommends Changes in Cold Storage and Weights and Measures Statutes.

The New York State Reconstruction Commission, in the second installment of its report on food distribution to Governor Smith yesterday, urged increased powers for the State Department of Foods and Markets so that defects in the laws governing cold storage, weights and measures, and the standard grading of farm products might be remedied.

The commission said these changes were necessary for the "protection of the consuming public from gross exploitation in the purchase of foods," for the establishment of better prices for the producer, and for the elimination of loss and waste.

Some alleged abuses which the commission would eliminate by strengthening of the weights and measures laws are: Including in the price of live chickens the weight of the feathers; charging for the container of certain products at the same rate as the product itself; undergrading of produce, and the sale of "nonkosher" meat as "kosher."

It is estimated from studies by the New York Federal Food Board that, through the sale of meat in wrappers, the retail butchers of New York are being short-weighted $766,000 a year. By the sale of "nonkosher" meat as "kosher," it is estimated the public is being overcharged $2,426,000 a year. Forty per cent. of the Jewish butchers in the city, it is said, indulge in this practice.

The commission asks that the cold storage law be amended to apply to all private cold storage warehouses, as well as public cold storage warehouses. Broader powers are asked for the Commissioner of Foods and Markets in rulings on the question of "marking" cold storage foods. It is asserted that provision should be made for the disposal of foods which have been in storage more than twelve months, the limit prescribed by the law. The State Legislature is asked, also, to enact the uniform cold storage law being advocated for other States.

Mulcted Thousands a Week.

Investigations by the Federal Food Board, the State Food Commission, and the State Reconstruction Commission have brought out that malpractices in the retail sale of food are costing the people thousands of dollars a week. Information collected indicates extensive violations of the law by retail stores and wholesalers.

"Violators of the law," says the report, "may be fined from $10 to $250." For a second offense, a similar penalty may be imposed. This may go on indefinitely and the public will not know of the fact.

Referring to the effect of the sale of wrappers and containers at the price of the product the commission says:

"From the retailers' point of view this additional charge is included in the cost of the commodity. A paper-wrapped ham weighing ten pounds gross will weigh 9¾ pounds net. This ham cost the retailer, on a 38 cents a pound market, $3.80. He must sell the ham without the wrapper, so that it really costs him 39 cents a pound. The extra cost of the wrapper is passed on to the consumer.

"Test cases brought by the Department of Foods and Markets proved that the law was inadequate to compel the packers to sell their products minus the weight of the container.

According to the Federal Food Board there are 718 stores in the city which daily are violating the law against selling "non-kosher" meat.

"As the price of 'kosher' meat is much higher," continues the report, "the butchers who are selling 'non-kosher' meat as 'kosher' are realizing tremendous profits.

"The New York Federal Food Board figures show that 59 per cent. of the business of Jewish butcher shops is done in beef. At the time of this investigation, (April, 1917,) the difference in price between 'kosher' and 'non-kosher' beef was 6 cents a pound. The Federal Food Board showed that the butchers of the city who are selling 'non-kosher' meat as 'kosher' are overcharging $2,426,000 a year. This amount applies only to 'non-kosher' beef that is sold as 'kosher.' A large amount of 'non-kosher' veal and lamb also is sold as 'kosher,' and on this there is a considerable overcharge."

Urges Accurate Grading.

In the accurate grading of produce by the farmer the commission sees the elimination to a large extent of the waste and loss in handling at the city terminal, as the retailer then can be assured he is receiving what he has paid for. It is urged that the Food Department be empowered to make rules for the grading of farm produce. The result, the commission says, will be:

"Better prices to the consumer. Standardization of grades will bring better returns to the producer, because he will receive full value for his highest-grade products, and will not suffer losses due to mixing higher quality produce with inferior quality produce.

"Lower Transportation Costs.—Transportation charges are lowered by the elimination of goods of poor quality.

"Less Handling.—This is possible, for commodities graded to set standards can be sold by sample or description, thereby saving time, labor, and expense in marketing. Oranges, lemons, butter, grains, and other farm products are being sold thus by auction companies and produce exchanges.

"Less Lost and Waste.—Loss from decay by means of bruises and exposure, because of the presence of inferior or decayed products and excessive rehandling, will be reduced.

"Less Financial and Court Difficulties.—Disputes resulting in financial loss and litigation will be brought to a minimum, because the quality can be determined by Government inspection.

"Trading Basis.—Use of standard grades makes possible market quotations which may be used as a trading basis and which will facilitate the marketing of commodities."

Says Profiteers Mulct Prisons.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12.—"Profiteers have not overlooked a single item that is purchased by this institution. Whether it be carpet tacks, flour or clothing, their mark is apparent." This was the statement today of Warden John F. Leonard of the Maryland Penitentiary. "The high cost of living is being felt here as much as it is in private homes," continued the Warden. "The cost of feeding the prisoners daily has advanced to 21½ cents per man as against 12½ cents in pre-war days."

Says 12-Cent Sugar is Fair.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Henry C. Rolopp, in charge of the Federal Food Administration Sugar Bureau, today set 12 cents a pound as a fair price of the commodity to the consumer. He declared that any retail price in excess of this figure was "outrageous profiteering." For several weeks grocers have charged as high as 16 cents a pound.

HARBORD'S MISSION IS FOR PRESIDENT

General Will Report on Questions That Administering Armenia Would Involve.

PARIS, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—Major Gen. James G. Harbord, Chief of Staff of the American Expeditionary Forces, will leave Paris shortly at the head of the mission which is to visit Armenia and trans-Caucasia under instructions from President Wilson, transmitted through Frank L. Polk, Assistant Secretary of State, to investigate conditions there from a military viewpoint.

General Harbord's mission is distinct and apart from any other now in those countries. He will especially inquire into conditions in the new Armenian republic, and by personal investigation on the ground obtain complete information indicating what questions would be involved in taking over and administering that country.

He will also verify such existing information as there is regarding the Armenian republic and other Governments of trans-Caucasia.

ITALIAN TEST ON TREATY.

Chamber Meets on Aug. 28 to Pass on New Cabinet's Work.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Aug. 11.—Parliament will meet again on Aug. 28 to discuss the treaty of peace with Germany, perhaps also the treaty with Austria, in which case Tittoni will come back from Paris personally to illustrate the work of the Italian delegation at the Peace Conference.

The hope is expressed in governmental circles that a solution will be found of the Adriatic question, allowing the Nitti Cabinet to continue to maintain order in the country, which is especially necessary in the months coming, as immediately after the ratification of the Peace Treaty Parliament will be dissolved. General elections occur during October.

The present Chamber was elected in April, 1914, and would have expired according to the Constitution four years afterward, but owing to the war was prorogued to October next. Once the Chamber is dissolved the Government must have general elections and convoke a new Chamber within four months from the dissolution, so that if Nitti dissolves the Chamber next October he might not reassemble Parliament until February, 1920, but the Premier has declared he intends to have an election in October and reopen the Chamber as soon as possible.

The next general elections will be an interesting experiment with the bill just passed modifying the electoral law. According to the new rules, instead of each Deputy being elected by a constituency, each province elects a group of Deputies, not less than five, and also makes it compulsory that minority voters be represented. It is believed that the Socialists and Clericals will especially benefit by the new law.

BARS "GERMAN AUSTRIA."

Supreme Council Insists on the Name "the Republic of Austria."

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The Supreme Council of the Peace Conference, it was announced today, has advised the Austrian delegation that the allied and associated powers have decided that the new Austrian Government must be called the "Republic of Austria." This decision was taken as a result of notes from the Austrian delegation in which they referred to their Government as "German Austria."

These notes related to proposed changes in the Austrian peace treaty. In some cases the only alteration in the clauses was the change of the Austrian Government's name to "German Austria."

ST. GERMAIN, Aug. 12.—Dr. Karl Renner, Austrian Chancellor and head of the peace delegation, arrived here today from Vienna, to which he went after the Austrian counterproposals on the peace treaty were submitted to the Interallied Supreme Council. Dr. Renner brought with him Deputy Gurtler, Financial Councilor Luza, and two army officers.

SHANTUNG LIKE MANCHURIA.

Chinese Students Ask: "What is Sovereignty Minus Economic Rights?"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Retention by Japan of economic rights in the Shantung peninsula, the policy announced several days ago by the Japanese Foreign Office, would give the Tokio Government the same kind of control over the peninsula as it now possesses over South Manchuria, the Chinese Students' Patriotic Society said in a statement given out here today.

Commenting on Viscount Uchida's recent statement that "the policy of Japan is to hand back Shantung peninsula in full sovereignty to China, retaining only economic privileges," the society asserted:

"What is full sovereignty minus economic rights? What will be the consequences if Japan retains the so-called economic rights? Through the exercise of the economic rights, particularly the operation of the Kiao-Chau-Tsinan Railroad, together with the establishment of consular jurisdiction and the maintenance of railroad guards, Japan will secure the same kind of control over Shantung as she already has done in South Manchuria through the control of the South Manchurian Railroad."

of Government food by the city, but New York will get none of the army hams. The 150,000 pounds allotted to the city have been sold, as the demand elsewhere was insistent, while the city's order lagged.

Deputy Commissioner O'Malley said by telephone from Washington yesterday that he would arrive in New York this morning to hasten the selling organization so that the army food might be on sale on Monday, the 18th.

Commissioner Day yesterday gave to Capt. Stewart permission to sell from the city's allotment to any reputable concern employing one hundred or more persons for resale to employes at the Army price. He also announced that he had 5,000 cases of Winesap apples to sell from Army trucks at $3.95 a case. The trucks will follow routes to be announced today, and the sale will begin Friday morning.

Postmaster Burton of Brooklyn announced yesterday that the limit of weight for parcels or boxes containing food sold by the War Department had been fixed at 125 pounds. On all other parcels the legal weight limit is unchanged.

As a result of the recent appointment by the New York Federation of Labor of a committee to investigate and report to the convention of that body in Syracuse on Aug. 26 data obtained as to the cost of living, the first of a series of conferences was held yesterday in the rooms of the Merchants' Association in the Woolworth Building. Among those who took part in the discussion were Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company; Gerhard Dahl, Vice President of the General Electric Company; J. H. Gannon, Vice President of the Butterick Company, and John S. Pierce, Chairman of the Federation of Labor Committee.

ALL NATIONS SHARED IN LEAGUE COVENANT

Composite Plan Was First Drawn Up, Peace Adviser Tells Senate Committee.

ASKED ABOUT BOUNDARIES

And Whether Mexicans Might Not Take Possession of Strip of Our Territory—Hearing Rests.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee's open hearings on the Peace Treaty were concluded today for the time being with the examination of David Hunter Miller, recently special assistant to the State Department and technical adviser on international law to the American commission in Paris. The committee will devote itself to consideration of the Colombian treaty on Wednesday, no other witness on the Versailles treaty being in sight at this time, unless it is decided to ask Colonel E. M. House to come from Paris, a course strongly favored by some members.

Mr. Miller declared, at today's hearing, that the League of Nations Commission of the Peace Conference based its work upon a composite plan, drawn up by Mr. Miller and C. J. B. Hurst, a legal adviser to the British Foreign Office, from all the plans submitted, that is, from the American, British, French and Italian. Summing up the inquiry so far, Republican opposition committee members said tonight that they had obtained from the various witnesses these facts:

First—That the Shantung decision was peculiarly President Wilson's own.

Second—That the President and Colonel House made all decisions relative to the League of Nations, so far as the American mission was concerned.

Third—That Japan and the allies concealed from the United States all knowledge of their secret treaties regarding disposition of captured German possessions in China, until after the war had ended.

Fourth—That Great Britain intends to carry out her secret treaties, made during the war, just as though there were no League of Nations.

Fifth—That President Wilson is opposed to the United States accepting any share in Germany's reparation.

Sixth—That Germany's war bill is to be scaled down to within her ability to pay.

Seventh—That Article X of the League of Nations covenant was inserted in the very first American draft of a League plan, because President Wilson wished it.

Senators Wrangle Over Testimony.

Today's hearing was marked by the extreme bitterness of exchanges between Republican and Democratic Senators in wrangling over the handling of the witness. Senators Hitchcock and Swanson were constantly in conflict throughout the session with Senators Brandegee and Fall, who, the Democrats asserted, refused to allow Mr. Miller to answer questions fully.

Mr. Miller stated at the outset that he was a member of the law firm of Miller & Auchincloss of New York, his partner being Gordon Auchinchloss, Colonel House's son-in-law. About a year before the armistice, Mr. Miller said, he was appointed to assist Dr. James Brown Scott at the State Department in legal matters preparatory to peace negotiations.

He said he had no part in drafting the American plan for a League covenant, which President Wilson yesterday submitted to the committee.

"I submitted a memorandum on the League plan to Colonel House before we reached Paris," said Mr. Miller. "Later, with Dr. Scott, I submitted another memorandum."

"Where, then, did the American draft come from?" asked Senator Lodge.

"I suppose it came from President Wilson," was the reply.

Mr. Miller said he had discussed the American plan with Colonel House, and when asked what eventually became of it he said he thought it was submitted to the various members of the commission on the League of Nations. He attended all meetings of this commission, Mr. Miller said, as a technical adviser.

"What became of all the plans submitted to that Commission?" asked Senator Lodge. "The President told us at the White House that the British plan prepared by General Smuts was adopted as the foundation for discussion. Is that the fact?"

"No," replied Mr. Miller. "The plan that was taken as the basis of discussion was not the British plan. It was a combination of various features of various plans."

"Was the Smuts plan more generally followed than any other?" asked Senator McCumber.

"As I said, the basis for discussion was a composite, and not the Smuts plan alone," said Mr. Miller. "The draft submitted had in it some of the Smuts plan, and it also contains some features of the 30 peace treaties negotiated by former Secretary of State Bryan."

Mr. Miller said the covenant's provisions for a "cooling off" period, before nations resorted to war, also by inquiry and negotiation, were comparable to provisions in the Bryan treaties.

"Did the Bryan treaties then establish a league of nations?" asked Senator Lodge.

"They did not," said the witness.

Senator Brandegee asked whether Mr. Miller knew of a plan for a league reported to have been drawn and presented to President Wilson by two New York lawyers. Mr. Miller said he had never heard of such a plan.

"Was Article X. in its present form in any of the so-called American plans as presented?" asked Senator Brandegee.

"Not in its present form," replied Mr. Miller.

"Was its substance—our guarantee of the territorial integrity and political independence of other nations in any of the American drafts?"

American Plan and Article X.

Senator Lodge at this point read Article III. of the American plan as submitted by President Wilson. The language is very nearly that of the first sentence of Article X. in the proposed covenant.

"There is considerable difference," said Mr. Miller, "in the phraseology of Article III. of the American plan and Article X. of the final draft. As you see, the word 'existing' has been added in Article X. as applying to territorial integrity and political independence."

Mr. Brandegee then inquired whether the obligation to guarantee and protect territorial lines would begin when the United States had ratified the treaty. Mr. Miller said he thought the language meant the territorial lines as they existed on June 28, the day the treaty was signed.

"Will the League of Nations in the future be able to change boundaries, under the authority of Article XIX., which gives the League the right to revise treaties and recommend the alteration of international conditions every so often?" asked Senator Brandegee.

"The League cannot change boundaries in the future," said Mr. Miller. "If some territorial condition should menace the world's peace, the League could recommend a change in boundaries, if it saw fit; but it could do no more than that."

"Was there any debate on the League of Nations in the plenary session last February, which adopted the first draft?" asked Mr. Brandegee.

"There were some prepared speeches," said Mr. Miller.

"Oh, yes, I know there was canned oratory, but was anybody asking anybody else questions about the various provisions?"

"No," said the witness.

Senator Harding harked back to the question of the League power in the future to change boundary lines.

"You understand that the League has authority to change boundaries in the future?" he asked.

"Well, it has the authority to decide what shall be done on plebiscites taken to determine boundary lines," said Mr. Miller.

"Suppose the solution of the Near Eastern problem should prove unsatisfactory two years hence, could the League change territorial lines?"

"It could if it was agreed in some treaty—this one or perhaps that with Austria, Bulgaria or Turkey—that it might do so."

"Suppose," continued Mr. Harding, "that the disposition of Thrace should prove a menace to peace, has the League authority to alter the decision or award?"

"No," replied Mr. Miller, "not unless there is some specific provision in some treaty for that. In that case it probably would be in the Bulgarian treaty."

Senators Harding and Brandegee pursued the same line of inquiry for some time in an effort to have Mr. Miller say whether in the future the League could decide that a portion of American territory, such as the Virgin Islands, should change hands for the world's good.

The witness, however, maintained that all the League could do in that regard was to recommend changes in the interest of peace, and that if the nations declined to accept them, then there was no force behind them except public opinion.

Mr. Miller promised Senator Moses to try to get from the State Department files a copy of the draft made by him and Mr. Hurst.

Senator Fall inquired what would happen if the United States and Mexico should get into a dispute about territory, and arbitrators or the League Council should make a decision adverse to the United States, which Mexico accepted but the United States rejected.

"What would happen," he said, "if Mexico, acting under the award, or decision, should move into the territory, hoist her flag, and install her civil, if not her military, officials to govern it?"

"That would constitute an invasion of the United States," said Mr. Miller.

"And could we resist it by force of arms?" asked Senator Fall.

"Yes," said Mr. Miller.

He explained that in such a case the boundary dispute simply would not be settled by the council's decision, and that all the United States would have to do to keep from drawing on its heavy penalties from the League would be to refrain from starting war on Mexico. If Mexico should begin the war, he said, there was nothing in the covenant to prohibit the United States from defending its territory.

"If the United States should refuse to ratify the treaty, would the state of war with Germany continue?" asked Senator Fall.

"It would," replied the witness.

Mr. Brandegee then inquired concerning the Mr. Hurst who helped Mr. Miller draw up the working draft of the League. Mr. Miller said he did not know who Mr. Hurst was, except that he was attached to the British Foreign Office.

"Do you know whether he is known throughout England as a pacifist?" asked Senator Brandegee.

"No."

"Or that he advocated a peace without victory in writing for a British journal called Common Sense?"

"No."

"Or that he was suspected of being pro-German?"

"No."

[Francis W. Hirst was the founder and editor of the British journal called Common Sense. He was for many years editor of The London Economist. Cecil J. B. Hurst was appointed assistant legal adviser to the British Foreign Office in 1902.]

After an hour's questioning to get Mr. Miller's opinion on the question whether British dominions would be allowed to vote in any dispute between Great Britain and the United States which was referred to the Assembly, the witness said that "there is very grave doubt" whether the British dominions could vote or not.

"If this question is in doubt, so that we don't know whether in a case where the United States, as a disputant, is excluded from voting, British dominions will have five or six votes, now is a good time to settle the doubt," said Senator Brandegee.

WANTS PALMER CONFIRMED.

Senate Sub-Committee's Recommendations Expected to be Followed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Confirmation by the Senate of the nomination of A. Mitchell Palmer to be Attorney General was recommended in a unanimous report today by the Senate Judiciary Sub-committee, which has been holding hearings on the appointment. Chairman Dillingham said he believed the full committee would approve the recommendation. Favorable action by the Senate also is expected.

Opposition to Mr. Palmer, based principally upon his administration as Alien Property Custodian, developed several weeks ago when Senator Frelinghuysen, Republican, of New Jersey, presented statements to the sub-committee bearing upon the Alien Property Custodian's activities. Several witnesses in opposition to Mr. Palmer were heard by the sub-committee, and the Attorney General personally defended his record.

FIRST QUITS RHINE FRIDAY.

After Aug. 20 Only Permanent Force Will Remain.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COBLENZ, Aug. 12.—The last of the 3d Division left the Rhine yesterday on their way home and the movement of the 1st Division begins Friday, and they will be all on their way by the 20th. This leaves on the Rhine some 7,000 American troops, forming the permanent occupation force.

It is now announced that our troops will occupy the city of Coblenz and a slice of the bridgehead eastward, including Ehrenbreitstein and Montabaur. This plan was insisted on by General Pershing despite the opposition of French Army officers, who contended that inasmuch as the Americans were keeping such a small force on the Rhine they should be satisfied with holding a small town, Remagen being suggested. Pershing held out for Coblenz, with the Stars and Stripes over the Ehrenbreitstein fortress, and got what he asked for.

French troops are beginning to move into the rest of the territory formerly held by the American Army of Occupation. Within a short time the small American force will be surrounded on all sides by French, who will have headquarters at Trier, Andernach, and Newwet.

DENIES HOTELS ARE HIT.

Anti-Saloon League Replies to Charges Made by Wets.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The threatened increase of $500,000,000 per year for hotel expenses under national prohibition, announced by the Anti-Prohibition Association, is not justified, in the opinion of Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel for the Anti-Saloon League.

"The cost of all things has increased," said Mr. Wheeler, "and hotel expenses have been no exception. The hotels conducted in 90 per cent. of the territory of the United States under prohibition do not suffer in comparison of rates or service with the hotels in wet cities. Some of the best hotels in the nation in wet cities refuse to serve liquors, and have held their share of the trade.

"The Penn-Harris Hotel, at Harrisburg; the Chalfonte, at Atlantic City, and hundreds of others prove that beer is not essential to success in the hotel business. The day has gone when the average guest at a hotel picks his hostelry for a debauch instead of legitimate hotel service. A hotel which bases its income on the theory that an intoxicated guest will spend more for cabaret dinners and extravagant tips, is on an unsound basis. If hotelkeepers must first intoxicate their guests in order to rob them, it will be a good thing for them to have to change that policy."

CROWDER BACK FROM CUBA.

Judge Advocate General Won Thanks for Helping Revise Laws.

Maj. Gen. Enoch Crowder, Judge Advocate General of the army, who at the request of the Cuban Government went there several months ago to help formulate new election laws, returned home yesterday on the cruiser Cuba, which the republic assigned to bring him back. The cruiser also brought Dr. Luis Baralt, Minister to Peru, and Dr. Mariano Bruil, also in the diplomatic service, appointed by their Government to receive the body of Gonzales de Quesada, Minister to Germany, who died in Berlin just before the world war and whose body is being brought home on the Nieuw Amsterdam.

General Crowder said that practically the entire election law had been rewritten and, in addition to this, he and his Cuban associates had drafted a new census law and a statute limiting Executive pardons. They also revised the organic law of the judiciary, he said.

"Under the new system the execution of the new election laws is largely in the hands of the judiciary," General Crowder said.

General Crowder praised the Cubans for the co-operation he said they gave in helping him solve their vexing question of election laws. He brought with him a copy of a resolution passed by the Cuban Congress thanking him in the name of the republic for his work.

Artillery Men Form a Post.

Former members of the 104th Field Artillery of the 27th Division at a meeting held in the 1st Field Artillery Armory, 1,988 Broadway, have formed the Theodore F. Mead Post of the American Legion, named after Captain Theodore F. Mead, who was killed in action with that organization in the Meuse-Argonne drive last October. The post has received its charter and now wishes to hear from all former members of the 104th and of the 1st New York Field Artillery, New York Guard, who will join. Headquarters are at the Armory.

DEMANDS INQUIRY INTO RAILROADS

Federal Administration Under Influence of Wall Street, Says Plumb.

ASSERTS HE HAS PROOFS

Government Funds Spent to Rehabilitate Roads, Says Author of Nationalization Scheme.

PLAN WOULD ALLOW STRIKES

Garretson Tells House Committee Right to Walk Out Is Given to Every Employe.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Demand was made this afternoon by Glenn E. Plumb that the House Interstate Commerce Committee investigate a general charge he made that the Morgan, Rockefeller, and Gould interests were conducting a political conspiracy that would wreck the railway systems of the country. This charge was embodied in a statement which Plumb made to the committee, following his recent promise that he would reveal "secret" evidence.

The statement alleged that enormous land grants had been given to the railroads in the past and that during the period of Government ownership the "men under the influence of Wall Street" had been spending "huge sums" of Government money to rehabilitate the systems, in anticipation of a return to private ownership. Charges were made of great dividends declared on watered stock. Mr. Plumb asserted that the course of the railway managements was the "last desperate and suicidal acts of feudalism" and that the "sole purpose of continuing the present system" was to increase the cost of living. In behalf of the 2,000,000 railroad workers he represented as counsel, he said he took the stand of "implacable defiance" against a return to private ownership.

The committee, through Chairman Esch, gave no indication of a future investigation, one way or the other. Mr. Plumb said that he and his group either had the evidence necessary to prove his allegations or "knew where it could be obtained," indicating that it could be subpoenaed in the form of the books of the railroads.

Mr. Plumb and A. B. Garretson, former President of the Order of Railway Conductors, completed their testimony today, closing the case for the railroad unions. Both were outwardly sanguine over the success of the Plumb plan. Mr. Garretson said if it were submitted to a popular referendum at this time that "the majority of the conservatives who are suspicious of its new feature," might now vote against it, but that in the immediate future, it would ultimately succeed. Mr. Plumb said public sentiment was impressing Congress, and "trebling" each day.

The right to strike, even under the Plumb plan, was reserved by Garretson in emphatic terms. Representative Webster of Washington, Republican, commented that if there were ten railroad men on the Board of Directors and only five appointed by the President, labor should have such confidence in the railway men that an anti-strike provision might be inserted in the proposed law.

"Organized labor" said Garretson, "has no intention to abandon the one weapon it has used to get what it has."

The Plumb Statement.

The statement read this afternoon to the committee by Mr. Plumb follows:

"I have shown by excerpts from reports by the Interstate Commerce Commission that the property investment accounts of the railway lines in all of the transportation districts of the United States are wholly unreliable and cannot be used as the basis for determining what the public shall pay for service.

"I have shown that in the five railway valuations first completed and published by the Interstate Commerce Commission the actual cost of reconstruction including the increased value of lands and real estate, is but 50 per cent. of the aggregate property investment accounts of the five railways so valued.

"I charge that the nearly completed survey of the entire transportation area of the United States contained in the reports of the Valuation Division of the Interstate Commerce Commission, so far as that work has now progressed, confirms the results disclosed by the valuation of these five roads. I charge that the aggregate investment account, as stated by the carriers so examined, exceeds the estimated cost of reproduction now by the same or approximately the same percentage shown in the valuation of the five railroads, as shown in my testimony.

"I charge that in such investigations so made by the Valuation Division of the Interstate Commerce Commission, where the cost of reproduction new approximates in amount the investment account as stated by the carrier, it will be found in most instances that this approximation is due to the fact that vast expenditures have been made out of surplus and excessive earnings, after the payment of ample dividends on the actual investment, that these surplus earnings have been expended on or plowed into the property in such way that the actual cash investment, including these surplus earnings, has brought the level of cost of reproduction new up to the property investment account.

"I charge that President Underwood of the Erie Railroad, in an interview recently given to The New York World, stated that the expense of operation under Government control had been greatly increased by the employment for political purposes of unnecessary employes, and that this increase in payroll expense had been made for the purpose of building a political machine. I charge that investigation of President Underwood's indictment will disclose that if there has been wastefulness of money in swelling the payrolls, it has been at the instance of railway managements to make the expense account under Government control appear extravagant and wasteful.

"I charge that at the time the Government took control of the operation of the railroads they were in such depleted condition as to maintenance and repairs of both roadbed and rolling stock that it has required hundreds of millions of dollars, advanced by the Government, to place them in effective operating condition. I charge that in the making of such expenditures the railroads, operated and controlled by men under the influence of Wall Street directorates, have spent vast sums in unusual expenditures for maintenance and supplies, anticipating the return of the railroads to the private owners; that such unusual expenditures have been made for the purpose of placing these properties in perfect operating condition and furnishing them with supplies for a long period of operation ahead, such supplies having been paid for out of Government money at exorbitant prices.

"I charge that the Interstate Commerce Commission was six years ago directed by Congress in the provisions of the Valuation act to ascertain and report the value of all aids, gifts, and grants made to railway corporations, the value of those grants at the time made, and the value of the portions of the grants still in the possession of the carriers at the time of valuation. This work has not been done.

Grants to Railroads.

"I charge that the records disclose that an area of land exceeding 190,000,000 acres or 296,875 square miles, has been given by the United States Government and by the various State Governments to our railroads to aid in the construction of our national highways; that this area exceeds in extent the areas of all of the New England States, New York, Delaware, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, and exceeds the area of either England, France, Germany, or Austria-Hungary before the war; that of the grants made 113,000,000 acres had been patented and 35,000,000 acres had been forfeited prior to June 30, 1910, and that of the remainder the greater part is still available. I charge that the values of the grants so made have either been appropriated to the private property of the railway promoters or they have been capitalized as a part of the value of these properties upon which the grantees now demand of this Congress the right to exact returns from the public.

"I charge that during the period from 1900 to 1910 the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; the Chicago North Western, the Great Northern, the Illinois Central, and the Southern Pacific Railroads gave away in bonuses to their stockholders more than $250,000,000; that the actual dividend disbursements on this excess capital for the year 1913 alone amounted to more than $11,000,000.

"I charge that during the limited period from 1900 to 1910, eight Eastern roads alone issued new stock for $101,000,000 less than its market value, or gave away this enormous amount in bonuses to stockholders; that the dividends paid on these fictitious stock issues in 1913 alone amount to over $4,317,000; and I name as the railroads involved in this inflation the Baltimore & Ohio, the Boston & Maine, the Delaware & Hudson Company, the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, the New York, New Haven & Hartford, and the Pennsylvania Railroad.

"I charge that during the same period eighteen representative railroads operating in all parts of the United States as a whole gave away stock bonuses aggregating $450,414,000.

"I charge that the control of these railroads, which have so increased their property investment account at the expense of the public and have so profited by land grants, the value of which is to a large extent reflected in their property investment accounts, are now controlled in whole or in part by the Morgan interests, the Rockefeller interests and the Gould interests; that this control is made manifest by the interlocking directorates of the financial institutions directed by these interests, who, through their directorates, control the operations of these railways; and I will say that we have available complete charts showing the interlocking directorates and financial interests so represented, which we shall be glad to present to a proper investigating body.

"I charge that these three interests, situated in New York and operating through Wall Street, are necessarily aware of this enormous inflation of the property investment accounts of the railways which they control and are seeking now to have returned to their possession; that in the attempt of these interests to secure the adoption of any plan whereby the property investment accounts of these railways shall be recognized by law as the basis for rate making they are conducting a political conspiracy to procure from this Government a validation of all of the illegal acts heretofore consummated by these railroad corporations and to make into a binding obligation upon the public the exploitation through which these public highways have passed under their direction and control.

Demands Investigation.

"On behalf of all of the employes of these systems of transportation and the public, we demand that Congress shall make a due and thorough investigation of the charges herein set forth so that the American people may know to what extent it is sought to subject them to exploitation under the plans proposed to this committee of Congress, plans which would make lawful the fixing of rates based on the now unlawful aggregate property investment accounts of these systems.

"I make these charges and this demand with a full sense of the responsibility which they impose upon me as representative of this great body of the organized railway employes of America, and I am prepared, during the investigation which we invoke, to substantiate each and every one of these charges.

"Gentlemen of the Committee, the sole end and aim of organized and publicly commissioned business is to furnish the community with its products at constantly reduced relative cost. The vast privileges granted to the railroads by the public were accorded to them solely for the purpose of aiding the public in securing transportation at a cost less than could have been obtained had such grants not been made. These grants were made for the benefit of the public. They have been perverted to the profit of private owners. The values of these grants so made have been capitalized against the public. They are now urged upon Congress as the basis for determining what the public must pay for the service it sought to secure through the granting of these privileges.

"This demand made upon Congress is the last desperate and suicidal act of a feudalism based on privileges. It is the perversion of these privileges that has created the machinery for piling up the ever-increasing cost of public service. For this perversion the private control of the transportation business exists. The sole purpose of continuing the present system is to assist it in constantly increasing the cost of living. This demand alone confesses the failure of the system to meet the end for which it was created—the service of the public.

"To this system of public plunder we utter the word Jericho. It must fall. Against it we raise the voice of our implacable defiance. Under its domination no public servant should ask us to return. We ask instead, as American freemen exercising our constitutional rights and privileges, a democratic share in the control of the business of transportation to be so conducted as to fulfill its purpose, under a control to be wielded by the public and by all of the skill and ability at the command not only of the workers but of the great body of officials of the railways—the same skill and ability upon which America has always relied, but skill and ability directed solely to public service and not to the exploitation of privilege for profit. So directed, the railway industry will achieve its primal purpose, that is, to reduce the cost of living, to make life easier, and to secure to every citizen his full enjoyment of the right to live and to possess that which he creates."

Insists on Strike Right.

In answer to questions by Chairman Esch, Mr. Plumb said that the Interstate Commerce Commission was "fully capable" of holding the investigation.

"It would be done fairly and impartially, too," he said. "I have no criticism of the commission in any former investigation it has made. The only trouble is that it did not go far enough."

By this he meant, he said, that the commission had not gone back of the railroad records in order to ascertain what "aids, gifts, and grants" were given to the original owners and promoters of railways in the shape of land, and so forth.

Mr. Garretson, while testifying before the committee in the forenoon, said that Government ownership had never had a real test, because the operation officials had prevented it.

"When the railroad man prays," he said, "he turns his face toward Wall Street. But if the management of the railroads is lodged in Washington these same men will serve the Government as well as they served their masters in the past."

The Plumb plan, he maintained, would demolish capital account, while other plans would add to it "until the grandchildren of the present generation will stagger under the load."

Questions by Representative Sanders of Indiana, Republican, on the possible attitude of the men in case the wage demands were refused under the Plumb plan, brought this answer:

"Under this act, the right to strike is given to every employe who participates in the enterprise. If, the majority of the Board of Directors refuses an increase, it pledges a large part of the employes to refuse to work."

Following this, Representative Webster of Washington, Republican, asked if it would not be inconsistent to omit from the act a provision against strikes, inasmuch as the railroad men would control a majority of the Board of Directors.

"No," said Mr. Garretson, "we don't barter our constitutional rights for remuneration."

During the hearing Representative Watson of Pennsylvania, Republican, said he did not believe the American people would sacrifice "individualism" for "nationalism."

OPPOSES PLUMB PLAN.

Commerce Board Says Government Ownership Brings Financial Risks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States tonight issued a formal statement regarding the demand of railroad labor organizations for Government ownership, in which it was pointed out that these demands create a situation which "calls for the most serious attention and deepest thought of all citizens."

"These demands," the announcement read, "raise vital questions which affect directly every phase of life throughout the United States. They constitute a definite program for Government ownership and this despite the fact that Government ownership has proved to be disastrous wherever it has been applied.

Any proposal for Government ownership of railroads, whatever the provision for operation, raises questions which every citizen must eventually consider for himself. To increase the present public debt from $30,000,000,000 to $50,000,000,000 in order to acquire the roads would severely strain the credit of the nation and depress the value of the Liberty and Victory bonds held by millions of people. The public as a whole through the Government would be asked to assume the burden and financial risks of railway capital, while the roads would be run by and for the managers and employes. The suggestion of possible reduction of costs of transportation and betterment of service under such a system is purely theoretical and has not been established in practice by the Government operation of the railroads. On the contrary, in this country as elsewhere, the very opposite results have been shown.

"Government ownership means a retarded development of the railroads. Because of the war the country is sadly behindhand in railroad construction. Additional facilities must be added at once, and enormous railway extensions must be made during the next few years to meet the actual demands of our country's growth. This calls for the highest type of individual initiative and enterprise. Politics must be kept out of the railroad business."

GIVE WIDE SCOPE TO LABOR.

German Employes' Councils to be Formed in Many Occupations.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—The new factory councils which the German Government proposes to institute are to be composed of both wage-earning and salaried employes. They are to be elected by these two classes in proportion to their numbers, the voting to be carried out on the basis of proportional representation. The elections will be by economic units in agriculture and liberal professions where such units employ more than twenty persons.

An exception is made in regard to shipping, both inland and overseas, concerning which provision is to be made where fewer than twenty persons are employed. Stewards are to be appointed, their rights and duties corresponding to those of the councils except as regards the questions of appointing and dismissing staffs.

Works which are departmentalized are to have a council for each department, from which a general council representing the whole factory is to be elected. Those qualified to vote must be 18 years of age, while those eligible for election must be 20, must have been six months in the factory, and must have been engaged three years in that occupation.

Councils are elected for one year, subject to certain rights to recall their mandates.

They are to have joint authority with the employers on all questions affecting labor conditions. They will attend to the enforcement of wage agreements and arbitration awards, also to any changes in wages and rates or in the basis of payment, such as piece or time work, and also to all arrangements affecting holidays, apprentice labor and its teaching, and, in short, all questions which affect workers as human beings.

It is intended thus to promote harmony between employers and employes, and in cases of disagreement the councils may call for a secret ballot. The councils must also be consulted regarding all appointments and dismissals and calls for arbitration.

BERLIN TO PROTEST TO FOCH

Considers Feeding of 300,000 Russian Prisoners an Unfair Burden.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—I learn from competent authority that the German Government is to address a note to Marshal Foch on the subject of the Russian prisoners of war at present in Germany.

When the Allies stipulated in the armistice terms for the return of all allied prisoners in Germany exception was made in the case of Russians, as it was thought their return to Bolshevist Russia was undesirable. The Allies undertook the control of the Russian prison camps in Germany, and Red Cross officials have been superintending them ever since.

Recently, however, the Allies intimated to the German Government that they were no longer to continue doing so, and that the prisoners were to be left on the hands of the German Government. The German Government now finds itself very much embarrassed by this change in the allied policy, and the maintenance of 300,000 prisoners is a big undertaking for a country with sorely depleted food supplies. If it sets them free in Germany that simply swells the unemployment market, and adds to the chances of political trouble. Nor can it simply send them over the frontier in Russia, as the new Polish State has arisen on what was formerly the Russo-German border.

In this quandary the Berlin Government has decided to send a note to Foch protesting against the Allies leaving this burden on their hands.

He has been decorated with the Croix de Guerre with palm, the Distinguished Service Cross, and the Belgian Cross.

LODGE OUTLINES FIVE RESERVATIONS

that went up from the Marines could be heard through the corridors of the Capitol. It sounded very much like the roar that breaks loose at a ball park when the home team wins the game in the ninth inning. Nothing like it has been heard in all the debate on the League, or, for that matter, in any debate running back for years.

Williams's Answer to Lodge.

When the uproar had subsided, Senator Williams arose.

"I hesitate very much to undertake to reply to the greatest possible prepared presentation of the selfishness of American policy in an extemporaneous answer that I must make in a few minutes," he said. "I would need to have more egotism than I ever had before if I said I could answer 'off the bat' the things the Senator from Massachusetts has been cogitating for three months, more or less, with a view to capturing the Senate and the galleries today.

"It is not a new presentation of the personality of the Senator from Massachusetts. He has always attempted to make a show of himself."

At this point the galleries hissed, and Vice President Marshall cautioned their occupants not to indulge in any manifestations.

"They ought to be ashamed of themselves," said the Vice President.

Senator Williams went on to say that he had intended saying that the Senator from Massachusetts "has always attempted to make a show of himself as being nonpartisan and fair and impartial."

Mr. Williams proceeded to defend the League of Nations against the criticism of Mr. Lodge. He declared it did not sacrifice anything of American sovereignty.

"The Senator says it means internationalism," said Mr. Williams. "I want to know if he would desert Europe after America had entered the war for world liberty. I want to know if he thinks anything can be achieved toward averting another such war, if we are to be actuated by a mean, selfish spirit of 'nationalism'."

Senator Williams spoke of Senators opposed to the League of Nations covenant pandering to "pro-German, Irish-American and other mixed races" in an effort to defeat the League idea. They were afraid, he said, to "tread on the toes" of those who hoped the League, for selfish reasons, would be rejected, unless amended to their liking.

"I have no respect for the man who opposes any American policy, not because he is against it as an American, but because of his hatred of somebody in Europe," declared the Senator, adverting to the opposition of Irish-Americans to the covenant because of its failure to recognize Irish independence.

The Mississippian alluded to the opposition of Senator Borah of Idaho to the League covenant, saying that Mr. Borah was "at least actuated by honest convictions." He scored those who, in their opposition, he said, assumed the attitude of "narrow-minded asses or barbarians."

Hitchcock Quotes Union Address.

Senator Hitchcock, who is leading the Administration forces in support of the League covenant, remarked that Senator Williams had been too severe with Mr. Lodge. The latter, he said, had merely "changed his mind" about the League. He read from the speech of the Massachusetts Senator, at Union College in 1915, in an effort to show that Mr. Lodge at that time favored a "union" for nations as a preventive of world wars.

"Any one reading that speech," said Senator Hitchcock, "along with others the Massachusetts Senator has made along the same lines, must make allowance for the attack he now makes on the League of Nations and his glorification on 'nationalism.'"

The galleries again applauded and this time the Vice President remarked that if another demonstration occurred he would execute his threat to empty them.

"For myself I would let you cheer all you want to, or throw stale vegetables," said the Vice President. "But we have a Senate rule here against it."

Senator Borah observed that he was "somewhat familiar" with the speech of Mr. Lodge, as quoted by Mr. Hitchcock, since it had been read several times in the Senate during debate on the League covenant.

"Great men often change their minds," he went on. "And perhaps the Senator from Massachusetts has changed his. The President of the United States has changed his, too. I recall that the President some four years ago advocated the isolation of America from European affairs. The great object, he said then, was to establish a situation in which the United States would lead its own life and withhold itself from all entangling alliances. Evidently he has considerably changed his mind when he now advocates a League of Nations based upon the entangling alliances he opposed four years ago.

"If we are to follow the leaders of thought in their meanderings, I would pass over the speech of the President of four years ago to the Senator from Nebraska and ask him what he thinks of it."

Senator Hitchcock interpolated that he had been "defending the Senator from Massachusetts."

Borah Assails "Special Alliances."

"And I have been defending the President," said Mr. Borah. "Up to four years ago I was not so much opposed to what he said as to his manner of carrying his ideas into execution. I fail to follow him in his ideas on the League of Nations.

"When the President went to Europe for the first time he said there would be no 'special alliance' for the people of the United States. He was opposed to it then, so he told us. 'Special alliances,' the President said, 'were the causes of war, and he never wanted the United States embroiled in them.

"Soon after that Mr. Clemenceau said France wanted the balance of power in Europe. This was rather a shock to the world, as it had held with the President that balance of power must exist only to prevent world strife. It was a surprise to hear Clemenceau say that France wanted to hold that power.

"The President replied to Mr. Clemenceau, saying that if the United States were to be invited into a balance of power through special alliances, it would find no echoing sentiment here. But the circumstances were such that special alliances were made, and now we have here for our ratification a special treaty with France. And the old balance of power comes stalking in on us again, the only difference being that America is to be a party to it."

Senator Borah would fight for changes in the League covenant, he said, that would keep America out of all entangling alliances and preserve America's independence in the control of her own affairs.

"If you write reservations that will preserve the open-door policy, that will preserve the ideas of Washington, Jefferson, Monroe, Lincoln, Roosevelt, and of Wilson up to four years ago, I will take a look at them," he added.

Senator Hiram Johnson of California remarked that Senator Lodge was "eternally right" in saying that the League of Nations, as drafted, not only involved the United States in "disputes over territorial aggression, but internal disturbances as well." He would not accept the treaty, he said, until America's interests were "safeguarded."

Lodge's Attack on the Covenant.

Describing the League of Nations as a "deformed experiment upon a noble purpose," Senator Lodge declared before the Senate that there were features of the League covenant which "as an American" he never could accept.

The principal objects of the Senator's attack were Articles 1, 10, 11, 15, and 21 of the covenant, having to do respectively with a nation's right of withdrawal from the League, guarantees of territorial integrity of member nations, pledges to defend members against aggression, the determination of international disputes alleged to be domestic questions, and with the status of the Monroe Doctrine.

Creating, not a league of peace, but an alliance embracing many "provisions for war," the covenant in its present form, he asserted, would kill the Monroe Doctrine, nullify any possibility of withdrawal from membership, impair the sovereign power of deciding domestic questions and "plunge the United States into every controversy and conflict on the face of the globe."

"Let us beware," he said, "how we palter with our independence. We have not reached the great position from which we were able to come down into the field of battle and help to save the world from tyranny by being guided by others. Our vast power has all been built up and gathered together by ourselves alone.

"We forced our way upward from the days of the Revolution, through a world often hostile and always indifferent. We owe no debt to any one except to France in our Revolution, and those policies and those rights on which our power has been founded should never be lessened or weakened. It will be no service to the world to do so, and it will be of intolerable injury to the United States. We will do our share. We are ready and anxious to help in all ways to preserve the world's peace. But we can do it best by not crippling ourselves.

Objects to "Leading-Strings."

"I am as anxious as any human being can be to have the United States render every possible service to the civilization and the peace of mankind, but I am certain we can do it best by not putting ourselves in leading-strings or subjecting our policies and our sovereignty to other nations. I will go as far as any one in world service, but the first step to world service is the maintenance of the United States. You may call me selfish, if you will, conservative or reactionary, but an American I was born, an American I have remained all my life.

"I can never be anything else but an American, and I must think of the United States first, and when I think of the United States first in an arrangement like this I am thinking of what is best for the world, for if the United States fails the best hopes of mankind fail with it. I have never had but one allegiance—I cannot divide it now.

"The United States is the world's best hope, but if you fetter her in the interests and quarrels of other nations, if you tangle her in the intrigues of Europe, you will destroy her power for good and endanger her very existence.

"We are told that we shall 'break the heart of the world' if we do not take this league just as it stands. I fear that the hearts of the vast majority of mankind would beat on strongly and steadily and without any quickening if the league were to perish altogether. If it should be effectively and beneficently changed the people who would lie awake in sorrow for a single night could be easily gathered in one not very large room; but those who would draw a long breath of relief would reach to millions.

"Ideals have been thrust upon us as an argument for the League until the healthy mind, which rejects cant, revolts from them. Are ideals confined to this deformed experiment upon a noble purpose, tainted as it is with bargains and tied to a Peace Treaty which might have been disposed of long ago to the great benefit of the world if it had not been compelled to carry this rider on its back?

No Hope in 'This Murky Covenant.'

"No doubt many excellent and patriotic people see a coming fulfillment of noble ideals in the words 'League for Peace.' We all respect and share these aspirations and desires, but some of us see no hope, but rather defeat, for them in this murky covenant. For we, too, have our ideals, even if we differ from those who have tried to establish a monopoly of idealism. Our first ideal is our country. We would have our country strong to resist a peril from the west, as she has flung back the German menace from the East. We would not have our politics distracted and embittered by the dissensions of other lands.

"So far as the question of isolation goes, it is impossible to isolate the United States. We may set aside all this empty talk about isolation. Nobody expects to isolate the United States or to make it a hermit nation, which is a sheer absurdity. But there is a wide difference between taking a suitable part and bearing a due responsibility in world affairs and plunging the United States into every controversy and conflict on the face of the globe."

Likening the League to the ill-famed Holy Alliance, Mr. Lodge quoted the covenant provision giving the assembly authority to "deal at its meetings with any matter * * * affecting the peace of the world," and continued:

"There is no such sweeping or far-reaching provision as that in the Treaty of Paris, and yet able men developed from that treaty the Holy Alliance, which for thirty-five years was an unmitigated curse to the world. England broke from the Holy Alliance because English statesmen saw that it was intended to turn the alliance—and this League is an alliance—into a means of repressing internal revolutions or insurrections.

"No revolutionary movement, no internal conflict of any magnitude can fail to affect the peace of the world. The French Revolution, which was wholly internal at the beginning, affected the peace of the world to such an extent that it brought on a world war which lasted some twenty-five years. Can anyone say that our civil war did not affect the peace of the world? At this very moment who would deny that the condition of Russia, with internal conflicts raging in all parts of that great empire, does not affect the peace of the world and therefore come properly within the jurisdiction of the League. 'Any matter affecting the peace of the world' is a very broad statement which could be made to justify almost any interference on the part of the League with the internal affairs of other countries.

Cites the Case of Poland.

"That this fair and obvious interpretation is the one given to it abroad is made perfectly apparent in the direct and vigorous statement of M. Clemenceau in his letter to Mr. Paderewski, in which he takes the ground in behalf of the Jews and other nationalities in Poland that they should be protected; and where be says that the associated powers would feel themselves bound to secure guarantees in Poland 'of certain essential rights which will afford to the inhabitants the necessary protection, whatever changes may take place in the internal constitution of the Polish Republic,' he contemplates and defends interference with the internal affairs of Poland—among other things—in behalf of a complete religious freedom, a purpose with which we all deeply sympathize. These promises of the French Prime Minister are embodied in effective clauses in the treaties with Germany and with Poland and deal with the internal affairs of nations, and their execution is intrusted to the 'principal allied and associated powers,' that is, to the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan.

"This is a practical demonstration of what can be done under Article XIII. and under Article XI. of the League covenant, and the authority which permits interference in behalf of religious freedom—an admirable object—is easily extended to the repression of internal disturbances which may well prove a less admirable purpose. If Europe desires such an alliance or League with a power of this kind, so be it. I have no objection, provided they do not interfere with the American continents or force us, against our will, but bound by a moral obligation, into all the quarrels of Europe.

"If England, abandoning the policy of Canning, desires to be a member of a League which has such powers as this, I have not a word to say, but I object in the strongest way to having the United States agree, directly or indirectly, to be controlled by a League which may at any time, and perfectly lawfully and in accordance with the terms of the covenant, be drawn into deal with internal conflicts in other countries, no matter what those conflicts may be.

"We should never permit the United States to be involved in an internal conflict in another country, except by the will of her people expressed through the Congress who represents them.

Wars of External Aggression.

"With regard to wars of external aggression on a member of the League, the case is perfectly plain. There can be no genuine dispute whatever about the meaning of the first clause of Article 10. In the first place, it differs from every other obligation in being individual and placed upon each nation without the intervention of the League. Each nation for itself promises to respect and preserve as against external aggression the boundaries and the political independence of every member of the League.

"Of the right of the United States to give such a guarantee I have never had the slightest doubt, and the elaborate arguments which have been made here and the learning which has been displayed about our treaty with Granada—now Colombia—and with Panama, were not necessary for me, because, I repeat, there can be no doubt of our right to give a guarantee to another nation that we will protect its boundaries and independence.

"The point I wish to make is that the pledge is an individual pledge. We have, for example, given guarantees to Panama, and for obvious and sufficient reasons the applications of that guarantee would not be in the slightest degree affected by ten or twenty other nations giving the same pledge. If Panama, when in danger, appealed to us to fulfill our obligation, we should be bound to do so without the slightest reference to the other guarantors. In Article 10 the United States is bound on the appeal of any member of the League not only to respect but to preserve its independence and its boundaries, and that pledge, if we give it, must be fulfilled.

"There is to me no distinction whatever in a treaty between what some persons are pleased to call legal and moral obligations. A treaty rests, and must rest, except where it is imposed under duress, and securities and hostages are taken for its fulfillment, upon moral obligations. The pathway of dishonor is always open. But whatever the United States agrees to, by that agreement she must abide.

"If the United States or any other great country should refuse, no matter how specious the reasons, to fulfill both in letter and spirit every obligation in this covenant, the United States would be dishonored, and the League would crumble into dust, leaving behind it a legacy of wars."

Unwilling to Fight Bedouins.

Quoting a press report that Bedouins were attacking the Kingdom of Hedjaz, the Senator pointed out that Hedjaz was a member of the League whose integrity the United States would guarantee to preserve from external aggression under the covenant.

"Under Article XI.," he said, "if King Hussein appeal to us for aid and protection against external aggression affecting his independence and the boundaries of his kingdom, we should be bound to give that aid and protection and to send American soldiers to Arabia. I am unwilling to give that right to King Hussein, and this illustrates the point which is to me the most objectionable in the League as it stands—the right of other powers to call out American troops and American ships to go to any part of the world, an obligation we are bound to fulfill under the terms of this treaty. I know the answer well—that of course they could not be sent without action by Congress. Congress would have no choice if acting in good faith.

"Let me now briefly point out the insuperable difficulty which I find in Article XV. It begins: 'If there should arise between members of the League any dispute likely to lead to a rupture' * * * 'Any dispute' covers every possible dispute. It therefore covers a dispute over tariff duties and over immigration.

"An immigration dispute or a dispute over tariff duties, met by the procedure set forth in Article XV., comes before the Assembly of Delegates for a decision by what is practically a majority vote of the entire assembly. That is something to which I do not find myself able to give my assent. So far as immigration is concerned, and also so far as tariff duties, although less important, are concerned, I deny the jurisdiction. There should be no possibility of other nations deciding who shall come into the United States, or under what conditions they shall enter. The right to say who shall come into a country is one of the very highest attributes of sovereignty. If a nation cannot say without appeal who shall come within its gates and become a part of its citizenship it has ceased to be a sovereign nation. It has become a tributary and a subject nation, and it makes no difference whether it is subject to league or to a conqueror."

The Senator said the British delegates to the Peace Conference, in a statement regarding the Monroe Doctrine, had asserted that should a dispute arise as to the meaning of the doctrine "the League is there to settle it."

"It has seemed to me," he continued, "that the British delegation traveled a little out of the precincts of the Peace Conference when they undertook to explain the Monroe Doctrine and tell the United States what it was and what it was not proposed to do with it under the new article.

Jealous for the Monroe Doctrine.

"The Monroe Doctrine was the corollary of Washington's neutrality policy and of his injunction against permanent alliances. It reiterates and reaffirms the principle. We do not seek to meddle in the affairs of Europe and keep Europe out of the Americas. It is as important to keep the United States out of European affairs as to keep Europe out of the American continents.

"It was purely an American doctrine, a purely American policy, designed and wisely designed for our defense. It has never been an 'international engagement.' No nation has ever formally recognized it. It has been the subject of reservation at international conventions by American delegates. It has never been a 'regional understanding,' or an understanding of any kind with anybody. It was the declaration of the United States of America, in their own behalf, supported by their own power. They brought it into being, and its life was predicated on the force which the United States could place behind it. Unless the United States could sustain it, it would die. The United States has supported it. It has lived—strong, efficient, respected. It is now proposed to kill it by a provision in a treaty for a League of Nations.

"Why, in the name of peace, should we extinguish it? Why, in the name of peace, should we be called upon to leave the interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine to other nations? It is an American policy. It is our own. It has guarded us well, and I for one can never find consent in my heart to destroy it by a clause in a treaty and hand over its body for dissection to the nations of Europe.

The Problem of Withdrawal.

"Another point in this covenant where change must be made in order to protect the safety of the United States in the future is in Article 1, where withdrawal is provided for. As it now stands it reads that "'Any member of the League may, after two years' notice of its intention to do so, withdraw from the League, provided that all its international obligations and all its obligations under this covenant shall have been fulfilled at the time of its withdrawal.'

"Whatever virtue there may be in the right thus conferred is completely nullified by the proviso. The League alone can decide whether 'all international obligations and all obligations under this covenant,' have been fulfilled, and this would require, under the provisions of the League, a unanimous vote, so that any nation desiring to withdraw could not do so, even on the two years' notice, if one nation voted that the obligations had not been fulfilled. Remember that this gives the League not only power to review all our obligations under the covenant, but all our treaties with all nations, for every one of those is an 'international obligation.'

"Are we deliberately to put ourselves in fetters and be examined by the League of Nations as to whether we have kept faith with Cuba or Panama before we can be permitted to leave the League? The right of withdrawal, if it is to be of any value whatever, must be absolute, because otherwise a nation desiring to withdraw could be held in the League by objections from other nations until the very act which induces the nation to withdraw had been completed; until the withdrawing nation had been forced to send troops to take part in a war with which it had no concern and upon which it did not desire to enter.

"Any analysis of the provisions of this League covenant brings out in startling relief one great fact. Whatever may be said, it is not a league of peace; it is an alliance, dominated at the present moment by five great powers, really by three, and it has all the marks of an alliance. The development of international law is neglected. The court which is to decide disputes brought before it fills but a small place. Those articles upon which the whole structure rests are articles which provide for the use of force; that is, for war. This League to enforce peace does a great deal for enforcement and very little for peace."

STOPS REFERENDUM IN MINERS' STRIKE

GOVERNMENT'S PLAN SUITS

Lord Chancellor Tells Lords Disputes May Now Be Left to Masters and Men.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Executives of British labor's Triple Alliance decided today to postpone its "direct action" referendum on political demands.

An official report of the resolution says that it was decided to postpone the balloting and to summon a full delegate conference to reconsider the entire question.

The decision of the Triple Alliance executives to postpone the ballot was arrived at after a day of long conferences held to consider the changed circumstances since the ballot was decided on—first, the change in the Government policy toward Russia and regarding conscription, and also the Government's decision no longer to intervene for the settlement of industrial disputes, and, second, apparent waning in the enthusiasm for "direct action."

The Lord Chancellor in the House of Lords today explained the Government's attitude, saying that during the war it was of paramount importance to keep men at work, but that this no longer was so imperative now that the war had ended. Therefore, the Lord Chancellor added, disputes could be left to be settled by negotiation between masters and men.

At the conference it transpired that the Yorkshire, Lancashire, and Cheshire miners were against "direct action," while J. H. Thomas declined to consent to the railwaymen being committed to "direct action" at the behest of the Triple Alliance unless the railwaymen were individually consulted. There was strong divergence of opinion displayed concerning the advisability of "direct action."

The referendum movement is said today by The Evening News to have been killed by the refusal of the Transport Workers' Federation to take part in it. The newspaper said the federation had decided to have nothing to do with the movement and that its district branches had refused to issue ballots for the referendum.

The Yorkshire Miners' Council has recommended that work be resumed by the more than 200,000 men who have been on strike in that district for several weeks, refusing to accept the settlement reached by the Government and the miners' representatives.

The Triple Alliance is composed of the railwaymen, transportation workers, and miners. The alliance on July 23 decided to take a vote of its members on labor's political demands, including conscription, Russian intervention, the release of conscientious objectors, and the use of the military in labor disputes.

GERMANY ASKS BIGGER ARMY

Will Urge the Allies Not to Insist on Cut to 200,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COBLENZ, Aug. 12.—The German military machine dies hard. While War Minister Noske, through the agency of the Ministry of the Interior, is pushing the organization of 500,000 home guards and the Prussian Government is trying to establish a big armed constabulary, it is announced at Weimar that the Government will try to persuade the Allies not to insist on the peace treaty terms reducing the regular army to 200,000 men this year and 100,000 next year.

The statement issued at Weimar says:

"Consideration is being given by the Cabinet at Weimar at present to the question of a reduction of the strength of the military forces. It is understood that the Cabinet will endeavor to induce the Allies not to insist upon a reduction of the military forces to 200,000 for with such a small force order cannot be maintained in Germany.

"Furthermore, the discharged of a great number of soldiers cannot be carried out without internal difficulties. The Cabinet hopes to convince the Allies by verbal negotiations of the necessity of a stronger military force."

LENIN ASKS ADVICE OF BUSINESS MEN

Realizes Bolshevism Is Doomed and Now Seeks to Save Russia, It Is Said.

TROTZKY APES WAR LORD

Carries Out Ruthlessly His Imperialistic Policy—Bela Kun's Fall Blow to Reds.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 11.—According to reports of reliable persons just arrived from Moscow, Lenin is considering the advisability of retiring from the Soviet Government. Failure of the Bolshevist propaganda has impelled him to summon business men to a council in the Kremlin, and he is requesting them freely to advise him what to do to extricate Russia from her desperate situation following the Bolshevist experiment. A recent private visit of prominent Americans to Moscow has also exerted great influence on Lenin's attitude, and the invincible antipathy of the Russian peasants to Bolshevism has convinced him of the impossibility of putting his theories into practice.

In private conversation with one of my informants the Bolshevist dictator declared he would agree to a radical change in his policy and consent to "denationalization" of Russian industries, and even to convoke a Constituent Assembly, himself renouncing all political activity and interference in the country's affairs. Of late Lenin has repeatedly expressed the conviction that the Bolshevist cause is lost.

Trotzky still dreams of a Bolshevist hegemony throughout the world, and still devises new plans of propaganda in Western Europe, and, in fact, Trotzky gives himself the airs of an absolute ruler. He travels without rest through Russia in a luxurious Pullman car of the former Imperial Train, with a brilliant suite of officers and "court" officials, and is surrounded by a personal bodyguard of Chinese and Lett mercenaries. In every town and village he is received by bands playing the "International." One of his favorite pastimes on these regal tours is to distribute rolls of white bread to the crowd from the platform of his car, a delicacy naturally much relished by the starving population. Recently at Pskov and Samara he distributed several carloads of bread in this munificent way, hoping to make himself popular.

Trotzky's Policy Imperialistic.

Trotzky insists that Russia must regain her frontiers. His policy is savagely imperialistic and is ruthlessly carried out by his lieutenants in all conquered territories, as in the Ukraine, by Rakowsky. All his efforts are directed toward the unification of the Soviet empire and the crushing of all national independence. His chief supervisor and confidant is now General Zinovieff, (Military Governor of Petrograd,) who is notoriously hostile toward Lenin.

Kameneff has been appointed Commander in Chief of the Red Armies in place of the Lett Vazetes, who is now inclined to share Lenin's pessimistic views. The "Supreme Revolutionary Council of National Defence" now consists of Trotzky as President, Skiliansky as Vice President, the new Commander in Chief Kameneff and his Chief of Staff Gussen, and Rykoff, Chief of the Commissariat. Kameneff is projecting a new and ruthless mobilization of all men capable of bearing arms in order to reinforce the sorely pressed Red Army. As the head of his military clique Trotzky may be said to play the same part in Bolshevist Russia as the General Staff under Ludendorff did in imperial Germany, while Lenin represents the more moderate diplomatic element of the Government.

It is openly said in Moscow that Lenin has already begun negotiations with the non-Bolshevist parties in the hope of forming a coalition Government capable of resuming relations with the outer world. These negotiations have led to no positive result, but they indicate that Lenin has lost faith in his Communist dream.

My informants declare there can be no doubt that Bela Kun acted upon Lenin's advice in relinquishing power in Budapest. The Hungarian Bolshevist leader was in constant communication with Moscow until the very last moment of his reign. In any case Kun's fall is a staggering blow to the Russian Soviet rulers, who thus lost their most important outpost for the Bolshevisation of Western Europe.

Red Account of State of World.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Following is a Bolshevist acccount of the "State of the World," transmitted by wireless. It is headed "The Hour of Liberation Has Struck."

"In France, England, America, Australia, Italy, Switzerland, Sweden, and other large and small countries an unending series of blows and strikes is swaying and shaking the massive arches of the Old World. The resistless merciless whirlpool of revolution recedes only to gather strength for a new crushing attack of the world's workers on capitalism.

"The days of Sodom and Gomorrah have come for the international bourgeoisie. In the madness of death they are flinging their last legions into the fires of the proletarian revolution. They have laid Soviet Hungary in ashes and made slaves of the masses. For revenge they are egging on the international capitalistic pack against Soviet Russia.

"They are rising in their own lands. They are tossing and rushing from side to side in the last vain efforts. The slaves of yesterday are flinging off their rusty chains and are proudly feeling themselves lords. The mighty hands of the international proletariat are taking rifles and turning guns and machine guns against their oppressors. They are advancing like lava under the war song of the 'International.' The last decisive battle is at hand."

KOLCHAK REGIME IS VERY INSECURE

urging that no more allied troops be withdrawn from that part of Russia and asking the Allies to continue its support to the anti-Bolshevist faction still in power at Archangel. It is identical with that made to the allied Governments in Europe, a summary of which already has been published in press cablegrams.

At the present time the American Government is not considering any important change in the assistance that the United States is giving in the maintenance and operation of the Siberian Railway. It was admitted today, however, that John F. Stevens and his assistants may be obliged, if the Omsk Government's reverses continue, to withdraw toward the east. Some of the members of the American railway expedition to Siberia are established in Omsk.

A dispatch to the Department of State from Copenhaven summarizes a report to the Danish Government from the Danish Consul at Warsaw, based on first-hand information from the Danish Red Cross mission to Petrograd, which has left Russia and just arrived in Warsaw.

This confirms previous reports that the Bolshevist police on June 2 and 3 made a domiciliary visitation and sealing in all legations and consulates at Petrograd and Moscow and in the branches of the American Red Cross at Petrograd, Moscow, Samara and Homel. This domiciliary visitation was extended to foreigners generally in Bolshevist Russia, many of whom were arrested and the majority of those foreigners in Petrograd were transferred to Moscow and interned in concentration camps. The Petrograd branch of the Danish Red Cross, after succeeding in obtaining release of a large number of foreigners at Petrograd and in supplying them with food, was transferred to Moscow on July 10, finding that nothing more could be done for the rest of the foreigners in Petrograd.

The Bolsheviki have failed to keep a promise to release leading foreigners in behalf of whom the Danish Red Cross made efforts. They have practically confiscated the depots of the Danish Consul at Moscow and fear is felt that the depot of the Danish Legation at Petrograd also has been confiscated.

DENIKIN LINKS UP WITH KOLCHAK'S ARMY

Only Fifty Miles Separate Him From Rumanians in Black Sea Region.

LONDON, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—General Denikin's advance is continuing along the greater part of the southern Russian front against considerable Bolshevist resistance, the War Office announced tonight.

Kamishin, which was taken on July 28, yielded 11,000 prisoners, 60 guns, 150 machine guns, and an immense amount of war material, it was added.

"Two crack Bolshevist regiments were completely shattered. Denikin's cavalry, pushing out toward the Urbach-Astrakhan Railroad, have effected a junction with the Ural Cossacks, who form the left wing of the Kolchak army near Lake Elton," says the statement.

"There is now a united anti-Bolshevist front along the whole of East and South Russia from the Northern Urals to the northwest corner of the Black Sea, and only fifty miles separate Denikin from the Rumanian army there.

"Further south, along the middle Dnieper, a Bolshevist force has been routed east of Kremenchug with the loss of a thousand prisoners. When Poltava was taken the Bolsheviki lost 130 railroad engines, 2 armored trains, 1,200 cars, 20 guns, and much ammunition. The population of the liberated cities display the greatest enthusiasm over the Bolshevist defeat."

SEES HUN REVENGE IN BOLSHEVIST RULE

Russian Refugees Declare German Influence Is Behind Reds in Their Country.

WOULD OVERWHELM WORLD

Capitalist in Czar's Regime Says He Has Documentary Proof of His Assertions.

Germany is responsible for the continuation of the Bolshevist Government in Russia, and German influences centred there are planning a world-wide drive to extend the principles advocated by Lenin and Trotzky, according to Lorence Pouschine, a Russian capitalist under the Czar, who, with two of his fellow countrymen, arrived at this port yesterday.

Conditions in Russia were pictured as deplorable by Mr. Pouschine, who came from England on the steamship Vasari. His companions were Baron Eugene Fersen and Major Gen. Theodore Lodijensky.

At the beginning of the war Mr. Pouschine was rated as one of the six wealthiest men in Russia, his companions said. After the overthrow of the Czar his fortune dwindled to virtually nothing. When the Russian Duma was formed he was regarded as one of the most powerful politicians of the new Government, and in 1917 he was Governor General of Petrograd for a month under the Provisional Government.

Mr. Pouschine said he had had to flee with his wife and five children from Russia to one of his estates in Finland and later to Sweden. He said the present Bolshevist leaders were particularly vindictive against him because before the Provisional Government he was President of the Land Committee and had aided in the distribution of 75,000 small farms. He said the Czar's Government was making progress in settling the land problem when it was overthrown.

"The question confronting Russia and the rest of the world is Bolshevism," he said. "I have documentary proof that Germany is behind the Bolshevist movement in all parts of the world, as part of a program of revenge. Money for Bolshevist propaganda is being received in Russia today. The German influences plan to overwhelm the world, and at present their plans are meeting with fair success from their point of view."

Baron Fersen corroborated the statements of Mr. Pouschine. He placed the blame for the beginning of Russia's misfortunes upon Kerensky.

"Kerensky, in my mind, is responsible for Russia's downfall," he said. "He knowingly allowed the Russian army to disintegrate, by issuing orders that soldiers need not salute their superior officers, and might do away with officers they did not like. As a result of these orders, Generals and other officers of lesser rank were executed by command of small councils of their men. Wholesale murder of officers went on unnoticed by Kerensky or those associated with him.

"When the Provisional Government issued orders for the arrest of all Bolshevist leaders Lenin fled. This was in July, 1917. Trotzky was arrested and Lenin went into hiding. Kerensky showed him hand by going to prison and freeing Nahamkos, a Bolshevist leader masquerading under the name of Stekloff, whom he took away with him in his car. Kerensky subsidized Bolshevist newspapers, partly with Government funds and party with private funds aggregating millions of dollars, which were sent to him from Germany. Why he did these things is a mystery."

General Lodijensky first came to the United States in March, 1918, with his wife, as a refugee. He lives at 36 East Fifty-seventh Street. He said conditions in Russia were past belief and declared the people in every rank in life would welcome a stable government.

Sumitra Modak, a business man of Bombay, India, another passenger on the Vasari, said he had come to this country to purchase agricultural machinery and structural steel.

"India has been aroused from the lethargy that has kept her for centuries from adopting labor-saving machinery and tools," he said. "From now on the wooden plow and antiquated tools will rapidly disappear. Beginning this year India will assume a place in the family of nations on a level with the rest of the world as a food producer."

Mr. Modak said agricultural colleges in India were well attended by his countrymen, who were anxious to learn scientific farming.

Captain D. L. Colvin of 861 West 170th Street, with the Quartermaster's Department, said that in several large army camps on the other side he found the men overwhelmingly for prohibition. Of several hundred officers he interviewed, he said, only two opposed prohibition.

NON-BEVERAGE ALCOHOL BONDS

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has prescribed a new form of non-beverage alcohol bond, form 738 revised. Applicants for licenses to use or sell non-beverage alcohol, including distilled spirits and wine, who will now sign this form, will avoid the risk of having to execute new bonds if, as seems probable, the Department requires all licensees, several months hence, to file new bonds on the amended form.

This company is prepared to execute bonds on the new form, notwithstanding the Government's printed copies will not be ready for distribution for some time.

RAILROAD SHOPMEN RETURNING TO WORK

Officials Expect Normal Traffic Conditions Within a Few Days.

28,000 STILL OUT IN CHICAGO

Workers in Boston and Atlanta Also Hold Out Against the President's Demand.

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Confidence that the end of the shopmen's strike and the consequent resumption of normal service on the New England railroads would be brought about within a few days was expressed by railroad officials here today. Strike leaders would make no comment on the action of the shopmen in Manchester and Nashau, N. H., and in New Haven, Conn., in voting yesterday to return to work other than to declare that the men will act finally as a body and that there could be no return before Saturday in the event that a majority of other locals took a similar stand.

Under the balloting arrangements, the real sentiment of the men will not be known definitely until Friday, when the results of all the New England voting will be reported at a joint meeting here of the locals' executive boards.

General transportation conditions on the affected railroads remained unchanged today, except for further curtailment in the passenger train schedule of the New York, New Haven & Hartford. Officials of the Boston & Maine and the Boston & Albany planned to continue operations on the schedules established yesterday.

Under new embargo rules to become effective on the New Haven lines tomorrow, milk, nonperishable foodstuffs for human consumption, feed for livestock and supplies consigned for the New Haven and the Central New England roads will be accepted subject to delays. Ice, perishable foodstuffs, livestock, and newsprint paper will also be accepted when authorized by permit by the Superintendent of Transportation.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 12.—Worcester Local Union of Railroad Carmen has voted to resume work not later than Friday, provided the officials of the Railroad Administration promise to take their demands under consideration at once.

Atlanta Workers Return to Work.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 12.—The strike of Allied Railroad Shopmen in the southeast was officially called off at a convention here late today of representatives of the various unions. Decision to end the strike pending the adjustment of matters by President Wilson and Director General Hines came in the form of a resolution which was unanimously adopted. The men were ordered to return to work Thursday.

The resolution adopted by the shopmen provides that all men now on strike return to their work at the usual hour Thursday morning. The situation throughout the southeast tonight was regarded as approaching normal.

Situation Improves in the West.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Steady improvement in the situation resulting from the strike of shopmen was reported by railway officials here tonight after receipt of messages during the day from all parts of the country.

It was stated that the strikers are returning to work in practically every section affected, with the exception of Chicago, Boston, and Atlanta. Hundreds of men were reported resuming work in Iowa, Wisconsin, and Illinois. The Chicago & Northwestern Railroad announced removal of the embargo on freight to Iowa points.

At the Stock Yards here 1,142 cars of live stock were received today, which is seventy-five more than on the same date last year. Perishable freight switched here today totalled 502 cars. Passenger traffic still is operating with difficulty, however, many trains arriving several hours late.

From Denver came the report that 6,000 shopmen voted to return to work today, pending the result of the national referendum.

At St. Louis it was announced that all striking shopmen of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad, numbering about 7,000, were at work today, and as a result the embargo on freight shipments was removed.

Every shopman on the Seaboard Air Line has obeyed President Wilson's edict and returned to work, and 1,000 men employed by the Baltimore & Ohio road at Baltimore are back. Conditions at Cleveland and Columbus, Ohio, are reported nearly normal.

Five hundred shopmen on the Chicago & Northwestern, and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road in the Northwest returned, which enabled the former road to remove its recent embargo on perishable freight consigned to points in Iowa.

One thousand car builders, who voted to go out yesterday, reconsidered their action today and decided to remain at work.

It is estimated there are about 28,000 shopmen out in Chicago and vicinity.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in; about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

THE ADVENTURES OF A NOVEL [FIVE]

¶ When Maurice Weyl brought me the manuscript of "The Choice" he told me it had been declined by two of the big manufacturing publishers. The manuscript appeared over-bulky and it was with scant enthusiasm that I asked him to leave it with me.

¶ Before I start reading a manuscript (authors please note) I have my boy divide it into sections of fifty pages and put paper-fasteners through each section. After "The Choice" had been treated in this manner I took the first three sections home in my overcoat pocket. One night in bed, after reading everything else near by, I took up the first section and read it, and then the second section, and then the third—and then I wanted to get up and dress and go to the office for the rest of the story.

¶ "Here at least," I said to myself, "is a born story-teller."

WIND UP FORD CASE ON ANARCHY ISSUE

Both Sides in $1,000,000 Libel Suit to Stand or Fall on Specific Charge.

GOES TO JURY TOMORROW

Tribune's Attorney Parallels Ford Propaganda with Goldman Writings—Lucking Attacks Speech.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 12.—The evidence and the final arguments in Henry Ford's $1,000,000 libel suit against The Chicago Daily Tribune are all in. The last word was spoken by Alfred Lucking, senior counsel for the plaintiff today. Tomorrow Judge Tucker will formulate his instructions and on Thursday he will deliver them to the jury. The final appeal on behalf of the defendant was by Elliott G. Stevenson, preceding Mr. Lucking.

The issue was squarely joined, Mr. Stevenson contending that Mr. Ford was an anarchist in June, 1916, when The Tribune so characterized him, and Mr. Lucking asserting that there was no man in the United States farther removed from anarchy.

Mr. Stevenson read statement after statement from the Ford peace propaganda and similar ones from the writings of Emma Goldman, and declared that the jury could not tell which was Goldman and which was Ford.

Attacks Stevenson's Speech.

Mr. Lucking, to whom fell the privilege of making the final appeal to the jury, characterized the address of Mr. Stevenson as a powerful appeal to the passions and prejudices of the jury.

"It was insidious, unlawful, a stab in the back," said Mr. Lucking. The lawyer, to illustrate, pointed to the charge of Mr. Stevenson that twenty-four times in twenty-one pages of the Ford booklet Mr. Ford called war "murder." Mr. Lucking gave his own construction of the booklet, and asserted that "Mr. Ford never called any one a murderer."

Mr. Lucking took up the question of the "right of fair comment" claimed by The Tribune in defense of the editorial, and asserted that the right existed with regard to comment on views, but not comment on individuals. He quoted the testimony of Tiffany Blake, chief editorial writer of The Tribune, to show that the editorial was comment on Henry Ford, not his views particularly.

The speaker insisted that it was the "pro-Germanism" of The Tribune which led it to advocate intervention in Mexico, and that the attack on Mr. Ford was due to a malicious resentment of his opposition. He emphasized that while the newspaper paid its employes while they were in the National Guard on the border, it did not do so in the war against Germany.

"The Tribune was not interested in the great war; it opposed it to the last," said Mr. Lucking.

Didn't Mean "Bomb Thrower."

Mr. Stevenson, taking up the alleged libelous editorial, insisted that there was not a word in it anywhere to justify the plaintiff's contention that by "anarchist" The Tribune meant a bomb-thrower, or one who by violent means sought to overturn the Government. Mr. Stevenson read from the editorial one of the alleged libels:

"A man so ignorant of the fundamentals of Government is Henry Ford."

"Well," commented the lawyer, "what did he tell us on the stand? He said he didn't know what the fundamentals were and did not care."

"Ignorant idealist" was the next alleged libelous statement brought up by the lawyer.

"And they put Ford employes on the stand to prove that he could read and write," said Mr. Stevenson. "I was never so shocked in my life."

Mr. Stevenson said he wondered if Mr. Ford would have still opposed sending soldiers to the Mexican border if he had been in Jesse Deemer's place and kidnapped into Mexico, where every day a grinning bandit said: "Mr. Ford, you will be shot in the morning."

"And now comes Mr. Ford and says that his reputation has been ruined, his life blasted, by this editorial," went on Mr. Stevenson. "Nothing but $1,000,000 of Tribune money would heal it! Why, his reputation was so ruined that Michigan, two months after the editorial, gave him the primary vote for President!"

Every step a hammer blow

EVERY step you take with hard leather heels on modern, hard pavements acts as a hammer blow to your nervous system.

The average person, even though his work is indoors, takes 8,000 steps a day—gives his system 8,000 daily jolts and jars. The constant repetition of these shocks exhausts your energies, contributes largely to the state of over-fatigue.

You can eliminate this great cause of fatigue. You cannot change the hard pavements, but you can change your heels. O'Sullivan's Heels absorb the shocks that tire you out. They relieve the jolts and jars that make a burden of walking.

To secure the great resiliency and durability of O'Sullivan's Heels, the highest grades of rubber are "compounded" with the best toughening agents known. The "compound" is then "cured" or baked under high pressure.

It is this special process that has, since the making of the first rubber heel, established O'Sullivan's Heels as the standard of rubber heel quality.

O'Sullivan's Heels are guaranteed to wear twice as long as ordinary rubber heels; and will outlast three pairs of leather heels.

Go to your shoe repairer today and have O'Sullivan's Heels put on your shoes.

O'Sullivan's Heels are furnished in black, white or tan; for men, women and children. Specify O'Sullivan's Heels, and be sure that you get O'Sullivan's—avoid the disappointment of substitutes.

FLIGHT TO COAST WILL START TODAY

First of Pathfinder Airplanes to Leave Mineola on Opening Leg of Trip.

WILL STOP AT HARRISBURG

Remainder of Squadron Will Start Thursday or Friday—Plane to Pass Over City.

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 12.—The first of the pathfinder airplanes will leave Hazelhurst Field at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for Harrisburg, Penn., with Lieutenant C. Leggett of the Department of Aerial Information, Routes and Mapping as pilot, and Lieutenant C. K. Guenther of the same department as observer.

Fifteen of the reserve pilots and observers will leave the field, probably by midnight tomorrow night, on the huge motor trucks which have been prepared for the trip. Their first stop will be at or near Elizabeth, N. J. These reserve men will be sent to various stations where the airplanes will stop on the route to the Pacific Coast and will help in case of an emergency.

A fleet of motor transports will be sent away from the field tomorrow, carrying spare parts for airplanes, the traveling kitchen, and equipment for aiding the men in landing at the fields.

At least two of the airplanes will leave the field on Thursday. It has not been decided at what hour they will depart. The remaining two or three planes will get under way Friday or Saturday. The fliers are scheduled to meet at Zanesville, Ohio, for the first time after leaving the field here.

Lieutenant J. E. Adams, one of the pilots, who will make the trip to the Coast with the squadron, will fly over Manhattan tomorrow and deliver the farewell message to the people thanking them for the hospitality they have shown the men since their arrival here. His plane will be equipped with a radio set and wireless telephone apparatus. President Griggs of the Flying Club of America, will probably receive the message at his offices in the Times Building in Times Square.

Three of the airplanes which flew from Dallas, Texas, several weeks ago on a recruiting trip, left Hazelhurst Field this afternoon to fly to Albany, on the last leg of the trip. After a flight over the New England States, the planes will return to Texas.

Lieut. Col. Henry Claggett, accompanied by Sergeant Ralph Krotz, occupied one of the planes, and the other was piloted by Lieutenant Robert Midiff, with John C. Kilroe, as passenger. There are five machines awaiting the arrival of these three at Albany.

German Federal Council Puts Obstacles in Its Way.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 11.—According to the Handelsblad the new German Constitution accepted by the National Assembly has not yet been signed by President Ebert, so it has not been published. This is partly due to the difficulties made by the Federal Council. When the new Constitution comes into force the present power of the council passes over to the New Imperial Council, which must, however, first be formed.

There have been many denials and counter denials regarding the measure recalling all German paper currency for restamping. This has been the occasion for much speculation and considerable slumps in the market of neutral countries. THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns from a reliable source that the German Minister of Finance intends to carry out the plan of restamping.

ST. JOHN'S GREETS PRINCE OF WALES

he is off, no later than 12 o'clock, to St. John, New Brunswick.

New Brunswick Prepares Greeting.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 12.—Hammers ring out merrily in almost every street of this city as preparations go on apace for the coming of the Prince of Wales on Friday and the preceding day's official welcome to New Brunswick's returned soldiers.

By linking up the two events committees in charge have assured the biggest two days St. John has ever seen, and citizens are aquiver with expectancy. Invitations to all soldiers who served in the war to come to St. John with their families for the two days have been sent out. Women's organizations have arranged to feed thousands at a dozen different points, and a housing bureau is taking the names of hundreds of citizens who are willing to open their homes to lodge visitors.

The program for Thursday, which is being called "Soldiers' Joy Day," includes a parade in the morning, at which firemen's organizations from all parts of the maritime provinces and Maine will take part, boat races on the harbor in the afternoon, and street concerts and fireworks in the evening.

The Prince of Wales will land at Reed's Point at 10 o'clock Friday morning and will be welcomed there by civic, Federal, and provincial dignitaries, as well as representatives of the Governor General, this being the first point at which the Prince will touch Canadian soil.

A guard of honor of 100 returned soldiers, mostly from the famous 26th Battalion, will be drawn up to receive the Prince and 1,400 school children massed on a graduated stand will sing "God Bless the Prince of Wales." Through gaily decorated streets the royal party will then proceed to the armories where formal addresses will be presented.

After this formal ceremony the Prince will proceed to the Barrack Square, where the thousands of returned men, expected to remain in the city from the previous day, will be drawn up for review. Here the Prince will present colors to the 26th Battalion.

The Prince then visits the postoffice where he will unveil a tablet giving the name of every New Brunswick unit serving in the war. Inspection of the new military hospital, after a motor ride to the west side, then follows and afterward comes the official luncheon given by Premier Foster at the Union Club.

At 2:30 P. M. the Prince goes by motor to Rothesay, nine miles from the city, where Lieut. Gov. Pugsley is giving a reception at Government House. This road has been decorated almost for its entire length, and the Prince will pass under a succession of arches.

Rothesay holds historic interest for the Prince, as it was there that his grandfather, King Edward VII., took a steamer for Fredericton in 1860, and the place was named for him, as one of his titles used while traveling in the United States was the "Duke of Rothesay."

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 12.—Governor Milliken of Maine has accepted an invitation to attend the reception here next Friday in honor of the Prince of Wales.

MONTREAL, Aug. 12. — The Italian Government today ordered the dreadnought Conte di Cavour, now in Concepcion Bay, to proceed to Halifax to take part in the welcome to the Prince of Wales there next week, as an expression of "deference toward Canada."

HONDURAS REBELS BEATEN.

Reported Ready to Surrender Town If Amnesty Is Granted.

SAN SALVADOR, Aug. 12.—Honduran revolutionists, according to official reports received today from Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, after being defeated by Government forces under Colonel Santos Fortin at Goascoran, were pursued and routed at Mount Laringlera and later driven out of Guarita. The revolutionists were said to have fled at the first shots, so that it was difficult to capture any of them. The rebels were said to have looted the districts through which they passed.

Proposed operations against La Esperanza, which the rebels are holding, were said to have been delayed while the Government completes preparations for an enveloping movement.

The rebels at La Esperanza, according to an offer made today by a Bishop from Santa Rosa Cepano to President Bertrand, will lay down their arms if guaranteed unconditional amnesty.

A revolutionary dispatch reported General Vicente Tosta had defeated Government forces at Toro and that the latter were fleeing in disorder.

MANY people are putting off the purchase of Linens; waiting for prices to go down. We believe that this is a mistake.

It is our opinion, based on thorough personal investigation of the European markets, that Linen prices will not be reduced for a year or more. McCutcheon's retail prices are in many cases lower than the present wholesale quotations.

Are you a normal Smoker?

This Fatima advertisement may help you find the type of cigarette you will like, whether it happens to be Fatima or not.

"WHICH one of the several forms of smoking will give me the most pleasure and solid comfort?"

That is your real question.

And you can answer it best if you classify your smoking likes and dislikes—if you know whether your smoke taste is, or is not, normal, or like that of most men.

So the first thing to find is the normal smoke-taste. Which smoke, or type of smoke, do most men prefer?

All signs point one way

As between cigars and cigarettes, Chart No. 1 tells the story—the cigarettes have a "walk away."

This is not merely because the cigarette is, as medical men have proved, the mildest form of smoking. Nor is it wholly because of the cigarette's cleanness, convenience and moderate cost. Beyond question, it is due very largely to improvements in the types of cigarettes.

Until about 30 years ago most cigarettes were of straight American (or Domestic) tobacco. Then cigarettes of Turkish tobacco were introduced and the business took quite a jump.

But these clean, mild short smokes did not really strike their gait until "Turkish blend" cigarettes came on the market. These are cigarettes containing both Domestic and Turkish tobaccos in

Then along came the "Turkish blend" blends of various proportions; and Fatima was the first one of this type.

"Turkish blends" seemed to be the smoke that this country had been waiting for.

Look at the increase during recent years shown on Chart No. 1, and notice the tremendous difference in favor of blends on Chart No. 2.

There is no doubt about it—the "normal" smoke-taste goes straight for cigarettes—and for those of the Turkish blend type.

But your taste is your own

Perhaps you are a Turkish blend smoker yourself. If not, your first step towards checking up on your own smoke-taste will be to discontinue your straight Turkish or straight Domestic cigarette long enough to give the blended cigarettes a fair trial.

If—as is quite natural—your taste is unlike that of the majority, you will, of course, go back to your present cigarette.

But do not do this simply because your first two or three blended cigarettes do not ring the bell. There are some pretty bad, as well as some wonderfully good, Turkish blend cigarettes.

What the Army Doctors smoke:

At Ft. Riley, Kansas, where the thousands of doctors from all over the U. S. A. were trained for overseas service, Turkish blend cigarettes were almost the only kind smoked. Incidentally, Fatima was far in the lead from first to last.

Every man's taste is his own and it is, of course, rather ridiculous to find some cigarettes actually claiming to suit the taste of every smoker. Fatima makes no such claim. But you owe it to yourself to try Fatima, the founder of the whole Turkish blend family, before you decide on your final steady smoke.

It may or may not be Fatima

This is the only cigarette above the cheaper brands that has ever won a tremendous, nation-wide popularity.

Fatima's sales nearly double those of all the straight Turkish cigarettes combined; and no other cigarette costing as much as Fatima has even one-half of Fatima's annual sales.

Even at leading clubs and hotels and at the fashionable resorts such as Palm Beach and Atlantic City, Fatima is today outselling the fancy, expensive, straight Turkish cigarettes which formerly enjoyed leadership among smokers with plenty of money.

No, Fatima does not claim to suit every one. But its big sales and high standing indicate that this cigarette does come nearer than any other to meeting the "normal" taste.

The reason may be that Fatima contains more Turkish than any other Turkish blend. This would mean, in other words, that instead of containing too much Turkish as straight Turkish cigarettes do, or too little as in the poorer Turkish blends, Fatima's famous blend contains just enough Turkish—just enough to taste right and just enough to leave a man feeling right even after smoking more than usual.

Tartar on Teeth

Shows You Leave the Film

A 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent to show you its effects. See coupon.

See how teeth glisten when the film is gone.

It is film that makes teeth look dirty. It is film that is the source of most tooth troubles.

Remove the Film

Film is the basis of tartar. It is the source of discolored teeth and decay.

In brushing teeth you leave a slimy film. You can feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Your tooth paste cannot dissolve it. Most tooth troubles are now traced to that clinging film.

That film is what discolors—not the teeth. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. So the one great object in cleaning teeth should be to end that film.

Dental science, after years of searching has found a way to do that. For home use the way is now embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent.

The results are known. Convincing, clinical and laboratory tests have proved them beyond question. Leading dentists everywhere now advocate its use.

A 10-Day Test Supplied

We now send a 10-Day Tube to anyone who asks. Thus we are starting countless people toward cleaner, safer teeth.

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object is to dissolve the film, then to day by day combat it.

The way seems simple, but pepsin must be activated. The usual method is an acid harmful to the teeth. It is the invention of a harmless activating method which makes pepsin possible. That, with other Pepsodent ingredients, is doing now what was never done before.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

Read the book we send you. Learn the reason for these things. Then judge for yourself if you want your teeth kept in that way always. Cut out the coupon now.

GIANTS LIMBER UP FOR CINCINNATI SERIES BY WINNING CLOSE GAME FROM THE DODGERS

BARNES'S PITCHING WINS FOR GIANTS

Jess Turns In His Tenth Straight Victory at Expense of Robins—Score, 2 to 1.

CINCINNATI'S LEAD IS CUT

McGraw's Men Now Four and One-Half Games Behind, as Series Opens with Moran's Redlegs.

By way of limbering up for the whoop-la Cincy series which will be unveiled at the Polo Grounds this afternoon, the Giants had a warming-up canter over at Ebbets Field yesterday. The Giants assumed all the glory in sight, winning by a score of 2 to 1. Jess Barnes did the pitching and it was his tenth straight victory, which equals the major league record for the season, hung up by Bob Shawkey of the Yanks. In this home controversy between the two boroughs this season New York has won ten games and Brooklyn five. The difference between the clubs yesterday, however, was not as wide as the result of the season's series thus far would seem to indicate. The Dodgers' defeat put them in a tie with the Pirates for fourth place.

McGraw's journey-worn lads showed encouraging signs of shaking off the slump which folded them up in the West. Of course it was the fine pitching of Barnes which carried them to victory, but they got eight hits off Clarence Mitchell, scattered over a large area. They bunched a few of them, just enough to nose out the Robins by one run, and no more.

The best part of this visit to Flatbush yesterday is that the Giants were able to cut down Cincinnati's lead half a game, and the all-important rumpus, which starts at 1:30 this afternoon in Harlem, will find the Giants just four and a half games behind the Reds when the ump calls "Play ball." At this stage of the quarrel this is a tidy little lead, and New York will have to flash a lot of improved batting and pitching to cause the Reds any embarrassment.

There are going to be a whole lot of people on hand at this Cincinnati double-header this afternoon, but it won't be necessary for the Moran troupe to wear suits of armor as Cincinnati thinks they will. New York is somewhat heated under the collar about the games, but metropolitan enthusiasm doesn't break out in a wild epidemic as it did out in Ohio when the Giants were out there. No one is going to mob Pat Moran and his men. New York fans are satisfied with just baseball on the menu without any extra course such as bottle throwing and brawls.

Larry Doyle, who has been out of the game with injuries, was back on the job yesterday and was as spry as usual. The Brooklyn crowd, as usual, got a lot of fun when any of the Giants failed to deliver the goods. Benny Kauff was their particular target yesterday. Benjamin came up on three different occasions, with men aboard the sacks, but he couldn't smack out a hit or anything that looked like one. Benny got back at the hooters in the ninth inning just the same.

Kauff Has His Revenge.

In the ninth the crowd stood up and tried to stir the Robins up to a point where they might produce a rally. The Brooklyn idol, Zach Wheat, was the first man to face Barnes in this last session. Wheat poled a mighty wallop between right and centre field, which was ticketed for three bases. Little Benny, after a hard run, plucked the ball from cloudland, whereupon all the howling standees sat down very quietly. Hy Myers was the next batter, and he in turn was implored to start something. Barnes fanned Hy before Myers took the bat from his shoulder to wave at the third strike. Konetchy was Brooklyn's last hope. He rolled a grasser to Fletcher and the New York captain chucked him out at first.

The Robins got only six hits off Barnes and two of these were bunched in the first inning with an error by Heinie Zim, which produced Brooklyn's only run. After that, one hit was the most the Robins got in any one inning. Barnes had wonderful control and didn't spill a pass.

Oodles of excitement when the Giants came to the bat in the first. Burns was safe on Konetchy's muff of Ward's toss, which made the Flatbush natives moan. Young rolled to Olson, who made a wild flip to Johnston to force Burns and all hands were safe. If the fans were sad before, they were almost despondent now. Fletcher rolled to Konetchy, who threw Burns out at the plate on a close decision. Doyle fanned, and the disposition of the crowd was bright again. Kauff hoisted a high fly to Konetchy and the danger was over.

The Robins culled a run in their portion of the chapter. After Olson had lofted to Kauff, Johnston beat out a hit to deep short, on which Fletcher made a great stop. Griffith forced Johnston, and Zach Wheat was safe when Zim fumbled his high bounder. Hy Myers chopped a sizzling single to centre, and Griffith scored. Konetchy died at first for the third out.

Giants Tie It Up.

The Giants got this run back in the second. Zimmerman singled to centre, and was forced by Chase. Hal went down on Gonzales's out at first. Barnes clipped a single down through second and Hal raced home with the dead-lock tally.

Fletcher cracked a double against the right field wall in the third with one gone, but Doyle ballooned to Griffith, and Mitchell tossed Kauff out at first, so Fletcher went to seed at second.

Mitchell pitched himself out of a deep hole in the fifth. Burns was safe on Konetchy's foozle and Young rocketed to Myers. On the hit and run play, Fletcher shot a single to left and Burns scampered to third. Burns took a big lead off third and, before he could get back, he slipped and Miller caught him off the bag on a pretty toss to Ward. Doyle walloped a single to centre, Myers attempting to make a shoestring catch. Fletcher went to third on the bang and was ready to try for home. For the third time in the afternoon Kauff came to the bat with runs on the corners screaming to be scored. Benny couldn't do a thing to help the situation, and Mitchell tossed him out at first.

Break Comes in Sixth.

The Giants stepped out in front in the sixth. Zimmerman poked a single to centre and, on a hit-and-run play, Chase singled to right, sending Zim to third. As Olson was disposing of Gonzales at first, Heinie crossed the plate, Hal going to second. Barnes hoisted to Griffith and Johnson tossed Burns out at first.

It was Barnes's turn to excavate himself from impending disaster in the eighth. Olson bounced a hit off Zim's mitts and Johnson cracked a single to right. It was a hit-and-run play, and Olson could have gone to third but Chase fooled him by making him believe that he had the ball. Griffith smacked a red-hot liner to Fletcher, who doubled Olson before he could start back to second.

BUSHERS BEAT WASHINGTON

Rail Lights of Toledo Down Senators by 7 to 2 Score.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 12.—The Rail Lights, a local semi-professional baseball club, pounded Fuller for six runs, one of which was a four-base hit, in the second inning and the Washington American League Club was defeated in an exhibition game here today, 7 to 2. The visitors were unable to solve Bell's delivery, Gharrity, a pinch hitter, fanning for the final out of the game.

Curves and Bingles.

Better get out to the Polo Grounds early this afternoon and see the Giants and the Cincinnatis practice. One team always warms up better than it plays in a game and sometimes both of them do.

The system of attack employed by the Giants in Brooklyn yesterday was the hit and run. Not once did they use the sacrifice hit in carving out their runs.

The Dodgers tried to use the hit and run in the eighth but without success. After Olson singled off Zim's glove, Johnston singled as Olson was on his way to second, but for some unknown reason Olson stopped when he could have made third. At the keystone sack he was trapped as the second victim of a double play.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson of the Robins thinks that the Reds will win the pennant because he says all the clubs around the circuit will make a greater effort to beat the Giants than they will to down the Reds.

Another advantage which the Reds have is that they are going so fast that they are carried along by their own momentum. It was the same way with the Boston Braves in 1914. They went at top speed and everybody said that they would crack under the strain. But they didn't and maybe the Reds won't.

New York is a little better off in reserve strength than the Reds and the second string men may play a prominent part in this series, which is all clogged up with double-headers. Six games in three days will wear down the strength of any club.

Ivan Olson may make mistakes on the ball field, but the terrible Swede also unravels some tip-top ball. He made stops on Fletcher in the seventh, and on Chase in the eighth, which were sensational, and flipped both runners out at first on throws which had to be perfectly timed.

The fact that nine of the Giants were left stranded on the bases shows how well Clarence Mitchell was southpawing in the pinches.

The Yankees go West this evening and will open their road trip in Detroit. Huggins plans to use Carl Mays in one of the games.

It can't be said that Ban Johnson is much of a baseball fan. He hasn't attended a ball game at the Polo Grounds during his last two visits to this city.

DUEL OF CURVES IS WON BY COVELESKIE

Indians' Flinger Outpitches Mogridge and Yanks Lose by 2 to 1 Score.

As a parting shot the Cleveland Indians lowered the Yankees into the depths of despair with another defeat at the Polo Grounds yesterday, making more dangerous the location of the Miller Huggins clan in the American League standing. The game concluded the Yankees' home stand until the end of the month, and as a sort of farewell the Indians hopped on Southpaw George Mogridge in the sixth inning and won the game. The count was measured by 2 to 1.

The Yankees leave town tonight hanging by a thread to a berth in the American League's select quartet. The mauling St. Louis tribe beat Boston while the Yankees were fighting tooth and nail against defeat by the Indians, and the Browns are only one game behind the Huggins lads. The Yankees open their coming Western tour with Detroit, while the Browns will square off next against the lowly Athletics. The outlook, therefore, is not exactly rosy for the local contingent. There must be a decided brace in the Yankee play if the team is to remain in the first division.

George Mogridge finished on the wrong end of an interesting pitching duel with Stanley Coveleskie. The Yankee southpaw worked hard for victory over the entire distance. He had superb control and a baffling variety of offerings, which had the Indians' bats unproductive except in the sixth stanza. Tris Speaker's athletes managed to connect for five safeties, three of them coming in the sixth. But two passes were distributed, Graney and Wood being the beneficiaries, and they were discounted.

At times Mogridge thought he had ten men against him. Nine of them were the Indians and the tenth was Umpire Hildebrand, who held the indicator. Mogridge frequently questioned the decisions of the arbiter, and in no uncertain terms. So did the crowd of 5,000. But Hildebrand kept right on umpiring without any visible sign that he noticed the verbal barrage showering about him.

Coveleskie in Great Shape.

Coveleskie, too, pitched in excellent form, and refused to allow the Yankees to cluster any hits on him, with the exception of the eighth inning, when a brace of hits saved the Yankees from the humiliation of a shut-out. Coveleskie allowed six hits and didn't issue a pass.

Coveleskie's work was not the only interference with the Yankee plans for victory. Tris Speaker, major domo of the team, since the withdrawal of Lee Fohl, twice shut off promising Yankee rallies with brilliant plays and glittering catches. Speaker's first bit of execution against the Hugmen came in the seventh inning when he engineered a double play which choked off a Yankee run at the plate. In the ninth, with the Yankees fighting right up to the last ditch, Speaker corralled a drive off the bat of Wally Pipp, which seemed ticketed for an extra base below in right field. What looked like the tying run for the Yankees was on second base in this instance. Then, as a climax, Joe Wood made a spectacular catch of Del Pratt's drive over near the right field stockade, ending the game.

Joe Harris, battle-scarred first baseman of the Indians, demonstrated that his automobile accident while serving with the army in France has not dimmed his playing ability. Harris carried off the day's batting laurels with a collection of three hits in four trips to the plate, and was effective around the first corner. One of his blows, in the sixth inning, scored Speaker with the Indians' second run, after the Cleveland manager had chased Graney home with the opening counter.

Graney started what proved to be the Indians' winning rally with a double off Pipp's shins in the sixth. Pipp ran in on this grounder, although it appeared that Pratt was set for the play and in good position. Ray Chapman dropped a neat sacrifice bunt down along the first base line, enabling Graney to reach third. From this corner, the Indian left fielder scored later on Speaker's drive to left. Tris immediately pilfered second, and raced home with his team's second run when Harris lashed a single to centre, making his third straight hit of the day. Del Pratt robbed Gardner of a single to right when he raced over and scooped up the Cleveland third baseman's vicious grounder in time to toss Gardner out at first. On this play, Harris reached second, but he was stranded there when Pipp took care of Wambsgans's grounder over first.

The Yankees came right back in a spurt of their own in the seventh and only a rifle-bullet throw and a brilliant recovery by Steve O'Neill, prevented a New York score. J. Franklin Baker opened this session with a single to right and reached second when Gardner booted Lewis's grounder. A well placed sacrifice bunt by Pipp advanced the runners a base in their travels and then Pratt lined a rocket into the waiting hands of Speaker in centre. The drive carried Speaker into deep centre field and looked like a sure sacrifice fly. Baker tore past third, hitting on all six. Speaker quickly whipped the pill to the plate, where it fell a little short, but O'Neill stepped out and took the ball on a bound in time to tag out Baker just as the latter started a fadeaway slide.

Yanks Saved from Shut-out.

In the eighth the Yanks got their lone marker. Speaker speared Bodie's rocket to centre and Muddy Ruel followed with a hit to short which almost knocked Chapman over. Ruel advanced on Mogridge's sacrifice and Chick Fewster rapped out a single to left, sending Ruel home.

Sam Vick captivated the crowd with the day's fielding gem in the second inning, when a pair of Indians were aboard the bases impatient to be off to the plate. Harris opened this inning with a single to right, the first hit off Mogridge. Gardner forced Harris at second with a rap to the box and Wambsgans popped up in front of the plate to Ruel. Gardner pilfered second and Wood drew a pass. O'Neill followed with a hard-hit drive to right which Vick collared with one hand after a run that brought him smack up against the grandstand wall.

"CZARISM TO GO"—HUSTON.

Yankee Magnate Thinks Ban Johnson's Power Will Be Curbed.

The arbitrary authority which has always been used by President Ban Johnson will be curbed at the meeting of the Board of Directors of the American League here tomorrow, if such action is within its power. According to Colonel T. L. Houston of the New York club the body has this power. President Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees is a member of the board.

Colonel Huston said yesterday that it was the hope of the board that czarism be eliminated from American League baseball.

"Hereafter in the league," said Colonel Huston, "we want to see anybody who is accused of anything get a fair deal. We want to see an end to snap-judgment rule such as has been practiced in the past. If any player or official is accused of violation of the league code, we want to see him get a hearing and a fair trial and be heard before decision is made in his case. Such arbitrary rule as has been practiced in the American League is un-American and it is going to be a thing of the past if it is in our power to bring about such a change."

From this statement of the objects of the meeting of the Board of Directors, it is believed that President Johnson will be stripped of much of his power when he appears before the board tomorrow. It is certain that the board will lift the suspension of Mays, and baseball men were of the opinion last night that the matter would be adjusted before it was necessary to ask for a permanent injunction in the case on Friday.

CONFER ON POLO GROUNDS.

Comiskey Discusses Lease of Park with Manager McGraw.

President Charles W. Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox, who is in this city to attend the meeting of the Board of Directors of the league tomorrow, had a conference last night with Manager and Vice President John McGraw of the Giants over the arrangement by which the American League Clubs play at the Polo Grounds. Comiskey and McGraw have been close friends for many years and, half a dozen years ago, they took the Giants and White Sox around the world.

The American League plays at the Polo Grounds under a temporary arrangement and Mr. Comiskey, in behalf of the American League, is anxious to secure some sort of a permanent lease. The New York Club of the National League has not been disposed to give the American League much of a foothold at its home, although the arrangement has now become so familiar with the fans that it is not believed the Yankees will build a new baseball park if they can get a satisfactory lease under Coogan's Bluff. Comiskey and McGraw talked over the matter last night and will discuss it again before the Chicago man leaves town.

The Yankees for some time have been considering plans to build a new park in the Long Island City section of Long Island.

MIDDIES' ELEVEN AT WORK.

Light Practice Until Aug. 15, When Stiff Work Will Begin.

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 12.—The Naval Academy football squad will have a big advantage over those of other colleges in the fact that it has the new class of 700 members for the Summer and is able to make the most of the material which it contains.

Summer athletics are now in session at the Academy. While these sports are of interest and value in themselves, the athletic officials at the Academy are also making them the means of developing material for the football squad. On Aug. 1 practice started under the direction of Lieut. Commander W. A. Richardson, formerly an Academy player, and John Wilson, up to this year coach of the St. John's College team. On Aug. 15 Gilmour Dobie, the head coach, will take charge, and on Aug. 30 all Summer athletics will end, and football will occupy the stage exclusively. The squad of last year's players will be back about Sept. 15 or 20, so that Dobie will have a full month with the new men and will be in a position to pick those who will be assigned to the main squad.

All branches of sports now in progress have some men on the squad who are being watched with special interest by the football coaches. Huntington, now stroking one of the fourth class crews, is the centre of much interest, and there is more than a chance that he will drop into the place of Bill Ingram, Captain and half back of the football team and stroke of the crew, who graduated last June. Huntington weighs 191 pounds and stands a half inch over 6 feet. He rowed and played football at St. Paul's School, and Lieut. Commander Morrison, who is directing rowing here, says that he will make one of the best strokes the Academy has ever had, and is likely to make the place on the 'Varsity boat the first year.

In football, Huntington is just as promising. In addition to his weight and strength he has speed and a fine athletic head. He has always played on the line, but the great need is for backs, and he may be made a backfield man under Dobie's coaching.

The biggest job on Dobie's hands this Fall is to build up a backfield. This section was weakened by the loss of such sterling players as Ingram, Butler, Roberts, and Orr.

NEWARK GETS EVEN BREAK WITH LEAFS

Effective Pitching Decides Issue in Both of Toronto's Farewell Appearances.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 12.—George Gibson's Toronto Maple Leafs, making their last appearance of the season here today, split even in a double-header. Newark won the first game, 6 to 0, while Toronto came through a winner in the nightcap affair, 4 to 1. Pat Shea pitched one of the best games he has twirled for Newark this season in letting Toronto down with five scattered hits, while Bugs Hersche, who beat Newark in the second game, allowed only four hits.

Two Newark players were chased from the second game. Jacob was called out on strikes in the sixth and talked so much that he was ordered off the field, while in the eighth Paddy Lyons, the Newark pitcher, was banished for kicking on a decision at second base. Letter's fielding was one of the features in both contests. He pulled down nine flies, making two sensational catches.

SKEETERS WIN WITH RALLY.

Bill Donovan's Lads Beat Rochester in Ninth by 7 to 6 Score.

In a spectacular finish Bill Donovan's ball players came from behind in the ninth inning of yesterday's game with Rochester at the Jersey City ball park and wiped out a two-run lead gained by Rochester with an accumulation of three tallies and gave the Skeeters a 7 to 6 victory.

In their final turn at the bat Jersey City slammed out five hits, one a double by Tom Denoville and another a three-bagger by Frank Wigglesworth. Donovan's boys made a fine beginning by hitting Pitcher Conifrey at a lively clip in the second and third innings, stringing together seven hits in these frames for a count of four runs. Conifrey was sent to the baths at the end of the third and Carls was given charge, proving effective until the curtain act, when the Skeeters got after him, putting him out of commission after Denoville had doubled and Wigglesworth had scored him with his triple.

Ogden was the relief pitcher, but Kingston led off with a safe bunt, scoring Wigglesworth with the tying run. Kane singled and Cobb, batting for Hudgins, singled to the infield and the bases were full.

Biemiller won his own game by bunting toward first, and as Lamar made a low throw to O'Neil at home Kingston dashed in with the victory.

PURCELL AND WALLACE WIN.

Reach Semi-Finals in Golf Tournament for Herald Cup.

After escaping unscathed through two decades of golf competition, the Herald Cup, emblematic of the public parks championship of this city, is in dire peril of being permanently captured today over the Van Cortlandt links. Yesterday Walter F. Purcell, the left-handed Dunwoodie player, and William Wallace of Brooklyn Forest Park Golf Club, both of whom hold legs on the trophy, won their separate ways into the semi-final brackets. It is required to win the trophy twice to remove it permanently, and in the long time that the competition has been held, no one has appeared with few enough shots to accomplish the feat. Wallace has a particularly hard stumbling block in this morning's round, as he meets A. F. Poinsette of the Newspaper Golf Club, who defeated Fred Bamman yesterday by the margin of 2 and 1, although Bamman had a medal score of 74. Naturally Poinsette was attending to business when he defeated a player with that score. His own medal score was 72.

Purcell will meet R. H. Brooke of the New York Golf Club this morning in the lower half of the draw. Brooke is a veteran golfer and a hard man to defeat in a match. Purcell was not pressed very hard yesterday, winning from E. L. Rohdenberg in the morning, 4 and 2, and from W. T. Gotelli, 5 and 4, in the afternoon. Gotelli played very well against the left-hander to the turn, where he was 1 down. He lost the short eleventh, however, and tossed away the twelfth, where he had almost a sure victory.

Purcell put one ball into the lake and made a poor third. Gotelli had only played one stroke at this time and was lying nicely for his 4. With every chance in the world at his disposal, he proceeded to hit two in succession into the lake and was 3 down going to the hills. Purcell had him on the go at this point, won two more holes, and settled the match on the fifteenth green, 5 and 4.

Brooke, Purcell's opponent in the lower semi-final, had a hard afternoon match with Martin Kammer, unattached, finally winning out 1 up, 20 holes. There was plenty of action, very few holes being halved all the way around the course. Brooke was 2 up at the eighth, but a flock of shots on the ninth, none of which availed him much, left him but 1 up at the turn. Beginning with the ninth, Kammer won three holes successively, putting himself 1 up as they came to the hill holes. Brooke erased this lead at the fourteenth, and the match came to the home green all square. On the first extra hole both got 5's, and Brooke finally settled the contest with three good putts on the twentieth green, where both were on the green in 2 and took seven putts between them, Kammer taking the large end with four separate and distinct putts.

Bill Wallace almost caught a Tartar in the person of young Richard Walsh, a local boy of some eighteen Summers. They halved the first four holes in par figures, and then after both had played poor second shots, Wallace laid Walsh a stymie and won the hole. The youngster came back immediately, however, taking the sixth with a 4 and squaring the match. The next two were halved, and then the Brooklyn golfer took a long time and many shots to reach the ninth green, with the result that the local boy was there before him, 1 up. On the twelfth hole Walsh took a brassie for his second shot and broke his club, his ball going into the rough. This upset him a bit and he lost the hole, going to the hills all square.

On the fourteenth hole the youngster was a bit short on his second and rolled over the green on his third, losing the hole. On the sixteenth he topped his drive and was out of it when Wallace laid a fine second shot dead to the pin, putting himself dormie 2. The seventeenth and deciding hole was halved in 4, giving Wallace the match 2 and 1.

The summaries:

Second Round—W. Wallace, Brooklyn Forest Park, defeated H. Serino, Newspaper G. C., 3 and 2; Richard Walsh, unattached, defeated R. Seeley, unattached, 2 and 1; A. F. Poinsette, Newspaper G. C., defeated F. D. Bamman, unattached, 2 and 1; T. J. Tobin, unattached, defeated A. C. Moore, New York G. C., 4 and 2; Walter F. Purcell, Dunwoodie, defeated E. L. Rohdenberg, North Jersey, 4 and 2; W. T. Gotelli, unattached, defeated J. G. Fraser, Scottish-American, 2 and 1; M. Kammer, unattached, defeated T. Lomas, Scottish-American, 6 and 5; R. H. Brooke, New York G. C., defeated M. T. Clifford, Woodhaven, 7 and 6.

Third Round—Wallace defeated Walsh, 2 and 1; Poinsette defeated Tobin, 3 and 2; Purcell defeated Gotelli, 5 and 4; Brooke defeated Kammer, 1 up, 20 holes.

ADVICE TO HARVARD SQUAD.

Football Candidates Get Directions for Summer Training.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 12.—In a communication addressed to all candidates for the Harvard 'Varsity football team, Dr. Edward H. Nichols warns the men against taking off weight during the Summer, which will cause them to go stale before the big games are played. A heavy lineman can afford to come back to Cambridge from twelve to fifteen pounds overweight, while light ends and backs should carry from seven to ten pounds surplus when they report to head coach Bob Fisher next month.

Dr. Nichols has been connected with Harvard football and baseball as club physician for the past ten years. His letter, which gives the prospective candidates for the team considerable advice, has been mailed by the Harvard football management, and is preceded by a communication signed by Coach Fisher. The head coach, in his statement addressed to all candidates for the football team, writes as follows:

"Football practice will begin at Cambridge on Sept. 8. This preliminary work, because of the present conditions, is more necessary than ever before for the proper development of the team.

"Each candidate should carefully study the football rules for 1919 before returning for practice. It is also equally important that as many candidates as possible practice punting, drop kicking, goals from placement, kick-offs, and passings. In other words, make an endeavor to thoroughly familiarize yourself with the kicking and handling of the ball.

"It will be necessary this Fall to develop practically an entire team from unknown material. Consequently, each candidate has an unusual opportunity to make a place for himself on the 1919 eleven.

"To insure a successful season the cooperation of every man is vitally important."

Dr. Nichols's letter is as follows:

"1. Do not try to reduce your weight during the Summer. Players often return in the Fall boasting that they are 'down to weight.' This is very undesirable. Men should come back well above playing weight, so that the coaches may have weight to take off during the preliminary work. Do not worry. Your weight will be taken off after you get back. Men who come back 'down to weight' almost invariably 'go fine' before the season is finished. Heavy linesmen should be from 12 to 15 pounds over weight. Light backs and ends from 7 to 10 pounds. Do not try especially to regulate your diet. Food as provided in families is better.

"2. Exercises. Any exercise which increases speed and co-ordination is desirable, such as handball, fives, tennis, and baseball. Do not, however, overdo. Nine sets of tennis a day is too much for anybody. Swimming is one of the very best of conditioning sports, provided it is not overdone. Golf is a good game for general condition.

"3. Special exercise. All backfield men should practice passing the ball. All punters and drop kickers should have enough practice kicking so they do not strain muscles when they first come back. All men should practice quick starts daily for the last three weeks of vacation, not from a sprinter's start but from a football crouch. The point of all special exercise is to get the muscles that you will use in football hard enough so that we don't have a lot of charley horse and sprains at the beginning of the season. Come back over weight, eager to exercise and not tired."

TOP-NOTCH FIELD FOR OAKMONT GOLF

Many Stars in Entry List of 130 for National Amateur Title—Pairings Announced.

The present national amateur champion and five former title holders are named to play in the pairing list which the U. S. G. A. gave out last night for the preliminary qualifying round for the national golf title, which begins over the Oakmont links at Pittsburgh Saturday morning at 9:15 o'clock. There are 130 names in all, thus showing that it was a wise move that the U. S. G. A. made in deciding to hold an extra qualifying round.

The former national champions listed to play are Jerry Travers of Upper Montclair, four times winner, 1907, 1908, 1912, and 1913; Bob Gardner of Hinsdale, now playing from Onwentsia, winner in 1909 and 1915; Francis Ouimet, winner in 1914 at Ekwanok; E. M. Byers of Pittsburgh, winner in 1906 at the Englewood Country Club; W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, winner in 1910 at Brookline, and Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater, Chicago, the defending champion. This list is all the more formidable since it includes the winner of every amateur championship since 1905, with the sole exception of Harold Hilton, the English golfer. It also takes in the only three amateur golfers who won the national open title of this country, Ouimet, winner at Brookline in 1913; Travers, winner at Baltusrol in 1915, and Chick Evans, winner at Minikahda in 1916.

Travers Only Metropolitan Player.

Of this select list of former champions, the metropolitan district can only boast of one home player, Jerry Travers, but in his assault on the titular throne for the year in amateur golf he will be ably assisted in endeavoring to settle the title in metropolitan circles by Oswald Kirkby of Englewood, metropolitan amateur champion; G. L. Conley, Westchester champion; Max Marston, New Jersey State title holder and winner of countless invitation tournaments and medals this season; John G. Anderson of Siwanoy, twice runner-up in the national title tilt; Henry J. Topping, a recent recruit from the fields of France; Gardiner White, winner of the National Golf Links Tournament last week, and a few of the veterans of the district, led by such a doughty campaigner as John M. Ward of Garden City. If Travers fails the local golf enthusiasts they look for Kirkby to come through, as it seems about time for him to reach the summit after so many years of high-class golf.

Francis Ouimet leads the New England delegation, and as he has been playing right up to the hilt lately, he is looked upon as a prime favorite for the event. Jesse Guilford, the long-hitting Woodland player, will not start, as business cares have prevented him from playing much on the links of late, but Ouimet has Fred Wright, Jr., Larry Paton, and a few other first-class players to help out that section of the country.

Fownes on Home Links.

E. M. Byers and W. C. Fownes, Jr., the last named playing over his home course, will have a bit the edge on the other contestants, due to familiarity with the course, but with such a high class field as this it is doubtful whether this advantage will be worth much. However, both these golfers are seasoned campaigners, and as one chap who has played them both in days past said recently, "They are two tough birds to beat any time, anywhere."

Nelson Whitney of New Orleans, and Bobbie Jones and Perry Adair of Atlanta, are the hope of the Southern delegation. Jones has been playing wonderful golf lately. His work in the Western open and the Canadian open championship, where he finished in a tie for second place with Long Jim Barnes, stands out as one of the best amateur performances of the year. He also played top-notch golf in the recent international matches with the Canadians at Hamilton.

Chicago absolutely counts on Chick Evans and Bob Gardner, and it has reason enough for its trust. Evans has long stood at the head of the list when it comes to the actual number of shots that a golfer has in his bag. Through the green, he consistently outplayed the amateur field for years, but his putting kept him from actually grasping the title. With renewed confidence in his touch on the green, due to a change in putters and also perhaps to the winning of his two national titles, Evans will be particularly hard to defeat. Gardner is reliable because he has not only the ability but the fighting temperament. In any event, it should be a grand fight among all these former national title holders for the highest amateur honors of 1919.

AMERICAN AND AUSTRALIAN TENNIS TEAMS DIVIDE HONORS IN NATIONAL DOUBLES

AUSTRALIAN TENNIS STARS BREAK EVEN

Brookes and Patterson Defeat Williams and Washburn in National Doubles Play.

COMPANION PAIR A LOSER

Thomas and Lycett Bow to Alexander and Voshell—McLoughlin's Team Wins Again.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 12. — International tennis honors were divided today in the second round of the national doubles championship at the Longwood Cricket Club. Norman Brookes and Gerald Patterson, leading the Australian invasion, defeated the New England champions, Richard Norris Williams, 2d, and Watson M. Washburn, in straight sets, 6—2, 6—3, 8—6, while the other pair of visitors, R. V. Thomas and Randolph Lycett, bowed to Frederick B. Alexander and S. Howard Voshell in a five-set struggle, 3—6, 6—2, 6—0, 2—6, 6—3.

The winners will meet tomorrow afternoon in the upper semi-final. The lower half brought out the former American champions, Maurice McLoughlin and T. C. Bundy, who won easily today from the Middle Atlantic team, Conrad B. Doyle and Fred H. Harris, 6—3, 8—6, 6—2, and will meet William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin tomorrow. The latter combination advanced through the default of the southwestern representatives, L. Thalheimer and Leven Jestor, who were unable to make the long trip to Boston.

The victory of the Australian stars this afternoon was the second registered by them over Williams and Washburn within a week of their landing in America, and left no possible doubt of their superiority to this particular combination. Errors were the undoing of the New Englanders, and many of them came at crucial moments when the logically successful shots might have turned the tide, at least temporarily, in their favor. Williams again played fatally with his luck, and few of the customary breaks came his way. His greatest weakness was in volleying, and here his preference for the singles over the doubles game was sharply emphasized. In singles the ex-champion is accustomed to scoring cleanly on the first or second volley of a rally, but today he found the ball coming back to him again and again, with the result that he almost invariably netted, sooner or later.

Washburn was in and out, accomplishing less than usual with his individual forehand stroke, but generally volleying and lobbing effectively. He slipped up on some easy chances in the pinches, however, and was far from the game he displayed here over two weeks ago.

Patterson's Shots Spectacular.

Patterson was the most spectacular man on the court today, but many of his flashiest shots were made possible by the unfailing steadiness and headwork of Brooks. In the final game of the match, when the veteran trailed at love-forty on service, it was his own coolness that made deuce a possibility and led to the openings which gave Patterson the two dazzling kills that brought victory. Many of the great internationalist's recoveries were more than merely steady. They were gets of the most sensational type. It was exceedingly fast tennis all the way, and the team which combined safety with speed was the logical and actual winner.

Brookes opened the service, and the first break came against Washburn in the fourth game, the veteran's second winning delivery bringing the score 4—1. Williams was unable to win another service, but Patterson's irresistible sweeping racquet made it 5—2, and the set went at 6—2 when Washburn's delivery was again upset.

The Americans had a golden opportunity when they broke through the left-handed offerings of Brookes in the fifth game of the second set. But Williams lost his service after a long game, in which deuce was called no fewer than seven times, and when Patterson promptly served a love-game the set was tied up at 3—all. A wonderfully quick volley by Patterson, close up, aided in bringing the decisive break against Washburn, and Brookes took the set, 6—3, with another service whitewash.

Bad volleying by Williams lost him a scoreless opening service in the third set and Brookes made it 2—0, with the loss of only one point. Washburn, volleying well, served a love game, and Patterson kept his service ahead, 3—1. With another session of good serving, Williams then won his game, scoring the final point when Patterson skied a fast one to the grandstand behind him. A wonderful recovery by Washburn of a smash which almost bounced into the seats chased Patterson to his baseline at the start of the next game, the Australian falling in an unsuccessful effort to make a counterlob, with Brookes netting two volleys as he came in, and his partner another. The game went against the server, equalizing the breaks and squaring the set, 3—all.

Washburn's Fine Placement.

Washburn won his service with a fine stab to the side which resulted in a scoring volley. But the same player missed a set-up in the next, wasting a good chance to break through Patterson's service, which ultimately made the games 4—all. Williams won his delivery after the points had been deuced with an extraordinary rally in which Patterson emerged victorious from a lightning exchange of volleys close up. Brookes, Washburn and Patterson also scored on service, bringing the games to 6—all. Then Williams made four costly errors in a row, netting two half-volleys as he rushed to the barrier, and twice flubbing the ball in the air on difficult chances.

It was the break which meant the match. Brookes was in the hole at love-40, but Williams presented him with an out, off service, and two more errors made it deuce. One match point was canceled by a lucky net-corder, Williams throwing the ball a kiss as it trickled over. But a remarkable volley by Patterson of a drive by Washburn made it vantage once more, and, when the young Australian giant got his racquet on a soft one overhead in the next rally it was all over at 8—6, with a clean kill to the bleachers.

Thomas and Lycett Fight Hard.

Alexander and Voshell found Thomas and Lycett a harder proposition than had been anticipated, and in two of the five sets were completely outplayed by the Australians. Alexander was slow in getting started, and found constant difficulty in putting the ball in play from the opposing service. He steadied gradually, however, and was reliable in the pinches. Voshell also warmed up slowly, but succeeded in putting more speed than usual into his ground strokes and held his own throughout, with volleying and overhead smashing. His service was at all times a powerful weapon. Thomas also uncovered a service which the Americans found exceedingly hard to handle, and with good volleys and drives to support it, he proved by far the stronger of the visitors. Lycett drove well in the early stages of the match and occasionally killed the ball overhead in impressive style. But his service was not sufficiently aggressive, and he was often completely beaten by fast shots dropping at his feet. The Americans experimented unsuccessfully with the Australian doubles formation in receiving service, and the Colonials themselves eventually abandoned it, both staying well back, at least for the first ball.

Thomas opened with a pair of aces and cleaned up a love-game without having to show his hand further. Voshell's service also proved too good, but after Lycett had won his delivery, Alexander was upset through his inability to volley the fast drives that both Australians kept plugging across. Thomas served another love-game, and, when Voshell replied in kind, it was 4—2 in favor of the visitors. Service alternated once more, and then Thomas put the lid on the set at 6—3. The feature of the closing games was a great lobbing get on the part of Alexander, as well as a fine low lob to the baseline by the same player. The final point came with a volley which tipped the net cord, beating Alexander.

Americans Square the Count.

There was an immediate break against Voshell in the second set and the Australians led, 2—0, with Thomas again serving successfully. Alexander won his delivery with the help of two good smashes by Voshell, and the veteran's fast drive aided in squaring the games at 2—all. Against Lycett, Voshell won with the loss of only one point, a double fault, and on the next game a bad decision was revised in favor of the Australians, leading to a deuce session, which ended in a break against Thomas, the latter temporarily losing control of his volleys. A fine drive down the centre by Lycett failed to stop Alexander from making it 5—2 and, when Thomas fell into a streak of bad smashing, Lycett lost the decision for a 6—2 set, squaring the match.

The Americans, now moving at top speed, proceeded to capture a love set, making twelve games in a row. Both players were driving and volleying with confidence, and they allowed their opponents only nine points in the entire set. But the Australians came back with surprising vigor after the rest period, breaking through Alexander at the outset, and running to 2—0, when Lycett won with a net corder after Alexander's great recovery. Voshell lost his service with a double fault, after misjudging a low lob to the base line, and Thomas made it 4—0 with a deuce game. Alexander managed to score by good serving, but four bad errors in a row by Voshell presented Lycett with a 5—1 advantage. Voshell smashed decisively for a successful service game, which included a clean ace on a second ball, but the set went at 6—2 when Alexander volleyed out after a brilliant rally.

Voshell Smashes Brilliantly.

Service alternated in winning up to 3—2 in the rubber, when two double faults upset Lycett's service, Voshell proceeding to 5—2 with magnificent smashing. It was love—forty against Thomas in the next game, but three errors temporarily saved the match and, although vantage was twice called against them, once for a bad misunderstanding, the Australians eventually pulled out the game with a well-played shot by Lycett. Alexander, however, served without a mistake in his final appearance, and the set and match ended at 6—3 in the Americans' favor.

Ex-Champions Play Well.

McLoughlin and Bundy looked stronger today, in their straight-set victory over Doyle and Harris, than at any time since their arrival in the East. But the opposition of the Middle Atlantic champions was not always of a kind to provide a real test. Harris was exceedingly erratic, and threw away many points to offset the occasionally brilliant shots that came from his racquet. Doyle was steady, but the Californians found his chops easy to volley and hammered him into submission with their sharp angles and sizzling overhead kills. After having two sets in hand, by indentical scores of 6—3, the ex-champions began to take all kinds of chances, and their daring play quickly sent them ahead to 5—0. McLoughlin then dropped his service and Harris followed with a love-game on errors.

With Bundy serving, McLoughlin brought up the match-point by a wonderful stabbing volley of red-hot drives by Harris, the latter lobbing out in his surprise, after which the Comet put on the finishing touches with an old-time smash, closing the set and match at 6—2.

The score by points follows:

Norris Williams, II., and Watson M. Washburn, 6—2, 6—3, 8—6; Maurice McLoughlin and T. C. Bundy defeated Fred M. Harris and Conrad B. Doyle, 6—3, 6—3, 6—2; William M. Johnson and Clarence J. Griffin won from L. Thalheimer and Leven Jestor by default.

HUNTER TWICE A WINNER.

Cornell Man Advances Through Two Rounds of Rockaway Tennis.

Francis T. Hunter, former Cornell player and recent winner of the Eastern New York State singles tennis title, advanced through the third round of the Rockaway Hunting Club's invitation tournament yesterday at Cedarhurst, L. I., playing his usual consistant, hard-driving game.

In the second round he disposed of Walter L. Pate, 6—4, 6—2, and in the third round he had a comparatively easy time in winning from Percy Knyaston, 6—2, 6—3. In both matches his opponents were put on the defensive almost entirely as a result of the powerful drives and smashes of Hunter. Judging from his playing in this tournament, and in previous title play this season, followers of the court expect him to capture the Rockaway event.

Robert Kinsey defeated Alex Iler, 6—2, 6—3. The victor played a steady game, although not relying as much on his back-court tactics as he did in his play Monday.

Walter Westbrook, the young player who formerly held the title of the State of Michigan, defeated Harry S. Parker after a tedious battle in which dashes of spectacular tennis were injected. The first set went to Westbrook, 16—14, but the second set was easier, with a score of 6—1.

The summary:

Rockaway Hunting Club Invitation Tournament Singles.

FIRST ROUND—A. H. Man, Jr., defeated William Rosenbaum, 6—2, 6—1.

SECOND ROUND—Charles M. Bull, Jr., defeated Robert Allen, Jr., 6—0, 4—6, 6—3; Peter Ball defeated Gerald Donaldson by default; Walter Westbrook defeated Harry S. Parker, 16—14, 6—1; Francis T. Hunter defeated Walter L. Pate, 6—4, 6—2; A. H. Man, Jr., defeated William P. Compton, 6—1, 6—1; Theodore R. Pell defeated S. Kashio, 6—3, 6—1; Dean Mathey defeated Frederick C. Baggs, 6—1, 6—3; Robert Le Roy defeated Seton Porter, 6—2, 3—6, 6—3; Robert G. Kinsey defeated Alex Iler, 6—2, 6—3; A. S. Dana defeated Herbert Vall, 6—2, 6—0; Arthur S. Cragin defeated Frank Anderson by default; H. Gadshall defeated H. Nickerson by default; Leonard Beekman defeated Major Harran by default.

THIRD ROUND—Francis T. Hunter defeated Percy Knyaston, 6—2, 6—3.

KENTUCKY STAKES WON BY HIS CHOICE

Ross's Filly Defeats Good Field of Two-Year-Olds—Blazes Wins Another.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—A year ago Commander J. K. L. Ross violated one of his own rules of racing by purchasing a yearling without consulting his trainer, H. G. Bedwell, who handles all of the Ross turf stars. This youngster was a black filly, which was named His Choice because of the manner in which she was obtained, and today she justified the judgment of her owner by winning the Kentucky, a five-and-a-half-furlong dash for two-year-old fillies, one of the most interesting events of the day.

His Choice defeated a good field of youngsters, which included La Rablee, an imported son of Rabelais, owned by H. A. Clark; Betty J., Luke's Pet and several others which have shown good speed. The Ross filly won so handily as to surprise even her owner, who had so much confidence in her.

La Rablee was highly favored for the race and was very heavily backed by the form players, who had seen this colt run a very striking and impressive race only a few days before, though failing to win.

Schuttinger had a rail position with His Choice and got the filly away nicely, but rated her carefully through the first three furlongs. Betty J., which has much speed in the early part of a race, dashed to the front, while La Rablee came along to secure position. Turning into the stretch La Rablee had disposed of Betty J. and was apparently winning when His Choice came through the field of contenders and raced past the leader with considerable ease, to win by three lengths. A. H. Diaz's Azurita took second from La Rablee by a neck in a final dash at the wire, leaving the Clark horse an easy third.

There was some lively bidding for the winner after the race. Samuel Louis, who has been bidding on horses quite frequently recently, ran up the price on the filly in a vain effort to get her. Commander Ross was so pleased with the victory that he continued to better all bids until he finally retained his fleet youngster for $3,805.

Blazes Wins the Sixth.

The two-year-olds were pretty much in the limelight on today's card and provided some very good contests. Ral Parr's Blazes, a brown colt which ran away from all the contenders in his last start to win by fifteen lengths, scored another victory in the last race today at five and a half furlongs.

Blazes did not get out in front so far this time as to make it a runaway race. G. D. Widener's Royal Duck, at one time a very promising youngster, got the best of the start and dashed into the lead, Blazes failing to get a flying start as on his previous trip to the barrier. Royal Duck managed to set a fast pace for the others for an eighth of a mile, when Blazes finally found his feet. The Parr colt began to pass horses so rapidly that they seemed to be standing still and, reaching the last turn, he caught and passed Royal Duck and came down the stretch an easy winner by five lengths.

W. S. Murray's Sandy Beal rushed through for second place, defeating A. H. Diaz's Graysalan in a very pretty final.

Ral Parr's Bug House won the steeplechase event quite easily. Bug House was made the choice over Bachelor's Bliss, which ran away from his field the last time he was out. Bachelor's Bliss attempted to get away from the field again today, but, Crawford, on Bug House, rated his mount a close second all the way, and finally Bachelor's Bliss tired and Bug House had no trouble in passing him at the turn into the stretch and won by six lengths. Bachelor's Bliss lasted to take second, while North Star was third, about a quarter of a mile in front of Saldeza, the Moon jumper, which always manages to trail in last at his leisure.

Mrs. F. A. Clark started her Toppy Nix again in the jumping race, and this fencer once more came a cropper at the fourth jump, throwing his rider, Williams. The jockey was knocked out but recovered in a few moments and was able to walk back to the stands. Toppy Nix fell at the same jump in his previous start.

There was a surprise in the first race when S. C. Hildreth's Arrah Go On was defeated by Samuel Ross's Ballymooney, a 15 to 1 shot. Arrah Go On was a heavily played favorite and seemed to have little opposition in this race, which was at six furlongs for three-year-olds and upward. Fator got Arrah Go On away to a nice start and came up into the lead at the first turn after Adele had faltered. Jockey Musgrave, who had the mount on the winner, came through unnoticed at the stretch turn and, rushing up on the leader, raced Arrah Go On into submission in the final eighth of a mile and won by a length, but driving his mount hard. This was the first winning mount for Musgrave since he was reinstated. Sam Reh, owned by H. H. Hewitt, took third.

Queen of the Sea Is Beaten.

Commander Ross's Queen of the Sea, which was supposed to be the most probable winner of the day, upset her backers in the third race, at a mile and a furlong for three-year-olds and upward. This race was won by the Woodland Stock Farm's Benevolent, with Queen of the Sea second, and Ivry third.

Queen of the Sea, noted as a strong stretch runner, was sent out into the lead and was kept there by Shuttinger. At one time she drew away from her rivals, but the pace told on her and when it came to the finish she could not withstand the rush of Benevolent. Ensor brought the latter along after being straightened out for the last drive and won the race by making a very nice ride in the last furlong. Ivry, which had been shut off at the turn, managed to get clear and pass several horses on the way to the wire and was third.

H. Ember's Huttontrope, which was made favorite in the fifth race, was another disappointment to those who fancied the public choices. He failed to get up among the leaders at the finish and the race went to W. T. Wilkinson's War Rocket, which shot out from the bunch to win handily, while Clean Gone took second and Carpet-sweeper took third.

STAR YOUNGSTERS RACE TODAY

Man o' War to Meet Golden Broom in the Sanford Memorial.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Unless one of them is scratched before post time, Man o' War, the great and undefeated two-year-old owned by the Glen Riddle Farm, and Golden Broom, the recent sensation in this division, owned by Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, will meet tomorrow in the $5,000 Sanford Memorial at six furlongs. This is always one of the important events for the two-year-olds, but it is made more important this time by the presence of such stars.

Man o' War had not had a real rival this year until Golden Broom was sent to the post. The latter did not win his first race, but proved conclusively that when he could run straight he could beat almost anything in his class. He won just as handily on his second start as Man o' War in any of his races, and therefore there has been much interest in getting the two together.

This race promises to decide almost to a certainty the champion of the two-year-old division, and at least will settle the contest among the colts. To make it a decisive test both have been entered at 130 pounds, conceding many pounds to the others in the dash.

Hoofbeats of the Racers.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, Aug. 12.—J. E. Griffith's The Brook, which is regarded as the greatest steeplechase horse in the country, will not be seen again during the Saratoga meeting. The Brook is slightly lame as the result of running a splinter into one of his ankles in his last race, but the chief reason for keeping him out of the races is that he is asked to shoulder so much weight that his owner refuses to let him start. Meantime other fencers are getting penalties and The Brook will probably have to concede less weight when he makes his next start in Maryland.

Mike Daly, who trains Golden Broom, has purchased another fine youngster, a yearling, which he hopes will develop into a star. This one, a colt by Light Brigade-Wild Thistle, cost $10,000.

Incidentally Mike Dal yis credited with starting the fad of high bidding at the yearling sales through the success of Golden Broom, which was the highest priced yearling sold here last season.

R. T. Wilson, Jr., will sell some high-class yearlings this week. He has twelve youngsters, eleven of them by Olambala and one by Ogden, and all regarded as promising racers.

Jockey Phil Musgrave got over his first winner since being reinstated, when he won with Bally Mooney in the first race. But he did not have an altogether pleasant day, for he was thrown from Titania in the fourth race during a jam at the first turn but was not hurt and walked back across the field.

Tim Donohue has about despaired of getting a good race out of Toppy Nix over jumps. Toppy Nix has now fallen in his last two starts and does not seem to get his feet into the air high enough for even the low hurdles.

MONTREAL RACES SEPT. 1.

Jockey Club to Hold Turf Events on Labor Day.

MONTREAL, Aug. 12.—The Montreal Jockey Club announces that it will hold the King's Plate and Provincial Nursery races on Labor Day, Sept. 1. In addition, two races will be contested for brood mares with foal at foot, as an encouragement to breeders and farmers, as there is no recognized racing in Canada.

The Provincial Government has notified the club that the usual grants will be given the breeders of the first four horses in the Plate and Nursery events.

Inability to get the three local tracks—Delorimer Park, Mount Royal, and King Edward Park—in condition by Saturday has postponed the resumption of racing in the Province of Quebec for two weeks.

Several carloads of horses have arrived from New York and Maryland for the meeting and will probably remain here for the opening of the tracks. Charles Campeau, who was to have officiated as one of the judges, left for his home in New Orleans, but horse owners have been notified not to ship to Montreal until further notice.

SPA HANDICAPS GET TOP-NOTCH HORSES

Naturalist and Lucullite Among Limited Field of Star Performers at Saratoga.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Aug. 12.—Although some unusually keen rivalries have been developed among the best of the two-year-olds and three-year-olds this season, the interest of the patrons of racing at Saratoga is turning to the handicap division. These sterling performers of all ages, many of which are just reaching the top of their form, are expected to provide some of the best contests of the meeting.

It is a peculiar circumstance that despite the fact more horses are quartered at Saratoga this year than ever, there are fewer of the top-notch handicap horses than usual. But the Saratoga Association is fortunate in having among this limited number some of the best horses in training in the country, and it is assured that the competition for the championship in this division will not be overshadowed by the battles of any of the younger horses.

The limited field of handicap horses includes such good ones as J. E. Widener's Naturalist, Edward McLean's The Porter, J. W. Parrish's Midway, Sam C. Hildreth's Lucullite and Cirrus, F. D. Weir's Old Rosebud, Harry Payne Whitney's Dominant, which came back to the races this year after a long lay off, and Motor Cop and Billy Kelly, from the stable of Commander J. K. L. Ross.

In addition to these, which are practically certain to start in a number of the big stake events here, there are Sir Barton, Eternal, Vindex, Cudgel, Dunboyne, and one or two others which may measure strides with the other top notchers, but as yet are not certain of being started.

The handicap division promises to provide more good competition than any other, if for no other reason than that there is much doubt as to which of a number of the horses is the best.

Lucullite Is Rated Highly.

In the opinion of many Hildreth's Lucullite tops the list for horses of all ages. Lucullite has run some remarkably good races this season, beating the best that have been sent against him, and showing ability to carry weight and cover a distance of ground. He is a finely built animal, with a remarkable stride and wonderful courage. His popularity with the patrons of the sport this year has come through the manner in which he makes his finishes whenever the decision is close. Lucullite has a habit of throwing his ears back and defying the other contenders to outgame him to the finish line. Lacking the qualities of a sprinter, Lucullite likes a considerable distance, which gives him an opportunity to come from behind, and most of the big stakes will be to his liking.

J. E. Widener's Naturalist is another that has performed admirably this year. Early in the Spring it was said that he had become an in and outer. This charge of inconsistency arose from the fact that he was defeated once or twice only to come back and beat better fields. But it has since developed that he was not ready for his best work at the time he met defeat and once he got into his stride he showed contempt for weight or distance. Give Naturalist a muddy track and few horses in the country will take his measure.

Commander J. K. L. Ross is still placing great reliance in those two great racers, Billy Kelly and Motor Cop, both of which have been going through a course of preparation for the stake events of this meeting. These two are essentially sprinters, but Guy Bedwell, who trains the Ross horses, has been working Billy Kelly over long distances with the intention of making a distance horse of him.

Cudgel May Race.

It is possible also that Cudgel, one of the best and most consistent performers in the Ross stable, will be ready for racing before the Saratoga meeting is over. Cudgel has had some trouble with his legs and has not raced since early in the season at Maryland. But he is reported to be rounding into form after his long rest. Cudgel is so highly regarded by Handicapper Vosburgh that he continues to draw top weight in every event for which he is named.

Among the others, H. P. Whitney's Dominant has run some good races, though plainly showing the need of work to reach top form. The Porter and Midway, though not great weight carriers, were among the best of the horses racing in the West this year.

There is a disappointment in store for the Saratoga patrons in the possibility that Sir Barton, Eternal and Vindex will not start during this meeting. It is said that all three are being rested and pointed for the big stakes in Maryland in the Autumn. Both Sir Barton and Eternal have had a strenuous season and are deserving of a rest. Vindex has done little racing this season, but it has been found difficult to keep him in training.

If Sir Barton fails to start at the Spa the much looked for meeting with Purchase will have to be postponed until the Maryland tracks resume racing. No doubt, this meeting will decide the three-year-old championship, unless some unlooked for development occurs. Sir Barton went stale just before the running of the Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct in which he met defeat at the hands of Purchase, but Bedwell expects to have him in shape for Fall racing. Purchase, on the other hand, seems to be improving with every start, as was indicated in the manner in which he captured the Saratoga Handicap, and his races have been so convincing that his following has been largely increased.

Sennings Park, which was recently purchased by Lawrence Waterbury, the noted polo player, for $25,000, is regarded as one of the top notchers, having won a number of races in select fields, but until he has been raced against Purchase or Sir Barton he can not be considered a real rival to those two.

From a sentimental point of view, many will miss Andrew Miller's aged Roamer in the big handicap events this season. Always a great performer, Roamer had become the idol of the turf. But his recent injury has put him out of training for the season and it is possible that he may not race again, though an effort will be made to bring him back next year if he can recover entirely from the accident suffered here in training.

Local A. A. U. Makes Nominations.

The Nominating Committee of the Metropolitan A. A. U. held its annual meeting yesterday for the purpose of selecting a ticket for the coming annual election of the local A. A. U. No announcement was forthcoming of the ticket decided upon, because it was thought advisable to ascertain from the nominees whether they would accept the nominations. Frederick W. Rubien, it is understood, is retained at the head of the ticket. The committee will disclose its complete list of nominations today.

Giant in West Virginia Squad.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 12.—The biggest man who has been on a West Virginia University football squad in two decades will return this Fall. He is W. S. Rhodes of Point Marion, who weighs 240 pounds and is six feet seven inches in height. He earned his letter here in 1916, then went to the army where he earned a Lieutenant's commission and played considerable football with his regimental team.

GRACE DIRECT THE WINNER.

Takes Principal Stake in Grand Circuit Opening at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Grace Direct, the speedy daughter of Walter Direct, won a hollow victory in the $3,000 stake for 2:06 pacers, the feature of the opening day of the third annual Grand Circuit meeting at the Belmont Driving Club's track at Narberth today.

The race had only three starters and was decided in straight heats. Grace Direct won as she pleased, neither Frank Dewey nor Edward P. being able to push the Tennessee flyer at any stage of the journey, once Driver Sturgeon let go of her head.

The races were decided on the three-heat plan, every heat a race, and the money was well split up.

The 2:13 pace went four heats and furnished the best contest of the day. Ed. Geer's Homefast, driven by Ben Walker, won the opening heat, Prince Pepper the second, and Harper the third. The three heat winners met in the fourth heat, which Harper won easily in 2:13¼.

The 2:08 trot for the A. B. Mathews Cup and a purse of $1,000 furnished good racing. Oscar Watts took the first heat from Mollyrood Kate, which got off to a bad start, but Dodge's mare easily outclassed the field and captured the next two in close finishes.

The other event was for Philadelphia horses only.

The weather was fine and the track in good condition, although not fast. Romey Biggs, of Baltimore, was the starter.

IRISH VOTER BEATS DELCO.

Large Crowd Sees First Day's Harness Racing at Middletown.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 12.—A great crowd, the largest ever in attendance on the first day, witnessed the races on the famous Harry Clay Oval in connection with the opening of the Orange County Fair here this afternoon and cheered the victors. The fields were small, but some of the best horses on the Metropolitan circuit tried for the purses.

The first two races were won in straight heats, but the contests were very spirited and several of the finishes were close. Irish Voter and Delco, in the last race, fought hard for the honors and the former finally captured first money.

The summaries:

HITS BULLSEYE 45 TIMES.

Kennedy Makes Consecutive Score at 600 Yards at Caldwell.

CALDWELL, N. J., Aug. 12.—High scores and bad shooting weather, including a rain storm during the last two relays of the match, caused about 200 of the 600 competitors to drop out of the members' match of the National Rifle Association in today's event at the national rifle matches held here this week at the rifle range of the United States Navy.

First place was won by Corporal Clarence P. Kennedy of the rifle range detachment at Quantico, Va., who shot his match in record time, three shots a minute.

The members' match consisted of ten shots at 600 yards, but Kennedy, after making a perfect score, continued shooting until he had made forty-five consecutive bulls eyes, using no telescope. Eight other contestants made perfect scores, some of them, like Corporal Kennedy, making added bulls eyes. Each bulls eye scored counted five.

The scores:

First—Clarence P. Kennedy, United States Marine Corps, 50, plus 25 bullseyes. Total, 45 consecutive bullseyes.
Second—J. W. Hession, New York Athletic Club team, 50, plus 11 bullseyes. Total, 21 consecutive bullseyes.
Third—R. H. McGarity, District of Columbia civilian team. Score, 50, plus 7 bullseyes. Total, 11 bullseyes.
Fourth—Lieutenant J. S. Wierzbowski, Great Lakes Naval Training Station, 50, plus 6 bullseyes. Total, 16.
Fifth—First Lieutenant L. T. Spooner, American Expeditionary Forces team. Score, 50, plus 4 bullseyes. Total, 14.
Sixth—Captain H. H. Disbrow, American Expeditionary Forces team. Score, 50, plus 2 bullseyes. Total, 12.
Seventh—Gunner O. M. Shriver, United States Marine Corps. Score, 50, plus 1 bullseyes. Total, 11.
Eighth—Commander C. T. Osburn, United States Navy. Score, 50.
Ninth—Sergeant T. B. Crowley, American Expeditionary Forces team. Score, 50.
Tenth—Major H. H. Anderson, United States Cavalry. Score, 50.

A gold medal was awarded to the winner and a bronze medal to each of the other nine named. Corporal Kennedy was the "dark horse" of the match. Tomorrow the 600-yard leg of the Marine Corps match will be shot. This is a historic shoot and promises keen competition.

PLAN BUSY BILLIARD YEAR.

American Amateur Association to Have Tourney in November.

Preliminary plans for an extensive billiard season have been adopted by the officials of the American Amateur Billiard Association.

Hal A. Coleman, acting secretary of the organization, declared that the coming season will probably be the biggest in the history of the "outlaw" billiard body, as it has come to be known because of its dispute with the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players.

The A. A. B. A. season, according to present plans, will get under way with a pocket billiard tournament, which will commence in early November. This event will be a Winter-room affair, in which thirty local academies will be represented. A schedule of matches will be arranged, similar to the schedules of the tournaments held last year, when the A. A. B. A. players went from room to room competing in the organization's tournaments.

TROEH'S EYE TRUE IN GRAND AMERICAN

Western Trapshooter Breaks 200 Clay Birds for Perfect Score at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 12.—The West took first honors today in the national trap shooting championships being held at the South Shore Country Club in this city. Frank Troeh of Vancouver headed the large field in the principal event of the day, the amateur American 18-yard trap shooting championship, with a perfect score of 200. Troeh gave an exhibition of perfect shooting throughout, every clay pigeon being cleanly broken by the entire contents of the shell. In second place came Joe Jennings of Toronto, Canada, who in the 200 missed only two birds. These he missed early in the morning, and though he shot perfectly the rest of the day was unable to overcome Troeh's perfect work.

Wolcott Henderson of Lexington, Ky., held Troeh even as the day progressed. Each string of 20 found them with perfect scores until the last 20. Henderson was the one to crack at this point, missing three in the final string. He tied at 197 with an old plainsman, E. L. Enders of Phoenix, Ari., who with his cowboy hat was the favorite of the large gallery.

Costly Miss for Enders.

Enders had a chance to tie Jennings for second place, but a missed bird in the last 20 spoiled his chances. He lost the shoot-off to Henderson after an exciting contest.

In the first twenty shots neither man had anything that looked like a miss. On his tenth shot in the second twenty, Enders missed and it looked as though he would be defeated then, but two shots later Henderson missed an apparently easy bird. On the third string Henderson was able to keep his score intact while the older Westerner missed on his fifth try.

As proof that the shooting so far in the tourney is beter than has ever been seen in a similar affair, Bart Lewis of Albany, Ill., won the American professional trapshooting championship with another perfect score of 200. C. W. Spencer of St. Louis and Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Mich., tied for second money with 198. Third place went to W. O. Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill., who took a fine 197.

The ten leading amateurs from the East will meet a corresponding number from the West tomorrow, teams to be made up from the leading scores in today's contest.

No New Yorkers featured in today's shoot, all of these entered being well down on the list when the completed scores were turned in.

Ten-Year-Old Boy at Traps.

The youngest entry in any event in the tournament is George Andrew Miller of Brewton, Ala., who boasts of ten years, and who stands almost as high as his 20 gauge. He practiced today, breaking 23 out of the first 25 birds shot at. He has a record of 59 straight, made when he was 9 years old, and is said by his father to be as good on the field as at the traps. He is favorite for the junior title, which will be shot off tomorrow.

The American amateur championships will begin at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and are open to winners or runners-up in the various State championships. All but two States are represented. The contestants will shoot at 200 targets from the 16-yard rise, and Troeh, Enders, Henderson, and Arie are looked upon as the likely winners.

Frank Troeh is the favorite for this event. He has been defeated but once since he entered his first tournament. In addition, his work today showed that he is shooting in perfect form and likely to run another 200 without a miss. Henderson is looked upon as his best rival, though the least slip on the part of either of these men might give the championship to Enders or Arie. There are others who might win also, the day's scores showing that the class of shooting is higher than has ever been seen in any other championship.

"Butch" Jones Is Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Samuel H. ("Butch") Jones, widely known in baseball circles and formerly of the Philadelphia American League Club, died today. He was 67 years old. Mr. Jones spent twenty-nine years in the service of press associations, retiring from the Philadelphia office of The Associated Press in 1906 to take an active interest in the Philadelphia Athletics.

To Direct Athletics at U. of M.

ORONO, Maine, Aug. 12.—George L. Rider, a graduate of Olivet College, formerly athletic director of Miami University and Hanover College, and for the past three Summers a member of the faculty of Harvard Training School, has been secured as athletic director at the University of Maine. He will begin his duties Sept. 1.

Speaking of Colors

Some shades last the life of the wearer. Blacks for instance are faster than browns. You've probably experienced a fade-out (as they say in movie circles) with sun-burn brown—it will wash out in time.

The dyes in Par-amount Shirt patterns will wash out—in time. No dyes will withstand the acids and rough treatment of modern laundries.

But if Par-amount Shirts don't give you the service you think they should, you have the protection of a dyed-in-the-wool guarantee of satisfaction or your money back.

We are not afraid to put it in black and white that Par-amount Shirts at $1.50 and $2.00, in fabric, workmanship and fit, represent the best shirt value it is possible to get.

Try 'em.

SECRET TREATIES.

Dread is the horripilation of the Republican Senators at the discovery of secret treaties, perfectly well known for months, and the equally startling discovery that treaties meant to be kept secret were kept secret. Of secret treaties themselves, long a resource and habit of little and great States while international policies were essentially a matter of dynastic arrangement, and falsehood and deceit were the traditional basis of diplomacy, there can be, of course, but one opinion. BISMARCK'S secret "reinsurance treaty" with Russia by which, for a number of years, he virtually protected Germany against Austria, likewise bound by treaties to both Russia and Germany, is perhaps the classic instance of the secret treaty. That such essentially dishonest arrangements were entered into, in the course of the war, even by democratic States like France, Italy, and Great Britain, merely shows, that in the desperate condition of these countries, fighting for their lives, resort was had to the practices of the old, crooked diplomacy. That democratic States, still under the influence of that system, signed secret pacts for dividing up wide regions of the world, testifies to the strength of secular custom. We may lament it, but it is nonsense to affect to be surprised by it, or to work ourselves into a passion about an old story.

Our Republican friends, who heard with such pretended alarm Mr. LANSING'S testimony, might have remembered that in the good old days the Republican Party in Congress used to make secret treaties with protected manufacturers, then the sacred raw material of "fat frying." The steel and iron men, protected already by railroad rebates made by secret treaty with the railroads, calmly invaded the Ways and Means Committees, asked and got a heavenlier height of protection.

Secret treaties ought to be made no more. The means to insure that they shall be made no more lies before the Senate. It is the Republican Senators who, by a long parade of false pretexts and pretenses, deny to the world the destruction of the old, tortuous, unfair, treacherous practice of secret treaties and the substitution of open covenants to be made known to all men. For the benefit and reproof of Mr. BORAH and his brethren in the art of obstructing peace and the restoration of confidence and business we quote Article XVIII. of the Treaty of Versailles:

> Every treaty or international engagement entered into hereafter by any member of the League shall be forthwith registered with the Secretariat and shall as soon as possible be published by it. No such treaty or international engagement shall be binding until so registered.

There is the plain way, and the only way, of preventing secret treaties. The Republican Senators affect a shudder at this article. They raise the bogy of a super-State, a super-Power. If they hate secret treaties as much as they pretend to in their assumption of righteous anger about Shantung, they will ratify this open treaty and end secret treaties.

VINTAGE VINEGAR.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is undoubtedly wise in softening the search provisions in the House "dry" bill. Even the most resolute prohibitionist these days is discovering unforeseen difficulties in the task of enforcement. Ominous news comes from the apple orchard. Last year, cider apples cost from 55 to 75 cents a hundredweight; this year they are costing $2 a hundredweight, or about three times as much. Vinegar will, of course, keep pace with cider. Crop conditions and the general advance in prices might account for a part of the increase, but for the grand total only one explanation is possible. Farmers, who were rapidly learning to prefer beer, are laying up stores of cider.

To city folk the chief importance of the situation is with respect to salad dressings. In Italy, where salads are properly appreciated, connoisseurs recognize vintages in vinegar and treasure them as tenderly as vintage wines. In our own near future we shall have to pay vintage prices for such juice of the apple as is left when the rustic thirst is assuaged, but nobody is likely to treasure and closet the vintage of 1919. Bad times are ahead for the salad lover. For the farmer, happy days!

For the Federal and State agents who are conjointly to enforce the dry law we have no toast or other form of congratulation. It is an admittedly low order of microscopic fungi that cause fermentation; but there are billions upon billions of them, and they work night and day to transform the most sweetly innocent cider into a perilous fluid with an 8 to 10 per cent. kick. The most diligent of conjoint supervision will probably not be able to arrest them, or even their activities, at the precise point where they reach their alcoholic limit of one-half of 1 per cent. When the farmer is discovered with cider on his premises which is as hard as the most hardened sinner, and says he is only making vintage vinegar, who is to deny it? A word from his bucolic lips can transform the nefarious activities of those billions of evil workers into the most laudable of productive energy. No such resource is available to the urban workingman. Upon the label of his bottle of beer the righteous manufacturer has placed a fair warning that the addition of kitchen yeast will make it intoxicating, and if the workman adds the yeast he cannot avoid the issue. The last state of the liquor of malt and hops is unquestionably worse than the first. Only the farmer's cider is capable of a timely reformation.

KOLCHAK BEATEN.

There is nothing to surprise any one in the news of Admiral KOLCHAK'S defeat and the disaster which, unless he is superhuman, is to be expected. It is a defeat for which the responsibility is shared by the Allies. KOLCHAK, who undertook to raise in Siberia the banner of democracy—that is to say, a banner on which was written a call for the assembling of a Constituent Assembly—is being beaten back by the Bolsheviki over a distance calculated the other day as 800 miles, but which is undoubtedly larger now, because he has not sufficient gun power, no airplanes, no tanks, and little food. Siberia is no more Bolshevist now than she was when he created the Omsk Government; but Siberians do not differ from the rest of mankind in being anxious for their own individual safety, and if the Bolsheviki are apparently winning, the temptation to make terms with them is too strong for men with wives and children to risk. Because of the failure of the Allies to give him help there is danger that the whole of reluctant and protesting Siberia will be turned over to the Bolsheviki.

The Allies withheld the necessary supplies, especially the supplies of arms and ammunition, from the Omsk Government. This has not been done deliberately. It is the result of the irresolute, aimless policy which the Allied Governments without exception have pursued toward KOLCHAK and his gallant effort to bring about the election of a Constituent Assembly. In principle all the Allied and Associated Powers approve the Omsk movement. But their approval has been confined to a God-bless-you. The guns, the tanks, the airplanes, have not been forthcoming.

Meanwhile the Reds have not only obtained all these things, but they appear to have officered their armies with Germans—a rather significant portent of the future, if we only stop to think of it, a portent of the time when, the Bolsheviki being relegated to that obscurity from which they sprang, there will be an effort to create an empire reaching from the White Sea to the Pacific Ocean. But the Allies have given no officers to KOLCHAK, not even a non-commissioned officer to train the undisciplined privates whom he has in some fashion dragged together.

So KOLCHAK, without ammunition, food, or other supplies, and with a patriotic mob which he cannot discipline by himself without aid, has done wonders and finally has been routed, just as the Grand Duke NICHOLAS was in Galicia, and for the same reason—shortage of arms and munitions. The great retreat of NICHOLAS was conducted by soldiers who had little more than their bare hands to resist the well-equipped and organized German armies. The same thing is being duplicated in Siberia.

If the Allies had adopted any policy, even a bad policy, the people of Siberia would have known where they stood. But the Allies have had no policy at all. In the beginning the British showed a disposition to help any democratic movement against the Bolshevist autocracy, but the pressure of the Socialists at home made them hesitate, falter, and finally drift into the same Micawber policy that the United States adopted almost from the first. The French have no men to waste. The Japanese have been held back by the distrust of their comrades, whether well or ill-founded it is profitless now to inquire. The United States alone has been in a position to render help, because the United States alone can transport aid quickly to Vladivostok, the only place through which it can be sent, but the United States has given KOLCHAK only a shadowy and belated moral support. It is not moral support that Omsk needs; it is guns, tanks, airplanes, food, and at least an occasional non-commissioned officer such as the Germans supply to the Bolsheviki. We, all of us, have faltered with a conflagration. That is the story of KOLCHAK'S defeat.

MONTMARTRE CONSUMERS.

Whatever the philologists, disputing as usual, may say about the origin of the name "Montmartre," contemporary events on the Butte show that it is not the Mount of Mars or the Mount of Martyrs, but the Mount of Mercury, god of commerce and of thieves. On that henceforth hallowed hill began the movement of the Consumers' League, which has already reduced the retail market price of provisions 20 per cent. or more. Even the students have a soul above the price of books, and are taking a hand in this simple, practical, and effective way of carving the cost of living. Representatives of the consumers act as unofficial inspectors of the market. They find out what wholesale prices are. Then they go to the retailer and let him compare those wholesale prices with his own variations and embroideries thereon.

This is the French precise, clear, and logical manner. The retailer usually sees the point. Down come his prices, in some cases by as much as 50 per cent. We hear of heads of cauliflower falling from three francs and a quarter to one franc under the persuasive demonstrations of these ambulant amateur inspectors, representing district leagues. Fish and vegetables have come down a good deal. Butter and egg prices have had a comfortable drop. And still the good work goes on, and the district leagues are to be co-ordinated into a central association, so that there can be a general comparison and supervision of market prices by the delegates of the consumers.

All this work has been orderly, so far as the league representatives are concerned; and they have frowned upon the occasional disorderly demonstrations of hotheads or hooligans. Their means of persuasion are businesslike and moral. The marketman is told what the stuff costs. If he doesn't condescend to make a reasonable price, a proper protest is made, and the authorities know him and can deal with him as a profiteer.

This sensible way, founded on facts and figures, founded on reason and conducted without passion or violence, this thoroughly businesslike way of lowering retail prices, should spread from the hill of Montmartre to every American city district and precinct, to every American village market and store. Let our own retailers, many of whom had a very generous scale of prices even before the war, be now confronted with the excess prices which, in too many cases, undoubtedly prevail. Why shouldn't their prices fall before the facts as Paris prices have just been falling? At any rate, village and district Consumers' Leagues, duly provided with sensible representatives and market supervisors, steering far away from the cranks, fools, radicals, and Bolsheviki, animated, in short, by sober common sense, seem a promising and practical instrument for knocking down sky-scraping retail prices.

SUFFERING AND THREATENING.

"This must not happen again" was quoted as the President's remark when he signed the Adamson law within hours of the time set for a general railway strike. It is happening again, within too short a time considering the cost of ransoming the country from the demands of the railway men. They assert that they are suffering, and are surprised that any one should suspect them of trying to better their working conditions by threats of what might happen otherwise. They even deny that they ever have done such an unworthy thing, as if the country could have forgotten what happened three years ago. In THE TIMES yesterday Mr. GARRETSON, who sat in the gallery while the Adamson eight-hour law was passed, is reported as saying that force is seldom used until all methods of reason fail. If that is not a suggestion of force, if the arguments of the railway men fail, Mr. GARRETSON was unfortunate in selection of words to express his idea, whatever it was. He remarked that the Plumb plan of taking over the railways for the benefit of the workers upon them was less radical than the many other plans pending. But it is not necessary to go further by way of justifying preference of any other plan than to remark that nobody has suggested force in support of any plan but the Plumb plan. The President, Congress, and the country might surrender to threats in support of anything once, but not twice.

It comes too high. Since the Adamson act was passed the country has taxed everybody to pay the deficit of the railways. The deficit includes an increase of a billion in wages for the railway men, and now there are other requests for probably a billion more, and all demands are not in. Yet traffic is smaller, and about a hundred thousand more men are needed to get it done. Why should not such demands increase so long as none of them are refused? The only limit to be placed on hiring more men to do less work in shorter workdays at increased pay—short of refusing some of them—is the ability of the Treasury to collect taxes. The suggestion that the railway men are suffering so that they are obliged to make these demands affronts those who have received smaller increases, or none, because they have no organization to make demands with what most people must understand as a repetition of threats which have succeeded before.

Increases of wages on the railway scale are serious, but proposals to socialize our industries, beginning with the railways, are ruinous. Senator POMERENE'S criticism of the Plumb plan is destructive. The suggestion that the workers could or would desire to turn the current deficit of $30,000,000 monthly into profits is not convincing. The Chief Justice of North Carolina, WALTER CLARK, is Chairman of the Plumb Plan Preliminary Conference, which starts its propaganda with the statement that "distribution of the products of the nation's industry and agriculture is not only a proper but an imperative function of government . . . it is therefore incumbent upon the Government to provide transportation (as the principal factor in distribution) at actual cost." Hitherto it has been the function of the Government to govern, without undertaking anything which private enterprise was able to do better. There has been ample demonstration that private management with profit means better service at less cost than Government management with huge losses.

WAS IT FAIR?

Senator POINDEXTER certainly cites chapter and verse in support of his statement that the President did use the words attributed to him in the Senator's address at Cambridge, a charge he afterward repeated in the Senate. But the words were used in the President's address to Congress on Jan. 8, 1918, not on Dec. 4, 1917. The question of authenticity raised by THE TIMES was based on a Washington dispatch in which the Senator was reported as saying that President WILSON had used these words "in an address to Congress on Dec. 4, 1917"; in that address nothing of the kind was said.

It is true that in the address of Jan. 8 the President, in characterizing the peace terms suggested by the Russians, declared that "it is the voice of the Russian people," and that they had stated "with a frankness, a largeness of view, a generosity of spirit, and a universal human sympathy which must challenge the admiration of every friend of mankind," substantially as charged by the Washington Senator. But was it altogether fair for Senator POINDEXTER in May last to quote these words as evidence that President WILSON sympathizes with the Russian Bolsheviki, and is it altogether fair to quote them now with that same implication? When the President spoke to Congress on Jan. 8, 1918, the Bolsheviki had not yet exhibited themselves to the world in the light in which they are now regarded. Multitudes of persons sympathized with the Russian people in their struggle, as the President did, and hoped that the persons then in control might set up and maintain a civilized, stable Government. We may say that THE TIMES never entertained that belief, never cherished that hope. We may be credited with having understood the Bolsheviki from the very beginning, and we never had the least idea that LENIN and TROTZKY would establish a democracy. Others were more hopeful, the President among them.

But we leave it to Senator POINDEXTER to say whether it is fair to cite anybody's opinion of the Bolsheviki in January, 1918, as proof of present sympathy with those apostles and practitioners of murder and robbery. Eighteen months ago they had not so fully disclosed themselves as agents of social destruction.

It seems to us it would be no less unfair to cite the opinions which many Americans of great prominence may have expressed, say seven years ago, about the German people; in former times their industries and achievements were much admired and praised. Americans now do not hold such opinions; the fact that they did once hold them cannot and should not be adduced in support of the assertion that they are pro-German. As a further illustration we refer to Senator POINDEXTER'S speech before the Fifteenth District Republican Club in this city on the evening of June 24 last, when he said that "the mission of the Republican Party in the immediate future is to save the Republic from the process of national disintegration in progress during the present administration." In view of the behavior of so many leading members of the Republican Party in and outside the Senate in respect to the League of Nations, no just and candid man would charge Senator POINDEXTER with now holding that opinion.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Typical German Proposals.

If anybody thinks that the Germany of other days has disappeared, or that there are no more Germans with the ideas that characterised their whole race before the war, that person has only to read with care the plan—announced with naïve frankness and not the slightest appreciation of the effect to be produced on other nations by the announcement—for facilitating and regulating the emigration of some 20,000,000 Germans to Mexico and South America.

That Germans in considerable number will emigrate as soon as they can need not be doubted. They will have a double motive for getting away—the burden of taxation that all home-staying Germans must bear and the real inability of Germany, now that her foreign markets are lost, to support a population anything nearly as large as the one she maintained in comfort and prosperity before the mad desire for universal dominion brought her to ruin. Given the probability, or rather the certainty, of an exodus, it is entirely characteristic, and therefore natural, that Germans of the class accustomed to govern and guide their countrymen should have assumed that they were to control the movement with a single object in view—the benefit of that once mighty abstraction, the German "State."

The emigrants are to go where they are told, they are to do what they are told, and first, last, and always they are to consider and work for, not their individual interests, but those of the Fatherland. What they raise or produce in their new homes is to be sold to Germany alone, and all other customers, no matter what prices they offer, or how convenient or profitable it may be to trade with them, are to be ignored.

That is the German plan as outlined by its originators, and, from their point of view, it is a perfect one. And so it is perfect—just as was the fine plan by the execution of which Germany was to win a military victory over all Europe in a few months, and over all the world in a few years.

Other Folk Forgotten or Ignored.

As there were imperfections in Germany's war plan, so there are in her emigration plan. Now, as then, she forgets that other nations not only have interests of their own, but that those other nations have both the inclination and the ability to defend those interests, even against Germany. Perhaps it is not forgetfulness, but an absolute and constitutional incapacity for conceiving of non-German interests as demanding consideration in relation to hers. The need or wisdom of doing that no more suggests itself to the typical German mind than does the need or wisdom of considering the preferences of the native fauna and flora enter the mind of a shipwrecked sailor who drifts ashore on an uninhabited island.

But the countries Germany now purposes to colonize do not regard themselves as colonizable. They want new citizens; they do not want non-assimilable, permanent aliens. There probably is not a country on earth where German immigrants would be welcomed if it were known that their intentions were those outlined in the German plan, and not many where such immigrants would be permitted to land.

Another probability is that the German immigrants, once landed, while retaining a warm sentimental affection for the old home, when it came to practical and personal matters would be very much like their new neighbors. In other words, the devotion of most of them to the German "State" would soon become purely academic, inspiring words, not deeds. And that is another fatal weakness of the German emigration plan.

His Scorn Seems Inconsistent.

Mayor HYLAN scornfully rejects, on behalf of the city, the offer of three street car lines which the present owners are tired of operating. The reason he gives for his rejection is the same as the reason for the weariness of the owners—the three lines are not now profitable, or likely ever to be.

But while that reason perfectly explains why the offer was made, it hardly justifies the Mayor's refusal. He is willing and eager for the municipalization of other street car lines, as well as that of an indefinite number of other more or less public utilities. Yet, as he was not born yesterday or the day before, reads the papers and has some power of observation, he must know that municipal operation means municipal loss so nearly to always that it is little less than a certainty. Why, therefore, does he scorn the present that the companies are willing to make?

Acceptance would take money out of the pockets of taxpayers, to be sure, but that is a prospect which, as regards much larger activities than these, does not alarm him—that even seems to fill him with pleasing expectations. The holder of so great an office as his should be consistent.

His Jest Contains a Truth.

Strikes are serious—even desperately serious, sometimes—both to those who take part in them and to the far greater number they affect. That, however, does not compel the withholding of appreciation and gratitude from anybody who, in discussing or describing a strike, can think of something to say that is at once apt, humorous, and picturesque.

That truly difficult achievement must be credited to LESTER LONERGAN, who, instead of announcing that he disapproves of the course pursued by the striking actors, makes this sonorous proclamation of his feelings:

> I deplore the inconceivable catastrophe which has been precipitated and has reduced the romantic realm of the stage to the mundane level of the street car barn.

That, now, is fine, and not the less fine because it recalls to mind the melodramas of other days, when writers for the stage were not afraid to use big words or to make appeals to the fundamental emotions.

Mr. Ellison is a Candidate.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would call your attention to the fact that your complete list of candidates, published in yesterday's paper, was not complete, as I am seeking the Republican nomination for Judge of the Fifth District Municipal Court at the primaries, which take place Sept. 2, and you failed to publish my name.

There is no candidate of the party until after the primary election, and your failure to publish my name was a great injustice to me, as it gives the impression that I am not a candidate for the office.

In 1917, when I ran last for the same office, I was only beaten by a few votes and this was because a card was issued giving the impression that I had withdrawn. The same impression, however unintentional, is now given by your failure to publish my name. MARK M. ELLISON.

A PLEA FOR KOLCHAK.

Delay in Recognition Weakens Government Supported by All Anti-Bolshevist Russia.

By PROFESSOR N. A. BORODIN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Russian cause and Russian patriotism are being subjected to endless trials. It is over six months already since the question of the recognition of the United All-Russian Government, impersonated in the Government of Kolchak, was raised. Thanks to faulty and ofttimes studiedly false and malicious information regarding this Government, the recognition of the All-Russian Government was being constantly postponed under various pretexts notwithstanding all efforts by Russian patriots and Russian friends abroad.

Toward the end of June the Peace Conference at Paris approached this question very closely, and apparently, in order to prepare the final ground for the solution of this problem, forwarded a line of questions in the name of the "Big Four" to Admiral Kolchak, with a covering statement to the effect that the Allies would support the Kolchak Government with military supplies if satisfactory replies were given to these questions. The answer given by the Kolchak Government, as stated officially, completely satisfied the representatives of the allied powers, and it seemed that everything was ready for the formal recognition of the Russian Government. As it was stated at that time in cablegrams from Paris, this problem was left open to an extent, owing to the fact that President Wilson had thought it necessary to send to Omsk the American Ambassador to Japan, Roland Morris, for a personal investigation. This postponed the solution of the question for another month.

The formal recognition of the All-Russian Government is, as I have on more than one occasion stated in the press, a conditio sine qua non of any earnest financial and economic aid on the part of America. It was a matter of extreme importance to provide the army and the population of Russia with all necessities, and this task was hindered just because the formal recognition of the United All-Russian Government was not forthcoming. We have already passed midsummer and little time remains for the Winter campaign. It is, therefore, imperative to hasten this recognition and open the possibility for financial and economic assistance to Russia. What obstacles, indeed, are there still in the way? Ambassador Morris, as reported in the newspapers, has rendered a favorable opinion regarding the Kolchak Government and has expressed himself for the necessity of recognizing it as the All-Russian Government. General Denikin, who is advancing victoriously to the heart of Russia, Moscow, has recognized Kolchak as the head of the National Russian Government. The same thing was done prior to that by N. V. Tchaikovsky, in the name of the Northern Archangel Government, and by General Youdenich, in the name of the Russian Army operating against Petrograd.

There do not remain any valid excuses for dallying with the recognition of the All-Russian Government. This lack of action only tends to complicate the general situation, which has already become quite earnest in Northern Russia, thanks to the inadequate and untimely aid given to the Kolchak Government and the Archangel group. It is generally accepted that belated assistance means eventually the outlay of much greater efforts and more extensive means. If recognition and aid were afforded to the Kolchak army during the heyday of its Spring successes in the pre-Volga regions, the Soviet régime in Russia would have been liquidated by this time and the threat of the invasion of Bolshevism into Hungary, Bulgaria, and other European countries would have been eliminated.

After the conclusion of "universal peace," the allied Army of Occupation in Hungary is now compelled to suppress Bolshevism by force of arms. The Hungarian case contains another very instructive lesson; it proves how quickly the Soviet régime can be overthrown in its early stages and how difficult it becomes to fight it when it is allowed to grow stronger and to become the dictatorial power of a land by taking possession of the military machinery and of the technical organs of administration. Having gained a solid footing in one country, Bolshevism will strive, by reason of its internationalism, to introduce its principles in other lands—the United States of America not excepted—as it was made apparent by the investigation of anti-governmental activities in the State of New York by the committee of Senator Lusk.

In summing up, we must again persistently recommend to the American Government not to delay the recognition of the Kolchak Government as the de facto Russian Government and to bring to an end the fearful tribulations of Russian patriots, Russian public men, and the entire anti-Bolshevist part of Russia.

If, however, the voices from Russia and the opinions of Russian patriots are not regarded as sufficiently convincing, let the Government consider the categorical statements by Ambassadors Francis and Morris, General Graves, Consul Embrey, and Professor Cushing, who unanimously regard the policy of aloofness and of noninterference in Russian affairs as nearsighted and injurious for the United States itself, and who just as unanimously favor the recognition of the Kolchak Government.

ONE ARMY OR MANY?

National Guard Proposal Would Perpetuate Confusion and Inefficiency.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The recent statements of policy of the National Guard Association raise a vital issue in the formation of a sound military plan for the nation. The association contends that the Chamberlain-Kahn universal military training bill, now before Congress, will create "a centralized military oligarchy with dangerous potentialities for political abuse and the destruction of the freedom which is vital to the existence of the country." The association appears to favor the principle of universal military training, but maintains that such training can "best be developed in conjunction with the National Guard." In other words, the proposition is that the future citizen forces should be created and trained under State, not Federal, control, under a control divided, not centralized, whereby forty-eight different States, with forty-eight varying standards of military efficiency would be responsible for the training and disciplining of those forces. Nothing more calamitous could well be conceived.

The principle of exclusive Federal control of our military forces is not new. It has been raised from time to time by thoughtful proponents of a sound military policy, men who have keenly appreciated the inefficiency, waste, and lost motion that come with decentralization of control in military organization. If the National Guard plan prevails it will mean that this country, instead of possessing one unified army, will possess forty-eight, varying in efficiency from good to poor, just as the National Guard organizations prior to being drafted into the Federal service for the present emergency varied from good to poor. Past experience proves that such a result would be inevitable.

The most recent vindication of the principle of centralized military control lies in the establishment of the allied unity of command and the elevation of Marshal Foch to supreme control. One trembles to contemplate the fate that might have overtaken civilization had Foch been denied supreme command at the second battle of the Marne.

If unity of command is essential to the victorious leadership of a group of armies it is just as essential to the training and disciplining of one army. It is only through centralized, Federal control that all the units composing the citizen forces could be maintained at the same high standard of discipline, equipment, and tactical efficiency.

If the principle for which the National Guard contends should prevail, then the hands of the clock will have been turned back and the great outstanding lesson of the war gone for naught.

THE WAYSIDE POOL.

Oh, I was dusty with the road
And very tired my feet,
For I had come a long, long way
And missed things that were sweet.
The long, long way had been to me
As lessons learned in school,
But I found my youth again one day
In the depths of a wayside pool.

The waters were so pure, so sweet,
They stirred at once my heart;
I felt a little green leaf come,
A bud began to start.
I smelt some mint, I heard a bird,
And laughter of a child—
Then I returned the long, long way
To music sweet and wild.

The wisdom of life's school was gone,
And I found in its place
The heart of a child I used to know—
The spell of the wildwood's grace.
All hope and joy were mine once more,
All banished doubt and pain,
By the pool I knew in my childhood's days—
The pool down the wayside lane.

SEARCH AND SEIZURE.

Anti-Saloon League Denies Intent to Invade Authentic Homes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Anti-Saloon League has never asked for enactment of a law to issue search warrants for liquor in a bona fide private residence. In many of the States we have asked for a search-and-seizure law authorizing the seizure of liquors in alleged homes, which had become places of public resort or for the illegal distribution of liquor. When the Federal Code was introduced this provision was further safeguarded to prevent any abuse by the enemies of the measure. It provided that a search warrant could only be issued in such cases when two credible witnesses filed affidavits setting forth the above facts.

Because of the misrepresentation of this section the House Judiciary Committee struck out this clause, and it left the bill so that every home could become an open speak-easy where liquor was sold daily and the supply could not be seized. This was so manifestly unreasonable that the House promptly amended it so that liquor may be seized in a home where the liquor is actually sold in the residence.

The prohibition forces have not asked for any provision they did not have a strong reason for and that was not backed up by precedent in the States. If some of these provisions do seem strong, it is because of the fact that we deal with the most lawless traffic in existence. The Supreme Court once made this comment in sustaining the validity of the prohibition law.

> The sane friends of prohibition realize that a reasonable code must be adopted. If the purpose, however, of the Eighteenth Amendment is to be carried out there should be no loophole left in the law by which the illicit liquor traffic may be carried on. Those who are now asking for weakening amendments will within two years be demanding stronger provisions, because experience will prove it to be necessary in order to prevent violations of law made possible by the provisions which they are now championing. The vote of 287 to 101 for the code, which passed the House, is indicative of the feeling of the people, that a reasonable and eforcible code must be adopted. This is all that the Anti-Saloon League is asking for.

OIL AND INTERVENTION.

American Producers Ask Only Fair Treatment from Mexico.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The accusation against this association by the Rev. Samuel Inman, "representing the Canadian and American Mission Board," printed in your columns of Aug. 7, calls for a reply.

Mr. Inman states we are working for intervention in Mexico "just as fast" as we "can possibly force it." This is false. He knows that the slogan "They are working for intervention" is the desperate answer of Carranza's propagandists, of whom he is one, to the request of the American Government and people for fair dealing—and only fair dealing—by the Government of Mexico.

Ambassador Fletcher has been quoted as stating that the oil companies are acting in a perfectly proper manner to protect their properties, legally acquired under the laws of Mexico, from confiscation.

The members of this association have been threatened with spoliation. In defense of their rights they have refuted these attacks. Mr. Inman's rejoinder to these replies is simply part of the Carranza propaganda which cannot answer the issue and turns to vilification of the injured disputant threatened with spoliation.

ASSOCIATION OF PRODUCERS OF PETROLEUM IN MEXICO.

ECONOMY THE WORD, SAYS DR. N. M. BUTLER

Public and Private Saving the First Step to Meet the High Prices Emergency.

MUST INCREASE PRODUCTION

Rigid Price-Fixing Not a Remedy—Taxes Must Be Adjusted and Profiteers Punished.

Special to The New York Times.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Aug. 11.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, in an interview today on the subject of President Wilson's speech before Congress on the cost of living, outlined the causes and proposed remedies for the increasing prices during the last generation. He tabulated the causes and remedies as follows:

"(1) Inflation of the currency, in a large part due to public and private extravagance and waste. No one people has a monopoly on inflation, but, confining ourselves to the United States, we have experienced a steady inflation. Down to 1881 our per capita circulation had never gone above $20. In 1918 it was $50.81. If this cause alone had operated to affect prices, food would have grown much dearer, but, to express it in another way, money was growing much cheaper. Any attempt suddenly to correct inflation would bring new evils in its train.

"The real corrective is public economy and private frugality and thrift. We must stop borrowing in order to meet current expenses, private or governmental, and confine borrowing where the money is to be used in productive industry which will more than repay the cost. No fewer than eighteen States in the Union are expending annually more than their income from taxation. The aggregate annual interest charge on debts of the Governments of the world is estimated to have grown from two billion to ten billion in five years. These acts, and the economic consequences which they entail, explain one of the main features in the high cost of living.

"(2) The decrease of industrial production, due in part to the war and in part to shortened hours of labor. The eight-hour law is to be strongly defended for most occupations.

"In order, however, to prevent general adoption of an eight-hour day from permanently increasing prices through diminished production, new means must be found of building up production by the use of improved machinery, more scientific devices, better organization of industry, and more economic distribution of its products.

"(3) Increased cost of food is due in part to operation of natural economic laws and in part to the shutting off from the markets of Western Europe of the great food supplies formerly obtained from Russia, Rumania, and Hungary. Our Government's policy of price fixing and rigid control has contributed to this particular cause. Whenever Governments or other forms of human organization attempt to control the operation of natural economic laws the results are sooner or later disastrous.

"(4) The heavy taxation introduced in Great Britain and this country, particularly excess profits taxes. We need an equitable revision of the income and excess profits taxes, not with a view to relieving wealth of its proper public burden, but with a view to distributing these taxes so as to encourage business, promote employment, increase production and so tend to decrease the cost of living.

"(5) Profiteering by individuals or corporations, particularly by retailers—this profiteering should be sternly punished but all the profiteering would not have operated to affect the cost of living very seriously had it not been for the other and purely economic causes that have just been described.

"When the question of present day costs is gone carefully into it will, I think, be found that capital is securing very little if any more return than before the war, while increased amounts are paid out for labor and taxation, unless I am greatly mistaken. Therefore, a thorough inquiry into the high cost of living would make it plain that the problem is a world-wide one.

"That the first step toward its solution is Government economy and private thrift, leading to the discharge of outstanding obligations and to bringing the national expenditures within the limits of annual income, increase of economic production by better shop organization, by more labor saving devices, by more effective and economical processes of distribution, by opening up to an effective and scientific agriculture without delay the rich grain producing provinces of Russia, Rumania and Hungary and, finally, by checking profiteering as an offense against the public welfare."

Dr. Butler deplores the plan brought forward by the great organization of railway workers which, if adopted, he says would exaggerate all the evils we are suffering from and tend to increase the cost of living as well as effect a complete revolution in our American form of government.

"The whole question demands the immediate attention," said Dr. Butler, "of constructive statesmen everywhere. I have no fear that in this case, as in the case of the greenback craze and free silver fallacy, patriotism and true American instinct will prevail."

GREY MAY BE AMBASSADOR.

London Understands He Will Accept Appointment to United States.

LONDON, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—Viscount Grey of Falloden, who retired as head of the British Foreign Office in 1916, it is understood, is likely to accept the post of British Ambassador to the United States.

Viscount Grey, better known as Sir Edward Grey, was Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs from 1905 to 1916. Recently he has been suffering from an affection of the eyes, and it has been reported that he was unable to read print with any facility.

Sir Edward made a strong diplomatic effort to prevent the European war, his proposal that the Ambassadors of the various powers meet and discuss the situation, failing through the attitude of the German Emperor. He is fifty-seven years old.

The British post at Washington has been vacant since the departure last Spring of the Earl of Reading, who has resumed his office as Lord Chief Justice of England.

GAY TO HEAD EVENING POST.

Harvard Dean to Take Charge of Newspaper Jan. 1.

The Evening Post announced yesterday that Edwin Francis Gay, since 1908 Dean of the Harvard School of Business Administration and recently a member of the War Trade Board at Washington, will on Jan. 1 assume general direction of the paper, becoming President of the corporation.

Dean Gay is a native of Detroit, Mich., and a graduate of the University of Michigan in 1899. He studied in the University of Berlin and received the degree of Ph. D. in 1902. Immediately afterward he became Instructor in Economics at Harvard and became a full professor within three years. In 1908 he was made Dean of the Graduate School of Business Administration.

CARNEGIE WROTE HIS OWN EPITAPH

"A Man Who Knew How to Enlist in His Service Better Men Than Himself."

PRIVATE SERVICE IN LENOX

C. M. Depew's Tribute: "The Most Foresighted and Adventurous of the Captains of Industry."

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., Aug. 12.—The funeral services of Andrew Carnegie will be held at Shadowbrook, the Carnegie home, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. The services will be strictly private, only about twenty intimate friends of the family having been invited to attend. Others who wired condolences were asked not to attend, as Mr. Carnegie had always expressed the wish for a simple funeral.

The services will be conducted by the Rev. William Pierson Merrill, pastor of the Brick Congregational Church of New York, and Rev. Benson N. Wyman, pastor of the Lenox Congregational Church.

After the services the body will be taken by a special train to Tarrytown, N. Y., and interred in a plot in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery. This plot was selected by Mr. Carnegie himself several years ago.

The epitaph to be inscribed on the tombstone was written by the steel master to describe himself. It reads:

"Here lies a man who knew how to enlist in his service better men than himself."

Associates of Mr. Carnegie had proposed that a public funeral be held in New York so that his many friends might attend, but this plan was canceled by Mrs. Carnegie because of her husband's expressed wish for a simple service. Among those who will attend is Charles M. Schwab.

Chauncey M. Depew, at Hotel Aspinwall, today called the late Andrew Carnegie the greatest business man he had ever known.

"I had known Mr. Carnegie for nearly fifty years," said Mr. Depew. "In the troublesome railroad period of fierce competition I saw him very frequently. In those early struggles for business he was one of the largest factors in the country. He controlled enormous outputs, and the manner in which he managed his business was a revelation of the genius he had for success. He was a past master of the art of making a bargain. Of course, a bargain at that time of fluxuation of rates and of lax Government control meant opportunity for the largest and shrewdest shipper to win great successes in his business over his competitors.

"Mr. Carnegie as a business man was the most foresighted and adventurous of the great captains of industry who came to the front during those stern days of great opportunities and also of great perils.

"He had a talent beyond any of the constructive manufacturers and merchants, selecting with unerring sagacity the ablest men for the different departments of his industry. Having selected them, he not only gave them great liberties but also large wages according to the success, larger rewards than they could have secured elsewhere. He made many of them phenomenally rich.

"He was able to grasp the present and the future in deciding that the great factor in industrial development was iron.

"While he devoted his great treasure and most of his time for the past twenty-five years to universal peace, he was the most resourceful and masterful competitor for business of his time. I remember what a dramatic and eventful day it was when he sold out his great interests in steel and of his great assistance to the United States Steel Corporation, then being formed by Mr. Morgan. Whether this greatest of the world's corporations, as regards capital, should be started depended entirely upon Mr. Carnegie. With him as an outsider the combination could not succeed.

"He fixed his own terms and secured them. He made no secret about it when the transaction was completed. He sent for a friend of mine, an international journalist, and gave him the information of the sum he had received and the income it would yield. Both were phenomenal then, though common enough now, and it excited the comments not only of our country but of Europe.

"His efforts for the peace of the world were the most interesting. He thoroughly believed it was possible to bring about conditions which would make war impossible. He gave vast sums and created a tribunal as a centre from which should radiate influences to prevent war. This war, so universal, so much more tragical than any other in history, following so soon upon his gigantic efforts and expenditure, broke his heart. I think he never recovered from the shock.

"I once asked him if he believed it a disgrace to die rich, and he said 'Yes.' I do not believe he succeeded, though he tried hard. I think he gave away at least $400,000,000. He was devoted to his family, very fond of his wife and his daughter. It would not have been possible for so careful and prudent a man not to have made ample provision for his family."

Extolled by President Wilson.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—President Wilson, in a message of condolence sent today to Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, said the death of the philanthropist constituted a serious loss to the forces of humanity.

"May I not express my deep sympathy at the loss of your distinguished husband?" the message said. "His death constitutes a very serious loss to the forces of humanity and enlightened public service, and takes out of the world a force which it could ill afford to spare."

MARCH OF MARINES THRILLS THE CAPITAL

8,000 Men of the 4th Brigade Are Reviewed by President, Cabinet, and Diplomats.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Historic Pennsylvania Avenue resounded to the tramp of returning war heroes again today when more than 8,000 steel-helmeted fighting men of the famous Fourth Marine Brigade paraded from the Capitol to the War Department and were reviewed by President Wilson, Cabinet officers, ranking military and naval officers, and diplomatic representatives in front of the White House.

It was the most impressive military spectacle the capital had seen since the march of Veterans of the Army of the Potomac in the "Grand Review of 1865," far more impressive than most inaugurals despite the fact that it required exactly an hour for the marines to pass the reviewing stand.

Immediately after the last company of marines had passed the stand President Wilson stepped to the sidewalk to shake hands with a group of wounded war nurses returned from overseas and who had had seats near the platform. Then the President crossed to the north side of Pennsylvania Avenue, directly opposite the reviewing stand, to shake hands with several hundred wounded marines who had been given a place of honor to see their comrades march in review.

By the time the President had left the stand the great crowd along the south side of Lafayette Square had surged into the avenue and policemen and Secret Service men had to elbow a path through the crowd in order to escort the President and Mrs. Wilson to the place where the wounded marines sat.

On the return of the President to the White House side of the avenue, the crowd having thickened, the policemen and secret service men had to push their way through for an opening for the President. It was then that a neat little incident occurred. A Captain in the army, standing in the crowd, was trying to sight a camera over the shoulders of others at the President. The President caught a glimpse of the officer. Halting, and then facing the camera squarely, the President said to the officer, "Shoot it when you are ready," smiled a very infectious smile, and posed for an amateur picture before proceeding through the crowd to the West Gate of the White House grounds.

Others on the reviewing stand in front of the White House were Secretary and Mrs. Lansing, Secretary Baker, Attorney General Palmer, the Acting Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Roosevelt, Secretary and Mrs. Lane, Secretary Houston, Secretary Wilson, the French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, the Italian Ambassador, Count di Cellere; the Chargé d'Affaires of Great Britain, Mr. Roland Lindsay; Admiral and Mrs. Benson, General March, Mrs. George Barnett, military and naval attachés of foreign embassies and legations, and officials of the Navy Department and Marine Corps.

The Acting Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Roosevelt entertained the officers of the 4th Brigade at luncheon after the parade.

MARINES HAVE 3 DEAD IN EVERY 10 IN FRANCE

War Department Gives Revised Figures for American Battle Casualties.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Revised battle casualty figures for the American Expeditionary Forces in France were announced by the War Department today on the basis of the final report of the Central Records Office of the A. E. F. as of June 3, showing 2,191 battle deaths among officers, 47,307 battle deaths among men, 6,707 wounded among officers, and 198,983 wounded among men. The revised figures for Americans who were taken prisoners were 316 officers and 4,164 men.

Figures given out today, based on the final returns of the Central Records Office, showing casualty rates by arms of service, indicate that the Marines suffered the largest casualties per 1,000 troops who reached France of any arm of the service. The battle deaths and wounded, as measured against the total number of troops in each service reaching France, were announced as follows:

	Battle Casualties. Dead and Wounded.		Per 1,000 Troops Who Reached France.
Service.	Officers.	Men.	Officers.	Men.
Marines	350	9,806	408.3	313.7
Infantry & machine gun	6,982	211,119	33.2	262.5
Tank Corps	50	354	82.0	38.4
Air service	328	187	57.5	2.5
Eng'r and gas	290	8,237	52.5	43.2
Art. & am. tr.	592	21,557	47.3	33.5
Anti-aircraft	4	154	29.4	43.5
Signal	41	1,817	25.8	50.4
Police and H. Q. trains	11	376	19.9	24.0
Headquarters	62	313	15.6	31.6
Cavalry	5	40	15.2	6.4
Medical	161	1,036	10.4	12.6
Motor Transp't	8	218	8.1	7.3
Quartermaster	10	128	1.8	.7
Pioneer Inf'try	4	299	1.7	3.6
Ordnance	..	29	..	1.4

The Marines had four in each ten officers, and three in each ten men killed or wounded. The infantry shows only a little less severe rates with more than three in each ten officers and almost three in each ten men killed or wounded. The Tank Corps, Air Service, and Engineers are the next three services in order.

McCOOEY OPENS HIS FIGHT.

Brooklyn Leader Hopes to Bar Out Insurgent Ticket.

John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Brooklyn, who faces an important contest in his political organization this year, a complete county ticket having been placed in the field in opposition to the regular Democratic candidates, began a fight yesterday upon the insurgents. Algernon I. Nova, as counsel for the McCooey forces, filed a formal objection to the petition of the insurgent candidates with the Board of Elections, asserting that it did not bear sufficient valid signatures to comply with the law. The lawyer said he expected to knock out enough of the signatures to bring the number below the requisite 1,000.

McCooey, it is said, takes the attitude that Hearst will be with him this year, although it is rumored that the insurgents may nominate E. T. O'Loughlin, a former Hearst leader, for Sheriff. In an open letter the insurgent candidates yesterday called upon McCooey to resign his position as Chief Clerk of the Surrogate's Court and retire as Democratic leader of Kings County. They offered to quit the fight on the organization if he would get out.

The Executive Committee of the United Independent Democrats of Kings County met at 16 Court Street last night and decided to put a complete independent county ticket in the field for the November election. The only candidate selected last night was William F. Connell, a Brooklyn lawyer, for Surrogate.

Martin H. O'Neill of the Twelfth Assembly District presided at last night's meeting.

It was reported last night that Theodore E. Larson, who was designated by the insurgent Democrats to run in the primaries, in opposition to General George A. Wingate, for Surrogate, would retire and that Francis X. Carmody would be substituted.

Penrose Favors Daylight Saving.

The National Daylight Saving Association announced yesterday that Senator Boies Penrose had announced that he favored daylight saving, and was strongly opposed to its repeal. Mr. Ferguson, of the association, stated that the White House was being flooded with appeals to President Wilson to save the extra hour of daylight.

TRANSFUSIONS FAIL TO SAVE W. L. GREEN

President of American Bank Note Co. Dies After Seventh Effort in Plaza Hotel.

BEGAN CAREER AS ARTIST

But Abandoned It After His Marriage and Rejoined the Bank Note Company.

Warren L. Green, President of the American Bank Note Company, died early yesterday morning at the Plaza Hotel. A month ago he became ill while at his home in Greenwich, Conn., and was brought to the Plaza, where he had been under the care of Dr. J. Oswald Lowsley. A complication of diseases so weakened Mr. Green that blood transfusion was resorted to in an effort to save his life. Seven blood transfusions were made in an effort to check the disease which had attacked the glands.

Mr. Green was 53 years old. He was born in New York, the son of Francis G. and Antoinette Macdonough Green. While studying art in Paris he met Miss Jeanne Marguerite Thierry, who was studying for the operatic stage. In 1891 they were married, and Mr. Green gave up his career in art and became manager of the Canadian branch of the American Bank Note Company, of which his brother-in-law, Edmund L. Converse was President. Before going to Paris to study art he had been in the employ of the company as an apprentice.

In 1891, he became Second Vice President of the company and in 1906 was made President. This position he held until his death.

The funeral services will be held at the West End Collegiate Church, West End Avenue and Seventy-seventh Street, tomorrow at 2 P. M. Interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

CHALONER HAS $1,635,195.

Thomas T. Sherman, Committee, Files Final Accounting.

Thomas T. Sherman, who was committee of the estate of John Armstrong Chaloner for twenty years, until Supreme Court Justice Ford declared Chaloner competent to manage his own property two weeks ago, filed his last accounting in the Supreme Court yesterday and asked that he be relieved from further duties and that his bond of $73,000 be discharged. His report shows that on Aug. 1 he paid himself a balance of $21,000 due him for his services.

The report states that the total value of the assets for which the committee was able to make a valuation was $1,635,195, the largest item of which is Chaloner's interest under the will of his aunt, Miss Laura A. Delano, $452,563. His twenty-fourth interest in real estate in the trust set aside by the late Henry Astor is $185,520, and his interest in personal property comprised in the trust is $345,000. His share of the estate left by his father John Winthrop Chanler, is $316,579.

Mr. Chaloner's home, Merry Mills, at Cobham, Va., comprising 400 acres, is worth $15,000 and his farm at Rhinebeck, Dutchess County, is valued at $35,000. A farm at Red Hook, occupied by his sister, Mrs. Richard Aldrich, is worth $4,000. Among the assets found to be of no value were 737 shares of the Self-Threading Sewing Machine Co. and 856 shares of the United Industrial Co. A claim for $5,338 against M. S. Whitney for a loan and secured by paintings is held to be of doubtful value.

The income from the estate was $85,847 last year, of which Mr. Chaloner's allowance was $25,000.

Mary Benson Leaves $609,781.

An appraisal of the estate of the late Miss Mary Benson of 214 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn, who died Oct. 11, 1918, was filed yesterday in the office of Surrogate Wingate. It shows that the decedent left a net estate of $609,781. The residue of the estate, amounting to $220,120, is left to a niece, Mrs. Thyrza Benson Flagg of 112 East Seventy-fourth Street, Manhattan, during her lifetime, and at her death to be given to her daughter, also named Thyrza Benson Flagg. Among the bequests are: Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Long Island, for a church at Montauk, $25,000; American Church Institute for Negroes, $30,000; Grace Church, Brooklyn, $17,713; International Committee of Y. M. C. A., $50,000, to be used for the Naval Branch in Brooklyn; and Seaman's Church Institute of New York, $25,000.

Henry L. Morris Left $2,017,355.

Henry Lewis Morris, lawyer, who died Jan. 8, 1918, left an estate appraised yesterday at $2,017,355, of which $927,447 went to his wife, Mrs. Anna P. Morris; $535,723 to his son, Lewis S. Morris, and $435,723 to his daughter, Mrs. Eleanor R. McCormick. His son-in-law and daughter-in-law each received $25,000. He owned $1,403,155 in real estate and $490,753 in stocks and bonds.

Left $500,000 to Family.

Robert Reis, head of Robert Reis & Co., underwear merchants, who died June 2, 1918, left an estate appraised yesterday at $543,075. He gave $500,000 in stock in his corporation to his wife for life, and on her death it goes to his sons, Leslie R. and Arthur M. Reis. The sons bought out his interest a few months before his death.

Bequeathed Million to Widow.

The estate of Horace Ellsworth Andrews, President of the New York State Railways Company, who died Dec. 1 last, was appraised yesterday at $1,061,827, all of which went to his widow. He had $1,067,732 in securities, the bulk of which was in Standard Oil stocks.

Pallbearers for Artist Blakelock.

Ralph A. Blakelock, the artist, will be buried from Grace Church at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The rector, the Rev. Charles L. Slattery, will officiate, and the pallbearers will include John G. Agar and Herbert Adams, representing the National Academy of Design; Francis Jones and Daniel C. French, representing the trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art; Edward J. Wheeler, National Arts Club; Emerson McMillin, George J. Veeder, Rodman Wanamaker, William H. L. Edwards, Dr. Maurice C. Ashley, Roland Knoedler, and Dr. George Frederick Kunz. The interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

A death mask of Mr. Blakelock has been done by Segourd Arendros.

Fireman Killed in Auto Crash.

Henry Baphrick of 947 College Avenue, a fireman of Fire Patrol 5, 207 West 121st Street, was instantly killed last evening when an automobile which he was driving turned turtle in a collision with a touring car at St. Nicholas Avenue and 129th Street, crushing him beneath it. Lucy Regan, 17 years old, of 947 College Avenue, and Helen Walsh, 7 years old, of the same address, who were in the auto with Baphrick at the time, were badly bruised. Baphrick had just recently been discharged from service, having served as a sailor on the U. S. S. Seattle, and was taking the girls for a ride.

Machinists Ask City Ownership.

The National Association of Machinists, with an enrolled membership of 20,000, has adopted resolutions deploring the charge of 2 cents for transfers on the surface lines, authorized by Public Service Commissioner Nixon, and declaring in favor of municipal ownership. The resolutions urge that the necessary steps be taken by the city to take over control of all the transportation lines.

MISS ENID HOWLAND TO WED J. R. HEWITT

Lady Edgar Speyer's Daughter Betrothed to J. Robert Hewitt, Ensign in the U. S. Navy.

Lady Edgar Speyer of 22 Washington Square, New York, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Enid Virginia Howland, to J. Robert Hewitt, also of this city. Miss Howland was educated abroad, but has been in this country five years and is now with Lady Speyer at her country home at Lake George.

She is the daughter of Louis Meredith Howland of Paris and New York. Her mother was formerly Miss Leonora von Stosch, a violinist and composer, the daughter of Count von Ferdinand Stosch and the Countess, who was a New England woman. After the Count's death the Countess von Stosch married a Mr. Schayer. Miss Leonora von Stosch married Louis Meredith Howland, a member of an old New York family, and they lived in Paris. After a time they were divorced and Mrs. Howland in 1902 married Edgar Speyer, elder brother of James Speyer, who eventually had charge of the London house of Speyer & Co. and whom King Edward made a Baronet in 1906, and a Privy Councillor in 1909.

Lord and Lady Speyer have been living in this country, where both were born, since they came over in 1915, when Sir Edgar resigned his office as Privy Councillor and asked for a revocation of his baronetcy, but he was deprived of neither.

Mr. Hewitt is a graduate of Williams College and an Ensign in the United States Naval Reserve force. The marriage is planned for an early date.

KNIGHTHOOD FOR DUVEEN.

Art Dealer in Delayed Birthday List —Other Honors.

LONDON, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—King George tonight invested David Lloyd George, the Premier, with the Order of Merit at Buckingham Palace. The awarding of the honor to the Premier was announced on Aug. 6.

The delayed list of honors, known as the Prime Minister's Honors, conferred to celebrate the King's birthday, was announced today. The list includes one earldom, two baronies, fifteen baronetcies, and more than a score of knighthoods.

Sir Edward Cecil Guinness, first Viscount Iveagh, Chancellor of Dublin University, and head of the most important British brewing firm, was created an Earl.

Sir Edward R. Russell, editor of The Liverpool Daily Post since 1869, was made a Baron.

Joseph Duveen, senior member of the art firm of Duveen Brothers of London, New York, and Paris, and Alfred Waldron Smithers, Chairman of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, were among those granted knighthood.

The delay in issuing the list, which was expected shortly after the King's birthday on June 3, was explained as due to the Premier's lack of time to compile the list because of his duties in connection with the Peace Conference.

Joseph Duveen of London and New York is head of the international art firm of Duveen Brothers. He is the eldest son of the late Sir Joseph Duveen, who became one of the great art patrons of England, evincing a keen interest in museums and the art education of the public through such institutions. His most noteworthy gift to the British Nation, in 1907, was the famous Turner Wing of the Tate Gallery, London, a building for housing the collection of pictures and drawings bequeathed by Turner to the nation.

The present Joseph Duveen assisted his father in saving for the British nation many celebrated paintings which from time to time were offered for sale, and which, but for their efforts and those of other patriotic friends of English art, might have been lost to the nation. He also continued the work of his father in connection with the Tate Gallery, and recently provided funds for building another wing to that building for the exhibition of works by modern foreign artists, which, for lack of a permanent home, have been stored or merged in other exhibitions. He was added to this nucleus by personally presenting pictures by Degas, Gauguin, and Sargent, until now that the public interest has been aroused, it is expected that a thoroughly representative collection will be formed and permanently housed on the banks of the Thames.

Two years ago he established, in memory of his father, the "Joseph Duveen Fund for Wounded and Stricken Territorial Soldiers of the County of London."

Ambrose H. Purdy Dead.

Ambrose H. Purdy, a former United States Assistant District Attorney for the Southern District, and for two terms a member of the New York State Legislature, is dead in Chicago. Mr. Purdy was 77 years old. Mr. Purdy was a graduate of Hobart College. Through his friendship with James Gordon Bennett he was quickly appointed United States Assistant District Attorney. Later he served as Assistant District Attorney of the city. Some years ago he left this city and became a resident of Chicago.

William A. Smyth.

William A. Smyth, for many years the Republican leader of Tioga County, died yesterday in his home in Owego from a complication of diseases. Mr. Smyth was a delegate to the national conventions which nominated Blaine, Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt, and Taft. He was also the publisher of The Owego Times and was at one time the President of the New York State Editorial Association.

Obituary Notes.

SAMUEL H. JONES, formerly one of the owners of the Philadelphia American League Baseball Club, died yesterday at his home in Philadelphia. He was 67 years old. He was employed by The Associated Press for twenty-nine years, resigning in 1906 to take an active interest in the baseball club.

M. MAINTHOW, a wholesale dry goods merchant of Westerly, R. I., died yesterday at his home.

AUGUSTUS MEYERS of 314 Riverside Drive died yesterday at his home. He was born in Switzerland, but came to this country when 10 years old. He enlisted in the army as a drummer boy and retired in 1886 with the rank of Lieutenant. He then entered the contracting business. Mr. Meyers was 78 years old.

Mrs. MARY MILLS QUICK of 1,902 Ditmas Avenue, Brooklyn, died yesterday at the home of her son at Port Jefferson, L. I., following a stroke of apoplexy. Mrs. Quick was the widow of Henry Ludlow Quick, for many years the President of the Brooklyn and Long Island Church Society. She was 68 years old.

ARRESTED AS AUTO 'FENCE.'

Police Find Nine "Missing" Cars in Garage.

Detectives from the Automobile Squad yesterday arrested Harry Banks, proprietor of a garage at 436 West Eighteenth Street, on a charge of receiving stolen goods, after nine automobiles reported to the police as missing, had been found in his paint shop. Four of his employes also were arrested. The detectives were led by Detective Sergeant Martin Owens, who drove the war ambulance of the Police Honor Legion in France, and who later was a Captain in the American Army.

According to the police, Banks admitted having repainted and refitted cars that he had reason to believe had been stolen. He was quoted as saying the employes were innocent, and should not be held. Albert Seaver of 1,403 Grand Concourse, the Bronx, told the police that he recognized a car in Banks's shop as his property, although it had been repainted and refitted.

The police said one of the expensive machines they had found had been lost by a member of the Vanderbilt family.

FOLEY.—At a meeting of the officers of the DEMOCRATIC COUNTY GENERAL COMMITTEE of the OLD TWELFTH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT, held on Monday, Aug. 11, the following resolutions were adopted:
It is with the deepest sorrow we learn of the death of our beloved associate, James Foley, who for a half century was connected with the Democratic organization, and for more than forty years was Chairman of the Democratic County General Committee of our district. He was a steadfast and loyal Democrat and devoted to the interests of his party. He kept in such close touch with the political and civic life of our city and State, that his advice was often sought and followed by the leaders of his party. His lifelong residence in the district made him known to most every one in our neighborhood. Those neighbors and the host of friends he made throughout the city, of all shades of political opinion, esteemed and respected him for his strong, earnest, honest personality and high ideals. His presence at our councils will be missed; therefore, be it
Resolved, That we, the officers of and representing the Democratic County General Committee of the Old Twelfth Assembly District, deeply deplore the death of our late Chairman, James Foley, and we extend our sincere sympathy to his widow and children in this, the sad hour of their bereavement; and further be it

NEW HEALTH OFFICE TO BE A MODEL

Dr. Copeland Plans to Concentrate All Activities in Million Dollar Building.

TELLS OF PRESENT DEFECTS

Will Have All Laboratories, Bureaus and Heads of Units Under One Roof.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, describing the plans for the $1,000,000 Health Department building to be erected on the site of the old West Thirtieth Street Police Station, yesterday said it was planned to erect a building that would be a model of its kind. The erection of the building has just been made possible by an appropriation granted by the Board of Estimate.

The value of the building will be, Dr. Copeland said, above everything else, the centralization of the Health Department under one roof and closer co-ordination of effort and increased efficiency.

The new building will be of stone and brick, twelve stories him, and will occupy almost the entire area of the city's plot, 100 by 100 feet, in West Thirtieth Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues.

"One of the serious defects of the Health Department," said Dr. Copeland yesterday, "is that the interests are too widely scattered. There are five large hospitals under the direction of the department and thousands of patients are treated every day in these hospitals.

"The Director of the Bureau of Hospitals has his office at the Willard Parker Hospital at the foot of Sixteenth Street, remote from the Health Commissioner. Likewise the Bureau of Laboratories work is scattered. Some of it is done at Willard Parker Hospital, where the laboratory building is located, and some at Bellevue Hospital and at Otisville, N. Y. The Director of the Bureau of Laboratories is a very important member of the Commissioner's cabinet, and it is very important that the Director of Laboratories and the laboratories as well should be in a central building so that the employes of the department may have the benefit of the education the laboratories can give them.

"In the new building we expect to have all experts of the department centralized. Three entire floors will be given over to laboratories.

"We have also felt the need for a meeting place for our physicians, nurses, and inspectors, where conferences may be held, and the new building will have a fine auditorium for this purpose. Another floor will be used for a restaurant, kitchen, and rest room for female employes of the department.

"The first floor will be for the Bureau of Records and another floor will be a modern health station, where clinical work will be done. A floor will also be devoted to a library of medical books.

"It will be necessary for the departments using the three upper floors of the present building in Centre Street to move to the Hallenbeck Building on Sept. 1, and on that date the Commissioner will move his office to the third floor of the present building. On Oct. 1 all departments will be moved to the Hallenbeck Building."

The architect of the new building is Charles B. Meyers of 1 Union Square.

PENSIONS EISNER'S FAMILY.

Bavaria Grants Annuity to Murdered Premier's Widow and Children.

BAMBERG, Bavaria, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—The Diet has passed a bill providing for a total annuity of 12,000 marks for the widow and two children of Kurt Eisner, Bavarian Premier, who was assassinated in Munich early in the present year by Count Arco Valley.

Of the amount awarded 3,600 marks are to go to each of the children until they are 21 years of age, and then the widow is to receive 5,000 marks annually for life. The last three quarters of Eisner's salary as Premier has been paid to his family.

Eisner is said to owe the Bavarian Treasury 2,400 marks advanced to pay his expenses to the Socialist convention in Berne last January.

MUSIC NOTES.

Handel's "The Messiah" tonight will conclude a series of concerts at Columbia University. The oratorio will be performed in St. Paul's Chapel by the Summer session chorus, with soloists, orchestra, and organ.

Sousa's Band will give two concerts next Saturday afternoon and evening at the Ocean Grove Auditorium. The matinee program will be largely for children. A tenor soloist in the evening is Henry Rosenbach.

CHICAGO THEATRES CLOSED BY STRIKE

presenting at the Fulton Theatre, will be permitted to continue owing to the fact that the company is on a co-operative basis.

"Adam and Eva," announced for the Longacre Theatre next Monday, must be postponed, and "Nightie Night," postponed at the Princess, will wait until the strike is settled. Managers agree that the great majority of August productions must go over, and in the event of an indefinite continuance of the strike the postponements will be indefinite. At the best, it is now believed, the theatrical season will be set back for months.

Florenz Ziegfeld's "Follies" operated again last night under the injunctions obtained by the manager on Monday. These are returnable on Friday morning, and managers pointed out last night that it would be difficult, in the event of the injunctions being made permanent, to prevent the Equity members of the cast from being absent from performances and assigning illness as a reason.

Chorus People Organize.

A meeting of chorus people, under the auspices of the Actors' Equity Association, was held yesterday afternoon at the Amsterdam Opera House, in Forty-fourth Street. An organization was formed under the name of the Chorus Equity Association of America. Several hundred members were enrolled, and addresses were made by Ethel Barrymore, Sam Bernard, Frank Gillmore, Chic Sale, Marie Dressler, and others, including Charles C. Shay, head of the stagehands, and a representative of the Musicians' Union. Ethel Barrymore also addressed a meeting at the Forty-fifth Street headquarters during the day.

Secretary Gillmore, in his address to the chorus, said that one of the things upon which the actors would insist would be the limitation of chorus rehearsals to four weeks, or half pay for all rehearsals over that time. It was reported that the meeting was attended by a number of members of the Hippodrome chorus, now in rehearsal.

An interesting point in connection with the new Hippodrome show and the possibilities of its being drawn into the fight is that rehearsals are being directed by H. M. Burnside, Shepherd of the Lambs, and that feeling among the rank and file of the Lambs members runs high in favor of the actors.

The managers announced that David Warfield had resigned from the Actors' Equity Association to join the new actors' organization being formed by E. H. Sothern. Mary and Florence Nash, it was said, also have resigned from the Equity, and a wire was received from Louis Mann, in White Sulphur Springs, taking the side of the managers. It was denied, also, that Al Jolson had given aid to the Equity Association. Jolson is quoted as saying that he would take no part in any movement toward closing the theatres.

A telegram was received from Los Angeles, the managers said, saying that Douglas Fairbanks was coming East immediately to protect his property against attachment owing to the suits brought by the managers.

McRae Replies to Broadhurst.

Bruce McRae, Vice President of the Actors' Equity Association, replied last night to the statements by Manager George Broadhurst that the actors in quitting his play had violated their contracts, and by David Belasco's that there was a veiled threat of a "closed shop" in the actors' strike. Mr. McRae said:

"In reference to Mr. Broadhurst's statement that he had issued Equity contracts to his actors and that they had abrogated them by going on strike we contend that he had abrogated them by joining the Producing Managers' Association, which refused to recognize the Actors' Equity Association and its contract. In other words, he repudiated, as a member of the Producing Managers' Association, contracts which he had made as an individual.

"I can't state too emphatically that Mr. Belasco's statement that there was veiled threat of a 'closed shop' in the Actors' Equity Association's contract is absolutely incorrect. We do not desire the closed shop, and we have gone on record in a written statement, which I personally handed to Mr. Sothern, and which he undertook to present to Mr. Shubert, that we favor the open shop. It would be contrary to our best interests to put any obstacle in the way of actors joining our association. We want them all in, and the only time that the closed shop was discussed was not with the idea of holding a club over the managers, but as a possible means of compelling every actor who enjoyed the protection of the Equity contract to pay dues and share the cost of the maintenance of the association."

Mr. Brady has asserted several times over the footlights that he is not opposed to labor, and yet it was he who, as chairman of the last meeting between the opposing factions, made the final statement: "We cannot deal with you under your present affiliations. Our only affiliation is with the American Federation of Labor, and the question of withdrawing from that is beyond our power unless against our will." It was this final ultimatum from the managers which precipitated the present crisis.

Sothern Declares Neutrality.

E. H. Sothern, in answer to Equity charges that he was being influenced by the managers in the formation of a new actors' society, issued a denial, saying that the new organization was to be strictly neutral in the present strike, and that it was not committed to the managers' side. Every effort would be made by the new organization, he said, to settle the strike. Mr. Sothern said that the new association now numbers 300.

The actors spent an active day campaigning, sending cars full of speakers into Wall Street at noon. There they addressed large crowds in front of the Stock Exchange and at other points.

Both Morris Gest and Sam H. Harris appeared in the West Side Court yesterday in response to summons served by actors whom they were alleged to have assaulted. Mr. Gest was accused by Alexander Frank of attacking him near the Century Theatre a few nights ago, and Mr. Harris was charged with striking Harry Lambert. Both cases were put over until next week, as were also the cases of several pickets.

The managers forgot the strike and its problems long enough to attend an Actors' Fund luncheon at the Hotel Commodore, and it was announced that they would continue to aid this charity as before.

STRIKE ON IN CHICAGO.

Two Theatres Closed Following the Arrival of Francis Wilson.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—The actors' strike reached Chicago tonight, William Courtenay, co-star with Tom Wise in "Cappy Ricks," at the Cort Theatre, was the first actor to announce he would not appear. His note to the management resulted in the announcement that there would be no performance.

Chona's Grand Opera House was next to report no performance, the entire company quitting when Grant Mitchell, the star, announced that "A Prince There Was" would be no more.

Although actors who are members of the Equity Association are appearing at the Garrick, Woods, and Colonial theatres, the managements announced that there would be performances.

The strike was called following the arrival of Francis Wilson from New York. He declared that Chicago's strike would be as thorough as that in New York, and prepared an appeal to all actors appearing here to quit.

Companies at the Colonial, Woods, and Garrick did not close because the managers of these houses are not members of the Producing Managers' Association.

GET INJUNCTION IN BOSTON.

Managers Prevent Actors' Equity Representative from Interfering.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—Attorneys representing Selwyn & Co., and Henry W. Savage, theatrical producers, obtained injunctions today enjoining Echlin Gayer, the Boston representative of the Actors' Equity Association, from interfering with productions under their management in this city. The injunction obtained for Selwyn & Co. specifically enjoined Gayer from "ever approaching or talking to the members of the 'Buddies' company, a Selwyn production, playing at the Park Square Theatre, on the subject of a strike."

Donald Brian, who is appearing in the Selwyn offering, announced tonight that he, with Peggy Wood and Wallace Eddinger, co-stars in the production, had purchased the producing rights of "Buddies" and that they would take it to New York after an indefinite run here.

CALL ACTORS ON VACATION.

Two New Shows Running Uninterrupted at Atlantic City.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 12.—Stage stars who have been on vacation here were summoned by telephone and appealed to in person by representatives of the Managers' Association as well as by representatives of the Actors' Equity Association today. Mary Nash and Florence Nash, who have been here with their mother, Mrs. Ellen F. Nash, for several weeks, were summoned to New York by Al Woods and Emerson Cooke, their manager, for a conference.

At the Apollo Theatre, where "Civilian Clothes" opened last night under the direction of Oliver Morosco, there was great activity. Manager Morosco announced this afternoon that every member of his company had applied for membership in the new association formed by E. H. Sothern in opposition to the Actors' Equity Association.

"Breakfast in Bed," a new Al Woods production, is running uninterrupted at the Globe.

WARFIELD PLEADS FOR THE MANAGERS

Urges Actors to Quit Equity Association and Join Sothern's Organization.

The resignation of David Warfield from the Actors' Equity Association, and his enrollment among the members of the new actors' society now being formed by E. H. Sothern, was looked upon by the managers last night as a distinct triumph for their cause.

Mr. Warfield, upon taking this step, gave out the following statement:

"I deplore ill-advised actions and unfortunate management on the part of the Actors' Association, which is now dragging theatrical ideals in the dust. Our great profession with its honored traditions is being made a plaything by agitators and selfish men who have not the best interests of the actor at heart.

"I want to say at the outset that I am, first, last and all the time an actor. I am of them, and with them, when they endeavor to live up to the ideals and the traditions of the theatre. I am against those ill-advised players who have been led blindly, they know not whither or why, obeying orders from people who do not really represent the acting profession and who have not the best interests of the profession at heart.

"I cannot understand wherein the actors who receive the fabulous salaries some of the so-called strikers are receiving have any grievance. What do they want? Do they desire shorter hours? They only work about twenty-four hours a week, even if they play through an evening or matinee performance. Admitting that conditions have not always been ideal for certain minor actors in the past, what can be said now against the treatment accorded them by the Producing Managers' Association? I have been associated with David Belasco for many years, and I know him to be the actor's friend. Mr. Belasco's first thought has always been the comfort of the actor, and every actor who ever played the Belasco Theatre will know the conditions back of the stage are ideal. Mr. Belasco has always paid full salaries to his players when they were ill, or when conditions made it necessary to lose performances. Every actor who ever played for Mr. Belasco will confirm my statement.

"Then there is George M. Cohan—one of the finest men who ever breathed, whose whole life has been full of worthy charities to players overtaken by misfortune. Now you can actually hear actors decrying him because he prefers to conduct his own business without outside interference. Look at all he has done for the actors and then marvel at the sight of actors behaving disgracefully in front of his theatre, picketing the place and annoying the audiences in an effort to keep him from giving a performance.

"The present Association of Producing Managers in New York is one of the finest associations in the world. Why should the actor think that the manager is his enemy? Think of the number of theatrical producers who have died poor after working all their lives to make productions and pay actors big salaries. There was Charles Frohman—who Ethel Barrymore herself said in her recent telegram had always treated her fairly—who every one knows kept his word, regarded his word as his bond, who spent a lifetime making productions and paying big salaries to actors, and when he died his actual debts with all debts paid was a little over $400. There was Henry B. Abbey, who died a pauper; A. M. Palmer, a great manager in his time, who left almost nothing; while even the Augustin Daly estate was quite small. Now the path of the theatrical producer is not always milk and honey. All productions are not successes, only a small proportion of them. How often do we find productions running at a loss—yet the actors get paid just the same. I saw in yesterday's paper a remark about the 'poor downtrodden actors riding downtown in their limousines,' carrying banners claiming 'Not More pay, but Fair Play.' I would like to know just what they mean by fair play.

"I came into New York today especially to join Mr. Sothern's new organization and to advise all actors who love the best interests of the theatre to leave the Equity and its agitators, and to join Mr. Sothern's new organization. I believe Mr. Sothern has taken a step in the right direction and I have joined his organization in the hope that it will bring back to the stage the dignity it has borne in the past, and which is now being dragged in the dust by this disgraceful strike of fanatical agitators and selfish men."

Vacation Trips Upset You

PEOPLE who leave home for a vacation find that change of climate, water and food upsets the digestive system, which gives rise to intestinal disorders.

That is just what happened to our soldiers and sailors. As a remedy the U. S. Government prescribed rations of USOLINE—the original Russian White Mineral Oil—used as an internal lubricant for the human system.

You, too, should take a bottle of USOLINE when going away on a trip or vacation. Absolutely tasteless and agreeable to use, even in summer weather. More pleasant to take when kept cool. Ask any good druggist for USOLINE.

WINE MAKERS SEEK TO HOLD UP DRY LAW

Italian Vineyard Co. Begins Suit to Restrain Enforcement of Prohibition.

CONTEND WAR IS NOW OVER

No Question in Present Action of Intoxicating Qualities—Decision Is Reserved.

The Italian Vineyard Company, a California corporation with an office in this city, began suit yesterday in the Federal District Court to restrain the Federal authorities in this district from attempting to enforce the provisions of the wartime prohibition law.

The complaint states that the plaintiffs own a vineyard of 4,000 acres in California, valued at $1,000,000, besides three wineries worth $1,000,000 more, and that at the close of business on June 30 last they had on hand 1,500,000 gallons of marketable and readily salable wine worth at least $1,875,000.

It is also stated in the complaint that the company during the last year, had paid the Government more than $500,000 in taxes, and that it was under a bond of $100,000 to comply with all of the requirements of the Internal Revenue law. The defendants are United States District Attorney Francis G. Caffey, and William H. Edwards, Collector of Internal Revenue for this district.

Arguments were heard yesterday on a similar suit instituted by Scatena, Lawson & Perelli, another firm owning extensive vineyards in California, which seeks authority to continue its business by restraining the Federal officials from interfering with it. Ex-Justice Seabury, counsel for the concern, told Federal Judge A. N. Hand that he had the power of construing the law, which was passed as a war-time measure, and to decide whether the emergency which created it had ceased to exist.

Mr. Seabury contended that the law was unconstitutional. He called the attention of the court to the fact that on July 25, according to the report of the Chief of Staff, over 6,000,000 men were engaged in the war for the United States, and that of this number only 61,000 officers and men remained in war activities. He stated that this proved conclusively that the war was over and that the conditions which had resulted in the enactment of the prohibition law had been reversed.

Assistant United States District Attorney Barnes explained that there was a decided difference between the present suit and those instituted on behalf of brewers who sought permission to continue making 2.75 per cent. beer because there was no question as to the intoxicating qualities of the wines made by the plaintiffs. He asserted that peace did not come with the signing of the armistice, and that Congress had the sole power of repealing the law. He asked the court not to issue the restraining order asked for by the plaintiffs.

Decision was reserved.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Pressure is high off the New England coast and low over the upper Mississippi and Missouri Valleys and on the South Atlantic coast. During the last twenty-four hours showers and thunderstorms have occurred in the South Atlantic and east Gulf States, the upper Mississippi and Missouri Valleys and in the northern Appalachian Mountains. Elsewhere throughout the country the weather has been generally fair.

It has become somewhat cooler in the Middle and South Atlantic States and in the upper Mississippi and Missouri Valleys. Elsewhere throughout the country east of the Rocky Mountains the weather has become slightly warmer.

The outlook is for unsettled weather, with local showers and thunderstorms Wednesday and Thursday throughout the country generally east of the Mississippi River.

It will be somewhat cooler Thursday in the upper Lake region and Ohio Valley. Elsewhere east of the Mississippi temperature changes will not be marked.

Winds off Atlantic Coast—North of Sandy Hook, moderate southeast to south winds, partly cloudy weather, followed by showers; Sandy Hook to Hatteras, moderate, possibly fresh east and southeast winds and showers; Hatteras to Florida Straits, moderate north winds, becoming variable, and showers; East Gulf Coast, gentle to moderate variable winds, showers.

FORECASTS FOR TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Western Pennsylvania, Western New York, Ohio—Showers and thunderstorms probably Wednesday and Thursday; not much change in temperature.

Southern New England—Partly cloudy, followed by showers late Wednesday and on Thursday.

Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, District of Columbia—Showers and thunderstorms probably Wednesday and Thursday.

North and South Carolina, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia—Showers and thunderstorms probably Wednesday and Thursday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

Business—Pleasure
SEE Canada in the making! Let your vacation take you to the land of thriving opportunity. On discovering this greater business field at your elbow, you can settle down, or invest at will, with maximum profit. A visit to such cities as Winnipeg and the Prairie towns will acquaint you with a bigger future.

"9 Ideal Vacations"
In the wide lands of Canada, thousands of happy surprises await the vacationist. Health and strength renew themselves in the invigorating atmosphere of Prince Edward Island, St. John River Valley, Muskoka. For the hunter of moose, deer or bear, there is abundant sport in Nova Scotia, Quebec, New Brunswick, New Ontario and Eastern Manitoba. Great grizzlies and nimble mountain goats draw the sure shot of the hunter in British Columbia. The fish are biting at Rainy Lakes, Nipigon, Lake of the Woods and other ideal spots.

A Vacation Planned to Meet Your Needs—Choose!
Go back to Nature or camp close to the conveniences of civilization at the Laurentides, Algonquin Park, New Ontario, Nagogami River, Jasper Park. A wonder panorama unrolls before the traveler through the Canadian Rockies. Matapedia Valley, La Baie de Chaleur, Gaspe, Cape Breton and along the ocean shore of Nova Scotia. Historic facts find old-world setting in Quebec, Montreal, Halifax and their environs. If you have only a few days, spend them joyously at Muskoka, Sparrow Lake or the Maritime Provinces.

FORECLOSURE SALES.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW York.—ADELE OPPENHEIMER FRIEDMAN and another, plaintiffs, against ABRAHAM A. LUSTIG and others, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above entitled action, bearing date the 6th day of August, 1919, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 3rd day of September, 1919, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Samuel Marx, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, with the building and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying and being in the Borough of Manhattan of the City of New York, in the County and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the northerly side of 39th Street distant 125 feet easterly from the corner formed by the intersection of the northerly side of 39th Street with the easterly side of Second Avenue; running thence northerly, parallel with Second Avenue and part of the distance through a party wall, 98 feet 9 inches to the centre line of the block; thence easterly, along said centre line and parallel with 39th Street, 25 feet 6 inches; thence southerly, again parallel with Second Avenue and part of the distance through a party wall, 98 feet 9 inches to the northerly side of 39th Street; and thence westerly, along the same, 25 feet, 6 inches to the point or place of beginning.

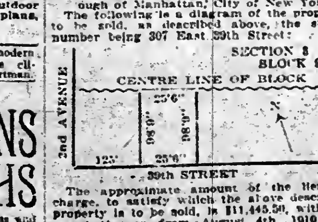
Dated New York, August 7th, 1919.

DAVID L. WEIL, Referee.

EVERETT B. HEYMANN, Attorney for Plaintiffs, No. 35 Nassau Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold, as described above, the street number being 307 East 39th Street:

SECTION 3
BLOCK 945



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above described property is to be sold, is $11,445.50, with interest thereon from August 4th, 1919, together with costs and allowance amounting to $385.15, with interest from August 6th, 1919, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of taxes, assessments and water rates or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee, is $180.82, with interest.

The above described property is to be sold subject to the facts specified in the judgment herein and to be specified in the terms of sale.

Dated New York, August 7th, 1919.

DAVID L. WEIL, Referee.

An Invitation to New York Advertisers

—you who are a prospective advertiser or a present advertiser seeking better advertising—to call at our offices and see how we plan and produce advertising campaigns on the basis of market investigations, trade reports, and painstaking analyses—

BY WILLIAM H. RANKIN,
President Wm. H. Rankin Company,
New York, Chicago, Washington.

We use advertising space in this newspaper to bring good will for our organization among advertisers and prospective advertisers.

We don't expect our advertising to make sales to new customers—although many of these column advertisements have been convincing enough to do just that.

Quite a few advertisers have called on us at our offices at 50 Madison Avenue, opposite Madison Square Garden.

There they found an organization that one of our customers* described as follows:

"Yes, we are releasing all of our newspaper copy through the Rankin Agency.

"I have found those gentlemen of the Rankin Agency with whom I have come in contact are not only considerate of other people's views, but generous in their constructive criticisms, and perhaps best of all, desire to co-operate, in every way possible, in the furtherance of our undertakings. I have found in these people a desire to harmonize their views with ours, and to work along the lines of sound business reasoning.

"May I express myself differently? The pronounced characteristics of so many advertising agencies have impressed me, as I believe they have also impressed you, with a desire to do 'stunts' in their plans, and particularly in their phraseology of advertising matter, an evident desire to impress the reading public with a certain astuteness and adeptness in psychology in both instances, and in most cases with the net result of pity and unconcern upon the part of the experienced advertiser.

"The big thing with the Rankin Agency, as I see them, is this—they are a bunch of hard-headed, common-sense fellows that catch the viewpoint of the advertiser first, and then proceed to harmonize such ideas and opinions with sound and effective publicity.

"I am confident that you will not go wrong in considering these people in your contemplated change of agencies."

An organization like ours makes its reputation by the work that it does for its customers.

We are proud of the advertising work we do, in newspapers, magazines and farm papers, for Marshall Field & Co., Goodrich Tires, Wilson & Co., Hartmann Trunks, Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes, Mead Cycle Company, Haynes Automobiles, Kellogg's Krumbles, Kellogg's Bran, Schultze's Bread, Monroe Clothes, Diamond Tires, Grinnell Gloves, Cheney Talking Machine Co., and many others.

Our work for these customers, and the enthusiastic support they give us when advertisers write them asking about our work, have helped us increase our business more than two millions in 1919 over 1916.

We want a few more customers of the same calibre as the great names mentioned in this advertisement.

Study this list of customers and products. Then compare our service to them in copy, art, trade work, sales co-operation, and merchandising, with the service of any other organization.

Meet the men in our organization who are responsible for the planning and direction of these campaigns, and you will say, as a new customer of ours said the other day:

"Your organization can not only write advertising copy, but it could edit a newspaper or magazine, manage it, and do all the work pertaining to marketing and creating sales."

This is because we have men with records of successful accomplishment, who have had broad editorial, advertising, business, sales, and merchandising training.

They are men who are accustomed to meeting and solving the hardest kind of sales, advertising, copy, art, and merchandising problems. They know markets—the people of large cities, of small towns, of rural communities, and farmers, and they know how to put the human appeal into advertising copy.

We do not employ salesmen.

We depend upon advertising like this one to create the desire in the minds of advertisers to investigate the service of the Wm. H. Rankin Company.

We extend an invitation to you to call and meet our Executives. At your convenience, an appointment may be made by telephone, local or long distance, Madison 1875. Call Mr. Coburn.

To those who wish to write we offer to send by return mail—

INTERNATIONAL AIR LAWS RECEIVED HERE

Aero Club Gets Copy of Complete Text of the Paris Convention.

COVERS TWELVE CHAPTERS

National, State and Local Legislation, Club Members Say, Can Now Be Enacted.

The complete text of the Paris Convention of International Air Navigation, published in an English periodical, "Flight," has just been received by the Aero Club of America, and was made public last night. An outline of the agreement was published in this country some weeks ago, but the authorities at Washington refused to give out the full text until after the final ratification of the Peace Treaty.

The convention as finally agreed upon is divided into twelve chapters, covering the following subjects: General principles; nationality of aircraft; certificates of airworthiness and competency, admission to air navigation above foreign territory, rules for departure, landing, and the voyage under way; prohibited transportation, State aircraft, the International Commission for Air Navigation, and final provisions. There are also appendices, dealing with the marking and registration of aircraft, logbooks and rules of the air, &c.

The chief provisions of the convention are as follows:

Article 1. The contracting States realize that every State has complete and exclusive sovereignty in the air space above its territory and territorial waters.

Article 2. Each contracting State undertakes in time of peace to accord freedom of innocent passage above its territory and territorial waters, and those of its colonies to the aircraft of the other contracting States, provided that the conditions in this convention are observed.

Article 14 provides that every aircraft which is able to carry ten or more passengers shall be equipped with wireless apparatus. Article 15 covers the establishment of international air paths. Article 23 deals with the matter of jurisdiction in case of crime or misdemeanor on board an aircraft. The jurisdiction of the State flown over applies only when the crime or misdemeanor is committed against a national of that State and is followed by a landing during the same journey upon its territory.

The International Commission for Air Navigation is charged under Chapter 8 with the duty of collecting and communicating information useful to air navigators, including weather forecasts, wireless news, meteorological data, and medical information of interest to fliers. The commission as at present constituted is composed as follows:

Two representatives from each of the following countries, the United States, France, Italy and Japan. One representative from Great Britain, and one from each British Dominion and India. One representative from each contracting State.

Each of the first five named States (Great Britain in this connection including the Dominions and India) shall have the least whole number of votes which, when multiplied by five, will give a product exceeding by at least one vote the total number of votes of all the other contracting States. All other States are to have one vote each.

The convention provides in Article 39 that in case of war the freedom of action of the contracting parties, either as belligerents or as neutrals, shall not be affected by the convention. The agreement is to take effect when the contracting States have exchanged ratifications, and this must be completed within a year.

As regards the admittance of new members to the convention, any of the countries which did not take part in the war will be taken in upon a simple declaration of such a desire, registered with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the French Republic. Any country which fought in the war and is not a signatory to the convention may be admitted by a unanimous vote of the signatory and adhering States, or, after Jan. 1, 1923, by three-quarters of the possible votes.

Article 45 states that denunciation of the convention shall apply only to the State which has given notice of it. Such denunciation is not to be given before Jan. 1, 1922, and will not take effect for at least one year after the notification.

Mr. W. W. Young, member of the Judiciary Committee of the Aero Club of America, who received a copy of the English publication containing the Air Navigation Convention last evening, commented on the agreement as follows:

"The publication of the convention means that important national, State, and local legislation governing the conduct of aircraft can now be put through, being thus provided with a uniform basis. Were it not for the fundamental law contained in the international convention, local legislation would result in great confusion."

CARRANZA REPLACES REBEL GARRISON

Troops Sent from Juarez to Chihuahua City — Leaders Who Were Ordered Executed.

JUAREZ, Mexico, Aug. 12.—Three hundred and fifty Federal troops were on their way south to Chihuahua City today, from the garrison here, on special trains.

No explanation was made at military headquarters regarding the dispatch of the troops, but it was rumored they were being sent to replace the mutinous garrison at Chihuahua City.

Letters and papers discovered in the headquarters of the leaders of the conspiracy at Chihuahua City last week indicated the plot to have the Federal garrison join Villa and surrender the town to him last Thursday, was a part of a plan to cause mutinies in Federal garrisons in all the States where revolutionary movements are in progress, according to a passenger from Chihuahua City who was here today.

Fifteen of the leading conspirators were ordered executed by General Manuel Diegues after the arrest of the alleged conspirators, according to the same authority. Included among those ordered executed were: General Lasaro Alanis, a former "Magonista" of Los Angeles and afterward a follower of Madero, Orozco, and Zapata; General Reuda Quijano, General Manuel Gutierrez, an ex-bandit, and ten others. Senora Lasaro Alanis was reported to have been arrested at the time her husband, General Alanis, was taken into custody. She became famous during the Orozco revolution of 1912, when she rode into Juarez with a band of rebels, took possession of the plaza, and held it twenty-four hours.

RETAIN OIL COMMISSIONS.

Mexican Deputies Reverse Their Action in Naming New Bodies.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 11.—Reversing its action of Aug. 8, when it named two new Petroleum Commissions, the Chamber of Deputies today invested the powers and duties of the two commissions in the bodies which were appointed at the opening of the extraordinary session of Congress in May and charged with an investigation of the petroleum situation. The two bodies appointed on May 8 were to collect data on which petroleum legislation would be based.

The Senate declined today to accept the proposal of the Chamber of Deputies for a fifteen-day recess between the extraordinary session of Congress and a regular session, which will begin on Sept. 1.

Mexicans Hold American Soldier.

LAREDO, Texas., Aug. 12.—United States military authorities here have demanded the release of Private Celectino Flores, 37th Infantry, arrested Sunday in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, charged with being a Felix Diaz conspirator. He went to Nuevo Laredo in civilian attire to witness a prizefight and is alleged to have made anti-Carranza utterances. Flores, an American citizen, born in Laredo, enlisted some time ago in the American Army. The Mexican authorities told the military officers here that Flores would be held pending instructions from Mexico City. A report has been sent to Washington.

Flies from Versailles to Morocco.

CASABLANCA, Morocco, Aug. 11.—The giant airplane Goliath, which left the vicinity of Versailles at midnight Sunday, arrived here today (Monday) at 5:40 P. M. The airplane will continue its journey to Dakar, French West Africa, as soon as atmospheric conditions become favorable. The airplane carried eight passengers.

LOTTERY LURES AMERICANS

But Italian Statesman, Deluged with Cash, Is in Dark.

ROME, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—Professor Luigi Luzzatti, former Premier, has received thousands of letters from America which demonstrate the love of Americans for a lottery. This avalanche of correspondence, which the aged statesman showed the correspondent tonight, was filled with checks for amounts varying from $1 to $100, the aggregate running up into the thousands. The letters implored the former Premier to reserve tickets in the gigantic international lottery, which the letters asserted he is conducting to pay the cost of the war.

"The proposal for an international lottery was widely published in the French press," he said. "Such a scheme was shown me by an Italian some months ago, but I am not identified with it. In fact, at the time that I was interviewed regarding the plan I strongly disapproved of it. I hope Americans will forgive my inability to satisfy their appetite for a good game."

LABOR BOARD QUITS FOR LACK OF FUNDS

Body Which Arbitrated Labor Disputes During War Terminates Its Existence.

NO MONEY SINCE JUNE 30

Body Continued Its Activities After Armistice at the Request of the President.

GRANTS WAGE INCREASES

Orders 12% Pay Advance for Employes of Ten Traction Companies.

The War Labor Board, meeting at the Hotel McAlpin yesterday, formally ended its existence after granting increases of 12 per cent. in wages in ten different traction cases affecting companies in territory extending from New England to the Pacific and as far south as the Ohio River. Ex-President William H. Taft and Basil M. Manly, joint chairmen, announced the adoption of a resolution which terminated the board's activities.

In each decision made yesterday, the complainant for the men affected by the increase was the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, represented by James H. Vahey of Boston.

The Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company, formerly the Bay State Street Railway Company, was one of the corporations ordered to pay the increase. The question before the board was a proposed reopening of an award dated Dec. 3, 1918, in which 41 cents minimum and 45 cents maximum for motormen and conductors was made by the board for the period of the war. In June the employes had the case reopened and the company agreed to submit the question to the board. The high cost of living was given as the basis for this and all the other applications. The award dates back to June 3, and the employes will receive the increase as from that time. The awards in all cases were retroactive.

Other cases decided were:

Cleveland, Paineaville & Eastern Railway Company and the Cleveland, Painesville & Ashtabula Railway Company, as of June 12.

Cleveland & Chagrin Falls Railway Company and the Cleveland & Eastern Traction Company, as of June 12.

Pittsburgh Railway Company, in the hands of a receiver, as of May 1. This case first will have to be submitted to the court in which the receivership is vested.

Beaver Valley Traction Company and the Pittsburgh & Beaver Valley Street Railway Company, as of June 12

Portland (Ore.) Railway, Light and Power Company, as of June 25.

East St. Louis, Columbus & Waterloo Railway Company, as of June 25.

Alton, Granite & St. Louis Traction Company and East St. Louis & Suburban Railway Company, as of May 1.

East St. Louis Railway Company and East St. Louis & Suburban Railway Company, as of May 1.

Buffalo Molders Win.

The case of the Molders' Union of Buffalo against P. J. Devine & Co. and the Buffalo Founders' Association resulted in an award of 74½ cents an hour since last September. Twenty-eight iron molding firms in Buffalo are involved. In these cases the board could not come to a decision, and Mr. Taft sat as umpire and made the award.

In the case of the patternmakers of Cincinnati against six employers, Mr. Taft also decided the award. In this case the men had returned to work on the verbal agreement of the employers. When it came before the board the employers raised the question of a bona-fide joint agreement between employer and employes. Mr. Taft found the men had returned to work in good faith and that this bound the employers. He decided by awarding the men back pay to Sept. 30, with time and a half for holidays and Sundays. The patternmakers wanted a forty-four-hour week, but this was denied.

The board refused to abrogate the decision of April 10 by making a 44-hour week in the silk mills of Paterson, N. J., effective immediately instead of Oct. 1. A committee representing the employes of more than five hundred textile factories asked the board to advance the date. The Bethlehem Steel employes' case is the only question which the board leaves undecided. This was placed in the hands of an administrator. It was said that back pay amounting to about $1,500,000 is being paid to Bethlehem employes by the War Department Ordnance Bureau.

Board Out of Funds.

The War Labor Board was created by an act of the President early in 1918. It was said that though he had created the board the President had had no hand in the termination of its existence. The expenses of the board were paid out of a war emergency appropriation, and it was said that its end was brought about "more through lack of funds than anything else."

When the armistice was signed many employers thought the board should dissolve, but in January the President cabled from Paris his wish that it continue to function during the period of reconstruction. Since June 30 the board has been acting without compensation. After some correspondence with Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson it decided to dissolve, and a resolution to that effect was unanimously adopted yesterday. The resolution read:

Whereas, On June 25 the National War Labor Board adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, Members of the National War Labor Board, realizing that the great national emergency which called the board into existence by Executive proclamation has practically terminated, the purpose of its organization has been substantially performed and no provision has been made for its maintenance; and

"Whereas, Until final dissolution of the board by Executive proclamation the members of the board are ready at the call of the President to take any action that may be necessary to carry out the purposes for which the board was created. The board, therefore,

"Resolves, That the Secretary of the board give public notice that no new cases or applications will hereafter be received, and that when the board adjourns during the present week it adjourns indefinitely, subject only to the call of the Chairman, pending final dissolution of the board.

"It is further resolved that present controversies, jointly submitted, that cannot be considered and concluded prior to June 30 shall be assigned to the joint Chairmen or a section of the board for disposition.

The board recommends that with the approval of the President all administrative duties in connection with any such cases, so far as may be, shall be transferred with all necessary formalities to the Department of Labor.

The board further resolves that all records and files of the board be transferred to the Department of Labor, with the request that they be separately stored so as to be convenient of access to all parties interested therein, as well as to the public, and the board takes this action assuming that the Department of Labor will retain for such time as may be necessary such members of the staff of the board as may be required in the administrative duties in connection with the business of the board.

The Secretary of the board is hereby directed to do all things necessary and proper to carry into effect the foregoing resolution.

And whereas the board is in receipt of a communication from the Secretary of Labor on July 7, 1919, in which it is stated: "As the activities of the National War Labor Board, which was created for the war emergency, practically terminated with the close of the fiscal year, I want to take this opportunity of conveying to you, and through you to the members of the employers and the employes groups and to the other officials of the National War Labor Board, my sincere appreciation of the valuable and splendid work accomplished. I feel that the work of the War Labor Board contributed in large measure toward the solution of the economic and industrial problems with which the Government was confronted during the world war."

Therefore, be it resolved, that the board receives and accepts this letter of the Secretary of Labor as action by the President dissolving this board, and that in accord therewith the board does not adjourn sine die.

During the fifteen months of its existence the board has handled and adjusted more than 1,200 labor disputes and has expended $750,000. In every case brought before it labor benefited by increased wages. The board maintained war production without interrupting the industries of the country.

Bulk of Bulgar King's Riches Safe in Neutral Countries

GENEVA, Aug. 10, (Associated Press.)—The seizure in England of securities belonging to former King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, valued at $2,000,000, will not altogether ruin the ex-monarch, according to reliable information obtained here.

It is said that Ferdinand toward the end of 1914 took the precaution of placing his fortune abroad, mostly in neutral countries. Swiss banks, for instance, are said to hold stocks and bonds belonging to Ferdinand valued at nearly $5,000,000. Large sums also were placed in Hungary, where Ferdinand is now a fugitive with his family.

A dispatch from London July 10 said securities belonging to Ferdinand of Bulgaria, valued at $2,000,000, which had been in London since the beginning of the war, had that day been declared forfeited to the British Crown. The forfeiture was made after proceedings before a Commissioner and a jury.

FIREMEN DRAFT DEMANDS.

Heads of Railroad Union Are in Convention in Cleveland.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—Chiefs of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, meeting in Cleveland today, named a committee of twelve to draft wage demands, which, it is expected, will be presented to the main body of union leaders the last of this week.

"We are here to arrange fair wage demands and the nation may be assured that we shall be as fair as conditions permit," said Timothy Shea, President of the Order. "While the railroad men hopefully pray that there will be a substantial reduction in the present cost of living, we cannot, in framing our demands, take into consideration what may or may not result from the agitation against profiteering."

The present scale for firemen ranges from $4 to $5 a day, Shea said. Enginemen receive from $4.16 to $5 a day.

"We cannot live on the present wage scale," declared the brotherhood chief.

More than 150 representatives of brotherhood organizations attended the opening session today. Arrivals tonight and tomorrow, it is said, will bring the attendance up to 300.

Pittsburgh Carmen Hear of Increase

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Aug. 12.—By the award of the War Labor Board, announced in New York tonight, the 3,000 motormen and conductors of the Pittsburgh Railways Company receive an increase of a fraction more than 5 cents an hour, against their demand for 12 cents. Division No. 85, Amalgamated Association of Street Car Employes, will meet tomorrow night, when it is probable the award will be discussed.

MASARYK RESISTS PRESSURE TO INTERVENE

Czechs Alarmed by Events in Hungary, but President Won't Embarrass Entente.

PRAGUE, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—Large, but orderly, demonstrations occurred here today, being led generally by the Social Democratic element, in protest against the coup d'etat by which Archduke Joseph became the head of the Hungarian Government.

At the beginning of the Rumanian invasion of Hungary the more conservative elements of Czechoslovakia were insistent that a Czech army advance immediately into Hungary to protect Czechoslovakian interests there. Professor T. G. Masaryk, President of Czechoslovakia, and members of his Ministry opposed such a movement, declaring that they desired to act entirely in co-ordination with the great powers and did not wish to embarrass them further in the situation which had arisen because of the Rumanian invasion, which was in violation of the armistice.

Fears are expressed that the reactionary element in Vienna will soon join forces with those back of the ascendency of Archduke Joseph and will amalgamate the Austrian and Hungarian States into an intensely autocratic government which will become the centre of autocratic propaganda in Central Europe.

As Archduke Joseph is a Hapsburg, it is hoped by Czechoslovakian officials that the United States will use its influence in preventing the new régime from succeeding. They base their hope on the fact that a government by any Hapsburg was one of the forms of government denounced by President Wilson before he would agree to the conclusion of an armistice.

No Czechoslovakian official believes for a moment that Archduke Joseph any more represents the true sentiment of the Hungarian common people than did Bela Kun. They say that both Governments were based on terrorism and in opposition to the aspirations of the common people throughout Central Europe.

Up to this time the Czechoslovakian Ministry has been reticent in giving expression to its views respecting developments in Hungary, but today's demonstrations make it necessary for the Government to make some declaration, and the sentiments of a large majority of officials are epitomized above.

Czechoslovaks are cheered by the note from the Peace Conference to the Rumanians on Aug. 7, inquiring whether the Rumanians had "decided to dissociate themselves from the Allies." This note was published here today. A strong feeling exists here that the close relationship between the Hohenzollerns and the Hapsburgs is in some way connected with the present Hohenzollern occupant of the Rumanian throne, King Ferdinand, and the latest developments of the tangled political situation in Hungary.

It is significant that as a result of today's demonstrations the Social Democrats now seem to be inclined to a considerable degree to support an invasion of Hungary at once with a view to placing Czechoslovakia in such a position she could demand the withdrawal of the Government headed by Archduke Joseph as the price of her ultimate evacuation of the country. What decision will be taken by Czechoslovakia is uncertain, but in any event the reappearance of a Hapsburg in a Government position in Central Europe has excited apprehension.

CUT IN ARMAMENTS PROMISED COMMONS

British Government Is Severely Criticised for Its Extravagance.

CHURCHILL DEFENDS POLICY

Intimates Cabinet Is Endeavoring to Meet Popular Demands for Economy.

LONDON, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—In the House of Commons tonight the Ministers had to listen to strong criticism of the extravagance of the Government in armaments, but Winston Churchill, Secretary for War, in a general defense of the Government, said he was able to promise considerable retrenchment in this direction. His speech indicated that the Government was endeavoring as far as possible to meet the popular demands for greater economy.

Major Gen. J. E. B. Seely, Under Secretary for Air, in the course of his speech, said that the air force had saved the country millions in money and thousands in lives this year in connection with the troubles in Afghanistan and Egypt, where campaigns were carried out at slight cost as compared to the heavy cost in money and life in similar campaigns conducted by Lords Roberts and Wolseley.

Sir Frederick Banbury, Unionist, contended that the people would never economize while seeing Ministers riding about in expensive automobiles at the nation's expense.

George Lambert, Liberal, challenged the Government to say what it considered the peace-time strength of the air force likely to be, and when the expenditure on military adventures abroad would cease. He declared the Government had lost the confidence of the country by the heavy expenditure in every Government department.

Mr. Churchill, defending the Government, said that through its policy it was beginning to regain control over expenditure. The latter, however, was still dependent upon military commitments abroad, the Minister continued, but already it had been arranged with France that by the end of October the British forces on the Rhine may be reduced to a single strong brigade, including an air force of a single squadron.

The delayed peace with Turkey and Bulgaria, he said, and the position in Mesopotamia prevented immediate reduction of the large forces, while the Irish executive was strongly opposed to reducing the Irish garrison.

"The Government is making earnest inquiries whether it is not possible by free employment of armored cars and swift tanks and a judicious arrangement of railways and airplanes to greatly reduce our armies in these regions," Mr. Churchill declared. He was hopeful that it might thus be possible to reduce the costly British forces by half.

Mr. Churchill argued, however, against abolishing the framework of the anti-aircraft organization on the ground that no form of attack could more easily or secretly be prepared than an air attack.

Challenges Comparison.

He contended that instances of mismanagement were remarkably few, considering the volume of business, and said that, despite mistakes, waste, and muddles, the Government was overcoming troubles in a manner to challenge comparison with any other belligerent, not including America. Expenditure on defenses was in the hands of Parliament, he added, which could stipulate the amount it desired to spend and leave the War Office to do its best therewith.

By next year, the War Minister continued, there would be only two great nations in the world free from conscription, Great Britain and Germany, and only one of those voluntarily free. Even the United States, he said, was embarking on a policy of conscription. The British policy, he asserted, was to return to the principle of the small pre-war voluntary army, subject only to such improvements and modifications as the war had taught. The present-day cost of such an army, according to an estimate submitted to him, but which he was not yet prepared to accept, Mr. Churchill said, would be between sixty-five and seventy-five millions yearly. In addition, there was the question of garrisoning Mesopotamia and Palestine.

With regard to the air force, Mr. Churchill declared he had instructed Major Gen. Sir Hugh Trenchard, Chief of the Royal Air Staff, that he must provisionally frame his scheme within the limits of twenty-five millions yearly, which was equivalent to about twelve millions in pre-war days.

Mr. Churchill said he held most strongly that a resolute and earnest effort must be made to economize, even if such economy involved the abandonment of cherished schemes. The risks of the financial situation were such that risks in other directions must be faced. A reduction of expenditures would only be obtainable by discharging officers and men from the army and air force as quickly as the situation allowed. Every effort would be made to obtain decisions of world policy which were necessary before the Government could proceed upon its path.

Mr. Churchill said he believed that four or five years hence it would be found the best course for the armed forces of the nation would be to aim at scientific progress and quality, rather than at mere numbers or instant readiness for action. He fully agreed with the House that reduction in the cost of armaments was the first need Great Britain had to face, but declared that he would not himself become responsible for maltreatment of the army during the years which followed immediately on the war, or for any policy which denied the air force a permanent, effective and independent state of existence.

AIR MINISTRY ACCUSED.

Extravagance Charged in Debate in House of Commons.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Alleged extravagance on the part of the Air Ministry was the subject of a debate in the House of Commons today. The debate began after Major Gen. J. E. B. Seeley, head of the Air Ministry, had detailed economies effected since the armistice.

Twenty thousand officers and more than 200,000 men, General Seeley said, had been demobilized, while 210 airdromes have been dismantled and 1,927 rented buildings had been returned to their owners. Only 10,000 officers and 60,000 men remained in the service.

The estimated appropriation for the Air Force of £66,000,000, the General added, was necessary to clear up war contracts.

GIVES NEW AIRPLANE PRIZE.

Captain Glidden, Through Aerial League, Offers Trophy.

Captain Charles Glidden, who served in the Army Air Service during the war, has offered a trophy for airplane touring, through the Aerial League of America, according to an announcement made yesterday. The prize, which is to be known as the Glidden Airplane Efficiency Trophy, is open to competition according to rules to be formulated by the league.

In a letter to Rear Admiral Peary, President of the Aerial League of America, regarding the prize, Captain Glidden expresses his belief in the great future of aviation.

Find Evidence of Secret Spartacide Scheme For a New Revolution in Germany

BERLIN, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—A complete and carefully drawn plan to overthrow the present Government and further world revolution is contained in a secret Spartacide circular to its agents and district chiefs.

The document, which was captured by the "General Bureau for the Study of Bolshevism," begins by regretting that the Government signed the Peace Treaty, thus delaying the "inevitable" crisis. It speculates on various possible developments and then sets forth a concrete plan, the first step of which would be to hasten an internal German crisis by tampering with the Home Guards of Gustav Noske, Minister of Defense, who are declared to be less reliable than formerly.

The circular urges Spartacide organizations to agitate among the soldiers by leaflets and verbally. The railroad men, the document says, can already be counted as won for revolution, even though they do not accept Spartacide politics.

The postal workers are depressed, according to the circular, which goes on to say that the program with regard to the peasants is complete. Capture of the peasants is declared to be important, for without their sympathy or with their enmity revolution would be difficult, if not impossible.

Delay in provoking the revolution is rather welcomed, "as it will enable further education of the proletariat; but every moment and every situation must be utilized toward the final goal." The circular says that the railroad men's movement is regarded as especially important, affecting the bourgeoisie as no other and bound to overcome any Government.

The document expresses doubt that the railroaders yet aim at the Spartacide goal, their objects being economic. Therefore, it says, their movement must be supported in other than political ways at present.

JOSEPH REAFFIRMS FEALTY TO REPUBLIC

Will Be No Return to Monarchy, Archduke Assures Hungarians in Proclamation.

ALLIES ARE MARKING TIME

Will Take No Action in Regard to Rumanian Occupation Till Military Mission Reports.

BERLIN, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—Archduke Joseph, head of the new Hungarian Government, has issued a proclamation in which he affirms that there will be no return to the monarchical system, according to the Tageblatt's correspondent at Budapest. The Archduke reminds the people that he was one of the first to swear fidelity to the young Hungarian republic, even though he was formerly an equally true member of the Emperor's house.

The proclamation had a good effect, the correspondent continues, crowds joining in a demonstration before the Archduke's hotel. Previously, the officers and students had proclaimed the Archduke King, and it was to offset this that he reiterated his loyalty to the republic.

Plans for a coalition Cabinet, however, appear further from solution than ever since the declination of Paul Garami, Socialist leader, to participate in a Government having a Hapsburg at its head.

Premier Friedrich has announced that the National Assembly will convene within eight weeks. He says that it will meet on a basis of a Republican State, but M. Lovassy, who has been named for a post in the Department of Instruction, has declared that the form of the Hungarian Government will be decided upon only after his arrival in Budapest from Switzerland.

He is said to agree thoroughly with Dr. Wilhelm Vaszony, a Hungarian Socialist leader, who is also on his way home from Switzerland and who is urging the formation of a democratic liberal cabinet in which the whole national strength could be concentrated.

A group of Hungarian banks will attempt to negotiate a loan for the new Government at Budapest, dispatches received here say, the Government having been unable to borrow the 1,500,000,000 crowns sought from Austro-Hungarian banks. The confiscation of bank funds by the deposed Soviet authorities, however, it was said, has made the undertaking a difficult one.

Budapest newspaper men who fled to Vienna during the Soviet rule rather than support Bolshevist policies have appointed a committee to determine which of their colleagues supported the Soviet Government. Those who are found to have been allied with the Bela Kun administration will be publicly expelled from the journalists' association.

PARIS, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—The Peace Conference, it was apparent today, will take no further action in the Hungarian situation until the Inter-Allied Military Mission which has been sent to Budapest makes its report.

Brig. Gen. Harry H. Bandholtz, the American representative on the mission, reached the Hungarian capital on Monday, the American peace delegation was advised today. The General has not yet been able to send a report on the situation in Budapest.

The opinion seems general in conference circles, however, that Rumania must be required to live up to the armistice agreement. Otherwise allied States—and worse still, enemy States—would be encouraged to disregard the terms of the Peace Treaty.

VIENNA, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—The General Staff of the Rumanian forces of occupation, according to reports from Bucharest, has decided to occupy Stuhlweissenburg, the capital of the county of the same name, thirty-five miles southwest of Budapest. The Rumanians, the report adds, also will take possession of other towns and districts in Western Hungary in order "to combat communism."

FIND RED LEADERS' LOOT.

Bela Kun and Szamuely Hid Valuables They Had Stolen.

BERLIN, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—A special dispatch to the National Zeitung from Budapest says that 21 people's commissaries, 82 workmen's councillors and 186 terrorists who have been arrested, charged with crime, will be tried shortly.

The arrest of the men and search of their houses are said to have revealed that a majority of them used their positions in the Soviet Government for purposes of embezzlement.

The newspaper says that 180,000 crowns were found walled up in the home of Bela Kun, the former dictator, and that the hastily abandoned plunder of the late Tibor Szamuely, consisting of seven great cases and a roll of valuable Persian carpet, and gold and silverware, including silver plate from the collection of Archduke Frederick, was found concealed in the cloister of a convent in Odenburg.

During the Bolshevist reign of terror, the National Zeitung's correspondent asserts, 606 persons are said to have been executed. For these executions the revolutionary tribunal is declared to carry responsibility for only twenty-one, the remainder being laid to the account of Szamuely and his assistants.

As a result of these disclosures the Communists, especially in the provinces, are being harried and manhandled or worse.

Premier Friedrich announces the creation of a State court to punish Communist crimes.

Governmental discussion in Vienna is centring about the problem as to whether asylum in Austria should be accorded to Bela Kun, or whether he should be delivered to the first country demanding him for trial, according to advices received here from the Austrian capital. It is said that sentiment is decidedly against granting asylum to him.

FEEDING MAGYAR CHILDREN.

20,000 in Budapest to be Taken Care Of by American Relief Officials.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The American Relief Administration began today the task of feeding 20,000 children in Budapest as part of its plan to give food to the children of Central Europe, it was announced here today.

It was said this did not involve a general relaxation of the food blockade against Hungary.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 10.—Twenty-three cars of American food for underfed children in the city arrived from Vienna this morning in charge of Captain Richardson. Complete arrangements for its reception were made by Captain Leach so that feeding will start immediately.

NIECE TO CONTEST THE JUILLIARD WILL

Relative Charges Execution of Instrument Obtained by Use of Undue Influence.

DEMANDS TRIAL BY JURY

Document in Question Designates $5,000,000 for Foundation of Musical Fund.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Through New York attorneys, Mary Etta Fauve of Fort Wayne, Ind., has filed in the Surrogate's office at Goshen objections to the probating of the will of her uncle, Augustus Juilliard, late of Tuxedo Park and New York, which disposes of an estate of millions. The contestant charges that the execution of the will was obtained by undue influence. A jury trial is demanded.

The contestant under the provisions of the will receives $10,000 outright and also $100,000 in trust. After making various large bequests to relatives and institutions, including $100,000 to Tuxedo Hospital, the residue of the estate, estimated to be about $5,000,000, is left to found a Juilliard musical foundation. The trial of the action will be held in this county.

ITALIAN LAW AUTHORITY AGAINST KAISER'S TRIAL

Says Accusers Cannot, and Neutrals Won't, Be Judges of His Guilt.

ROME, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—Deputy Stoppato, a leading member of the parliamentary commission which is studying the Peace Treaty, an eminent authority on international law, and professor at the University of Padua, in an interview today condemned the treaty's provision for the punishment of those responsible for the war and trial of the former German Emperor as a mistake opposed to all the rules of modern juridicial procedure.

"I certainly do not defend the Kaiser, who is more than a criminal, but his trial would be a mistake from the political viewpoint," Deputy Stoppato said. "There certainly should be obtained a guarantee of international safety against further troubles, but this will not be found in the trial of the Kaiser.

"How can we speak of a penal trial against a sovereign without considering the constitution of his country and the thought and will of his people? Was he the exclusive cause of everything or was he the executor of the people's will? In his trial accuser and judge would be the same. It would be impossible to secure an unprejudiced and impartial judge among his prosecutors. A judge must be sought among the neutrals, who would be unwilling to assume the responsibility of presiding over the court.

"Then there would be need of the testimony of neutrals. All the archives and chancelleries of the neutrals must be opened for the production of evidence. This is a virtual impossibility. The crime the Kaiser is alleged to have committed is ex post facto. It is a principle of law the world over that nothing adjudged a crime after the act is committed is punishable. This is a case of trying to create a new crime after the act has been committed. His crime is created for this special trial, but heretofore has not been defined by his accusers.

"There is nothing about international morality in the international code, nor does there exist a treaty which establishes punishments for violation of treaties. International morality is elastic. Treaty violations always lead to complex diplomatic questions which are not juridical. There is no established procedure for this eventuality and no guarantee of the rights of the defense. Judges could not be appointed who would be the accusers. Accuser and judge must be absolutely separate.

"If Holland will protect her dignity and international faith, she will decline to deliver the Kaiser. Extradition is an institution based on juridical brotherhood, subordinated to respect for the sovereignty of States, great and small. Extradition is never granted for political crimes. In no extradition law existing is there provision for the extradition of one accused of the same crime as that charged against the Kaiser.

"This attitude does not mean that we are not going to ratify the treaty. We simply announce our attitude on this question. We accept all the points of the German treaty, without any change in the original draft. We simply wish to feel that we have published our view on this important matter, in which a mistake might be committed."

The aged Deputy Luzatti, who has assisted in the conclusion of twenty-eight treaties, including those with Bismarck, Gladstone, and Thiery, is Chairman of the committee.

FALKENHAYN DENIES OFFER.

Spruns Trial by Allies, but Accepts Responsibility for Kaiser.

BERLIN, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—General von Falkenhayn, former German Chief of Staff, in announcing to the newspapers that he assumes responsibility for the decisions and commands of former Emperor William from September, 1914, to August, 1916, says he has no intention whatever of voluntarily placing himself at the disposal of the Allies.

The General states that if he surrendered to the Allies he would recognise a procedure which, he considers, "mocks all sense of justice."

Paris newspapers on Aug. 7 stated that the German delegation at Versailles had transmitted to the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference a letter from General von Falkenhayn. The letter said that the former German Chief of Staff assumed responsibility for all military acts of Germany while he was in power. It was added that he was prepared to offer himself to the Allies for trial in place of the former Emperor.

TWO ARE INDICTED ON ANARCHY CHARGE

Special Term Grand Jury Deliberates Three Hours After Organizing.

FINNISH EDITOR IN TOMBS

Police Expect Soon to Have the Second Man Accused—Justice Weeks Reviews the Law.

Two indictments, charging criminal anarchy, were returned yesterday after three hours' deliberation, by the Special Grand Jury of the extraordinary term of the Supreme Court, called by Governor Smith to investigate and punish anarchistic and seditious activities in this State.

One person indicted, Gustave Alonen of 864 Cauldwell Avenue, the Bronx, who says he is a carpenter but is held as editor of the Loukkataistelu, a Finnish magazine which is alleged to provide a forum for the teaching of anarchy, sedition and violent overthrow of the Government, was arraigned last night before Justice Bartow S. Weeks, presiding at the extraordinary term. A plea of not guilty was entered, and he was held, Justice Weeks continuing the $25,000 bail fixed in the Harlem Police Court, where the prisoner was arraigned last Friday morning after he had been arrested with three other Finns in an early morning raid on his apartment by members of the Bomb Squad under Detective Sergeant James J. Gegan.

The other man against whom indictments were found had not been arrested late last night, and his whereabouts was not revealed. The police expect to arrest him soon.

The indictments were found under Sections 160 and 161 of the Penal law, enacted after the assassination of President McKinley, to provide a curb upon apostles of unrest who foster propaganda which drives other men to commit deeds of violence.

The Special Grand Jury.

The selection of the special Grand Jury was not completed until yesterday. Raymond F. Almiral, an architect, of 12 East Forty-sixth Street, who has served as foreman of other Grand Juries, was assigned by Justice Weeks to preside. The other members are:

JULIUS BUCHMAN, cotton merchant, 112 Prince Street.
HENRY OSTERWEISS, retired, Hotel Endicott.
CHARLES FRIEDENBERG, exporter, 17 State Street.
GEORGE LATHAM, tailor, 435 West 119th Street.
ARTHUR G. MEYER, merchant, 25 Madison Avenue.
OTTO S. WISE, manager, R. H. Macy & Co., Broadway and Thirty-fourth Street.
GEORGE SCHAEFER, treasurer, 142 East Fifty-ninth Street.
JOHN J. CUSKLEY, real estate, 321 Madison Avenue.
HARRY C. THOMPSON, manager Colonial Bank, 2,681 Broadway.
HENRY MEYERS, President Hamilton Press, 40 Stone Street.
WALTER S. SULLIVAN, Mutual Life Insurance Co., 45 Cedar Street.
ELWOOD HENDRICK, writer, 139 East Fortieth Street.
CLINTON TYLER BRAINARD, publisher, Harper & Brothers, 327 Pearl Street.
BENJAMIN HAMBURGER, salesman, 212 Fourth Avenue.
ISAAC LANDMAN, clothing, 334 Third Avenue.
CHARLES R. BERWIN, hardware, 78 Reade Street.
ALEXANDER WARENDORFF, florist, 325 Fifth Avenue.
WILSON POTTER, architect, 22 East Seventeenth Street.
LAWRENCE W. MACK, Northwestern Mutual Life, 1 Madison Avenue.
CHARLES H. AUGUST, real estate, 50 West Seventy-seventh Street.
JOHN W. BRICE, real estate, 102 East Ninety-sixth Street.
HERBERT G. EINSTEIN, broker, 25 Broad Street.

Jutsice Weeks, charging the Grand Jury, said that in their investigation and votes on indictments they must not be influenced by fear of consequences to themselves.

Justice Weeks's Charge.

"Your principal duty will be the investigation of criminal anarchy," said Justice Weeks. "At this time, in the atmosphere of general unsettlement and unrest following the great world war, it is of the utmost importance that the statute making criminal anarchy a serious offense should be fully applied.

"We have thus far in this country been spared the scenes of devastation that the Old World has witnessed. We have, through the good fortune of our form of government, been permitted to escape the many uprisings that preceded, continued during, and have followed after that great war. No question of the fear and consequence, no question of timidity, must permit this country to suffer because of unlawful uprisings against organized government.

"It must never be that the liberty of this country shall mean unbridled license, because if that be so, the freedom of this country must be expressed in but one word and that word is 'failure.' Controlled liberty means freedom. Uncontrolled liberty means, with the license that would follow it, the destruction of this country of which we are all proud and of which today the whole world is proud because of the contributions that this free country made to the freedom of the entire world."

After the indictments had been returned, Detectives Newman and Brown, with a bench warrant, went to Harlem Jail, and in an hour Alonen, a shabbily dressed, unkempt man, past middle age, who had the appearance of a laborer rather than a brain worker, entered court. Miss Rose Weiss, a lawyer of 47 West Forty-second Street, after a brief consultation with the prisoner, entered a plea of not guilty.

Miss Weiss said she had been sent by the Civil Liberties Bureau to appear for the prisoner in the absence of Walter Nelles of 41 Union Square. It was learned afterward that Assistant District Attorney Rorke had called the bureau and asked that some one be sent to represent the prisoner. Alonen was locked up in the Tombs.

DUTCH STONE AMERICANS.

Col. Davis, Attache at The Hague, Complains of Attacks on Motor Cars.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 11.—Colonel Edward Davis, American Military Attaché at The Hague, has lodged an official complaint with the Dutch commanding General owing to offensive treatment of himself and other Americans riding in automobiles in Holland.

Stones and dead animals have been thrown at or into cars, often hitting the chauffeurs or other occupants. The authorities have ordered strict supervision of children in this respect.

Colonel Davis had previously complained of the conduct of children in many parts of Holland, who annoy the occupants of automobiles, especially army and navy cars.

Say 40,000 Jews of Poland Ask Leave to Emigrate Here

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 12.—It is reported from Warsaw that 40,000 Polish Jews have asked permission to emigrate to America.

It is expected that there will be a great number of emigrants leaving the whole of Central Europe in the near future for America.

TELL HOW GERMANY BLOCKED PEACE AIM

British White Paper Gives Facts on the Pope's Efforts in August, 1917.

MICHAELIS WAS EVASIVE

Former Chancellor Says Premier Bauer Suppressed Part of His Letter.

LONDON, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—A "White Paper" issued by the Government tonight deals with the papal peace proposal to the belligerents in August, 1917.

It recalls that the Pope said in his note that, before everything, the fundamental point must be that the moral force of right should be substituted for the material force of arms, and pointed out that this would entail a general agreement for the simultaneous and reciprocal reduction of armaments and the institution of the uprinciple of arbitration. The Pontiff stipulated for complete evacuation of Belgian and French territory, with the complete political, military, and economic independence of Belgium, restitution of the German colonies, and complete freedom of the seas.

Foreign Minister Balfour, the "White Paper" continues, in acknowledging the Pope's note, intimated that until the Central Empires and their allies stated officially how far they were willing to go in the matter of reparation and restoration, announced their war aims and offered effective guarantees against a repetition of the horrors of the war, the British Government considered it most unlikely that any progress toward peace could be made. The French Government intimated that its views coincided with those expressed by Mr. Balfour.

Dr. Georg Michaelis, then German Chancellor, replying for Germany, subscribed to the idea of enforced arbitration, the limitation of armaments, and freedom of the seas, but said no word on the subject of the evacuation of Belgium and France or Belgian independence. He merely expressed readiness for peace on "conditions compatible with justice and corresponding to the European situation."

This and the Austrian reply, which was similarly couched, were sent to Premier Lloyd George and formally acknowledged. There the matter ended, the "White Paper" says.

Michaelis Defends His Record.

BERLIN, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—Dr. George Michaelis, former Imperial Chancellor, has sent to German newspapers a statement setting forth that he did not refuse to negotiate with Great Britain through Pope Benedict in 1917, as has been alleged by Premier Bauer, who has made public a letter from Dr. Michaelis to Field Marshal von Hindenburg, dated Sept. 12, 1917, intended by the Premier to prove that there was a refusal to consider peace at that time.

The former Chancellor says that in making public the letter the Premier suppressed one important part. This section Dr. Michaelis includes with his statement to the press. It follows:

"Who will venture to attack Germany again after she has maintained herself three or four years against superior power, and lately, as an incomparable proof of her competence, has achieved a brilliant victory in the East? If we, on the above basis, were able to obtain peace for our poor, tortured people and the world, then we ought to do it and not conduct this war one moment longer."

Dr. Michaelis concludes his statement by saying that had his complete letter been published, the representatives of the Government would not have convinced a portion of their party that he had refused a peace offer in "an irresponsible manner."

SAYS AMERICANS THINK EUROPE A WILD WEST

Paris Editor Complains of Agents Who Would Reform Old Nations on Western Models.

PARIS, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—Auguste Gauvain, editor of the Journal des Débats, contributes an editorial article to this evening's edition of that newspaper in which he somewhat severely criticises what he calls American "Messianic reforms" in Europe, notably in connection with the Rumanian situation.

M. Gauvain especially objects to the Allied note calling upon the Rumanians to carry out the policy decided upon by the Peace Conference. He demands to know what this policy is, and expresses regret that neither President Wilson nor his advisers have seen fit properly to define it.

While professing the greatest admiration for and gratitude to the Americans for their aid in the war, M. Gauvain complains that the Americans often are badly advised by their agents, both civil and military, who "explore Europe as their ancestors explored the Far West, and regard ancient European nations as Iroquois, Comanches, and Aztecs, and want to reform Europe by methods current in Oklahoma and Colorado."

M. Gauvain insists that methods must differ according to countries.

"Just as the American settlers fired the forests to clear the soil," says M. Gauvain, "certain American agents would act, politically speaking, in Russia and Hungary. They regard Lenin, Trotsky, and Bela Kun as good pioneers of a new civilization."

M. Gauvain appeals to his American friends not to spoil the situation by "everlastingly lecturing friendly nations," and declares that he thinks it would be much wiser for the Americans "to hold the Turks in check rather than to hustle the Rumanians."

BAKER OPPOSES SINGLE AIR BUREAU

Objects to Aviation Commission's Report Urging Cabinet Official as Supreme Head.

TO MEET NEW CONDITIONS

Report Condemns Our Meagre Aircraft Program—Warns Next War Will Be Aerial.

CITES ACTIVITY OF BRITAIN

Sudden Creation of Battle Fleet Impossible—Urges Americans to Join Commercial Race.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Contraction of the air activities of the United States—civilian, naval, and military—within the direction of a single governmental agency, with an official at the head holding a place in the President's Cabinet, is recommended by the special American Aviation Mission headed by Assistant Secretary of War Crowell, which has been studying aircraft developments in Europe.

In making public the report today Secretary Baker disapproved the recommendation for a Department of Aviation, holding that "the mission has in my judgment gone too far in suggesting a single centralized air service."

The proposed department of aviation, the mission asserted in its report, should be charged with full responsibility for "placing and maintaining our country in the front rank among nations in the development and utilization of aircraft for the national security, and in the advancement of civil aerial transportation and communication arts."

Secretary Baker's Objection.

In disagreeing with this feature of the report, Mr. Baker said:

Army and navy aviators are specialists in the art: Both the airplanes and the pilots needed are of a different type from those needed in civilian undertakings. A separation of the air service from the army or the navy would require co-ordination of their activities in time of war, whereas effectiveness in military operation rests upon the concentration and singleness of authority, command and purpose.

The report of the mission, which is divided into three parts, dealing with general organization, commercial development, and technical development, is based on studies made in England, France, and Italy.

The members of the mission included, besides Assistant Secretary Crowell, Howard C. Coffin, Chairman of the former Aircraft Production Board; Captain Henry C. Mustin of the navy, Colonel Halsey Dunwoody, Assistant Chief of the A. E. F. Air Service; Lieut. Col. James A. Blair, Jr., of the General Staff; George H. Houston, President of the Wright-Martin Aeroplane Corporation; C. M. Keys, President of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation, and Y. S. S. Bradley, manager of the Manufacturers' Aircraft Association.

The mission, in conducting its investigation abroad, conferred with the Air Ministries of the three Governments, ranking army and navy commanders, including Marshal Foch, Winston Churchill, and Field Marshal Haig, and the foremost aircraft manufacturers.

Turning to commercial aviation, the mission emphasizes the necessity of the United States conserving the aircraft industry built up during the war. The report says:

"America's (aircraft) production industry reached large proportions during the war but since the signing of the armistice it has shrunk to a very small volume. Unless immediate attention is given to its conservation, it will practically disappear and a considerable portion of the great sums expended in its development will have been spent fruitlessly.

"No sensible business man is justified in keeping money invested in the aircraft industry under the conditions which have maintained in the United States since Nov. 11."

Great Britain, the mission found, has come "to consider the dominance of the air as at least of equal importance with that of the seas and is frankly and avowedly planning a definite policy of aerial development to that end."

"Any future war will inevitably open with great aerial activity far in advance of contact either upon land or sea," declared the mission in urging that immediate steps be taken by the United States to increase its aircraft facilities.

In the next war, the mission believes, "victory cannot but incline to that belligerent able first to achieve and later maintain its supremacy in the air. One of the greatest military authorities in Europe stated that in his opinion the first battle of the next war would be in the air and would very nearly decide which side would win the war."

Mission Divides on Department.

The Air Department proposed in the report was not approved by the entire membership of the mission, Captain Mustin, the navy representative, expressing the opinion in an accompanying memorandum that the question be left open pending further investigation.

The department as outlined by the report would consist of a civilian Secretary for Air, a civilian Assistant Secretary in charge of management and operation of the department, five or more divisional heads, acting as chiefs of sub-departments, and an Advisory Air Council.

The report deals at length with development of commercial aviation, holding that because of complexity of design and speed of development no nation will through its Government alone be able to develop aircraft sufficient either in quantity or progressiveness of type to compete with other nations in the air in a military way. Accordingly, commercial aviation must be built up on a great scale, and to that end the following suggestions are submitted:

Establishment and mapping of flying fields in strategic locations suitable for military use.

Equipment of all flying routes and fields at national expense with signaling and communication systems.

Development of a meterological service to aid fliers.

Creation either at Government expense or by private enterprise under Government regulation of training facilities.

Encouragement by the Government to the development of new design and aeronautical technique.

Co-operation by the Government with other nations in determining and applying the rules and regulations which will govern the international use of aircraft.

Encouragement to the insurance of aircraft and its personnel against all kinds of hazards.

Encouragement through mail and express privileges to the organisation of private enterprises for carrying aerial transportation.

Conservation of the remaining aircraft production industry.

TRANSIT UNION MEN DELAY STRIKE ACTION

Leaders Promise Not to Act Without Giving Commissioner Chance at Settlement.

THEY WANT BOSTON WAGES

Sixty-five Per Cent. Said to Have Joined Union—B. R. T. Count Shows Majority in Organization.

While officials of the Amalgamated Association denied yesterday that any definite plans were being laid for calling a strike on the transit lines in Manhattan and the Bronx, they admitted that efforts were being made to enroll as members of the association all of the employes of the lines who had not already joined. Louis Fridiger, counsel for the union, told reporters last evening that at least 60 per cent. of the carmen in the two boroughs were affiliated with the union, and that this percentage was being rapidly increased.

Earlier in the day it was learned that the union leaders were in close touch with Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon, and that nothing would be done toward tying up the transportation lines without first giving him sufficient notice to enable him to strive to effect a settlement before a strike was ordered. Mr. Nixon is going to Washington today to testify before the Federal Commission appointed to inquire into the condition of electric railways, and he will not return until tomorrow night. Therefore, according to the information obtained from Mr. Nixon and others, there will be no strike called by the union anywhere in the city for at least another forty-eight hours.

At the headquarters of the Amalgamated in the Continental Hotel union officials were busy during the afternoon holding conferences. The conferees included Mr. Fridiger, P. J. Shea, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Amalgamated Association, ex-State Senator James H. Vahey of Boston, general counsel of the union; P. J. O'Brien, the union's Second Vice President, and National Organizers Henry Jones and John W. Parker. Statements made by these men were to the effect that the recognition of the union by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, the New York Railways Company, and the other transportation companies in the city, would be insisted upon and that another demand, which would be made in case a fight came, was that the employes should receive the same rate of pay now established in Boston and several other of the larger cities.

Mr. Fridiger explained that in Boston conductors and motormen received 62 cents an hour, while the same class of employes here received from 41 to 49 cents after ten years' service.

It also developed during a talk Commissioner Nixon had with reporters that while the various public, railway, and union officials were in secret conference in the chambers of Federal Judge Mayer on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Nixon at first suggested that the arbitrators chosen to settle the trouble on the lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system should consist of three, to be named by Judge Mayer or Lindley M. Garrison, the receiver of the company, by Mayor Hylan, representing the city, and by the union, and that these three should choose two others. But it was said that Mayor Hylan had refused to name one of the arbitrators, and so the idea of five arbitrators had to be abandoned and the arrangement that three be chosen by the court, the strikers and the other to be selected by these two, was adopted. This action of the Mayor, it was pointed out, deprived the city of a voice in the final settlement of the controversy.

Mr. Nixon was wroth yesterday over a quoted interview in which he was made to express himself as believing that an eight-cent fare on the city's transit lines was sure to come and that perhaps the fare would grow to 10 cents. He was also represented as saying that he was willing to shoulder all responsibility for a higher fare because it was inevitable. Asked about this statement yesterday Mr. Nixon dictated this reply:

"No determination as to possible increase of fares or the amount of such increase has been made, and no statement has been authorized by me."

Mr. Nixon was asked if he thought that the basis of the settlement arranged for the Brooklyn situation would become permanent and that it would remain satisfactory to the labor unions. He expressed doubt of the permanency of the plan, and it was learned that the union is dissatisfied with the mode of settlement, because it provides that recognition of the union must depend upon its ability to show that it had at least more than 50 per cent. of the workers among its members. Unless it could prove this, recognition of the union could be denied by the companies.

Count of Union B. R. T. Men.

Yesterday the count of the union men employed by the B. R. T. Company went on after a fashion that could permit of no mistake and that would leave open no path for argument that the count was not accurate.

This work is far enough advanced, it was said, to show that the union has on its roll a majority of the employes.

It was announced by the B. R. T. Company yesterday that the charge of two cents for transfers which went into effect on Aug. 1 will increase its revenues a trifle more than the $1,200,000 which was the company's estimate. It was reported that the extra charge is swelling the revenues about $3,500 a day. A proportionate increase is expected in the returns of the New York Railways Company. Knowledge of this, it was said, makes the union hopeful that a demand for higher wages for its employes will not be resisted to the point of actual strife which would follow a strike.

Receiver Garrison was so sure yesterday that the strike had been disposed of that he left in the afternoon for New Hampshire, where he will finish his interrupted vacation. During his absence Fred T. Joyce, the General Manager, will represent him.

Job E. Hedges, Receiver of the New York Railways Company, said that he knew nothing about any contemplated strike on the lines of his company except what he had read in the newspapers.
